Police Hope Sketch Will Help Find Girl

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP)—A mass search by 18,000 persons failed to turn up any trace of a missing 10-year-old girl Sunday, but police are hopeful publication of a composite sketch of a suspected abductor will provide a new lead.

The girl, Marianne Schuett of nearby Milltridge, Ont., has been missing since last Thursday, when she was seen getting into a late model, foreign made station wagon outside her school.

The searchers, volunteers and police, covered a 400-square-mile area. The mass search will be discontinued today, with only police combing the swampy Kilbride area.

The only trace of the missing girl uncovered so far was a blue running shoe, found on a highway north of Milton Friday and identified as belonging to the missing girl.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Schuett, have offered to sell their home to raise ransom for her, safe return.

Police had a provincial police identification expert, with the help of three witnesses, draw a sketch which resembles the driver of the car in which Marianne was last seen.

The sketch was released Sunday after Inspector . William Liddstone of the criminal investigation branch and Burlington Detective William Smith checked on a suspect who resembled it.

Provincial police said they have received tips from as far as 150 miles away from Kilbride, a 100-family community 15 miles north of here.

Search volunteers came from within a 40-mile radius of Kilbride in school buses, taxis and cars. Salvation Army workers and Girl Guides prepared about 80,000 sandwiches and gallons of coffee and milk to feed the searchers.

WASECA, Minn. (AP) — The tornado death toll stood at 12 today, with more than 100 injured, as rescue workers shifted through the splintered rubble of homes smashed by tornadoes at Waseca and Albert Lea, two of the hardest hit communities in Sunday night's rash of twisters.

Possibly a half - dozen tornadoes smashed across a 50-mile-wide area of southern Minnesota around the dinner hour Sunday night, causing property damage in the millions of dollars in eight communities and numerous farms.

"It was horrible" said Mrs. Archie Dreabein of Waseca.

"We were sitting at the dinner table eating when the picture window hit me and my husband right in the face. There was no warning. There was this terrible rain falling, and all of a sudden I was diving along the floor with glass all around me."

She and her husband were treated for cuts at hospital and released.

Countless others were similarly taken by surprise, even though a tornado watch had been issued by the weather bureau for the area. The tornadoes roared upon them in the midst of heavy rain and searing dusk, which apparently prevented them from watching the skies closely. Witnesses said the Waseca warning siren began blaring a couple of minutes after the tornado had passed.

Waseca had five deaths confirmed Sunday night, and Sheriff Donald Eustice said: "I wouldn't be surprised if we found several more bodies" More than 60 persons were treated for injuries ranging from minor to critical. Forty-two were in hospital.

About 20 Waseca homes were destroyed and another 50 damaged as the twister cut a path two blocks wide and eight blocks long—leveling down in the southeast part of the town, then skipping over a lake only to begin smashing homes again on the other side.

Albert Lea had a wider area of destruction, but the known death toll there was two.

Ten persons were taken to hospital at Albert Lea while another 20 were treated and released.

The tornado hit Albert Lea's west side, then slid around the north edge of the city of 19,000.

Victims identified at Waseca were Mr. and Mrs. John Ripple, George Willock and Mr. and Mrs. Art Rux.

Other victims were Mr. and Mrs. Morton Bickford of Albert Lea, who died when a tornado ripped into their daughter's home about a mile west of Owatonna — the northernmost report of a tornado touching down. Owatonna is about 50 miles south of Minneapolis.

The Bickfords were babysitting with their two grandchildren, who were injured.

Killed near Freeborn was Harlan Hollenshan of Bellingham, Minn., in his late 30s, who was visiting on his father's farm when a twister levelled the house and all outbuildings. Eight others in the farm home were injured.

Also killed were Herman Nohring of Clarks Grove and Mrs. Michael Hessing, 37, of Adams, both tiny communities in the Albert Lea area. The Clarks Grove man was caught at a gravel pit where he did construction work.

At Albert Lea, nearly 130 residents of St. John's Home for the Elderly escaped injury although air windows were blown in and at least 10 rooms in the home had their walls pierced by tornado debris.

London Bandits Seize Two Million in Gold

LONDON (AP)—Bandits overpowered the crew of an armored car in London today and got away with gold bullion estimated to be worth £750,000 ($2,250,000), a Scotland Yard spokesman said. He said the gold in the May Day robbery was in 140 ingots.

The armored vehicle was hijacked in the Islington district of north London.

Police said the van's three-man crew were overpowered by the gang who then drove it away.

Their vehicle was later found abandoned in Kentish town, about four miles away with the crew tied up in the back.

The daring robbery was one of the biggest in Britain since the £2,500,000 ($7,500,000) Great Train Robbery in 1963.

One member of the van's crew was taken to London's Middlesex Hospital with head and chest injuries.

The other two were taken to

Red Guards Stage Brawl

TOKYO (Reuters)—Reports from Red Guard wall posters in Peking said Chinese troops broke up a three-hour brawl between thousands of Red Guards at Tientsin, 60 miles southeast of the capital.

At least 220 Red Guards were injured — 50 of them severely — said the poster, which the Peking correspondent of the Japanese daily Asahi Shimbun said appeared Sunday.

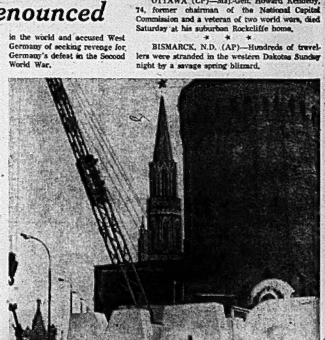
May Day Parade In Moscow Hears China Denounced

MOSCOW (Reuters)—China's representative and his interpreter stalked angrily away from Moscow's giant May Day parade today as Russia's new defence minister, Marshal Andrei Grechko, hit out at the Chinese for not joining in a united Communist aid program at Vietnam.

It was the second time in six months that the Chinese have staged a walkout at a parade here.

Hundreds of guests saw An Chih-yuan, the Chinese charge d'affaires, and his interpreter push through crowds on the diplomats stand in Red Square.

The walkout today came as Grechko said that Communist victory in Vietnam would be assured if China would join with the Communist states in a common aid program there.



The last Chinese walkout was Nov. 7 when the late Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, Grechko's predecessor, criticized Peking policies.

Grechko today was making his first May Day appearance atop the huge red and black Lenin mausoleum in Red Square.

Standing with him as the troops and heavy weapons of Russia's military might thundered past were Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin, and President Nikolai Podgorny.

Despite China's failure to join in a common aid program in Vietnam, Grechko said Russia and other Communist nations "will continue to fight persistently to curb the warmongers and render active and many sided assistance in the heroic Vietnamese people."

He attacked the United States as the "main aggressive force" in the world and accused West Germany of seeking revenge for Germany's defeat in the Second World War.

Junta Woos Workers

ATHENS (CP)—Greece's new military government ordered today that all municipally-owned land should be distributed among landless farmers and that all employers should pay Easter bonuses to workers without delay.

The orders, issued by Brig. Stilianos Patakos, interior minister and one of the three army strongmen in the cabinet, were the latest of a series of edicts calculated to promote popularity for the new regime.

The insinuction to employers said the customary Easter Bonus of half a month's salary must be paid no matter what a company's financial straits may be. Normally, it is common to postpone payment till later in the year.

One publisher who protested he could not afford the bonus has been threatened with trial by court martial. He is Ioannis Papageorgiou, publisher of the newspaper Athenaiki.

Another law now in effect forbids shopkeepers to raise their prices. Three butchers who broke this rule and put up the price of their Easter lamb have been summoned for trial by court martial.

Hydro Construction Workers on Strike

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Hydro's $500,000,000 construction program stopped today as 3,000 building trades workers struck projects throughout the province.

The strike was called by the Allied Construction Council, representing 13 unions, after a breakdown of negotiations on a new contract. The previous agreement expired Sept. 30.

Hydro said pickets had appeared at the Pickering nuclear power station near Toronto, the Mudwaska River project south of Renfrew, Ont., Aubrey Falls near Thessalon, Ont., Lakeview near Toronto, Lambton near Sarnia, the R. L. Hearn station on the Toronto waterfront and the Douglas Point nuclear power station on Lake Huron near Kincardine, Ont.

W. H. Dickie, Ontario's chief conciliation officer, said Sunday night he had arranged for representatives from the union and Hydro to reopen talks today.

The council Friday rejected a 90 - day postponement of the strike suggested by William Barnes, director of labor-relations for Hydro. Mr. Barnes wanted time for Labor Minister Dalton Bales of Ontario to appoint a fact-finding body to study demands made by the unions.

A key issue is a union demand that jurisdictional disputes be resolved by a labor-management construction board in Washington, D.C. instead of by the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

Mr. Barnes said in an earlier statement the unions also want Hydro to agree to purchase materials only from companies whose labor contracts have been approved by the construction council.

Britain Sets Conditions For Entering Euromart

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson's cabinet agreed Sunday that Britain should try again to join the European Common Market, but it set conditions apparently to assure protection of its trading interests.

The conditions were kept secret. They were part of a compromise agreement reached at an eight-hour meeting at Chequers, the prime minister's official country home.

Wilson sought a free hand to negotiate Britain's entry into the six-nation common market. But seven or eight of the 21 cabinet ministers are known to oppose British entry. They stressed the economic risks and tried to attach conditions that might cripple British negotiators at Common Market headquarters in Brussels.

Officials said the compromise forestalled, at least for now, any resignations by these ministers.

Marines Battle For Hill

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots shot down three more Communist MiGs over North Vietnam today while just south of the demilitarized zone U.S. marines pressed an attack against Communist battling North Vietnamese soldiers for a strategic hill.

A marine spokesman said 49 marines were killed and 156 were wounded as they fought foot by foot Sunday up the slopes of twin-peaked Hill 881. The marines have had a total of 86 men killed and 240 wounded in the last week in the area.

The spokesman said the marines killed 188 Communists.

Million and Half Enjoy Expo During Its Opening Week-end

MONTREAL (CP) — Attendance at Expo 67 during its first three days is officially estimated at about 1,500,000 and the fair's management is expressing elation.

Expo authorities said Sunday night that attendance Sunday had been 569,500 with some persons still sorted on the site and not included in the figure as of midnight.

Officials said that on Thursday night, 72,000 non-employees had visited the fairgrounds as possessors of special tickets allowing them in within several hours of that day's formal inaugural ceremonies".

The general public, under the time span set down by international rules for the fair, was allowed in, beginning Friday. That day saw 407,500 persons come to the fair.

Another 423,000 flowed in Saturday and then came the Sunday crush.

Robert Shaw, Expo's deputy commissioner-general, said 700,000 was the record for daily attendance at the 1958 world's fair in Brussels.

The highest daily attendance figure for the 1964-65 fair at New York was understood to be about 446,000.

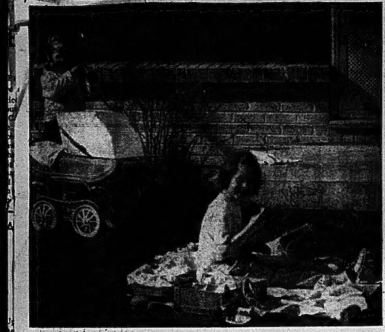
The crowds flowing to and from the site of the fair on the St. Laurence River caused crushes in at least one Montreal subway station Sunday.

A section of the station had to be shut down for 17 minutes to allow a drain-off of passengers and to avoid panic and possible injuries.

Temperatures at the Expo site reached 80 degrees Sunday. This was the warmest since the fair opened. Both Saturday and Friday were marred by chilly breezes.

The sun, however, had shone consistently from clear skies since the fair was officially opened Thursday by Governor-General Roland Michener.

Most of the fair-goers so far have seemed to be Montrealers.



They lined up in droves at the stops stipulated for Expobuses, and poured through the turnstiles in an orderly fashion.

Fair-goers are expected to come pouring in from elsewhere in Quebec province, from other parts of Canada and from beyond Canada's borders as the spring goes on.

A breakdown in apparatus at the Man and his Health pavilion was ended Sunday after a technician flown in from Germany joined forces with local experts to repair a damaged lens and faulty synchronization machinery.

The equipment is used in dramatizing the accomplishments of modern medicine.

The $2,000,000 high-rise ride called the Gyrotron, a central feature of the amusement centre known as La Ronde, remained out of action Sunday after a first faltering into inactivity Friday.

Seasonal Traditions Begin for Young Girls and Repairmen

These young homemakers are beginning to enjoy Belleville's warm spring climate as they set up housekeeping in the front yard, housekeeping which involves taking care of the baby and inviting your neighbors to tea. The warm weather also signals repairmen that spring repairs are part of the season. The docks in the harbor receive a spot of paint and a nail here and there to insure they are in shape for the summer months ahead.

Jaycee Conference

Pollution Action Urged

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce from Belleville to Brockville at their annual spring regional conference here yesterday were urged to act on the serious problem of water pollution.

Frank C. Murray, manager of radio station CJBQ, called on Jaycees to put effective pressure on local governments to clear up the pollution problem.

"Local governments have many problems but pollution is the most important and the least glamorous," he said.

Mr. Murray said that air and water pollution was being tackled too timidly by federal, provincial and municipal governments and said it was the responsibility of people today to take action to make water safe for our children, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

"In Belleville," Mr. Murray charged, "we are dragging our heels and no one seems really concerned. The city continues to dump garbage in the beautiful Bay of Quinte."

Approximately 75 Jaycees from District 6 attended the day long conference which analyzed discussion clinics on filtration and bioculturalism and on the importance of Jaycees taking an interest in municipal affairs.

In the afternoon there was an effective speaking contest followed by a general meeting and election of officers which saw Boyce Gray of Perth named the new district chairman.

The concluding banquet in the evening featured Mr. Murray as the guest speaker.

Belleville General Hospital

New Administrator Takes Over Duties

Caretaker control of the once-controversial affairs of Belleville General Hospital is over.

The five-month period during which the hospital was directed by Ontario Hospital Services Commission officials, ended today as Philip Rickard officially became Belleville General's full time administrator.

Simultaneously, Mrs. Margaret Barrett, veteran staff nurse, was confirmed as the hospital's acting director of nursing.

Mr. Rickard, 38, with a record of wide experience in hospital administration in Canada and Britain, takes over from R. E. Krock, OHSC official who has been temporary administrator since last December.

His companion OHSC "caretaker" Miss Louise Jamieson, also handed over direction of nursing affairs to Mrs. Barrett today.

Mrs. Barrett will be acting director until a permanent appointment is made to fill the post.

The two OHSC officials were appointed as temporary administration heads after the commission moved to settle a dispute late last fall involving hospital staff.

Peak of the controversy came when nurses at the hospital formed an association and threatened collective action against Belleville General's board of governors.

The nurses were seeking redress of grievances never made public — in a dispute first publicized with resignations of top hospital officials.

The controversy simmered down after the OHSC dispatched investigators to find a solution. Among their proposals, accepted by nurses and governors, was the acceptance of resignations from the nursing director, assistant director and assistant administrator.

The administrative gaps taken were installed while replacements were sought for the top staff positions.

Mr. Rickard comes to Belleville after a seven-year career in administration of the 300-bed Port Arthur General Hospital.

Born in Britain, he was educated at London University, taking post-graduate studies in hospital administration at London's King Edward VII Hospital and Cornell University.

His practical experience includes administration in British hospitals from 1941 to 1954, when he came to Canada.

After a brief period as administrator of Prince County Hospital, in Summerside, P.E.I., he was appointed co-ordinator for the regional hospital council based at Sarnia.

Arthur appointment.

Aside from any aftermath of controversy, Mr. Rickard's appointment comes at a crucial time in the administration of Belleville General.

Construction and renovation projects which eventually will enlarge Belleville General to a 430-bed hospital, now are well advanced.

The busy environment both now and in the immediate future, drew the new administrator's first reactions.

"The biggest project is to get this building program completed," noted Mr. Rickard. "I'm certainly looking forward to the interesting situation here."

"Having met the board of governors I'm heartened to find they are such a forward-looking and progressive group."

Mrs. Barrett has been on staff at Belleville General for 15 years and her record includes service as a nursing supervisor and assistant director of nursing.

Mental Health and the Teen-ager

By L. D. READ

(First in a Series on Mental Health)

Teen-agers are quite remarkable beings, since the vast majority of them, having passed through the frightening emotional experiences of adolescence, move into adulthood as quite normal people.

In many ways teen-agers do enjoy themselves in this affluent society with good recreational facilities, interesting and flexible education and great vocational opportunity.

But our booming economy itself aggravates the emotional stresses and strains that make educators today very much aware of the constant attack on the mental health of our teen-agers.

Amidst a welter and turmoil of conflicting emotions, the teen-ager seeks to find himself. With society demanding more and more education, the teen-ager is frustrated and drives. The growing need for material possessions frightens him and leaves him unsatisfied and resentful.

The natural doubts and anxieties about religion, sex, and the real meaning of life are aggravated by the clangor of mass media that confuses and overwhelms.

It is no surprise to those who work with the developing young person to hear the statistics regarding nervous breakdowns, disappearances, drop outs, would-be suicides, and psychiatric case loads.

The teen-ager seeks many things from parents, school and society. But there are several basic needs.

First, he needs to learn that he is only a part of society, not necessarily the most important part.

Secondly, he needs firm and fair discipline.

Thirdly, and most of all, he needs love — the parental affection that forgives, understands, and forgives again — but does not indulge or condone what is wrong; the love that is strong enough to stand firm and punish when weakness would excuse or ignore.

Yesterday students at the Quinte Secondary School staged a walking contest with proceeds for a track and playing field. Next Sunday the Stirling and Cannifton Hi-C groups will stage a walkathon to raise money for more medical supplies for Vietnam civilians.

The idea of a walkathon as a fund raising project is for contestants to find sponsors to pledge money for each mile covered.

The step-off for the walkathon is 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the contestants hope to make it eight miles to Foxboro.

The min'sters at the Stirling and Cannifton United pastoral charges have entered into the spirit of the thing and have assured they will be among the walkers.

Rev. Jack Hobbs of Cannifton says he will go into hard training for the event (normally he says, his daily walking is from the house to the car) and Rev. Bruse Smail of Stirling says he will match every step.

After the very delectable banquet was over, Cecil Salter, as Master of Ceremonies, presented the Jimmy Dog Memorial Dart Trophy to Tommy Nicholsons, a former member of the 48th, the Bert Wells Memorial Shuffleboard trophy to Cde. Terry Boyle and the Cribbage trophy to Bob Markle. He then presented the Fitzgerald Memorial Trophy known as the Overall trophy, to Sports Chairman Russ Bladon on behalf of the teams making a clean sweep of all events. The M.C. then called upon the visitors' Ladies Sports Chairman, to present the Cribbage trophy to the Ladies' Sports chairman, Jean Gagnon. Cde. Gagnon, in turn presented the Dart Trophy to Pte. Cde. Bessie Buckley was then called forward and Cde O'Neil presented her with both three Dart Trophy.

Cdes. Chapman and Burley are still resting at home while Cde Jack Cunningham is in room 348, BGH. Cde Bladon is still in the Kingston Hospital.

Unification Bill

With the armed services unification bill through the Commons, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer has come through as stormy a passage as anyone in the Cabinet in recent times.

Justice Minister Louis Cardin before him had a rough time during the debates on the alleged involvement of a German woman, Gerda Munsinger, in espionage activities in this country and her friendship with at least one member of the cabinet.

Mr. Hellyer resigned recently, motivated to some extent at least, by a desire to get away from the pressures of ministerial responsibility on Parliament Hill.

Mr. Hellyer on the other hand is not contemplative by temperament. He is still a young man, in his early 40s, but it has been suggested that ultimately he may request a transfer to another department. The bill has gone through the senate and now awaits royal assent before it is finally proclaimed. This could be in the fall and Mr. Hellyer is not expected to request a transfer until the controversial measure is finally law.

For Mr. Hellyer it has been a rocky road and the scars of debate and harsh criticism will remain with him, as they will with the other principals in this as yet untried system of co-ordinating the defence program of the country.

The theories have been put to the test and must now be put into practice before a bemused public and the critical gaze of other countries which have been watching the experiment with interest. It deserves to succeed after such a difficult time in the making; certainly there can be no turning back now.

Inevitably there is a feeling of sadness at the phasing out of the three-services traditions, and even the uniforms. What degree of esprit de corps takes their place is very much a question for the men and women who will shape this new defence force, and a matter for the future.

A Helping Hand

In our capitalist society the instances of big business coming to the aid of a struggling competitor are rare enough.

Yet there are times when it is to the advantage of the economy at large that the strong support the weak, that companies which are prospering lend a hand to those finding the going hard.

An example is the reported purchase by Chrysler Corporation of Redisco Inc., a financial subsidiary of American Motors.

A Detroit report says the deal means American Motors has taken a giant step toward solving its financial problems. It points out, moreover, that one, a small amount of Redisco's financing is in the automotive field. The bulk of its $313 million business last year was in making time-payment loans to purchasers of appliances, home furnishings and musical instruments.

Key men in the auto industry have said they want to see American Motors stay in the auto business (last year the company lost $8,400,000 in the first quarter of its fiscal year). Several Motors and Ford for instance are permitting American to use their test facilities.

Not that the giants of the industry are inspired entirely by charitable or altruistic motives. Chrysler's purchase of Rootes has acquired a diversified financing subsidiary. If American had not owned a subsidiary of such obviously wealthy proportions neither Chrysler nor the other members of the "Big Three" of the auto industry would have been so keen to help.

However, if the deal is one of convenience as much as anything else it is also a case of all's well that ends well and everyone still in business.

Advice for Charles

When you are the heir to the Throne and about to enter university the prospect is a lonelier one than most fancy for students.

Thus the advice of Lord Butler, master of Trinity College, Cambridge, with regard to Prince Charles' entry this fall is timely. He said: "We want Prince Charles to mix with other young people and take part in college activities and sports.

"The danger is having undergraduates arriving here and sitting in their own rooms doing nothing. It will be better for him to go out to a pub and have a drink."

And that is as good advice as any in a land where pubs are conversational and intellectual forums first and places to enjoy a drink second.

Fortunately Prince Charles is no shrinking violet. His years at austere Gordonstoun, in Scotland, which toughened his father before him, and latterly among the exercise hardened Australians, have prepared him for life's battles.

Still, the prince is at some disadvantage simply because of his rank. He must contrive to get on with his fellows and make friends, while still maintaining some degree of exactitude in his general behavior as befits an heir to the Throne.

Social and Educational Trends in A Complex Society

This is the second of two articles on "Free Time and Leisure" written for UNESCO Features by JOFFRE DUMAZEDIER, senior research officer at the National Scientific Research Centre in Paris.

Mr. Dumazedier discusses the difficulties of the transition from working life to retirement, and notes that Canadian Companies have given a lead in preparing employees for the change by gradually reducing time spent at work from the age of 45 onwards.

There remains one other important factor to consider: the relation between workers' free time and the time their children spend at school.

In highly developed societies where universal secondary education is the rule, one tends to forget that school time has been gained at the expense of the young worker's working time. Of course one knows that many children leave school early because their families need the money they can earn. But this situation is much more widespread in poor countries where illiteracy is still a problem. Everywhere, the development of education is at the expense of the labor force, and this obliges adults to work harder so that their children can go to school. In fact, over the past 20 years, the economic possibility of shortening working hours has worked more to the advantage of children's education than of their parents' leisure. It would perhaps be more accurate to speak of a classroom civilization than a leisure civilization.

This trend is scarcely in line with the cultural needs of our techno logical civilization. Since ways of thinking, feeling and behaving change nowadays in the lapse of one generation, society, by consistently prolonging schooling, risks paying an extremely high price in money and time for teaching young people knowledge which will be out of date less than 20 years hence. Would it not be more rational to spread out education over a man's whole lifetime, at least after a certain period of basic instruction, than to aim at keeping children at school for longer and longer periods? Certainly, the growing complexity of society demands long training for most people. But the increasing rate of social evolution means that our conception of school must change with the times. In fact, over the past 20 years, the economic possibility of shortening working hours has worked more to the advantage of children's education than of their parents' leisure.

If adults must sacrifice, unconsciously, part of their potential free time to the education of their children, they may also have to give up another part to the older members of the community. There is in fact a direct relationship between increased free time and early retirement. In most European societies retiring age for the majority is 60 or 65. But new problems arise from the increased physical and nervous fatigue caused by the strain of modern life and from the increased life expectancy with the resultant necessity of allowing for a longer and more satisfying retirement. Hence the need to relax retirement restrictions in two directions: allow some people to continue working after normal retirement age on special jobs where productivity would be lower, and give others the possibility of stopping work earlier, without reducing their pensions.

Some people find the transition from working life to retirement a difficult one. One solution is to prepare them for this change by gradually reducing time spent at work from the age of 45 onwards. Experiments in this direction have already been made in a few firms, notably in Canada. The time saved by improved productivity could be used both to advance the retiring age and to prepare for a "third age" entirely dominated by free time.

But then, even supposing that society were to provide free time for all workers, would more free time mean more leisure? Not necessarily. For example, free time used for social, church, trade union activities, or for political or local government work cannot really be called leisure at all.

Leisure can thus be seen as a kind of quaternary product of industrial civilization for the benefit of the individual, after the basic needs of the economy, the family and society have been satisfied.

It represents time during which the individual enjoys the maximum freedom of choice with the minimum of limitations and in which he has the chance of a greater freedom or liberation in his activities. This liberation begins in the sphere of physical and nervous energy, which constitutes the primary function of leisure: relaxation.

A second need which can be satisfied through leisure activities is that of play. But of course play has always been a feature of life in traditional societies, but it was part of collective ritual, like religious worship, in which the elements of choice were exercised by the spiritual head of the groups. In industrial societies, collective ritual disappears, but play in leisure time is a matter of individual choice: it is a means of escape from boredom in an increasingly organized and rationalised world where culture is becoming more and more dissociated from nature. Here, the function of leisure is recreation, and it presents the right of the individual periodically to divert his energy from utilitarian ends, which are entirely for his own benefit.

Finally, there is the function of developing the personality: here, leisure provides a release from the pressures of daily routine; it opens up new possibilities for participation in recreational, intellectual and social activities; it enables aptitudes acquired at school to be freely developed. It can help in developing new interests and new areas of expression throughout life.

As Marx said, time is the dimension of human development, but it was left to the social thinkers of the 19th Century, despite differences in their philosophical outlook, agreed in stressing the importance of leisure in the development of the personality to its full potential. This, indeed, is the real meaning of leisure.

LSD

A Vicious Substance

Ottawa Journal

The Senate has heard some good debate following first reading of the bill to classify the drug LSD as "restricted" and establish stiff penalties for its possession or unlawful sale.

The Senate debate left no doubt that LSD is a vicious substance, that those who traffic in it are criminals and that those who buy it from criminals and use the drug are foolish in the extreme. However "aesthetic," or "spiritual" the professed motives of LSD users may be, there should be no condoning in use outside of licensed scientific experiments. But it is not enough to assume that the threat of stiff prison terms will adequately discourage the use of LSD. A large-scale education program to warn youth of its dangers is at least as great a need as a law punishing those who use it.

Warning for NATO

Czech Parley Seen as Attempt to Break Power Blocs

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Two meetings in Czechoslovakia last week reflect new efforts to end old hostilities in Europe, especially the traditional conflict between European Communists and the Christian church.

The heads of 24 Communist parties of Eastern and Western Europe concluded a three - day conference at Karlovy Vary Wednesday with an appeal for "a Europe without military blocs."

The plea for a settlement of divisive issues was addressed to all Europeans and specifically-called for co - operation with Christians — "Catholics, Protestants, believers of all faiths."

The appeal receives its first test at a unique meeting this weekend in Marienbad, a resort town just 26 miles south of Karlovy Vary. About 100 European theologians — Roman Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox — are meeting to Communist philosophers and scientists in the biggest such conference ever held, the first in a Communist country.

Western political commentators see the Karlovy Vary session as a plan to arouse Europe against maintaining the North Atlantic Treaty Organization when it comes up for basic review in two years. The Communists are offering in return to dismantle the Warsaw pact, their counterpart of NATO.

Genuine or not, a campaign to conclude 20 years of military posturing in Cetiral Europe will find a response in Western Europe, where the Communist appeal for an all-European security conference has powerful advocates, including President de Gaulle of France.

The theme of accord in Europe is strengthened by moves toward a thaw in relations between Communists and Roman Catholics.

Pope Paul's encyclical Development of Peoples, published one month ago, attacked the selfishness of excessive capitalism in appealing for social and economic justice. At Karlovy Vary, leaders of the Italian, Irish and Spanish Communist parties all noted "profound changes in Catholic thought" and urged Communists to join in a dialogue with Christians in seeking peace and social justice.

Dialogue is the description favored for the Marienbad conference, prompting some Europeans to dub the meeting a congress of dialogians. Themes on the proposed agenda in report may be published some months afterward—is "creativeness and freedom in human society."

Leading participants are convinced a psychological reunion to both Christian and Communist societies in Europe—a "fusion of loyalty, especially among young people.

'New Math' in Doghouse

Brantford Expositor

Today's educational priesthood may regard their views as rank heresy, but it was refreshing to hear two professors at a Waterloo seminar express doubts above the new mathematics now being taught in elementary and secondary schools. Dr. D. A. Sprott, dean of the faculty of mathematics at the University of Waterloo, actually termed a lot of the new math fraudulent. He confirmed an impression that many established parents have feared to voice when he said the new method really is not an improvement at all.

There has been a tendency to accept too much of recent educational claims as gospel truth when a closer look would show that in many cases the emperor is not really wearing clothes at all. It is absurd to pretend that the new math concept is superior to the old in teaching students to think and reason their way through instead of relying on memorizing of rules and routines. How does one suppose the parents of today solved the mathematical problems their teachers gave them if they didn't apply their thinking and reasoning processes? The new despised rules and routines provided the indispensable basis for a working knowledge of mathematics.

Let it not be concluded for want of rebuttal by men like Dr. Sprott that the products of the old mathematical methods were brain-washed just because they could do calculations in their heads. It would seem that in many cases the emperor is not really wearing clothes at all. It is absurd to pretend that the new math concept is superior to the old in teaching students to think and reason their way through instead of relying on memorizing of rules and routines. Age of the "Breakthrough"

Christian Science Monitor

This is the age of the "breakthrough."

Scarcely a day passes that we do not receive a publicity release bringing us the exciting news of some new development described as "a major breakthrough." (There are, of course, also minor breakthroughs.)

Typical is one just received from an engineering firm. Thanks to this breakthrough, it is claimed, they tell us, represents a major breakthrough in feed cutting. They think it will make virtually obsolete the copper - baton mixer type of mobile machine by combining electronic proportioning and mixing with anything that switches the user to an electronic or computerized method is pretty likely to be a breakthrough.

But we hear of breakthroughs in every field. A new edu. al method may be one. Or a breakfast food that gives you enough of a certain kind of nourishment for a whole day's rations. A new type of electric toothbrush may be a breakthrough, too.

Some of these are rather small breakthroughs. But they all tend to be accorded the attitude of the breakthrough is a good one. He has sought better ways of doing things and he believes in his discovery. What we really need are more big breakthroughs in the field of human relations. We find it good to be living in a time when the word for a sudden advance is so popular.

The aim of the dialogue is not simply tolerance, but to encourage the creative physical and moral existence of mankind," says one Roman Catholic participant.

Efforts to replace confrontation by co-operation are likely to include with the 20th anniversary of Inherited hostilities. The meetings in Czechoslovakia coincide with the 20th anniversary this week of the bombing of Guernica in the Spanish civil War, the first mass bombing of civilians and the prelude to years of bloodshed and hatred in Europe.

New Money Unit to Replace Gold Now Considered Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The free world is inching closer to a plan for "paper gold" international money, but agreement on the main issues still eludes negotiators.

Despite United States optimism, serious doubt still remains that basic agreement can be achieved in time for the September meeting of the International Monetary Fund in Rio de Janeiro.

These results emerged, however, in the wake of the latest conference on international monetary reform which ended here last Wednesday.

1. There is unanimous agreement that work should proceed toward creation of a new international money. France had been the major foot-dragger up to this point but has apparently made this concession.

2. Negotiators were able to focus their attention on essential issues.

3. The choice is between a new money unit or increased rights to draw funds from the IMF.

4. Relating any new asset to gold is now out the window, U.S. officials said. France previously had insisted on this connection but U.S. sources said the question will be raised now only as a roadblock.

Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the fund, called the latest three-day session useful and successful and reported great progress. U.S. officials privately agreed.

American sources said most of the negotiators favor a new money but some Europeans want expanded credit mechanisms.

Also at issue is when any system should go into effect.

Basically, the problem is this: The gears of world trade have been greased in the past by gold since the Second World War by dollars. World trade continues to expand at a fast clip but the supply of gold and dollars used as international money has stagnated.

This means, the negotiators feel, that some type of new asset will be needed in the future to keep the wheels of world trade turning smoothly.

One rough estimate calls for an increase in the money of $2,000,000,000-a - year-gold, dollars or whatever is decided on as a supplement by negotiators for the International Monetary Fund and the free world's 39 leading industrial nations. Canada is a member of this group.

U.S. officials feel if world reserves fail to increase, the only way one country can add to its reserves is to take them from another and that leads to restrictions on trade, capital and aid.

And the Winners . . .

Winners in Quinte Secondary School's Walk-a-thon put their blistering feet up while female fans watch over the fence. The winners were Bill Andrews, Paul Fudge, and Alex Pearce.

Walk-a-thon Contestants Make $2,500 for New Athletic Track

Yesterday 600 enthusiastic, athletic-minded walkers congregated on the football field at Quinte Secondary School. Not only the students were ready to brave the gruelling nine-mile course, but athletes like Alderman Don Boyle and Don Jose were lining up at the starting line.

The walk-a-thon was part of Quinte Secondary School's Centennial project which is to make $10,000 for a new track. All the walkers were sponsored at least 10c a mile by merchants and private contributors. The Quinte students made $2500.

Mayor Elliss fired the starting gun and Operation Blister was in motion. L. F. Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary, although he did not finish the hike, walked a few miles with his students.

As part of the festivities the Phantom Walker was unmasked. It was Dave Charles, the man with the not-so-golden legs.

Coca Cola Company, recognizing a worthy cause, donated 20 cases of soft drinks which were passed out by cars travelling along the course.

Of the 600 who started 215 finished. Two Quinte students, Bill Andrews and Paul Fudge crossed the finish line first and second respectively.

Steel Workers To Be Directors

LONDON (Reuters) — Steel workers will be made members of the board of Britain's National Steel Corp. which takes full control of the industry for the government July 28.

The plan was put forward by Lord Melchett, the industry's chairman, who said it would help to achieve the aim of a high - productivity, high - earning, modern industry.

The government has invited the Trades Union Congress to nominate workers to serve as members.

The workers will serve three-year periods on the board, take responsibility for decisions and be paid the same salary as other part-time directors.

MADOC (Special) — A gesture in the cause of international goodwill, sees Roy Cadwell, executive director of Madoc Art Centre, flying to Japan this week.

Mr. Cadwell will attend inauguration of peace pagodas at two Japanese cities May 5. It is sponsored by international friendship associations.

Steelworkers, Mine, Mill Announce July 1 Merger

TORONTO (CP) — An often-bitter chapter in the history of Canadian unionism closed Saturday with announcement of the impending merger of the long - time - rival United Steelworkers of America (CLC) and International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

Executives of the Canadian branches of the two unions, which for 18 years have battled for members among the country's thousands of mine and metal workers, signed an agreement calling for amalgamation under the Steelworkers' name July 1.

The merger adds Mine-Mill's 13,000 members—all but a few in non - ferrous industries—to Steel's current membership of more than 135,000.

Speakers at the brief ceremony at which the agreement was announced commented on the history of differences between the unions, but executives from both groups declared that the new, enlarged union would provide unified representation for its members.

Harvey Murphy, Mine - Mill Canadian vice - president, suggested the amalgamation might set a trend.

"If we can unite, almost anybody else can," he said.

Steele's international vice-president, Joe Maloney, declared:

"Two ancient and strong unions now become one . . . in this greatest reservoir of ores in the world—Canada."

The amalgamation follows a January agreement by the parent unions in the United States that they will merge, also July 1, on a non - raiding agreement between the Canadian branches, promulgated in February.

The amalgamation has already been formally approved by Steel at a recent convention and Mine-Mill officials said Saturday there was no doubt it would be accepted at the smaller union's June 23 convention in Winnipeg.

The agreement ends one of the toughest wars in Canadian labor history, an expensive, no-violent feud which made ous inroads into Mine-Mill's tively small treasury.

Mine-Mill was thrown out of the old Canadian Congress of Labor in 1949 on the technical grounds that its officers supported CCL officials.

The CCL's action followed eviction of Mine-Mill's parent body from the Congress of Industrial Organizations in the United States on grounds of alleged Communist domination, a charge the miners always denied.

Mine-Mill in Canada never gained entry to the Canadian Labor Congress, a situation which left it open to raids by CLC affiliates.

In recent years, the CLC-affiliated Steelworkers picked at Mine-Mill membership and in 1962 won over the smaller union's stronghold — the 15,000-member International Nickel Co. in Sudbury—after a tough two-year struggle.

New Ontario Securities Act now law

Government action places new responsibilities. This advertisement tells you what they are.

Important changes in the Securities Act, 1966, and in the Corporations Act become law today—1st May 1967. The new legislation will have far-reaching effects. It sets standards which everyone in the investment business must follow. It says exactly how certain vital procedures should be carried out. It demands a full range of information from companies offering shares to the public, and makes that information fully available to every interested citizen.

Here are five ways in which the Securities Act will help the people of Ontario.

Financial Disclosure The new Act requires companies to make a full report of their financial situation to the Ontario Securities Commission every year. These reports will be made available to the public.

Insider Trading Insiders of companies (senior officials and major shareholders) must now keep the Commission informed of their holdings in their companies, and must report changes as they take place. This information will be made available for public use.

Take-over bids New regulations govern the procedure to be followed when one company tries to obtain control of another by share purchase. They include minimum periods during which the offer is to remain open, and a 7-day period during which the shareholder approached may change his mind. Any investor involved in a take-over bid will now be kept fully informed.

Proxies Under the new Act, detailed information must be given whenever a company asks for a proxy vote, to be used on the shareholder's behalf. The shareholder must be told exactly who is to use his vote, and what his interest is. The company is limited in the way the vote can be used. The result will be to give the absent shareholder a more effective voice at company meetings.

The prospectus The way in which a company can describe new investments is controlled by the Act. One important change is that the prospectus must always be written in simple, clear, non-technical language. Another requires the prospectus to be published in two stages, with a pause of at least ten days between the two. The preliminary prospectus is for information only; trading cannot begin until the final prospectus is published. The effect will be to give dealers and investors time to think.

Further information This advertisement gives only a brief outline of some of the important changes in the Securities Act 1966, and the Corporations Act. Nothing in the Act relieves the investor of the responsibility of making sound decisions based on good advice. Your lawyer, broker, or other qualified investment adviser will be able to give you fuller information; or copies of the Act can be obtained from the Ontario Securities Commission, 123 Edward Street, Toronto 2, and from the Queen's Printer, 26 Breadalbane Street, Toronto 5.

District Teen-agers Form Folk Group

If you think charivari means a noise-making bash accompanying country wedding celebrations, forget it. Three Belleville young people have combined to give the old word a tuneful meaning and an updated sound.

They're the Charivaris, newest musical group of the Quinte scene and prize winners to boot. Sherrill Taylor, Vetha Connor and Jim Slavin, all 17-year-old BCI and VS students captured second prize in the group class, second in duet and third in solo at the Eastern Ontario Folk Festival in Cobourg two weeks ago.

The casually formed group is laced together with determination and fortified with sound musicianship. At the beginning of the year, Sherrill and Vetha, looking for a replacement for a member who had dropped out of an informal singing trio, asked Jim to join them and bring his guitar. Jim, on his part, had attended the Cobourg Festival last year and come away determined to enter this year. The three voices clicked in folk expression and the Charivaris were born.

The three members have school musical training, church choir experience and some private study to their credit. A boost to their quest for originality came when Jim's brother Allan took over arrangement of their material and contributed two compositions of his own.

The Charivaris have firm ideas about the role of music in the lives of their contemporaries. "Rock and all that psychedelic jazz give a physical release for emotions," says Jim. "Our stuff gives an emotional release through words and thought. We sing no protest songs, just songs with good motives and a lively beat."

So far the group's opportunities have been limited to entertainment at social events, church young people's gatherings, school concerts and festivals. Education still claims first place in their lives and with exams coming up and Jim off to university in the fall none of them dares plan a musical future beyond the next appearance. But they have a dream.

"It's a hope that hides in the back of every entertainer's mind, I suppose," says Jim. "If we get one big professional offer we'd stick together somehow."

CCB Council Commentary Read at White Cane Club

The White Cane Club of Belleville and district held a regular business meeting at the Recreation Centre on Wednesday evening with president Vi Waite presiding.

One minute's silence was observed in memory of Arlie Scott who had been a faithful and valued member for the club for many years. The club song which he had composed, and which is sung at all meetings, was dedicated to him.

Mrs. Maude Rollins read the C.C.B. Council Commentary. It was noted that the members and guides of the White Cane Club of Nanaimo, B.C. had taken an arm chair trip through the Confederation Train, through the eyes of a grade 12 student of Nanaimo Senior Secondary School.

She gave a detailed account of each exhibit in the train, which was much appreciated by the members unable to see it. This is just one more instance of the help rendered by a growing number of young people, to the handicapped.

The 21 resolutions and recommendations from the C.C.B. Clubs of Ontario, to be submitted to the 24th annual conference to be held in Ottawa in May, were read and discussed.

Clarence Morris is the local delegate to this conference.

Helen Wardhaugh sold tickets on a gift which she had made and donated to raise funds for the Centennial year project. Doug Huffman—won the draw.

Allan Molloy, Mike Ross, Allan Wilson and Glen Gray entertained with several selections played on two Spanish guitars, drums and tambourine.

Vi Waite thanked the boys for the entertainment.

A tasty lunch was served by the Kinette Club members, for which Helen Wardhaugh thanked them. Also the Lions Club for transportation.

Sponsors Art Show

STIRLING — Stirling Public Library sponsored the third annual art show in the Council Chambers. All 75 pictures exhibited were new this year.

Artists participating were Madeline McIntosh, S. Gascoley, Kay Bailey, S. Lambert, A. Potter, J. E. Munro, F. Girdwood, Helen Lamb, Pauline Wall, H. Foote, Mrs. Maguire, Alice O'Donnell, R. Reynolds, Jane Vance, J. Downey and T. Svoboda.

Church Groups

VOTA VITA MISSION CIRCLE

The April meeting of Vota Vita Mission Circle was held in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church with the president, Mrs. N. Hales, in charge. Mrs. F. Travis gave an interesting series of Lighthouse Flashes. The evening's program was presented by a group headed by Mrs. H. Hall. Miss E. Sprackett read a portion of Scripture.

Devotional leader Mrs. W. Dempsey's topic was based on mind the miracle of nature in springtime, and said the Creator has given all a responsibility in the development of the world. Miss T. Priest sang a solo, Mrs. Hall told a brief story of the history and growth of the Southern Cross Radio Station at La Paz, Bolivia, which broadcasts the gospel in several languages, and also provides religious literature and courses for students. Mrs. A. Gazley read an informative letter from Rev. and Mrs. Rochow, missionaries in Bolivia.

The topic of the evening was given by Mrs. G. Woodcock. It dealt with five young dedicated missionary girls from the United States working in Equador, South America, helping to spread the gospel in this special way. Mrs. Woodcock related events leading to their tragic martyrdom in 1956 in their attempts to reach a little-known tribe of hostile Indians. Most significant events are recorded in a book written by Betty Elliot, wife of one of the pilots. It is a graphic description of how she eventually came to live among the villagers and was successful in bringing the gospel to them, which led to the actual conversion of the individuals who had committed the crime.

Club Activities

B. and P. CLUB

The April meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club was held at Johnny's, Restaurant. Business proceedings were conducted by president Ruth McMullen.

It was decided that the club would again sponsor a student to the U.N. seminar to be held at Queen's University later this year.

Next meeting will be the club's annual meeting and all committee chairmen were requested to have their reports ready. The annual coffee party for the club will be held May 31st. at the home of Mrs. George Graham on the Trent Road. The meeting was turned over to the nomination committee chairman, Mrs. Martha Gordon.

Following is the slate of officers for the coming year: president, Miss Ruth McMullen, 1st vice - president, Mrs. Dorothy Elliot 2nd vice - president, Miss Jeane Stephenson; recording secretary, Miss Bettie Anderson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Audrey Hall; treasurer, Mrs. Adelia Smith.

Baked Carrots Easy Oven Dish

By MARY MOORE

Packaged Canadian carrots are available at moderate prices in three-pound and five-pound polybags. Canadian housewives should be taking advantage of this plentiful vegetable now because of its moderate cost, their deep color indicates a higher Vitamin A content than the paler smaller imported variety. Vitamin A plays a significant role in building everybody's resistance to infection and is essential to general good health.

A reader wrote to me and gave me the method of baking carrots that a Rumanian friend of hers had given her. I liked the idea for it gives us another vegetable to add to our oven dinner menus so I made them.

BAKED CARROTS (easy)

3 cups carrots—sliced wafer thin (packed down when measured)
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. M.S.G. (accent)
2 tbsp. butter
About 1 cup milk

Tip sliced carrots into medium-sized baking dish, preferably with lid. Sprinkle with salt and M.S.G. and dot with butter. Half cover with milk. Cover with lid or foil (pinching around edges to keep in steam) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about one hr. or until milk is nearly all absorbed and carrots are tender.

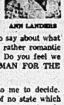
WYN'S CREAMED WHITE ONIONS WITH CARROTS
(serves 6)

12 whole (approximately 2" each) white onions
4 medium-large carrots sliced ¼" thick
1½ cups milk
2 tbsps. butter
⅓ tbsps. flour
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
¼ pound coarsely chopped Cheddar cheese

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Meat Loaf; Mushroom Gravy; Rice Pilaf; Brussels Sprouts; Celery Hearts; Citrus Fruit Cup; Nut Cookies; Tea.



Peel onions and put on to boil in salted (1 tsp.) boiling water to cover. Cover and boil 15 min. Meanwhile scrub and slice carrots. When onions have cooked 15 min. add carrots and cook both 15 min. longer or until both vegetables are tender. Drain through colander. Make Sauce by melting butter and stirring in flour, salt and pepper to blend. Stir in milk until thick. Add cheese and stir over very low heat until cheese is nearly melted. Turn hot onions and carrots into preheated vegetable dish, pour hot sauce over and serve.

Ann Landers

Uncle Revises Will; Plans Viking Funeral

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My great uncle is 84 years old. Up until last year he was in very good health. Recently his health has been failing. Last week uncle told us he plans to revise his will. We were shocked at what he wants in it. Uncle insists on having a Viking funeral. I did not know what a Viking funeral was until he explained it. The dead person is put into a boat, the boat is set afire and plowed out to the sea.

Uncle explains that this would not be illegal the law as the piece of property he owns has a lake on it. The boat could be used instead of the sea.

ANN LANDERS

According to uncle, the authorities have no say about what happens on private property. I think this is a rather romantic way to go. The rest of the family is appalled. Do you feel we should let uncle have his wish? — SPOKESMAN FOR THE RELATIVES.

DEAR SPOKESMAN: It is not up to me to decide. Your state has burial laws and I know of no state which would permit a Viking funeral . . . even on a privately owned lake.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I agree completely with your praise of individuals who are married to wheelchair invalids. Now may I add a word of praise to those who are married to another kind of cripple, the cripple whose incapacitation often cannot be seen, for it is emotional instead of physical.

The unsung heroes and heroines in my book are those who are married to life's losers . . . the severe neurotics, the hypochondriacs, the born failures, the weak . . .

It takes strength and dignity to hold up one's head and make no apologies for a stumbling mate. I have seen such people and my heart goes out to them. One cannot say, "You are noble. You are brave. I admire you." One can only write a letter to Ann Landers and hope the right people see it. Thank you for allowing me to speak my mind. — NO BARGAIN MYSELF.

DEAR BARGAIN: I agree with every word you say. It's your signature I don't buy. Insight such as yours makes you a big bargain, indeed. Thanks for writing. I hope, with you, that the right people see your letter and take heart.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whenever a fellow brings me home from a date and I sit in his car for more than 20 minutes my mom flashes the porch light off and on continuously until I come into the house.

She should be happy we are out in front, instead of parked on some lonely road. She should also be happy that nine-tenths of that time we are only talking.

I feel that a high school senior should not have to be signalled into the house by her mother. It is very embarrassing to be treated like a small child. Help me, please. — SICK OF BLINKIN'.

DEAR BLINKIN': Since one-tenth of 20 minutes is only two minutes, I suggest that you get that part over with immediately, then bring the fellow into the house.

I am in favor of girls bringing their fellows home for a little visiting after a date. They should be given complete privacy, but a light should be burning, four feet should be on the floor at all times and all hands should be on deck.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Father: "I don't know why I can't work these problems. You just don't think or you would be able to solve them."

Father: "Let's back up and start over with this problem. It will seem more simple if we take it step by step from the beginning."

It does no good to scold a child because he cannot or will not learn. Try to help him in a more constructive way — and do it pleasantly.

Two Boy Friends Present Problem

Dear Doris: Last year I went steady with Joe (an orphan) for a year and then the family he lived with moved 700 miles away. I still write friendly letters to him. He is coming here during May just for old times' sake as he put it, but in the meantime I am going steady with Bruce, who recently lost his arm.

I don't just go steady with anyone. In both cases I thought about it very hard. I told Joe that I was again going steady but would still like to see him. I also told Bruce that Joe was coming. Neither one liked the idea too well. They were friends when Joe lived around here but now I don't know what's going to give.

My problem is what do I do when Joe comes down? I like the boys equally now. My mother gave no suggestions. — Double Trouble

Dear Double Trouble: Lucky girl to have two boy friends to worry about! My mail is high from girls who would like even one.

It's this going-steady thing; too restricting at a time when any healthy Canadian girl is likely to find more than one boy attractive.

I'm all for giving Bruce the edge. He must be sensitive about losing that arm right now and you did promise to be his steady, didn't you? I'd suggest that your get-together with Joe be in the nature of something different from a heavy date. See him for lunch, or do the rounds of visits to old acquaintances with him.

Bruce is your bird-in-the-hand. He deserves some loyalty.

Dear Doris: Please tell me what would cause dehydration. My children are constantly asking, my throat parched so I have difficulty swallowing. (With toast and potatoes I have to take a drink of something.) I have been losing my balance for over a year now.

Would a doctor believe me if I told him? Is there a test for dehydration? — Parched Throat

DORIS CLARE

Dear Parched: Who says it is dehydration? Not only do you diagnose yourself, you also ask me to.

Of course your doctor will believe your symptoms. And treat them. Could it be that writing to me is your way of putting off a medical appointment! Get on the telephone!

Dear Doris: Just a word to the over 60 group. If there is a senior centre in your city by all means get out and go there. You will meet all ages, even in their 90's, and enjoying life to the fullest. Don't sit at home and feel sorry for yourself.

Do a little turn for your neighbor who has a family of small children, not for money but for the Lord's sake and in thanks to God for giving you good health.

No one need be lonely at any age. Visit an invalid. — Voice of Experience.

Dear Voice: Or start a bridge foursome. Or find a part-time volunteer job. Sitting home and feeling sorry for oneself is scarcely half-living. Thank you, Voice, for your long, helpful letter.

Try turning your trouble into triumph by getting help from a trained social worker. Doris can put you on the right track.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, MAY 1, 1967

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Seven teams of the ten-club OHA senior "A" league flung the taunt "As Old Man's League" back into the teeth of their critics in Toronto Saturday.

Calling it "Color with Youth", five of the seven clubs represented at a category meeting voted to add the young players — three under 25 years and three under 23 years — to league rosters next season. Clubs must dress two of these players at every game.

Belleville, Kingston and Oshville were not at the morning category meeting although both eastern clubs were represented at the annual session in the afternoon.

Another motion that next year all clubs carry six players under 23 years of age got a unanimous nod.

The "color with youth" idea stemmed from a suggestion by Guelph that clubs add six players under 23 years of age. During the discussion it was pointed out that reinstated pros with younger players would up fan interest. "Besides," one added, "these oldsters can teach the younger fellows a lot merely by playing with them."

However it was stressed that clubs might have trouble getting the right kind of players. "The drain on youth is so will be heavy," Toronto said, "what with the national league draft; two national teams, the colleges and the two amateur leagues operating in the United States all seeking young blood."

Referee-in-chief Pat Patterson who convened the meeting said that clubs should impress upon younger players the necessity of studying well any offers that come from junior "A" teams and others seeking their services.

"Tell them that unless they are of junior "A" calibre with a pro job ahead, to think well before they act. They might better stay home, establish themselves and make a few dollars on the side playing hockey. And remember they must have releases from you.

The meeting air endorsed a motion that next year the n imum admission fee in all league arenas b set at $1.25.

It gave a unanimous nod to a motion that next season all teams will play a ten-minute sudden death overtime period with a minutes rest. If there is no score a 20-minute sudden-death period will be played. This for schedule and league playoffs play.

Trouble at Kingston last year brought the suggestion from the convener that all Sunday hockey be played in the afternoon or 7 p.m. at the latest. Patterson was of the opinion all hockey games should start at 8.30 or sooner. "No game should start at nine o'clock."

This drew the opinion that teams travelling the longest distance should play Sunday afternoon hockey. The teams travelling the shortest distance could play on Friday nights.

This was referred to the schedule committee which will meet in June.

A publicity committee consisting of Joe Kane, Toronto; Norman, Bon Temple, Belleville, Gord Renwick, Galt and Jim Short, Barrie, was appointed.

Patterson setting June 14th as the date of the next meeting urged all clubs to bring their $1,000 bond and entry fee of $40 along with a contract man.

"We are assured as of now of nine teams entering with Woodstock still doubtful. Other clubs want in but I suggest that after such a successful season last year we go along with what we've got."

Toronto's Joe Kane suggested the formation of a Senior "A" Council within the OHA. "This council," he said, "could handle league matters particularly in the case of the younger players. If any club is in difficulty in this sense the council could study ways and means of other clubs helping them out. It could also set player's salaries."

Barrie endorsed this. "They call us an 'Old Man's League.' All right. Let's get these youngsters going and show the fans we are trying to build a better league. If we mix color with youth we'll have the best league in the country."

Imlach; 'Movies Helped Win This One'!

MONTREAL (CP) — Every time his Toronto Maple Leafs were trounced during the regular National Hockey League season, Coach Punch Imlach would trot out films of the game and threaten to make his players watch them.

He rarely went through with it.

But rarely went through with it.

But when the Leafs lost 6-2 on home ice to Montreal Canadiens in the fourth game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup final, Imlach made them sit for a film viewing of their defeat.

"A picture is worth a 1,000 words, isn't it?" Imlach said after the Leafs defeated the Canadiens 4-1 Saturday at Montreal to take a 3-2 lead in the series.

The sixth game is in Toronto Tuesday with the seventh, if necessary, here Thursday.

The Leafs, who showed little checking ability in Thursday's 6-2 loss, beat Montreal with hard hitting and strong forechecking.

Right winger Jim Pappin, with his sixth playoff goal, rookie Brian Conacher and Dave Keon, each with their least figure, stopping 37 shots. Hero of Toronto's semi-finals victory over Chicago Black Hawks, Sawchuk was called in Thursday to replace veteran Johnny Bower.

Bower, injured in Thursday's pre - game warmup, is unlikely to return to action.

Montreal's rookie goaltender, Rogatien Vachon, a standout in the playoffs, was replaced by veteran Gump Worsley at the start of the third period Saturday after allowing all four Toronto goals. Worsley, who hadn't played since March 12, was in only 18 games during the regular season.

"I was a little nervous," Worsley said. "In a situation like that, you're always afraid that you'll miss the first easy shot that comes to you."

Montreal coach Toe Blake didn't blame Vachon for the loss.

"We gave the puck away all through the game and then just stood around and watched the Leafs put it in the net," Blake said.

Rochefort beat Sawchuk at 8:03 of the first period with a slapshot from the faceoff circle.

Pappin tied the score at 12:06, beating Vachon with a low shot from the blueline while Montreal's Claude Larose was sitting out a boarding penalty.

The goal appeared to take the starch out of the Canadiens, who had been out-hustling and out-playing the Leafs to that point.

Conacher scored the winner at 2:07 of the second period, converting Red Kelly's rebound into the Montreal net.

Pronovost made it 3-1, grabbing a loose puck in front of the Toronto bench at centre ice and lumbering down the left side to beat Vachon with a low, hard drive.

Keon scored the final goal late in the second period, picking up Kelly's rebound and flipping it into the open side of the net before Vachon could recover from the first effort.

Blake admitted the Leafs were infallible. "I tried everything. Nothing seemed to help."

But Blake had a final parting word for reporters: "We'll be back here next Thursday."

WAITS FOR SHOT—Maple Leafs' goaltender Terry Sawchuk is on the alert for a shot as Montreal Canadiens' Henri Richard (16) — and Yvan Cournoyer attack during the fifth game of the Stanley Cup finals. Maple Leafs are Jim Pappin (18) and Allan Stanley (26).

OHA Convention

Young Blood For Senior 'A' Loop

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

OHA Senior "A" League clubs will add six players, three under 25 and three under 23 years of age to their teams rosters next season.

Two of these players must be dressed for each game.

The motion to add the players carried by a 5-2 vote. Three clubs of the 10-team circuit were not represented at the senior meeting.

(See Sports Column)

Eastern Ontario will have strong representation on the executive body of the Ontario Hockey Association this year.

At the annual meeting held in Toronto Saturday, Jack Devine of Belleville took over the president's chair. Harold Webster of Napanee and Jim Crombie, Bowmanville were elected to the executive and Frank Buckland, Peterborough was given another term as treasurer. The "backstopper" is a past-president of Lorne Cook of Kingston.

Others elected to the executive are Hugh McLean, well-known referee of Burlington who headed the polls, Cliff Phillips of Newmarket and Percy Topping of Toronto. Appointments by the president will be made later.

At the buffet dinner following the meeting, Mr. George Foster, secretary - manager for 30 years was honored with the presentation of the golden hockey stick, the highest award the association can bestow.

The new president received a fine ovation when he took over the gavel, "I take this office with a feeling of humility" he said. "I hope I am only half as good as Matt Leyden; my predecessor. I have an excellent executive. I will do everything I can for the good of hockey during my term of office."

During the three-hours business session the body endorsed a motion that all playoff games, group or otherwise with the exception of senior "A" and intermediate "A" shall be played to a finish. This will eliminate overtime.

It defeated a motion that any manager, player or coach suspended for more than one game or fined $25 or the penalized club should have the right to read the referee's report.

Motions that wearing of helmets be optional and if so to have straps and identification of the penalty shot were defeated. The body endorsed the motion that spearing above the waist be subject to a game and match penalty.

These three motions must have CAHA ratification.

The meeting carried a motion by a 6-2-1 vote that any coach, manager, trainer or other team official who is ordered from the players' bench by the referee, or a player who receives a game misconduct penalty, shall be suspended for the next scheduled game of his team.

If the offence occurs in a playoff game the offender shall be suspended for the next game or shall have the option of paying a $25. fine.

It deferred for a year a move that in any playoff series decided by the odd game, the visiting team will receive one-third of the gross gate after necessary expenses have been deducted.

It approved an amendment that the goalie of the team in senior "A" competition who has had the least number of goals scored against him in the regular schedule, be named by the team as the recipient of the league award.

President Devine here suggested that in the case of a team using two goalies, the award be presented to the club and let it decide who is the winner. The amendment deleted the clause "60 percent of schedule games by the goalie."

The body approved by a 47-21 vote a motion that any player, manager, coach, trainer or other club officials named in the referees' report as guilty of unbecoming conduct, swearing, or otherwise using foul or abusive language before, after or during any game, shall in a regular season game be suspended for the next scheduled game. If it occurs in a playoff game he shall be suspended for a game or have the option of being fined $25. A second offence will be dealt with by the president.

A move to reduce the fine to $10 was defeated.

Some arenas under Junior "B" category have not met with OHA requirements for playoffs purpose. The OHA approved a move that the acceptance of an entry in these categories, will signify the suitability of the home rink and its facilities.

The financial report of the body revealed it has a surplus of $15,000. The Emergency Fund now contains $21,000.. All-star games, said Treasurer Buckland, last year brought in over $6,000.

Marlies Maul Miners

TORONTO (CP)—"When they started to play individual hockey, skate, shoot the puck around, it was no contest," was the way Toronto Marlboros' coach Gus Bodnar summed up his team's 9-1 victory over Thetford Mines Canadiens before 2,764 fans here Sunday.

Marlboros took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final. The fourth game will be played here tonight.

In the first period, both teams seemed to be more interested in head hunting than scoring goals. Nearly every player ended around with a high stick. Throughout the 20 minutes, there were only 10 shots on the goals, four by Marlboros and six by Canadiens.

Right from the start of the second period, Marlboros took aim at goalie Pierre Chagnon. They fired 25 shots on goal, and four of them went in. Brian Glennie's hard shot from the point was the first, then Frank Hamill scored two goals just 13 seconds apart, and finally Doug Acomb flipped one in.

Hornets Take Calder

By THE CANADIAN PCESS

It was a big night for Pittsburgh Hornets, but perhaps an even bigger night for Billy Harris as he fired his second successive game winner in leading the Hornets to their final Calder Cup championship in the American Hockey League.

The Hornets, who disappeared next year when the National League moves into Pittsburgh, won the best-of-seven playoff final in four straight games after defending champions Rochester Americans with a 5-1 victory Saturday and a 4-3 win Sunday.

It was Pittsburgh's third championship and follows two years of supremacy by the Americans.

Harris, who scored Pittsburgh's second goal of the first period...Saturday, whipped the puck past Rochester goalie Bob Perreault with only 26 seconds final in four straight games in the first overtime period Sunday to sew it up.

Baseball History

Pair Hurls No-Hitter; Lose In Nine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Steve Barber and Stu Miller of Baltimore Orioles Sunday became the first pitching pair in baseball history to hurl a no-hitter and lose in nine innings.

Barber did the bulk of the work, holding Detroit Tigers hitless for 8 2-3 innings—but walking in Tigers.

After the last one, manager Hank Bauer called in Miller, who preserved the no-hitter but not the victory as the Tigers scored on Mark Belanger's error and won the first game of the doubleheader 2-1.

The Tigers' first run, also scored in the ninth inning, came on a wild pitch—minutes after Barber issued his eighth and ninth walks and just before he recorded No. 10.

After history had been made, the 28 - year - old Barber was quick to absolve Bauer of any bad-guy charge for not letting him get the no-hitter by himself. Barber said:

"If I hadn't been pitching a no-hitter, I would have been out long before that. I was out of gas in the fifth inning. I'm not upset about losing the no-hitter. I'm more concerned about losing the game."

In other American League games Sunday, Detroit won the second game 6-4, Washington Senators swept Minnesota Twins 7-3 and 3-0, Kansas City Athletics edged Boston Red Sox 1-0, Cleveland Indians nipped Chicago White Sox 2-1 before losing 4-2 and New York Yankees defeated California Angels 4-1 in 10 innings, then lost 4-3.

In Saturday's games, the Tigers took the Orioles 4-2, the Senators lashed the Twins 8-6, the Yankees beat the Angels 5-2, the Red Sox nipped the Athletics 11-10 and Cleveland was rained out at Chicago.

In only one previous instance had more than one pitcher combined for a no-hitter. That was in 1956 when Cincinnati Reds John Klippstein, Hershell Freeman and Joe Black held Milwaukee Braves hitless for nine innings. However, the Braves got a hit off Black in the 10th and then won 2-1 in the 11th.

The Tigers finally got a hit in the second inning of the second—Jim Northrup's one - out double—and sealed the victory with six runs in the fifth inning.

Washington's, Barry Moore came close to a no-hitter, allowing only a two-out single in the sixth inning by Minnesota's Cesar Tovar in the second game. Moore retired the first 17 batters.

In the opener, the Senators erupted for five runs in the fifth, two on Bob Saverine's single and two more on a double by Frank Howard.

Jim Nash pitched a five-hitter for Kansas City, and Danny Cater hit a homer for the only run off Boston's Darrell Brandon.

The Indians won their opener on Leon Wagner's ninth inning homer as Gary Bell scattered seven hits. The White Sox, however, roared back on walks and stolen bases for the Second-game triumph. Agee's single drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a bloop single.

Mickey Mantle's three - run homer in the 10th inning gave the Yankees a victory in the opener. But rookie Rickey Clark and Bill Kelso stopped them on five hits in the nightcap as Don Mincher drove in two runs with a single and a homer.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

BY BOB BLAND

Noticed all the cars, trucks and trailers loaded with boats and fishing gear around town the last week?

You can say farewell to hubbies, boyfriends, brothers and fathers for a few days. The trek northward has started.

Hundreds of ardent fishermen, trout fishermen that is, left for their annual opening weekend jaunt to Algonquin Park.

Many of these Izaak Waltons are seeking out the speckled trout, while many more are after the elusive grey or lake trout.

These fellows will travel many, many miles by motor vehicle before starting their trip, then journey on cold lakes for another 10 to 12 miles portaging many times as much as 5 miles.

The Dickson Lake Portage is around 3½ miles long and part of this on a very rough terrain, swamp trails with logs as steps, then in a narrow trail which is very tricky as far as walking is concerned.

Most of the fellows using these trails wear waterproof footwear which is a must unless you like wet feet.

You carry a packsack weighing approximately 60 to 65 lbs., and with this load you don't run too far.

Unless you are in pretty good condition I would not advise taking this trip, the boys might have to carry you out.

Rainbow fishermen in the Shelter Valley area started fishing at 12.01 Saturday morning and as usual there was standing room only on most sections of this creek.

Mepps and worms were the main diet used by 90 per cent of the fishermen, salmon eggs and flies made up the balance of baits to be used.

Quite a few local fishermen like rainbow fishing and for the past few days an inspection of these creeks, in the valley area show good signs of fish.

The water level is down for this time of year and there are some very nice pools loaded with trout.

Pickerel and pike season opens south of the No. 2 Highway next Saturday May 6th.

Already, most of the boats are booked up, at East Lake, Consecon Lake still has quite a few available.

A big fishing contest is being held in Trenton for the opening of pickerel. A local contest for Bay of Quinte is being held by the Belleville Fish and Game Association.

Picton are holding their annual Fish Derby on the long weekend in May. Picton and Trenton have the whole business area watching on the contests.

I wonder why our fair city has left itself fall so far behind in something that can benefit all our local merchants and business people as well as the city itself.

The smelt are still running strong on the lakestore and also in the Moira River. The water temperature is still down so it appears that unless we have very hot weather the week the pickerel fishing should be excellent in the mouth of the Moira and Salmon Rivers. Mepps, Abu, Shyster, Beno or yellow flutfish would probably be your best bet for good results.

Trent Valley League Has Four Entries

Four clubs filed entry and the fifth is expected to follow suit by the middle of the week at a Trent Valley Softball League meeting last night.

The Point Anne Cementmen, Madoc Juniors, RCAF Flyers and Trenton's Intermediate "A" club, Carm's Cleaners, made their entries official last night. Jim Rumbough, of the Trenton "AA" club, was unable to attend the meeting but is expected to confirm an entry this week. It was also decided to leave the league open until November 1st for a couple of other clubs that have shown interest.

Another meeting has been called for next Sunday, at Trenton Chamber of Commerce, at 7.30 p.m., at which time a schedule will be presented for approval as well as a league constitution. Also a game-schedule is expected if only five clubs form the league.

Individual awards for women went to Marlene Henderson for high average, Dorothy Rashotte for high single and Ida Howard for high triple.

John Dennis took the men's high average award, Bill Summerville the high single and James Scriven the high triple.

Kay Clarke and Paul Scriven were given most improved bowler awards and the executive members were presented tie bar and cufflink sets.

Last year's executive was returned as a body. John Dennis is president, Sam Peoples vice-president, Adam Chalmers secretary and Don Lumley treasurer.

Drysdale Beaten

Giants Sweep 3; Whip Dodgers

BY THE CANADIAN PRES

There isn't much about Los Angeles Dodgers that is the same as in past years, but San Francisco Giants are hardly in a position to complain.

About the only person the Giants recognize among the current Dodgers is pitcher Don Drysdale, and lately he's become a welcome sight, having lost his last seven starts against San Francisco, including a 5-1 decision Sunday night.

It was the 10th loss in 16 starts for the Dodgers and left them in eighth place in the National League standings. San Francisco's first three - game sweep of the season allowed them to slip past Los Angeles into seventh place. The Giants won 5-0 Saturday and 5-4 Friday.

Missing from the Dodgers since last season are pitching ace Sandy Koufax, who retired, Manny Wille and Tommy Davis, who were traded and Lou Johnson and Willie Davis, who have been injured.

While Bob Bolin and reliever Frank Linzy combined for a three-hitter for the slow-starting Giants, league - leading Cincinnati Reds divided a doubleheader with New York Mets and moved 3½ games up on second-place St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds, beaten 2-0 by Don Cardwell's three - hitter in the opener, took the second game 3-2 behind rookie Gary Nolan. The Cardinals bowed to Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 as Juan Pizarro fired a four-hitter and his catcher, Jerry May, drove in three runs with a homer and single.

Philadelphia Phillies split a twin bill with Atlanta Braves, winning 5-4 before falling 6-3 in the nightcap, and rookie Rich Nye's four - hitter led Chicago Cubs past Houston Astros 4-1. Saturday the Reds blanked the Mets 7-0, the Braves shaded the Phils 3-2, the Cubs beat the Astros 4-1 and Pittsburgh was rained out at St. Louis.

The Giants caught up with Drysdale in the seventh after he had yielded one run and two hits—while striking out nine—through the first six innings.

Successive singles by Jim Hart, Tom Haller and Ollie Brown sent the Giants ahead 2-1 before Hal Lanier sacrificed and Jim Davenport, batting for Bolin, delivered the two-run crusher.

Grabs $20,000

Rodriguez Takes Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez, down on his luck for three years, won the $20,000 first - place purse in the Texas open golf tournament Sunday and promptly donated $5,000 to some others down on their luck.

The Puerto Rican, a favorite with the gallery because of his showmanship antics, was deadly serious as he fired five-under-par 66 to surge from second place to the championship-in a 72-hole tournament. He had a 277.

New Zealander Bob Charles, who shared second place with Rodriguez following the second round, fired a 68 and nearly front nine in the final 18 and added a birdie to the back side to finish one stroke behind Rodriguez.

Bob Goalby, who shared the second day lead, fired a three-under par 68. He finished at 278 to tie for second place with Charles.

The two other third - round leaders, Miller Barber and Billy Casper, faltered and fell to over-72s. They finished at 282 behind Charles and Goalby.

The 31-year-old, 125 - pound Rodriguez said he was going for the Pecan Valley Country Club course record of 63 so he would win a standing offer of $5,500. "I was thinking about the course record all the way," he said. "I'm giving $5,000 to the people hurt in the Chicago tornado."

Even though he didn't beat the record, he said, the tornado victims will be a cheque anyway.

Rodriguez-hadn't won since he took two tournaments in 1964 and he was rated 56th in official earnings for this year. The cheque here raises his total to $26,214 for 1967.

Pitching—Barry Moore, Senators, held Minnesota to one hit in a 3-victory over the Twins as he completed a doubleheader sweep for Washington.

Batting—Jerry May, Pirates, drove in two runs with a second-inning single and fifth-inning homer, enabling batterymate Juan Pizarro to beat St. Louis 2-0.

Archery Club Names Champions

The Belleville Archery Club held its club championship target archery and declared champions in the various divisions.

The men's freestyle was won by Floyd Armstrong with 262 while John Widdicks took the men's instinctive with 243.

Carl Armstrong won the women's freestyle with a 254 score and Jean Sargisson captured women's instinctive with 175.

Dwayne Dostatir won the junior title with a 118 score.

The overall handicap title went to Eileen Donaldson who wound up with a 305 total.

Three teams vied for the team title and members of the winning club were Carol Armstrong, Flora Donaldson, Bob Nobes and John Widdicks.

Riteways Banquet Novice Team

Members of the Belleville Riteways, this city's entry in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association's novice division, were guests of their sponsors at a steak dinner on Saturday.

The city youngsters, parents, club officials and a few special guests attended the dinner, at Papa's Steak House.

Master of ceremonies Ed James, pointing out that the club was "a new one," with only two members of last season's roster playing with it, said the fact the club did not win any championships did not take away from the fact they were a great bunch of boys who gave it everything they had at all times." Riteways won 12, lost 18 and tied three games during the season and capped their year with a performance at Brampton before bowing out of contention there.

Coach Tom Hewlett and manager Hugh Sutherland, who thanked the boys and their parents for co-operation and 100 per cent efforts, were presented with trophies from the boys.

Sam Mulholland and Bob Diamond, representing the sponsor, presented each of the players with a plaque, thanked them for a great year and assured the boys: "We will be with you 100 per cent again next season".

Guests addressed the boys briefly and team captain Bruce Sutherland thanked the sponsors, coach Hewlett and manager Sutherland for a fine season of hockey.

Spurs And Chelsea

London Teams Clash In Cup Final

LONDON (CP)—Two London soccer teams will meet in the finals of the English Football Association Cup for the first time since 1886.

In Saturday's semi-finals, Tottenham Hotspur beat Nottingham Forest 2-1 and Chelsea defeated Leeds United 1-0. Tottenham and Chelsea clash May 20 for the cup.

Meanwhile, Glasgow Celtic was winning the Scottish Football Association Cup by downing Aberdeen 2-0.

It was Celtic's second triumph this season in a bid to grab four major titles. Earlier, Celtic had won the Scottish League Cup.

Celtic could almost count it in the bag if they can overcome the British team to qualify for the final of the European Cup of Cup Champions.

Willie Wallace scored both Celtic goals before a crowd of 126,000 at Glasgow.

Jimmy Greaves, Tottenham's international inside forward, put his team on the victory path by scoring after 30 minutes with a long - range shot. Frank Saul clinched the game for the Spurs with a goal in the 68th minute. The victory was Tottenham's 19th without defeat.

Tony Hateley scored for Chelsea a minute before halftime. A harsh offside decision prevented Leeds from scoring in the 84th minute when inside forward Cooper netted the ball only to have the referee give a free kick to Chelsea.

A minute from the end the referee disallowed another Leede goal. Peter Lorimer beat the Chelsea goal-keeper following a free kick, but the referee apparently had not signalled for the kick to be made.

In English League play Manchester United crept a stage nearer to the Division 1 title with a 3-1 victory over Aston Villa. Manchester has a five-point lead over Nottingham Forest.

Coventry beat the Wolves 3-1 in the Second Division. Both Coventry and the Wolves had previously made certain of promotion but Saturday's match had a bearing on who would win the Second Division championship. With two games left, the rivals are tied with 56 points from 40 games played.

The Message Comes Through

Indian Pavilion at Expo Turns Out to Be More Than Quiet Pool

MONTREAL (CP)—The colorful wood-and-steel teepee that makes up the Indians of Canada pavilion at Expo 67 offers a fascinating collection of ancient ceremonial masks, buffalo headdresses and bows and arrows. But it leaves the non-Indian visitor with little to feel proud of.

"This is horrible. I'm not going to stay here," one Montreal woman told fellow visitors Sunday as she came face to face with a large panel reading: "The white man's school is an alien land for the Indian child."

Adjoining the showplaces of Canada and the Atlantic provinces on Ile Notre-Dame, the pavilion encloses a quiet pool with birch-bark canoes drawn up on its banks and a simulated campfire around which visitors can sit and meditate.

But the real effect is intended to be anything but restful.

"If it's making some visitors angry then the message is coming through," Deputy Commissioner-General T. R. Kelly of the Hudson Indians of British Columbia said in an interview.

"The situation of Canada's 340,000 Indians is something that needs to be looked at. Why should we foster complacency when there are so many disadvantaged, under-educated and under-developed people in Canada."

Saturday the pavilion had also aroused feelings of kinship among Mexican entertainers at the fair who arrived in front of the teepee declaring they were Spanish Indians come to sing and play for others of their blood.

Inside the pavilion, visitors pass by symbols of Canada's six major Indian cultural groups—British Columbian, Plateau, Plains, sub-Arctic, Iroquois and Eastern—and then into an area describing the early arrival of the white man. Above the signs read:

"When the white man came we welcomed him with love, we sheltered him, fed him and led him through the forest.

"The white men fought each other for our land. We were enrolled in the white man's wars.

"Many Indians fled our frontiers were betrayed."

Paid for by the Canadian government, the $400,000 pavilion was designed and staffed entirely by Indians who were also responsible for its theme.

Commissioner - General Andrew Dekhisle travelled across Canada in 1965 discussing with Indian advisory councils what should be done with the pavilion.

"The words on the signs inside are sentences that he heard repeated again and again on those travels," Mr. Kelly explained. "We are stating the case as the Indian people have wanted it stated.

"We are trying to tell the truth—not to please anybody."

Mr. Kelly said one person who was not pleased was Indian Affairs Minister Laing who visited the pavilion several weeks ago and expressed dissatisfaction because the contributions of the Canadian government to Indians had not been given recognition.

"But we are a people who have been administered for years and that is exactly what we are protesting here," Mr. Kelly said.

He echoed one of the pavilion panels which reads: "Give us the right to manage our own affairs."

Large blown-up photographs of tattered, unhappy-looking Indian children placed beside pictures of white Canadian children playing in the comfort of suburbia line the walls of the final display room which is intended to provoke questions about the future of Canada's Indians.

Visitors then travel down winding stairs to the campfire where they may sit and listen to a recorded voice which offers the hope that the future Indian may grow to be "proud and strong in the pride of his heritage."

Outside the final door stands a 65-foot totem pole, carved for Expo by Henry and Tony Hunt, Kwakiutl Indians of B.C., who chipped out huge mythological symbols to represent each of the six Indian cultures.

CROWDS of people move through the open spaces near the United States pavilion at Expo 67. Attendance figures reached almost 1,500,000 since the fair's opening Friday. (CP Photo)

Bring Along Patience...and Money ...Or Better Still Pack A Lunch

MONTREAL (CP)—The visitor to Expo 67 might be well advised to pack a lunch, or at least have some patience and money.

There are restaurants in more than 20 national pavilions on the 1,000-acre site plus eight more in the International Cervefour of La Ronde amusement area. And there are innumerable snack-bars whose wares range from a 60-cent buffalo burger to a Chinese egg-roll at 20 cents.

A check Saturday night of many of Expo's eating places found them crowded. There was a long lineup at the excellent restaurant in the German pavilion. A pretty Parisienne attendant at the restaurant in the French pavilion was turning would-be diners away.

Some places had such a surge of diners among the crowd of 273,000 at the fair that they ran out of supplies which had to be trucked across Montreal harbor while customers waited.

Prices in many places were steep by Canadian terms. For instance, at the Bulldog, an English pub in La Ronde, a bottle of English ale was $1.08 including Quebec's eight-per-cent tax.

At the Yugoslav Kolybs, soup was 60 cents to $1 with calf's liver and mushroom at $5. In many of the snack bars coffee was 25 cents.

There was an additional 10-per-cent service charge plus tax.

Expo's guide to restaurants notes that the cafes in the French pavilion are run by Raymond Oliver of the Grand Vefour Paris restaurant and Robert Tourochie of Lyon and staffed by some 120 French personnel.

The German restaurant recreates the atmosphere of pre-Hitler Berlin and specializes in North German dishes. The Saturday night crowd was so big it was impossible to get to the door to see the menu.

The intimate restaurant in the Ontario pavilion billed lightly-browned Brampton chicken at $3.45. There were plenty of available seats in this restaurant where prices are closer to Montreal city prices.

While there have been complaints about prices, an Expo executive said Saturday night:

"We don't think anyone is out to gouge people, although we are a bit unhappy about some prices.

"The situation is that these people have to pay their rents, meet their overhead and at least break even by the end of Expo. They have only six months to do that."

Maurice Novek, who supervises Expo restaurants, said that part of the trouble is that food services are not yet ready to meet the demand.

Confer Degrees

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Honorary doctor of divinity degrees were conferred on two prominent area clergymen at the Huron College spring convocation Saturday. One of the Anglican college's degrees went to a Roman Catholic, the Most Rev. Philip Francis Pocock, Titular Archbishop of Isauropoli and Coadjutor Archbishop of Toronto. The other went to the Ven. Alford Abraham, Archdeacon of Lambton and Rector of St. George's Church, Sarnia.

Haile Selassie First To Get Royal Treatment

OTTAWA (CP)—The government turned out its top people Sunday to greet Haile Selassie in a formal affair heavened by the pre-dinner barking of the Ethiopian emperor's pet dog.

His Imperial Majesty—another title—was the first of more than 80 heads of foreign states to make a Centennial-Year visit to Canada. The 74-year-old African monarch got the protocol works, from guard-of-honor at Canada's centennial flame in front of the Parliament buildings, to black-tie dinner.

The slight and bearded ruler, en route to the Montreal world fair, was greeted by Prime Minister Pearson, Governor-General Michener, External Affairs Minister Martin and State Secretary Judy LaMarsh at the parliamentary ceremony. Miss LaMarsh is in charge of centennial celebrations.

The emperor, and his dog Lulu, began a Canadian visit in Victoria last Wednesday.

A crowd of 2,000, under brilliant sunshine on Parliament Hill, applauded as the emperor mounted a reviewing stand to take the salute from the guard of honor of the Second Battalion of the Canadian Guards. The RCAF band played the Ethiopian national anthem.

Mr. Michener in a brief message of welcome in both French and English, referred to the emperor as a man whose courage, wisdom and humanity are known throughout the world.

Mr. Pearson said the emperor had been an indomitable leader of his country for many years. "In times of trepidation and in times of triumph you have shown yourself a great leader."

He termed Western Canada "exotically beautiful and rich" and looked forward to visiting Expo 67, "which will no doubt afford us the opportunity to observe in person the achievements realized by the great and industrious people of Canada in such a short period of time."

At the official dinner at Government House—the Governor-General's residence — Lulu, the emperor's pet dog, stood quietly behind his master on the reception line. When the receiving party headed for the dining room, he ran ahead down the corridor with his high-pitched barks echoing through the hallways

Introducing: The tire that could save you more than money.

A real bargain in tires is one that keeps your family safest.

Until recently, that kind of bargain could cost a lot of money.

Now, that's changed. The tire that changed it, the new Goodyear polyester.

Price: you can get one for about $30.00.

The Goodyear polyester is one of the safest tires ever made. It's built with an incredibly strong polyester cord. It's been called the miracle cord and it's another first from Goodyear.

The major car manufacturers have selected the Goodyear polyester as original equipment on their new cars.

And safety isn't their only reason for doing so.

Goodyear polyesters are also longer wearing.

They practically eliminate cuts and impact breaks. They're quiet and smoother riding.

They won't "flat spot" overnight. So, no irritating morning thump.

They'll even improve your gas mileage.

Goodyear polyesters have all the strength of nylon plus the smooth ride of rayon cord tires combined. When you buy a set, you're putting your money where your heart is.

Like all Goodyear tires, the new polyesters are fully covered by Goodyear's lifetime quality and road hazard guarantee.

Talk to your Goodyear man.

Remember polyester tires by Goodyear. They could save you more than money.

The new polyester* tire by Goodyear.

GOODYEAR

Go Goodyear...You'll go further.

*Polyester is registered as Vycord by Goodyear and is available in Goodyear Double Eagle, Custom Power Cushion and Power Cushion Tires.

Sunday night's seemed to be spectacularly bad. The premise was to have some Wyoming ranchers claim Manhattan and pitch their tepee on Park Avenue. They acted like aborigines—even their chief had a penchant for collecting white scalps.

NBC's Today Show in a rare early evening special program Sunday, presented a full and extraordinarily frank report on "the pill," taking up in detail the subject of oral contraceptives.

The approach was choicest. It brought in experts to discuss the moral, religious, medical, physical and psychological aspects of the subject and it was well organized and enlightening.

Jr. Farmers Decline Offer

NAPANEE — The Lennox and Addington Junior Farmers felt forced to decline accepting the Deseronto Road one-roomed school offered to them by the Richmond Township Council. A committee was appointed to investigate the building and to report on its possibilities, as well as the approximate cost of insurance and upkeep.

About 30 of the 42 members attending last Thursday evening's meeting listened to the report, and their business sense told them that the scheme was not feasible. In spite of the arguments against, a small group voted in favor.

The two main arguments against accepting the building were its small size and the expense involved in repairs and in the changes necessary to convert it from a school into a public hall. The thought was to hold dances to help in maintenance costs, but the committee estimated that not more than 25 couples could dance in the converted school. Also, they believed that fire regulations might have prevented the assembling of more than many.

The question of the immediate expense was more than they could face. The floor, although a good one, is buckled in the middle, and the committee feels that a major problem might face them when the present floor was removed to have room for necessary levelling up. A partition would have to be torn out, and blackboards removed, involving repairs to the walls before the room could be decorated.

For their own meetings alone furnishings would be necessary and still more if they were to rent the building for such things as showers, as was proposed. Roughly, they estimated that it would mean a total outlay of approximately $1,000 and the Junior Farmers do not have that much money.

Provincial Director Wayne Parks, last year's president, was much in favor of accepting the offer until he himself had visited the school. The small size changed him that the idea, while attractive, was not practical, he stated. He was in agreement with the recommendation brought in by the committee.

Most of the meeting was taken up with a discussion regarding the school. Tentative plans were also made for rejoicing a 'teen-age dance May 18 and a committee was appointed to make arrangements.

Half the Indonesian population of 110,000,000 is under 18 years old.

Pet Milk Workers Go Out on Strike

NAPANEE — Napanee has a strike on its hands. The 32 employees of Pet Milk Co. walked off the job Thursday, and are picketing the plant the clock around. Trucks delivering milk to the plant are not stopped. Limited production is being continued by the foremen, with some of the milk being diverted to Prince Edward County, and a cheese factory at Harrowsmith.

Employers here, members of United Dairy and Creamery Workers, Local 477, have been without a contract since May 1, 1966. Several promised meetings have been postponed. Manager James Miller has stated that a meeting is scheduled for Thursday.

The men are asking for a cost-of-living and for higher wages. Sunday overtime, more paid holidays and a higher shift bonus.

Canadians Take Over New York

NEW YORK (CP) — The thwack of axes made Central Park sound like a Canadian forest Saturday as Canada Week was launched with official ceremonies.

A Vancouver woodsman demonstrated his skill at tree topping and other Canadiana took part in the opening and log rolling exhibitions at New York saluted the 100th anniversary of Canadian Confederation.

The week, proclaimed by Mayor John V. Lindsay, will be marked by performances by Canadian artists, musicians and exhibitions of Canadian art.

Motorcycle marchers by a 17-man Ontario Provincial Police squad and music by the band of the Royal Regiment added to the Canadian flavor of the ceremonies.

Miss Canada, Barbara Kelly of Vancouver, scooped a symbolic shovelful of earth around one of six trees presented to New York City by the Canadian government.

Miss Canada was dressed in a red knee-length coat patterned after the uniform of Montcalm, the French general who fell on the Plains of Abraham in 1759. She also wore a red tricorne hat, white net stocks and a white sash.

Cameron Ienor Jon Vickers and folk-singers Ian and Sylvia gave recitals in Carnegie Hall Friday night.

Daniel Sailor of Vancouver showed the crowd how Canadian woodsmen top trees. A 100-foot pole was erected and a douglas fir lashed to the top of it.

Sailor, a former woodsman who now exhibits his skill on tour, sliced away the top branches of the tree with a portable electric saw and then used an axe to top the tree.

Blood Clinic Receives 160 Donations

NAPANEE — While not reaching the target set for this evening, the 160 donations of blood given last Thursday were a substantial contribution. There were plenty of helpers for the various duties connected with the Red Cross blood donors' clinic. The afternoon was slow, with only 50 donors coming to the Memorial Building. However, the evening was a busy one, with 110 donors. Many were from rural areas.

Several old timers showed up to give blood, including Edward Caron of Deseronto topped the list, with his 87th donation. J. Douglas Mahood of the 56th time, Hugh Jaybee made his 50th donation, and Percy Assselin his 47th.

Deseronto unites with Napanee in this undertaking, with Mrs. Dot Dawson the chairman for that town. One nurse and 12 helpers were on hand Tuesday.

Members of the Red Cross Societies are grateful to all who donated blood, and to the many in the clinic. Mrs. F. B. Mills, chairman, stated.

Groups Plan Various Fund Campaigns

NAPANEE — Returns from the campaign for the Napanee branch of the Canada Cancer Society have been most satisfactory, an officer of the society stated Saturday. Returns are still coming in and no definite statement as to the total result of the campaign can be made until the end of the week, or perhaps later.

Two campaigns for two worthy causes begin May 1. The Red Shield campaign has been held in May. A few years ago the "Flowers of Hope" campaign for the Association for the Mentally Retarded was set for the week following Mother's Day, which is May 14th this year.

Big Red Rules Roost

MONTREAL (CP)—There's a big red-haired bloke named Clancy at Expo 67's Australian pavilion and he can beat any man in the house.

Clancy's already lowered the boom on one upstart who tried to horn in on his harem. Right now there's no more competition in sight.

At heart, though, Clancy's a decent sort of kangaroo. These days, with the one challenger safely put down, he confines himself with hopping happily around the pavilion's big outdoor pen.

Clancy, otherwise known as Big Red, has established himself to the point where his pavilion overseers have no readily available name for the "roo" who once was his rival.

The rival, 3½ years of age to Clancy's five, turned up at the pen with the second batch of long-tasted hoppers to arrive at Expo from a zoo in Sydney, Australia.

The moment he was in the pen, the upstart placed himself firmly in front of Clancy, in a posture of challenge toward the proud ruler of the roos' roost.

One pavilion official Sunday night told of the epic confrontation.

"Clancy just stood there, and looked this bloke square in the eye.

"The other bloke soon realized what he was up against and he quickly backed down. There's been no trouble since."

Youth Survives Plunge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A 21-year-old San Francisco youth is the third person known to have survived a leap from Golden Gate Bridge, duplicating a plunge taken by a friend who also lived to tell about it.

Gene Roberts, a runner for the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, was conscious when picked up from the water by a sail boat crew 246 feet below the bridge. Doctors at Letterman General Hospital said xrays showed no serious injury or broken bones.

The only apparent effect internally was pneumonia in the lower left lobe of the lung, likely due to inhaling sea water.

Outwardly, Roberts had only some abrasions on his left leg.

Robert Modrow, 19, of Berkeley, said her son had a history of psychotic problems and had been under care of a psychiatrist.

Mrs. Roberts told investigators her son had met Tom Tavner, 18, of Livermore, Calif., who leaped from the same general area of the bridge Jan. 11, 1965, and swam to a passing cargo ship.

The only other person known to survive a leap from the bridge was Australia was Ireland who jumped in 1941.

Since the bridge opened in May, 1937, there have been 31 known suicides.

Arabs Blame British For Deaths From Mine

ADEN (Reuters)—Aden today was paralyzed by a strike called by nationalist and union organizations to mourn six Arab children killed when a school bus was blown up by an anti-tank mine Sunday.

The driver of the bus was also killed and 14 other children hurt when the bus set off the mine buried three feet beneath a dirt track in the Sheikh Othman district.

The track is often used by British tanks. It was not known who planted the mine. But the Aden Labor Congress and one of the two leading nationalist organizations—the Egyptian-backed Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen—FLOSY—blamed the British.

It was one of the worst incidents in three years of violence in the protectorate.

The Associated Press said the mine was British made and quoted British officials as saying it probably came from stocks of weapons left behind in Egypt after the Suez crisis in 1956.

Flags on South Arabian federal government buildings flew at half staff as a three-day official mourning period began for the children—three boys and three girls. The government also closed all schools for the period.

The Aden Union Congress called international labor organizations in Cairo, Damascus, Prague and Brussels demanding that Britain be held responsible for the bus incident.

Huge Waves Drown Four

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Three teen - age brothers were presumed drowned when huge waves washed them into Lake Superior Sunday night, and a coast guardman drowned in a rescue attempt.

Police identified the youths as Erick Halverson, 18, and his twin 17-year-old brothers, Nathan and Art, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gene W. Halverson of Duluth.

Police said the dead coast guardsman was Edgar A. Culbertson, boatswain mate 1st class, stationed at Duluth.

Two other coast guardsmen in the rescue team were treated and released at a Duluth hospital.

Daring Skipper In Iceland Jail

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters)—Bernard (Bunny) Newton, 40, skipper of the British trawler Brandur, faced police questioning today over his audacious bid to escape with his ship from custody here and sail for Britain.

Newton has been in jail here since he and his 23-man crew were recaptured 11½ hours after they slipped out of Reykjavik harbor Saturday morning.

Sunday, Judge Armann Kristinson ruled that the six-foot 225-pound skipper should be kept in custody for the length of the case, or 30 days.

A police commissioner took evidence from two Icelandic policemen who were on board when the Brandur escaped, and was to question Newton today.

But the court case was not to proceed until Tuesday because May Day is a national holiday in Iceland.

The 760-ton Brandur, with 140,000 pounds of fish aboard, was first taken into custody here Tuesday after it was alleged to have fished illegally inside Iceland's 12-mile limit.

Employment News

The Belleville Canada Manpower Centre area extends north from the city of Belleville to beyond Lake St. Peter and south across the Bay of Quinte to include the villages of Ameliasburg and Mountain View. Thus, the Centre includes all of the County of Hastings, except part of the Township of Sidney and the Town of Deseronto, and in addition part of Prince Edward County covered by Ameliasburg Township, for a total area of 2,250 square miles. This area, extending as it does, South and north for a distance of 100 miles, presents a picture of diverse economy, with both primary and secondary industries, together with an increasing services field.

The role of the Canada Manpower Centre in the well-being of this area may be compared to an exchange where, free of charge and impartially, any person can turn for information, advice and assistance about employment and its related fields. Similar Canada Manpower Centres having the same objectives stretch across Canada from coast to coast.

With spring clean-up now imminent for lawns, flower beds and gardens, the Canada Manpower Centre has pleased to refer a suitable worker for this type of work.

The past week was a slow one for local female employment opportunities. Still required are a cafeteria manager, with the position calling for a good knowledge of cooking and the ability to prepare the menus, to organize and supervise the staff.

The position for an experienced counsellor is as yet unfilled at a retail store. The person preferred by the employer must be able to meet the public and know how to demonstrate the correct use of cosmetics. A sales clerk is in demand to sell ladies ready-to-wear clothing. She must be experienced in the displaying and selling of women's coats, suits and dresses. There are Public Service Commission competitions now open to residents of Belleville, Trenton and locality, calling for stenographers and typists.

In demand also are housekeeping maids, a seamstress and a kitchen help. Urgently required are registered nurses and registered nursing assistants. A refresher course would be given for those nurses who have been away from the nursing profession, if a sufficient number applies.

In the male division locally, there are two experienced bookkeepers required for permanent work in one case, some typing skill would be helpful. A salesman is needed by a food provisioning firm here as automobile is essential. A number of positions are available in the life insurance field. An industrial plant is looking for a cost clerk. Other positions are for a cylindrical grinder operator, a maintenance mechanic and an experienced machinist. Local farmers are seeking general farm hands, either single or married.

If interested in any of these positions, seeking other employment or thinking of re-entering the labor market, contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 324 Church Street, Belleville or telephone 962-8681.

Dandruff Is Really A Skin Disease

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain how a person can have oily hair and still have dandruff. Please describe some of keeping the scalp free from white scale and itching.—Mrs. B. C.

Oiliness has nothing to do with preventing dermatitis — that is, skin disease.

And that is the nub of the dandruff problem. People assume that dandruff is something that ought to "wash off" instead of regarding it as what it is: skin disease.

An occasional white speck doesn't mean dandruff. We are constantly shedding our skins, very slowly of course, but as the outer surface becomes dry, tiny bits will flake off. Friction and washing remove it from most of the body but the scalp, protected by the hair, often accumulates a few bits big enough to notice.

Real dandruff is another matter. Seborrheic dermatitis is at work. If it were on a part of the body that we could see, thing was wrong and required medical attention.

A mild case of dandruff, like a mild skin irritation elsewhere may clear up of its own accord, or with the help of a germicidal shampoo. Rubbing the scalp with a cotton pad soaked in rubbing alcohol may control the mild case of dandruff.

But when it is severe and continues, trying to treat it yourself is as futile as trying to treat a severe skin disease elsewhere. The smart thing then is to go to a dermatologist (skin specialist). The usual result is clearing up the trouble promptly instead of wasting a lot of time with home-made remedies, meantime brushing the white stuff off your shoulders.

Or, if it is psoriasis, for which no dependable cure is known, you can at least get some effective relief for itching and then hope that the psoriasis will clear up spontaneously, as it sometimes does.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the cause of yeast cells found in a urinalysis? Is it serious? Is some disease the cause? — Mrs. J. A.

This is usually a matter of contamination from a yeast infection of the vaginal tract that is, a form of vaginitis.

This is extremely common, and while not dangerous, can be annoying as well as difficult to subdue.

We usually think of "infection" in the sense of bacteria which cause disease, but there are other microscopic organisms which can infect the body. Fungi causing athlete's foot are an example.

There are other organisms which, if they invade the vagina, can flourish and be irritating. Yeast is one of these yeasts. Diabetes should always be considered as a possible factor in infections of this sort.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I injured my back last year and the doctor told me to get a steel back brace. I try to wear it but it gets so nervy and so badly.

The doctor said I have a ruptured disc and another disc chipped and if I don't wear the brace it could collapse. He says surgery is the only thing that can help a ruptured disc.

What is your idea on that? —Mrs. O. M.

My advice, based on specialists in that problem, is to be sure surgery is necessary, but if it is, have it done. The doctor who has examined you is by far the best qualified to know your condition. You can not stand the brace, and are in danger without it. I think that leaves one obvious answer: surgery.

Note to S.S.: If you talk to me with your complaint of jitters and fatigue, and told me you had "cut down to three hours of work a day" I'd ask one question first: How long since you've taken a vacation? Recreation, a change of scene or activity, is something we all need.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Board Official Hits Back at Shulman

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A member of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board testified Saturday his back at charges by Dr. Morton Shulman, former Metropolitan Toronto chief coroner, in connection with the March 31 fire in the board's Toronto hospital in which one patient died.

Without mentioning Dr. Shulman by name in a speech to the Ontario Provincial Police Union, Jack F. Cauley, vice-chairman of the compensation board, said: "We deeply resent the irresponsible charges made against us."

His speech, the first "answer to Dr. Shulman's charges by a member of the board, would serve to "repudiate the fiction" and "headline-grabbing statements."

Mr. Cauley said the charges contained "false statements, unsupported allegations and half-truths that damn by implication."

The early-morning fire in the rehabilitation centre's three-storey, 300-bed dormitory section killed Francesco Gualtieri, 30, of Toronto. Thirty-six other patients had to be treated for smoke inhalation and injuries suffered when some of them jumped from upper-floor windows. One is still in an other hospital with severe burns.

Dr. Shulman was fired a week after the fire because he ordered an immediate inquest into Gualtieri's death against the specific instructions of Dr. H. B. Cotnam, Ontario Chief coroner.

Dr. Shulman told reporters following his dismissal that the hospital was "shoddily built," poorly inspected by fire-prevention officials and that the building's ceiling tiles "burned like paper."

The hospital was not shoddily built, Mr. Cauley said. The architects, Page and Steele, received the Massey silver medal of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada for excellence in their design of the centre.

Both the architects and the builders, Anglin Norcross Ltd., were experienced, reputable firms and the construction plans had been approved by both the consulting experts and the fire and building departments of North York Township.

Mr. Cauley said the North York fire department inspected the centre at least 15 times since it was completed in 1958, the last time one week before the fire.

After Surviving Heavy Snow, Southern Alberta Fears Flood

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Main highways were plowed open of snow by single - lane traffic and transportation schedules approached near-normal today in storm-stricken south Alberta.

But the fear of flooding increased when a long - range weather forecast indicated 40-degree melting weather today and the possibility of snow and rain Tuesday and Wednesday.

More than three feet of soggy snow fell in two days, bringing the total April fall in the Lethbridge area to a record 63.7 inches. It plugged highways with 10-foot drifts thrown up by 50-mile-an-hour winds.

After a snow-free day of sun and light breezes Sunday, traffic moved slowly on main arteries, and bus and air service resumed.

At Claresholm, 35 miles northwest of Lethbridge, the temperature rose to 60 Sunday, although it was freezing in most other areas.

Rural roads were still blocked. Farm homes isolated and country schools closed.

Many areas still were without power after losing it Friday morning in the worst spring blizzard on record in southern Alberta.

Cattle losses, expected to be in the thousands, are still to be tabulated. Many herds remained unfed. There were scattered reports of homes short of food, but police reported "no real emergency calls" in the country.

One death was attributed to the two - day storm. John Obbagy, 65, of Lethbridge was believed to have suffered a heart attack while shovelling snow outside his home Saturday.

Helicopters began a massive airlift of feed to stranded cattle Sunday. Milk and food supplies were to start moving again today in urban centres.

"We're over the hump as far as immediate effects go," an RCMP officer said. But heavy economic loss to cattle, grain and vegetable farmers is an inevitable result yet to become known.

The city of 37,000 was paralyzed Saturday, but streets were being opened Sunday and electricity restored. Highway crews struggled through the night to open up rural areas.

Canadian Army, USAF and Alberta government helicopters were expected to spend days dropping hay and feed to cattle many without food for three or more days.

Horses, helicopters and tobogans were used on merry mission among them getting milk to a three - month - old baby stranded since Thursday with three other Indian children near Magrath.

Stranded travellers Sunday began to trickle toward their destinations.

One woman, trying to hitch a ride to west of Lethbridge, said: "I haven't seen my three children for three days." The oldest is 15 and they were alone.

Federal engineers had warned of a flood danger increased by the 27 inches of snow which fell two weeks ago. But earlier forecasts indicated near - freezing temperatures would hold and thawing would be slowed.

Whatever happens, farmers don't expect to be able to get on the land until at least mid-May, three weeks later than usual, to plant grain, sugar beets, canning peas and other crops.

Near Claresholm, an army helicopter dropped tons of hay to cattle bunched in coulees and bush. Some 30,000 head were stranded in that heavily-drifted area.

At New Dayton, southeast of Lethbridge, a baby boy was born by candlelight to the wife of farm worker William Heninger. Neighbors assisted with instructions telephoned by a doctor.

The episode forced postponement Saturday of the wedding of Gerald Weber, 23, who came from Calgary by truck vehicle. His fiance's family had to assist at the birth.

Weary Emergency Measures Organization officials were to start a feed - dropping and road clearing drive today. Welfare Minister J. C. Halmrast and agriculture Minister Harry Strom were to tour the area.

Snowmobile clubs, horse owners and drivers pitched in to help ferry food, biomical patients and doctors. Radio station CJOC in Lethbridge ran a 24-hour service of public messages and news.

Grounded Ship Total Loss

HALIFAX (CP) — The Liberian freighter Costaricao Trader, hung on a rocky ledge near the approaches to Halifax harbor, appears headed for scrapping.

The 4,100-ton freighter, driven on the rocks by high winds and heavy seas Friday, was declared a total loss by a salvage official Sunday.

The spokesman for Foundation Maritime Ltd. said that to try to pull off the jagged rocks would be "like trying to reflect a sieve."

"The attempt would involve much more than a normal salvage job. The ship would have to be practically rebuilt where it is before we could try to get it off the rocks."

Two sea-going tugs made an unsuccessful attempt to pull her off the shoreline but abandoned the effort when tow lines broke.

The Costarican's 26 crewmembers walked off the vessel Friday when a gangplank was lowered to the base of a granite cliff less than 10 yards from the freighter.

Looters were reported to have stripped the vessel of almost everything portable Saturday.

Boy, 14, Killed Sisters

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne County authorities said Sunday a 14-year-old boy participated in a glue-sniffing party a short time before he allegedly killed two young sisters in suburban Westland Friday.

Prosecutor William L. Cahalan said the youth, whose name was withheld because of his age, had been charged with murder.

He said the boy would be tried as a juvenile, rather than an adult in the double slaying.

The Westland police chief, Garrison Clayton, said investigation showed the accused boy, with two other boys and one girl, had sniffed glue a couple of hours before the double slaying.

Dr. Edward Domine of the University of Michigan medical school explained that after a few minutes of glue sniffing the user gets "high," the same kind of feeling that is caused by drinking alcoholic beverages.

Police said some empty glue kits and two fresh tubes of the glue were found in the wooded area near the battered, nude bodies of Deborah Louise Crocker, 8, and her sister, Kimberly, 6.

The girls were slain as they headed across a field from school to their home. Police said the girls had been strangled and molested.

Three Slain By Youth

GILMER, Tex. (AP)—A 16-year - old school student was charged Saturday night with the shotgun slayings of his father, mother and grandfather during a family quarrel. Sheriff Doyle Johnson said the boy admitted the shootings after being advised of his rights.

Jerry Hadaway, a six-foot, two-inch high school student, was held without bail.

He is accused of killing his father, Dale Hadaway, 44, his mother, Dorothy, 33, and his grandfather, Ernest . Hadaway, 71. Their bodies were found Saturday in a shallow grave about 200 yards from their white frame house.

Nurses Seeking $6000 Minimum

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario called Saturday for a minimum annual salary of $6,000 and a starting salary of $7,680 for those with university training.

The average minimum salary for registered nurses now is $4,800.

Delegates approved the salary goals as the three-day convention of the association ended. They also called for annual holiday of four weeks or 20 working days.

Convention delegates approved a suggestion that membership in the association be compulsory in the hope that membership fees, raised to $35 from $20 this year, might be reduced.

Britain Will Seek Euromart Entry

LONDON (Reuters) — The British government today decided to make another application for membership in the European Common Market, authoritative sources said today.

The decision, reached four years after French President de Gaulle vetoed Britain's first bid to join the European Economic Community, was to be announced in Parliament this afternoon by Prime Minister Wilson.

The formal decision on the historic move was reached at a meeting of the cabinet presided over by Wilson this morning. It lasted two hours and 45 minutes.

Wilson went to Buckingham Palace Monday night to inform the Queen of the agreement reached among his ministers—some with profound reservations—to reopen the long and arduous campaign for entry into the six-nation European Economic Community.

No one was playing down the difficulties involved in negotiating entry or the economic hardships Britain would endure for a time in adjusting to unprotected competition for Europe.

Even if President de Gaulle of France paid up no insurmountable barriers, as he did in 1963, the most optimistic Britons do not expect a successful conclusion before 1968.

Wilson was expected to make plain in his Commons statement that Britain will need time to fit in with EEC's trading rules.

Aides said the prime minister intends also to stress that Britain's Commonwealth and other partners will need a period of transition to adjust to losing their commercial privileges in dealings with the United Kingdom.

Wilson and his colleagues are hopeful that the leaders of the Common Market nations will take up their application at a summit meeting in Rome later this month. De Gaulle, however, has been reported unwilling to take part in discussions.

Barring a flat "no" to Britain, serious negotiations with the EEC may begin in the fall with the likelihood of dragging on for 18 months or two years.

Wilson's path to the new application was made easier than predicted by a lack of unity among members of his Labor party who oppose joining the Common Market.

Monday night a group of left wing members of Parliament decided to postpone publication of a 1,500-word statement setting out arguments against the move. They had failed to get at least 62 signatures of members for the statement.

The left wingers urged "a wider Europe" embracing the Common Market, the British-led European Free Trade Association and the Communist powers "as a step towards a world community."

Truckers Will Fight Refinancing by CNR

MONTREAL (CP)— Georges Gouin, president of the Canadian Truckers' Association, said Monday Canadian truck owners are preparing a major campaign to halt the Canadian National Railways' proposed $900,000,000 refinancing program.

The program would give the railways an unfair advantage at the taxpayers' expense over private enterprise, Mr. Gouin said in an interview on the opening day of the week-long Canadian and Quebec Truckers Association annual convention.

The recognition of truckers on an equal footing with other means of transportation in the new Federal Transportation Act, means the truckers association has come of age in the space of a year, he said.

The main victory for the truckers was an end to federal subsidization of railways on competitive runs.

The association also was campaigning to end the $17,000,000-a-year subsidy to the railways under the Maritime Freight Rate Act.

Expo's Fringe Benefits To Outweigh Cash Loss

MONTREAL (CP)—Expo 67 took a look at itself today and decided it is a plus factor in the country's economy.

"Tax revenues and indirect financial benefits far outweigh the loss to be incurred by the physical operation of Expo 67 itself," Expo said in a study released to the press.

"There is little doubt Expo will have a far-reaching effect on the economy."

Expo, established by the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 World Exhibition is owned 50-per-cent by the Canadian government, 31½ by the government of Quebec and 12½ by the city of Montreal.

The study says that the six-year task of building, operating and phasing out Expo, the corporation has budgeted $378,000,000 a year.

Total revenues have been estimated at $242,000,000. Taxation realized from activities on the site is estimated at $135,000,000.

The study says that additional money which will flow into Canada as a result of the exhibition will total about $1,000,000,000. It reasons that tourist expenditures, now in the order of $600,000,000 a year, will be boosted by a further $400,000,000 this year. More than half of this additional revenue would be spent outside Expo's gates.

Another angle was possible revenue that tourist expenditures on holidays outside the country. Expo estimated these Canadian expenditures at $500,000,000 yearly.

But this year many Canadians could be expected to stay home to visit the fair.

The study said that if only 10 per cent forgo their holidays in the United States or abroad, some $50,000,000 in foreign exchange will have been retained in the country.

The study also looked into foreign trade and Expo's International Trade Centre which provides a meeting place for visiting businessmen and their Canadian counterparts.

"The idea of this centre has been well and truly sold to the world business community."

"Canada's ambassadors and, trade commissioners urged governments and foreign firms to participate in Expo.

11 MiGs Destroyed In One Day

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers inflicted the heaviest aircraft destruction of the war on North Vietnam Monday, destroying 11 Communist MIG-17 interceptors in the air and on the ground, the American command reported today.

As the North took another pounding in the intensified air war, heavy fighting flared across South Vietnam from the Central Highlands to the Mekong Delta. American infantry suffered their heaviest losses in the delta fighting, where 16 were killed and 40 were wounded.

The ground forces were supported by fighter-bombers that attacked Communist positions in the South with a record 625 sorties Monday.

In a delayed report, the American command announced the loss of three U.S. Air Force F - 105 Thunderchiefs during raids over North Vietnam Sunday, including two shot down by MiG-21s and one from unknown causes. The four crew members were listed as missing. The losses brought to 528 the number of American planes reported lost over North Vietnam, including 35 shot down by MiGs.

Hanoi radio claimed the North Vietnamese Air Force shot down three U.S. planes Monday while ground forces downed a fourth during the record day of MiG kills. But the U.S. command did not announce any losses for the day.

"I had no idea the recent coup was so violent."

Punishment Burns Fatal To Boy of 3

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A pathologist told an Ontario Supreme Court judge and jury Monday that Sidney James Watson, 3, of London, died last Dec. 24 as the result of emaciation and dehydration and infected third-degree burns that covered 25 per cent of his body.

Dr. John Fisher, regional pathologist with the attorney-general's department, was testifying at the trial of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Charles Watson, who are charged with manslaughter in the boy's death.

They have pleaded not guilty.

In statements to police, read in court earlier, the parents each admitted holding their son in hot water for a minute Dec. 15 to punish him for messing his pants. The parents applied vaseline and gauze dressing on burns to the boy's buttocks and feet, but he was not treated by a doctor, court was told.

Dr. Fisher said blood-poisoning in the infected, ulcerated areas resulting from the burns caused the boy's death.

Write City Hall

Champion of Welfare Cause Asks Relief From Queries

Last winter's investigation into complaints regarding the operation of the city's welfare department has been completed for more than two months, but at least one member of the special investigating committee is not being allowed to forget the matter.

Alderman Enos David, who made a minority committee report to council asking that the tenure of office of the local welfare administrator be reviewed, says an average of four to five persons call his home every day. This number some days reaches as many as 10 or 12.

The many calls are answered by Mrs. David who has an arthritic condition and is under doctor's orders to have regular daytime rest.

"I am entirely sympathetic with the people calling my home, but there is nothing I can do," Mr. David says.

"The matter is now in the hands of city council and I suggest that these people write to the mayor and city council stating their case."

A week ago city council voted to request Reginald Tucker, of the provincial department of welfare, to come in Belleville to review the operation of the city welfare department from 1963 to the present.

Today City Manager J. R. Reynolds said Mr. Tucker had not yet arrived in the city and was not expected for possibly another week.

Military Honors for Flyers

TRENTON — Six men — the same number that died in the fiery death of a CFB Trenton-based RCAF Hercules aircraft Thursday night — bore Sergeant Adrian Voogt to his final resting place yesterday morning.

Sgt. Voogt, 34, was one of two Trenton area residents to die in the spectacular crash that claimed the lives of six CFB Trenton airmen engaging in a routine training operation.

A 30-man guard of honor and a band contingent escorted Sgt. Voogt full military honors in a procession from St. George's Church and at his graveside in the parish cemetery.

Only the rear of a low-flying Hercules flying directly overhead broke the bright morning air as Sgt. Voogt — acting flight engineer on the ill-fated aircraft — was carried by his comrades from the service in the church.

Sgt. Voogt's residence was in the mobile village at RR 2, Trenton, where he lived with his wife Winnifred, and son, James Adrian, 3.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Voogt, Sr. of Jasper, Ont.

Yesterday afternoon, a military service for Flight Lieutenant Donald Buchner, who piloted the aircraft at the time of the tragedy, was held in the CFB Trenton Southside Protestant Chapel, before cremation in Toronto.

In his 36th year, F/L Buchner is survived by his wife Jean, R.R. 2, Carrying Place, and three children — Daniel 11, David 10 and Susan 1 — all at home.

He was the son of Mr. George Buchner and the late Marguerite Buchner, 2nd brother of Carol Buchner, Leamington, Ont.

Services for the four student airmen members who died in the crash were to be held in Montreal, Nova Scotia, and Alberta.

Commander of Air Transport Command, Air Commodore Chester Hull, and Group Captain D. R. Adamson, CFB Trenton Base Commander, attended yesterday's services.

Taxpayer Breathes Late Sigh

It's all over — even may be the shouting.

As of today, the all - clear sounds and the prompt taxpayer is reassured he's played his part keeping Canada safe for democracy — at least for one more year.

Yesterday saw the deadline for filing of 1966 income tax returns — and from now on the paper work rests almost exclusively with that official watchdog of national solvency — the tax collector.

In Belleville, the time limit saw the usual last - minute rush of feverish fibers, anxious to avoid further complications by deadline delinquency.

But, the situation likely was greatly eased this year also when the Department of National Revenue staged a publicity campaign to convince taxpayers the tax collector was also a friendly counselor.

In all local offices spent nearly 3,000 hours justifying National Revenue's claim that the department's tax bite was worse than its officials' bark.

More than 6,700 people turned up seeking guidance in personal interviews and another 4,400 telephoned.

Armory Facelift $250,000

PICTON (STAFF) — Mayor H. J. McFarland told Picton Town Council Monday night that the Standard Trust Co. of Toronto will spend between $250,000 and $500,000 in renovations to the Picton Armory. The building was purchased by the town and resold to the trust company in a recent transaction.

The mayor said architects are at present working on plans for the renovations and that, construction is expected to get under way in the near future.

Changes include the removal of the two wings at the front of the building and the removal of the first 12 feet of the structure. Up to date trust company offices will be erected in the front of the existing building.

Some of the features in the construction will be the inclusion of public washrooms — a paved parking area for the public and staff, located at the rear of the building, and a public park at the front of the building. The mayor added that the plans will fulfill previous plans of council to erect public washrooms in the downtown area.

He further noted, all available help in the construction and possibly some or as much as possible of the managerial staff of the company will utilize local help. Construction may employ as many as 25 local workers.

The mayor also announced that the $7,500, which was taken out of the town's parking fund to purchase the armory, will be returned to the fund as a result of the building sale. No proposal as yet has been offered on the property but the $1,500 profit netted as a result of the transaction.

It is hoped, he added, that a surplus will be shown on next year's budget.

The armory will remain available for local use until construction of the new office building starts sometime in the next two months. The trust company has tax free, "and if" til construction is completed or no longer that Dec. 31 1968

Men of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment turned out in full battle kit last night for annual inspection. Colonel T. deFaye, area army commander from Kingston gave ranks the official once-over.

Hasty Pees in Full Battle Dress Parade for Inspection

Without the accompaniment of the traditional martial music, the Canadian Defence Force Regiment paraded before officialdom last night at the annual inspection.

Stand-to-rested infantrymen in full battle dress swung easy as the reviewing dais is precision like marching.

Colonel T. deFaye, commander of the Eastern Ontario District, Kingston, was the inspecting officer.

He conducted a close inspection pausing before practically every soldier. He was accompanied by the regimental commanding officer Lieut-Colonel H. D. K. Wilkenson.

The rank and file showed results of excellent training in their various manoeuvres on the parade floor.

They were equally efficient in the demonstrations of the various phases of training.

They appeared at ease wearing camouflaged helmets and carrying heavy battle packs with bayonetted rifles.

In his post-parade address to the troops, Col- deFaye said "You are doing an excellent job serving the government with your time of service. You are a credit to your forebears who fought in the great world wars."

"You are proud, I am sure that you belong to a famous regiment that wrote a glowing page in the history of Canada."

"You are doing something worthwhile for which no battle my greatest admiration. I hope you will go on and do the best you can. I am very proud of you."

Following the parade Col. de Faye presented company trophies and an individual award.

The best company award went to the Cadre Company. The Rifle Company won the miniature range competition trophy and the rifle small bore competition award winners were the Training Company.

Perhaps the proudest soldier on parade was Private Peter Rosa named as the outstanding recruit. He received the award and personal congratulations from the inspecting officer.

Mother Pessimistic About Return of Son Missing Since Feb. 8

TRENTON — The exhaustive public and police efforts to locate a missing 10-year-old Burlington area girl have reminded area residents that there is still a local mystery unsolved. Yesterday was Brian Thorpe's 12th birthday, but there was no celebration in the second-story apartment where Brian's mother Ellen lives with her other son, 14-year-old Robert.

No one has reported seeing the slightly-built youngster since he left a "Coke-and-record" get-together at a friend's north Trenton home the evening of Feb. 8.

Under a doctor's care and noticeably thinner since her youngest son's disappearance, Ellen Thorpe has been forced into pessimism in the face of fruitless police attempts to turn up a clue to Brian's whereabouts. Not a hint in countless door-to-door police checks, nor a single result from bulletins sent out across the continent.

"It's not easy to admit, but he must be in the river," she will say. "The police seem to think so, and now, so do I."

A story that Brian was last seen driving away in a white station wagon with an unidentified man was the basis of initial optimism, of a sort, that the boy was alive, even if in some sort of danger.

Thorough checks of the report, however, yielded nothing concrete, and suspicions grew that Brian had fallen into the winter-bound Trent River while walking across a foot-bridge serving as a short cut on his mile and a half hike home.

Speculations of this sort were strengthened when station-wide police checks and bulletins failed to turn up the missing boy.

Ellen Thorpe reads and hears reports of the scouring of the Burlington area for 10-year-old Marianne Schmidt with some despair. Marianne, like Brian was last reported seen getting into a car near her school with an unknown man, and hasn't been seen since Thursday.

But there the semblance between the two cases ends.

There were no $5,000 in rewards offered for information leading to discovery of Brian's whereabouts, nor was there a mass ground search by 12,000 private citizens, as there was this week around Burlington.

And no one can quite fathom why there has yet to be a request made for assistance to CFB Trenton's Search and Rescue Unit, which is powerless to take the initiative in civilian matters.

For Ellen Thorpe, it means a nerve-wracking existence, not sure what a knock at her door may bring, not being able to abandon mother's hope, yet fearful of optimism of any sort. But worst of all, not being able to bake a little cake with 12 candles on it.

Police Check Quinte Area After Driver Stops Girl

Provincial police hastily checked the Belleville area late today after an 11-year-old girl claimed she was stopped by a man resembling a suspect in the disappearance of a Burlington area child.

It was the second such report in the city area since an artist's drawing of the suspect — wanted in last Thursday's feared kidnapping of 10-year-old Marianne Schmidt—was published province - wide yesterday.

Police said the report from the Belleville-district youngster arrived too late to aid quick action.

The girl, resident near Thurlow township's second concession, about two miles west of Belleville, was sent home for books from a nearby school.

When she arrived home, say police, she told her mother she had been stopped en route by a man who tried to entice her into his automobile.

The girl claimed the man resembled the picture she had seen in last night's newspaper. Her mother then drove her back to school and phoned police.

However, said officers, time lapse between the occurrence and the time it was reported was more than an hour.

"You can never throw out the possibility it might be a suspect," said one officer. "At the same time, they should phone right away and let us know."

Last night city police also checked out a report from restaurant owner Gus Christopher that he may have served the suspect.

Police said Christopher told them a man resembling the suspect had breakfast at his Golden Mile restaurant on North Front Street about 8 a.m. Monday.

A foreign - made station wagon also is being sought in connection with the Schmidt case.

Housing Bylaw Need Endorsed at Trenton

TRENTON — Town council has agreed with councillor Paul Tripp that a minimum housing standards bylaw should be enacted "as soon as legally possible."

The approval of a resolution to this effect climaxed discussions that such municipal legislation was the key to solving certain and continuing property problems plaguing Cedar St. area residents for a number of years.

Mrs. Lois Richter, a familiar face in council chambers for the past several months, told councillors last evening the skunk situation in her neighborhood was reaching an acute problem, with the striped pests now having "graduated from the backyards to the sidewalks."

Several homeowners in the Cedar St. area recently had to have their homes fumigated because of the presence of the odorous intruders. Mrs. Richter and others had complained shabby homes and yards were attracting the vermin.

Councillor Tripp moved that council act on a recommendation by councillor Edward Todd's Protection to Persons and Property Committee that a minimum standards bylaw be put on the town books.

Councillor Todd's report suggested a three-member body to "police" such a bylaw, to consist of one resident from each side of the town, and a "neutral" party.

Also approved was a suggestion received by letter from absent councillor D. R. Fraser that a pest control firm be consulted by the town with regard to the Cedar St. problem. In his letter, councillor Fraser noted the importance of a minimum housing standard law, to be used more as a "lever" than a "weapon" to improve both property values, and morale of homowners in the affected areas.

Council agreed, however, that it would be important to consult legal counsel to determine the enforceability of such legislation.

Clerk-comptroller W. W. Larry told council the town can at present demand a homeowner bring up his property for only three reasons — if an unsafe structure is contravening the building bylaw, or if a property constitutes a fire or health hazard.

He added there would be a number of delays involved in legislation. "In the first place, we don't have the power to pass it until it is part of an official plan," said Mr. Larry. "And then the matter must go to an Ontario Municipal Board hearing."

In the meantime, suggested Councillor Duncan McDonald, council could consider promoting other seasonal cleanup campaigns in addition to the existing spring campaign, which is proving an overwhelming success.

Mayor James MacDonald doubted the efficacy of trying to enforce a bylaw "telling people how to keep house."

"We've been telling certain homeowners to tidy up their property before, and got letters back from them telling us to mind our own damned business."

76 Trombones?... This Close It Sounds That Way!

Actually the big blast in the ear of Belleville Collegiate music teacher Clifford Templer comes from nine trombones. However, it's still a pretty powerful combination — which is a keynote idea of tomorrow night's concert at BCI. The trombonists are part of a powerful 100-piece brass band presentation assembled from three city high schools for special centennial year music night.

Clinic Seeks to Expand

"We would like to increase our mental and emotional assistance to children in the schools," says Dr. C. R. Lenk, Medical Officer for the County Health Unit.

The number of children in public schools who need some kind of emotional help seems to warrant better facilities.

There are specific areas that could be improved.

"One of the problems of education is the lack of facilities for below-average students," agrees Dr. E. B. Conn.

At present, students who are in need of psychological assistance are referred to the Mental Health Clinic by physicians, health nurses or principals.

There are a number of reasons why some students are sent to the clinic. A teacher may feel that a particular student is able to do better. There may be a behavior problem or an emotional problem which is rooted at home.

Surprisingly there are quite a few children visiting the clinic. Some preschoolers who are suspected of retardation are brought to the psychologists.

Will Rebuild 5-mile Stretch of Tweed Road

Rebuilding of a final five mile stretch of 37 highway between Belleville and Tweed is expected this spring as the H. J. McFarland Construction Company gets ready for grading operations on the Plainfield by-pass.

The Tweed highway is to be rebuilt from just north of O'Brien's Bridge to south of Roslin with curves straightened and the village of Plainfield by-passed to the west.

During the winter the right-of-way on the by-pass was brushed out and big trees on the roadside were removed in readiness for road widening. New fencing is now being erected on the widened right of way.

Also during the winter months some culvert construction was completed.

Urban Renewal Plan Nearer

TRENTON — A resolution approved by town council last night brings Trenton a step closer to realizing some of the major urban renewal objectives town fathers have been fostering for years.

After four years to digest the materials urban renewal report submitted, by Project Planning Associates Ltd. of Toronto, council had resolved to initiate some of the recommendations in their study concerning "blight" areas on either side of the Trent River.

First stage of long range face - lifting plan was unveiled in the form of a 10 - month study program, estimated to involve a total cost of almost $33,000.

The town will make application for a 75 per cent subsidy of the study, with 30 per cent ($17,400) requested from General Mortgage and Housing Corporation, and 25 per cent ($8,700) sought from the provincial government. The requests are made pursuant to the National Housing Act.

Under the supervision of Trenton's planning board, Project Planning Associates Ltd. would be asked to make specific recommendations for improvements to the river side of Front St., between the C.P.R. and C.N.R. lines, and to a central section of the town's east side, bounded by Crown St. on the north, and running south to Bay St.

The first of the proposed scheme studies will cost an estimated $10,000 over a six - month period; the east Trenton report is expected to involve $25,000 for eight months' compilation.

Clerk - comptroller O. W. Larry said the procedure required to launch the studies might well mean several months before the necessary approval is received.

Like the original overall study of 1963, the specific reports would be directed toward establishing a municipal urban renewal program to guard against dwellings in the community falling below an acceptable minimum standard of maintenance and occupancy."

Police Brief

Search without warrant . . . preventive detention . . . psychiatric examinations for magistrates. These are some of the radical suggestions contained in a controversial brief issued by the Canadian Association of Police Chiefs.

Not surprisingly the brief has run into strong opposition from members of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association, members of parliament of all shades of political opinion, and the general public.

What has been revealed of the brief is a clear enough indication that if its recommendations were adopted Canada would come very close to being a police state as charged by some critics.

Yet Vancouver's Chief Ralph Booth, the association's president, complains that the brief has not been thoroughly read. At the same time he says society must be prepared to give up some of its liberties so that crime can be fought more effectively. If it were not prepared to do so, he suggests, "then society must suffer the consequences."

Chief Booth might have been on firmer ground if he had indicated just what consequences he fears this country has yet to face. Is the Mafia about to institute a reign of terror? Is Toronto or Vancouver, or any of the other larger centres, about to become another bank robbers' paradise, like Montreal? What are Canadians being asked to prepare for that the police, as presently constituted, and under existing powers, cannot cope with?

These are pertinent questions which Chief Booth should answer adequately before advocating such sweeping powers. Even the United States, where crime is assuming dangerous proportions, does not permit search without a warrant. Nor do its laws embrace preventive detention. If Canada were to allow such a violation of citizens' rights, even in the name of law and order, it would be a departure from democratic principles and citizens' rights entirely out of keeping with our traditions.

Better than adopting such a course Canada should concentrate on enlarging the police forces of the country and maintaining them at a high degree of efficiency and preparedness. The police in this country do a good job on the whole. And if they lack anything in the performance of their duties it is public support. More of them then, and more public-spirited citizens who do not turn a blind eye in times of need, are two of the basic needs of law enforcement today.

Away From It All

Life is beginning to stir on the vacation scene in Canada — and while all roads for most people — those within easy distance at least — lead to Expo, there are also the quiet, peaceful, holiday resorts of Quinte closer at hand.

Down around West Lake there are signs of Spring season activity.The fields are plowed and the brown earth prepared for the ultimate harvesting of the land. A tractor lurches across the edge of a field toward the road, its day's work done. And there are children at play and one little girl and her German Shepherd are getting out of woodsy smoke from burning wood or leaves at the roadside.

And the word at the generalitore is that some campers have been braving recent cool nights at the Outlet. There is a friendly atmosphere among the campers, among residents and visitors alike. There is time for some chat, a little banter, conversation about family, friends, fishing and the coming season.

A woman says to an acquaintance "It's Neighbour," and she sounds as if she means it, but the city dweller, happening along, may be forgiven for thinking perhaps he has wandered into some movie set. For here pressure seems absent, the city is forgotten, the people are real. The effect is almost traumatic in an instant one senses the difference between urban and rural life, between suburban anxiety on the one hand and a feeling of spaciousness — of freedom as much as environment — on the other.

Wander at this time among the Sandbanks, as the sun goes dowrf, amid the foames and out of sight of anyone save the young couple who appear suddenly over a sandy rise. He pushes her down the slope and she cries out at the fun of it and they might be some beings from another world, in this strange primeval place.

Only the evidence of man's neglect disturbs the scene. The litter and the broken glass are still there, even in these early days of the season — a rebuke to man's carelessness and his nigh-infinite capacity for spoiling and laying waste any area of natural beauty.

Other than that the Sandbanks still stand, unique and remote, by the silent shoreline. Is it too much to hope with the summer tourist season not yet fully under way that people will respect this area, that they will refrain from breaking bottles and scattering litter to the four winds?

Tories Crave Social Credit PM's Secret of Perpetual Youth

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Coming right out with it publicly for the first time, big "C" Conservative Party President Dalton Camp says he hopes to forge a united front nationally of all small "C" conservative political forces.

And he adds, quite frankly, that to be viable as an alliance of all conservative-minded Canadians, if must, of necessity, include an alignment with Social Credit.

Other Conservatives, of both the large "C" and small variety, have wanted precisely this scene — but so far elusive — united political front.

The last open bid for it was made by former Conservative Justice Minister Davie Fulton that January night, going on five years ago, in the Commons, when the Diefenbaker government fell.

Fulton rushed across the floor in panic, while the Division bells were ringing, pleading for former Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson's support, offering him a Cabinet post, and, of course, an inter-party alliance in payment for it.

Thompson spurned it, voting with the Liberal Opposition to topple the Diefenbaker Conservatives from power.

This time it is not really the tiny band of Federal Socreds, fractured between Real Caouette's Creditistes and Alex Patterson's Social Creditors that Dalton Camp and other small "c" conservatives find so politically attractive.

Rather, it is the Social Credit powerhouse of the Far West.

Specifically, it is British Columbia Premier Bennett's organization and Alberta Premier Manning's personal prestige.

These are two very highly regarded political assets, especially among conservative Conservatives who have talked and dreamed of such a leader as Manning.

They see him as the nation's most successful politician, eyeing with serious admiration his unmatched record of 24 —

Nova Scotia's Heavy Water Plant Is Bid for More Industry

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP) — Nova Scotia officially opened one of the major keys in its drive for modern industrialization Monday, with the inauguration of an $83,000,000 heavy water plant.

The opening, held in this depressed coal mining town on Cape Breton Island, was called by Premier Stanfield a door to the future and a symbol of hope.

Before the end of the decade, he said, Nova Scotia will see $175,000,000 invested in a heavy water industry and the power services it needs.

On the books is a $65,000,000 heavy water plant to be built by Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd.; and that, Mr. Stanfield said, will make Nova Scotia the heavy water centre of the world.

Heavy water is the central part of Canada's program to develop electrical power through nuclear energy.

It is derived by a complicated process from ordinary water, and used as a moderator, it slows and controls the fission of uranium in reactors.

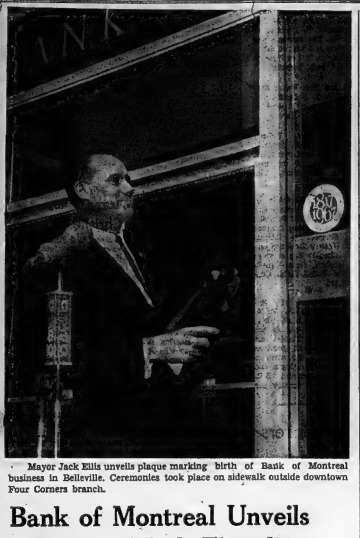
The Canadian emphasis, on the heavy water reactor, which uses ordinary uranium as a fuel, is competing with the United States process of using enriched uranium as a fuel.

So far heavy water reactors are being set up by Canada in India and Pakistan, but officials say the outlook for future expansion is good.

Heavy water reactors cost more to build but are cheaper to operate.

The plant opened Monday is capable of producing 200-tons of heavy water a year, but plans call for production to be doubled next year.

Output is to be sold to Atomic Energy Commission Ltd., a Crown corporation, for 10 years at an average price of $18.15 a pound.



After that the plant will look for its own markets, Jerome Spevack, president of Deuterium of Canada Ltd., said.

The heavy water plant now is owned by Nova Scotia, but it was set-up originally as a 50-50 deal between Deuterium of Canada, a subsidiary of Deuterium Corporation of the United States and Industrial Estates Ltd., a corporation established by the Nova Scotia government to help industry settle in the province.

Nova Scotia bought Deuterium of Canada's share last August when the company ran into financing trouble.

Health Minister MacEachen said in a statement that negotiations have been completed for the Atomic Energy Commission to buy the increased output of the heavy water plant after it is expanded next year.

He called the plant Cape Breton's economic equivalent to Expo 67 and "one that puts us in the vanguard of the nuclear age."

Mayor Jack Ellis unveils plaque marking birth of Bank of Montreal business in Belleville. Ceremonies took place on sidewalk outside downtown Four Corners branch.

Bank of Montreal Unveils Plaque to Mark Founding

M it's what's up front that counts the Bank of Montreal in downtown Belleville has a current asset spelled out on its main entrance.

In this case it does count since it emphasizes a cherished tradition of banking — the long - term relationship between the banker and client.

Unveiled yesterday on the facade of the B of M's Four Corners offices was a plaque marking the institution's personal banking relationships with the city for 128 years.

It was uncovered by Mayor Jack Ellis at a simple sidewalk ceremony attended by leading members of the city's business community.

The ceremony was as unostentatious as the plaque itself.

However, the small bronze tablet bespeaks a golden relationship, that saw the banks operations pacing city growth through the years.

The Bank of Montreal established a Belleville branch in 1843 — when the population was only 3,000.

It emerged from a one-room establishment to various locations in the business sector, finally settling in 1922 in what became the centre of city commerce — its present Four Corners site.

It has also occupied a central position in city finances in more ways than one. For the past 70 years it also has been banker for city hall, Mayor Ellis recalled.

Yesterday's ceremony also marked the 150th anniversary of the bank's foundation in Canada, manager Al Cameron told the small group of spectators.

Mr. Cameron is the 19th official to manage Belleville branch operations since the bank opened here.

Buy Back Canada Theory "Leads to Frustration"

MONTREAL (CP)—W. Earle McLaughlin, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said Monday economists who want to "buy back Canada" as a Centennial project would lead the country to "frustration and irrational behavior."

Speaking to the Canadian Club of Montreal, Mr. McLaughlin defined his impressions of the "buy back Canada" school of economic nationalism.

"It is becoming clear in the discussion to date that the root is not to exclude foreign investment. The goal is simply to reduce the kind of foreign investment in Canada that involves the direct ownership of Canadian resources.

"The proponents of the buy-back scheme, therefore, while recognizing that the Canadian economy needs an inflow of foreign capital, prefer fixed-interest investment - changing the form of foreign investment from equity to debt."

"Buying back Canada" was therefore only a catchy phrase that really meant "borrowing back Canada."

Referring to "a common Canadian affliction—the neurotic fear of foreign debt," Mr. McLaughlin said such fears stem from the view that what is usually called "our massive foreign debt" will go across Great Bay of Judgment, have to be paid.

This, it was feared, could end in national bankruptcy, with Canada "spending most of her second century in a kind of international debtors' prison."

Picton Bank Has Plaque

PICTON (Staff) — A bronze plaque was unveiled here this morning commemorating three millennium in banking history, by Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton. The tablet was installed to observe the establishment of Picton's first bank (June 1846), the centenial of Confederation and the 150th anniversary of the Bank of Montreal.

Bank manager Gordon Odell said it was the first permanent bank in the county and one of the first 13 offices opened by the Bank of Montreal.

The first premises were in a one-storey house on Main Street and later in 1846 an office was located near the Custom House and the wharves.

The branch was established nine years after the two pioneering communities of Hallowell and Picton were incorporated under the latter name. All traffic in and out of Picton was by water and most of the residents were engaged in growing barley for export to the United States.

The Picton branch issued its own bills in small denominations until the first standard native Canadian currency was issued by the Bank of Montreal.

Thalidomide Babies Face New Crisis

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Swedish parents of thalidomide babies now preparing to start school face a tragic new problem.

Some of the children now realize that they are not normal and are asking: "Why have we no arms and legs like other children?"

Swedish school authorities and medical experts are pooling resources to ensure as normal an education as possible for the handicapped children. Some will go to ordinary schools, others will be taught in special schools.

A total of 230 thalidomide babies—children born deformed after their mothers had taken thalidomide pills during pregnancy—were born in Sweden between 1960 and 1962. Exactly half of them have since died.

"Of the remainder, about 20 will start school this year," said Dr. Karin Hellgren, child psychiatrist at the Eugenia Children's Home here.

"The tragedy now is that many of these babies are old enough to understand that they are not like other children. We have advised parents to be honest and to tell their children that their deformities happened when they were 'growing in mommy's stomach'."

More than half of all Swedish thalidomide babies receive treatment and training in the Eugenia home, shortly to be extended.

Dr. Stig Jonsson says that the future outlook for these children is fairly optimistic, though much depends on technical development of artificial limbs and surgical treatment.

Plans are under way in Sweden to start an appeal fund to help with the training and schooling of thalidomide children.

Lady Golfers Lay Plans For Season

Upwards of 90 members of the ladies' division of the Bay of Quinte Country Club opened the season the other day, not on the links but in a social atmosphere in the club house.

They attended a potluck supper preceding a general business meeting under the chairmanship of President Phyllis Dyble.

General plans were made for the coming season, which, it was predicted, should be the best in years.

Winners of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Association pins were presented to the various winners by co-games captain Betty Walmsley.

The CGLA division silver pin went to Eva Corke; Betty Weymark winning the bronze pin.

In the Business Girls' section the silver pin was won by Mrs. Alice Stuart with Doris Hogle taking the bronze award.

It was announced the division's dessert bridge is scheduled for the clubhouse on June 7 starting 1:30.

U.C.W. Meetings

SCOTT'S UCW

STH SIDNEY — Members of Scott's UCW met at the home of Mrs. Carman Frost in Frankford for their April meeting.

Mrs. Alton Sine opened the meeting, Mrs. M. Sine read the Scripture and readings were given by Mrs. E. Sine and Mrs. M. Dafoe.

Mrs. C. Sine gave a talk entitled When Christians Call. She said, "We are strengthened by church attendance; we need corporate worship because in fellowship is strength. We go to church to worship and have our faith renewed. We should go in families, go with open minds, and learn to give reasons for our faith. When moral issues are raised, stand up and be counted."

Because the church has been closed, the members voted to disband the UCW, but will send in to the Presbyterial treasurer the allocation for the year ending Dec. 31, 1967.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nuns respond to charm school courses just like air hostesses, concluded Mrs. Mavis Kimball after giving a four-day course to 48 postulants at Dubuque, Iowa. She left out make-up and cigarette smoking from her standard courses for hostesses and emphasized good grooming, skin care and etiquette.

Prepares Alaska King Crab Meat

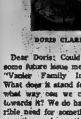
Successful Living

Asks Purpose of Vanier Institute

By MARY MOORE ...

"Mr. and Mrs. Canadian" are travelling and eating out more and more and finding exotic dishes on restaurant menus and asking me how to make them.

Right now you are after me for ways of preparing Alaska King Crab Meat. In many of the frozen food counters you can buy this wonderful delicacy in one-pound cartons. I paid $2.39 for mine. (A lot cheaper than making a trip to Alaska.)



The hotel chefs often serve Crab Meat a la Newburg" made the same as Lobster Newburg and I want you to try it my way. This amount serves four.

(do not substitute)
Thaw crab meat, drain off and discard liquid which gathers inside poly bag as it thaws, carefully separate pieces of crab meat onto shallow pan and sprinkle with sherry and let soak at least 30 min.

In medium frying pan melt the butter and in it sautee the chopped garlic and onion until tender but not brown. Over low heat add bread crumbs, lemon juice, mustard and ground mayonnaise and mix with fork and gently heat. Now add crab meat soaked in sherry, and remove from heat. Divide into 4 large individual "shells" or 8 small ones, or 4 individual casseroles and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about ½ hr. or until bubbly. I did it two ways: 1) as above and 2) I have what is called a clear shell from a "man-eating" clam. I bought it in Vancouver and it is a beautiful conversation piece and just the right size for this amount of Crab Meat Royale. Believe me I watched to see if the heat from the oven would damage it but it was fine. I treated it as sensitive when I carried it to the dining table.

DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: Could you in some future issue mention the "Vanier Family Institute"? What does it stand for and in what way can we contribute towards it? We do have a terrible need for something constructive and practical to use the teachings of the new morality.

I keep getting shocked at the social standing of some of the people who are throwing off all restraints. I hope somebody, somewhere, can get something in the way of an educational program going that would uphold those eternal qualities whose values never change such as honesty and integrity and love.

I think it's parents that need the training. You hear everywhere about it being modern to educate girls in colleges but nobody raises a voice to mention that it is a privilege and honor for mothers to stay home and raise their children.

Is it really terribly wrong to want to get married and make a home for a family rather than choose a career? — Concerned.

Dear Concerned: Bless you, no! In the words of our late Governor-General Vanier himself: "We have been impressed frequently and forcefully by the vital importance of family life . . . We have witnessed the inner strength and confidence of those nurtured in the love of a true family, and we have observed the lonely hopelessness and moral difficulty of those deprived of the support that only a family can provide."

The Vanier Institute of the Family is the fitting gift of Their Excellencies to Canada; an organization whose avowed purpose includes: to educate Canadian families towards self-help; to provide for get-togethers of the helping professions over "family matters" of mutual concern; to delve into all manner of research related to family life; to work with existing organizations and help fill in gaps; and to encourage courses of instruction for young people before and after marriage.

Every last one of us can help in this effort towards the nurture of wholesome family life by contributing time, money, interest, and by keeping informed about what the Institute is doing. Address is: 170 Metcalfe Street, Ottawa 4, Canada.

Dear Doris: Lately one of the cutest boys in school has been saying a lot of attention to me. At the same time that he began to notice me he broke up with his steady. All her friends blame me as being the cause of them breaking up.

They make it a point of speaking of him disrespectfully whenever I'm within hearing distance. They say anyone who would go with him is stupid. All my friends say I'm stupid if I don't go with him. What should I do? — Confused

Dear Confused: I'll say you are stupid if you don't make up your own mind and let this be a lesson to you not to go steady. You can be free as air and have a whole of a time — if you can play it cool.

Confidential to Worried Daughter: Unless there is some hereditary weakness in the family there is nothing wrong with marrying your cousin, and any children you may have are highly likely to be just as healthy as anybody else's children.

If you are serious about each other, I'd strongly urge that you both go to see a doctor and get a clean bill of health. This would satisfy the aunts and uncles, and parents, too.

We now have some understanding of why people act as they do. Write to Doris about your particular human problem, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Titterings on Sidewalks Part of Spanish Custom

MADRID (AP) — A pretty girl strolls down a boulevard. A strange man walks by and whispers sweet nothings in her ear.

In any other country, the girl would bash him. Not in Spain. Not a Spanish senorita. This is Don Juan's homeland, and when it comes to matters of the heart, the centuries haven't changed much.

These titterings on the sidewalks are as embedded in Spanish custom as the siesta and the bullfight. These murmurings in the ear are widely ignored. Spanish women accept, and blithely ignore, the whispered sonnets they inspire. Tourists panic.

North American women endure whistles at home, stares in France and occasional pinches in Italy — but a strange, slim whispering romantic notices?

Trying to avoid piropos is like trying to avoid bubbles in champagne. And contrary to word from the Spanish tourist office, the piropo are not dying out.

Little dark-eyed boys whisper piropos going home from school. Old men using canes whisper piropos from park benches. A man with two cots under his arms manages a piropo between children's squawks.

The Spanish take their piropos seriously. For a woman to pretend dismay borders on insulting national pride. Even worse is for a woman to pretend she even noticed.

The correct reaction is no reaction at all. The idea is to keep walking, no matter what.

Airline offices, hotels and travel bureaus are deluged with queries from women travellers — now usually locked in exasperation of what to expect when a stranger makes his feelings known.

One brochure for tourists notes that the natives have "an inborn flair and talent at the sight of ladies" for "attractive words."

It advises: "Except in rare cases of mental illness—which occur all over the world—the admiration of your admirer is disinterested, platonic and pure."

U.C.W. Meetings

CANNIFTON UCW EVENING UNIT

The regular monthly meeting of Cannifton UCW evening unit was held in the church on the last Monday of April.

The president, Doris Ellsworth, opened the meeting with a short poem. The members were reminded of the Presbytery meeting at Trinity United Church, Napanee, May 8 at 10 a.m. and also about articles for the bale.

Beverly Reid opened the worship service with a poem and Joy Putnam read the Bible study on the topic. Woman's place is in the home. Points on both sides were discussed with Mrs. Putman stressing the point that woman should take her place in the world as well as in the home. She should use her talents for what she is.

Mrs. H. Harrison was guest speaker and gave a talk on stewardship of life. Mrs. Harrison said God gave man dominion over all things, and therefore man is accountable to God in all things.

Mrs. Ellsworth thanked Mrs. Harrison and a social time was enjoyed.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

John: "I need the car tonight. I have a date for the dance."

Jane: "Mother said I could use the car. I have to go to the library."

Father: "I forgot about John's dance, and Mother and I were planning to go out tonight."

Use of the family car is a major cause of friction between teen-agers and parents. To avoid disagreements and last minute upsets, work out arrangements ahead of time — preferably in writing to avoid misunderstandings.

Ann Landers Won't Solve Problem By Denying Education

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last summer our daughter started to smoke at age 16. I hated to see that lovely girl with a cigarette in her mouth and I told her so. She ignored my request that she stop. I decided to take away her allowance and I did. She later convinced me that she needed it for necessities, so I restored part of her allowance.

ANN LANDERS

Finally I told her if she didn't stop smoking I would give her only one year of college. She continued to smoke. Last week I announced, "Either quit smoking or you will get no college." Yesterday I caught her smoking and now I must make good my threat.

The girl is bright and talented. I am working full time to send our older daughter to college and would have to continue to send this one. Their father never made enough money for extras.

I say if smoking is more important to this girl than college, I am a fool to work to put her through. What do you say? — HEARTSICK MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: In an attempt to win this battle you have placed on a limb and exposed yourself. Moreover, you have violated two cardinal rules for raising children: (1) don't promise or threaten that which you don't mean to deliver, (2) Make sure the punishment fits the crime.

Unfortunately, your daughter is using cigarettes as an expression of rebellion — a symptom of her independence. But you won't solve that problem by denying her an education. Go to her and say: "I am opposed to your smoking because it is damaging your health. It is a dirty habit and it is an expensive habit. I withdraw all threats, however, and I leave the decision up to you."

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was amused by your reply to the modest woman who objected to saleswomen intruding when she was stripped down to her shimmy trying on girdles and brassieres. You were right when you said it was awfully hard work for a saleswoman to staff a 44 backside into a size 36 girdle.

My cross was bathing suits. No sylph myself, I was overly sympathetic to my heftier customers. But I was astonished at how unrealistic they were about their figures. Many women needed my help to get into those swim suits because they insisted on buying suits which were two sizes too small. I often wondered who stuffed them in after they left the store.

Why don't you suggest the most obvious solution to the problem, Ann? I'm a customer and let me she didn't need help I did not try to help her. I merely wrote up the order when she came out of the fitting room and handed me the garments. — NO BARGER INNER.

DEAR NO BARGER: Some of us fail to see a solution because it is so obvious. Thank you for pointing out something which I should have seen myself.

CHILDREN FOR ADOPTION

Through the medium of the Adoption Resource Exchange, an agency of the Government of Ontario, an effort is made to unite couples seeking to adopt with children in the care of Children's Aid Societies.

There are now infants of both sexes available for placement.

There are also pre-school and school-aged children who need parents.

Inquiries are invited from childless couples, couples with natural children who wish to add to their families, and couples who have previously adopted.

Your local Children's Aid Society offers a professional adoption service. It maintains high standards and is ever mindful of the responsibility entrusted to it. If you would like to discuss sharing your home with a child, contact:

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Something seems to tell me that I'll be midnight snacking tonight at the wishing hour of "Irish Lettuce."

My host will be a Montreal fan with a Killarney monicker who wagered his Montreal darlings would sip the bubbly out of the Stanley Cup giving me three teams to make him wrong.

I don't think there will be any French dressing on the lettuce rather that Italian "oil" that is free gratis at any time around Maple Leaf Gardens.

What could be a climactic battle tonight resolves itself into a bazola of "if's."

"If" the Canadiens are up and on they should square the series.

"If" the Leafs produce the hard-checking display that marked their win on Saturday and take time out to pump in a couple of goals, then Imlach's old-youngsters will take a champagne bath.

"If" the goalies of both teams are at the peak tonight's tilt should shrivel the pewsters with the heat.

And the same applies if these in-and-out squads reach a common level of play. Then it will be a case of attacks and whichever way Lady Luck tosses her smile.

Players on other teams dubbed the Leafs a "Saturday Night hockey team" when their Saturday night games were played over a national hook-up. It is pointed out they may become known as a "Saturday afternoon" team because they have won three playoff games on Saturday afternoon since the playoffs started and lost none.

But if you believe in records and the Leafs lose tonight they've had it in Montreal come Thursday. They haven't been able to win on Thursday night during the playoffs. If they lose tonight they've got a jinx on their shoulders.

And tonight's game could be like the rest of the playoff series, a battle of the goalies. Never in the history of the ancient pewterware have the cage custodians grabbed so much of the glory spotlight.

Bower, Sawchuk and Vachon, the sensational young "junior B" netaler, have had more star picks than any in former playoffs.

And don't sell youthful M'lsieu Vachon short. No goalie is perfect and like other players have an off night. When he was removed for the old Gumper Saturday it was no disgrace. He conceded that game wasn't one of his best. "I could have been better" was his terse comment.

Worsley was sent in after Toe Blake called Vachon aside following the second period. "Look," he said. "I'm not blaming you — you've been great — but I want to give Worsley the work."

And Blake may start Worsley in tonight's game after he kept the Leafs off the scoresheet Saturday. Experience is a good thing to have going for you in the playoffs.

The Leafs have a great big strike going for them tonight. They are back in the Garden hunting ground with some 14,000 raised fans cheering them on.

But they'll have to go all out. The Habs won't give up without a bitter battle. They're behind in the best-of-seven series three games to two and, must win tonight to stay "alive." If not they are deader than a two-week-old mackerel.

If they win, the pendulum will again swing their way with the big one slated for Montreal Thursday. If they can produce the hockey they are capable of playing the Cup will take another year's rest in a Montreal clubhouse.

The Leafs if they take it on the button tonight will, despite the record, go into Thursday night's game with a do-or-die attitude.

And I've the hunch that it will be all over tonight (that's as good as a win for Montreal) and I'll be fattening the wallet with those leafs of Irish lettuce. If not I'm afraid the Irisher will gobble my contribution to the lettuce fund come Thursday. And I hope that hunch, if necessary, backfires.

Guelph Gets Star Hurler

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph CJOYS of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League Monday announced the signing of Ron Stead, former Brantford Red Sox pitching star.

Stead, 21, former bat boy with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, was with Brantford for 10 seasons. He holds the intercounty season's strikeout record of 156.

Blake Will Go To Seven

Punch Line; 'Wind It Up Tonight'!

TORONTO (CP) — Three hockey experts voiced varying opinions Monday on the outcome of the Stanley Cup finals as Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens prepared for tonight's sixth game.

Punch Imlach, Toronto general-manager-coach, figures his club is in the driver's seat and will win its 11th title tonight.

Toe Blake, Montreal coach, said after Saturday's 4-1 loss in Montreal that the series will stretch to seven games.

Billy Reay, whose Chicago Black Hawks were knocked out in six semi-final games by the Leafs, agrees with both of them.

The Leafs lead the defending champions, Canadiens 3-2 in games, and Imlach says:

"We'll wind it up here. We don't even have transportation booked for a return trip to Montreal . . . we haven't even tried."

Blake's reaction after Saturday's loss indicated home ice will not be a factor tonight.

"Home ice won't be a factor until the seventh game. That's right, only in the seventh game, when we win the cup."

The Canadiens won the opener at home 6-2 score, dropped the second game in Montreal 3-0, lost in overtime in Toronto 3-2, won in Leafs territory 6-2 and lost at home Saturday 4-1.

Reay said Monday he sees the series going a full seven games.

"The way those games are going I can't see it ending in less. But everything favors the Leafs now the way they've been going."

Reay said the eventual outcome, in his opinion, rests with the goalies.

"Goalkeeping is still the key to this series, even though the Leafs got a big lift on Saturday when Marcel Pronovost scored a goal while they were playing a man short."

Montreal is confronted with a situation similar to that faced by Imlach after the opener.

Terry Sawchuk started the first game, but was replaced by Johnny Bower near the five-minute mark of the third period after allowing five goals.

Bower was brilliant in the second and third games, but was injured in the pre-game warmup preceding the fourth contest. Sawchuk replaced him and promptly lost 6-2. However he recovered sufficient aplomb for Saturday's win and will start again tonight.

King Clancy, Imlach's assistant, said Monday night there is no way Bower will be ready "before the seventh game—he didn't even practise today."

Saturday afternoon in Montreal, Blake pulled rookie Rogatien Vachon after 40 minutes and four goals to insert veteran Gump Worsley into the lineup "to give him some work."

Worsley had not played since March 12, when he was beaned from the balcony of Madison Square Garden in New York by a hard-boiled egg. Before that he had been sidelined by a knee injury for three months.

However, he looked sharp in stopping 19 Toronto shots and said he feels fit and ready to play.

Now Blake must decide whether to return to Vachon or go with Worsley's experience.

"It's a hard decision for a coach to make," Reay said. "You have to think how good Vachon looked in the second and third games even though they lost."

Blake refused to settle the issue Monday and said he will decide "just before game time" whether the 21-year-old Vachon or the 36-year-old Worsley will get the call.

Al Smith, up from Victoria of the Western League, will be Sawchuk's backup man.

Tonight's game, and the seventh if necessary, will be televized on the national network of the CBC. Game time is 8 p.m. EDT.

Eagles, Spurs Clash In Final!

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Drummondville Eagles have powered their way to the Allan Cup finals against the Calgary Spurs with three steady and balanced lines and a solid defence.

The Spurs, Western representatives in the cup final which opens Wednesday in Drummondville, Que., have their scoring punch concentrated in two lines. They rely on speed and can hit. The Eagles advanced to the final by defeating Kingston Aces four games to one in the best-of-seven Eastern Canada playoffs.

They were playoff champions of the Provincial Senior Hockey League.

The Calgary team, formed 2½ years, has never been out of first place in its two years in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

The club, which started off in borrowed uniforms, finished on top of its league last year but was knocked out of intersectional playoffs by the Allan Cup-bound Drumhellers Miners.

This year, they finished first again and went on to eliminate Nelson Maple Leafs in three straight games to advance to the cup final.

Drummondville has a mixture of veterans and rookies in its lineup. A defence made up of Lee Hardy, Raymond Fortin, Jean Therrien and Jacques Begin also has performed well.

Goalie St. Cyr has been a solid performer.

Calgary's top line of Marty Desmarais, Warren Hicks and Dave Pareotesz has scored 68 points in 17 playoffs games. The Spurs are young, averaging 25 years of age.

"We like to use our speed," says Calgary coach Tony Schneider. "If we go out and start hitting a slow club, we're just playing their game. Why do it?"

But when the going gets rough, the Spurs hold their own. They topped the league in penalties this season.

The entire best-of-seven series will be played in Drummondville.

Lionel Fleury, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association announced Monday that the second game will be held May 3.

Subsequent games are to be played May 7 and 9 and, if necessary, May 11, 13 and 14.

Departmental League Has Six Entries

Hopes for a seven-team Departmental Softball League were kept alive last night when a representative of Public Utilities told a league meeting that "we are still trying to field a team."

Due to loss of several members of last season's club, Utilities are in doubt but regardless of that club's status, the loop will be bigger than last year when five clubs took part.

Back from the 1966 season are Public Works, Five Department, City Hall and The Intelligencer, along with two new clubs, City Police and Electric Motor Sales. If Utilities cannot field a full team, the league will place members of last season's team with the other league clubs.

If seven teams go to the wire, an 18-game schedule is likely and it will commence on Tuesday, May 23.

The seven team representatives at last night's meeting voted to use the new Centennial Umpires' Association, by a 6-1 vote, this season at a cost of $4 per umpire. Centennial president Bruce Nickle made his association's bid prior to the vote while the Belleville and District Umpires' Association, used last year, met with the league earlier.

Plans call for schedule games on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights this season and a delegation from the league, headed by president Al Rump, will attend the election of fields meeting at the Recreation Centre Friday night, at 7:30.

Grant Parks was named vice-president of the league, joining president Rump, secretary Bill Cooney and treasurers Stan Pinkle and Hugh Johnson on the executive. Clubs will name executive members at another meeting slated for Monday, May 8, at 7:30, at the Public Works building.

The entry fee was maintained at $25 and must be paid to the league by May 15.

Pittsburgh Pirates looked everywhere for a pitcher this past winter-except in the hospital.

That's where Bilky O'Dell was, and the Pirates weren't expecting him to be of much help in stabilizing the shaky pitching corps that threatened to prevent them from winning the National League pennant.

The veteran left-hander made a strong bid for a permanent spot in that rotation Monday night as he won his second game of the season in Pittsburgh's fifth straight victory—an 8-5 decision over St. Louis Cardinals.

O'Dell, 34, almost was certain that the 12th season would be his last. But that was before doctors discovered he had Addison's disease.

"I had been sick since the first part of last season," O'Dell said after holding the Cardinals to four hits before needing relief help in the eighth inning. "I was losing weight, I was nauseous, I couldn't eat or sleep and I was dizzy and weak.

"I started going to doctors, but no one knew what was wrong with me. I went to a lot of hospitals for tests, but they didn't help either. Finally this past February the doctors found out what it was."

Addison's disease, far from being a common illness, affects the adrenalin glands and causes a loss of salt in the body.

"I feel good and strong now. I don't feel any effects of it anymore. I was anxious to go as long as I could tonight. I wanted to see if I would get tired."

The southpaw said he didn't get tired, but he did get a little wild, and manager Harry Walker removed him in the eighth after he issued his sixth and seventh walks.

In the only other games played—both in the American League — Baltimore Orioles edged Cleveland Indians 8-7 and Boston Red Sox blanked California Angels 4-0. Rain washed out another AL game New York Yankees at Minnesota Twins.

O'Dell was amply supported by Manny Mota, who had two hits and drove in three runs, and Roberto Clemente, who collected three hits and knocked in two runs.

Cleveland jumped off to a 5-0 lead against Baltimore in the frog inning, but the Orioles fought back and were down 7-5 going into the eighth.

After Dave Johnson and Paul Blair singled, Russ Snyder came in to bat for Andy Etchebarren, and Bob Allen came in to pitch for the Indians. Woody Held then went up for Snyder and hit Allen's first pitch for a three-run homer.

Dennis Bennett hit a three-run homer against California, and that was all he needed to make his six-hit shutout pitching standup. Bennett's complete game was the sixth in 15 games for Boston this year.

Judge Jolts Cassius

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay's lawyers prepared new injunctive tactics today in their fight to see the former world heavyweight champion spared jail and a stiff fine for refusing to answer the draft board's call.

A federal judge in Houston Monday dismissed a suit in which the fighter, also known as pacifist Black Muslim minister Muhammad Ali, sought exemption from federal prosecution for balking Friday when the army ordered him to take the symbolic one step forward and join its ranks.

U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals said the suit was the same as that dismissed last week by Judge Allen B. Hannay of Houston.

Hannay said in rejecting the suit last Thursday that Clay had not exhausted all administrative remedies.

Seals said Clay's refusal to step forward was not significant in the eyes of the court and that the boxer's lawyers could seek to have an indictment dismissed.

An appeal of Hannay's decision has already begun its way to the New Orleans panel.

Four Decline Presidency

BMHA Holds Annual

(Contributed)

The annual general meeting of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association was held, as advertised, Sunday afternoon at the Recreation Centre. Attendance was 30 members and interested citizens. The usual executive reports were read, and after some discussion, were adopted. They gave obvious notice of the association's continuing increase in size and scope, and the need for more help to run it, if it is to continue as an important recreational function.

Under its present format it provided hockey for 1071 players this past season, from tyke through juvenile levels, organized into 50 house league teams, and 8 OMHA or all star teams, representing the city in each of the five recognized age groups.

Three important amendments to the Association's Constituton were made at the annual meeting. The meeting agenda was followed until time for the election of officers. Four members were nominated for the office of president and all four declined. At this time a motion was passed to adjourn the meeting and reconvene it at the Recreation Centre on Monday, May 29, at 7.00 p.m. All normal members and interested citizens will be notified of this meeting by mail, and a greater attendance is urgently needed for the important assignment of electing the executive for the coming year.

If not more interest is shown than currently, it's possible that there will 'not be a minor hockey program in Belleville next year.

This is a sorry statement to have to make after the season when the all Ontario Peewee "A" championship was won by the Belleville Smiths Foels, the Minor OMHA teams had greater success than ever before in area and provincial playdowns and the House League operation was perhaps the largest in history.

It was obvious from reports and discussions at the annual meeting that the work load during the past season was too much for too few. The Association needs more volunteer help, and more help from the city and Recreation Department, both solidly and financially.

It was reported at the meeting that Minor Hockey in Belleville was a $14,000.00 operation in 1966-67. On the basis of its present growth, and on such costs as current ice charges for arena ice time, it will easily be a $20,000.00 operation by 1970.

The program has made great strides in recent years, and has produced real results, but it can't proceed in its present format without more help. Its future obviously rests in a considerable extent on the possibilities of more real interest being shown by more players' parents, interested citizens and the city fathers.

CHHL Announces Individual Award Winners

Centre Hastings Hockey League individual award winners were announced following a recent league meeting.

Andy Faulkner, high-scoring ace of the pennant-winning Glen Ross Rebels, took home two trophies and placed near the top in another category.

Faulkner was an overwhelming choice as the Most Valuable Player, with Thomasburg's Don Henderson second and Ivanhoe's Richard Chapman third.

Tommy Bennett, off Wellbridge Warriors, won the Gentlemanly Player award with Glean Ross' Ted Dobson second. Faulkner tied with Ivanhoe's Ralph Francis for third place.

Faulkner won the league scoring championship with a record of 54 goals and 30 assists for 84 points. Bob Chesher, of Frankford Shoemen, was a close second with 50 goals and 30 assists for 80 points. Jack Wright, Glen Ross, placed third with 67 points.

Reid Mallory, of Plainfield, won honors as rookie of the year by a healthy margin over Frankford's Ivan Smith and Glen Ross' Larry Jeffs.

Jerry Maan, of Foxboro Merchants, won the best defenceman award, followed by Richard Chapman and Ivan Smith.

In the goalies' best average race, Wayne Roe of the playoff champion Ivanhoe Knights team, paced the field with a 2.1 mark while Bob Taylor of Glen Ross was second with 2.3. A Plainfield combination of Bob Smith and Terry Armstrong placed third despite the team's last-place finish in the seven-team league.

Ken Colling Cross Country

Hayman Eyes Trophy

Moira Secondary School's John Hayman will face a large field when he bids for his third consecutive victory in the annual Ken Colling Memorial Cross Country Run tomorrow.

The race, an annual affair for district secondary school students, honoring the late sports editor of this newspaper, Ken Colling, will start and finish at the BCIVS campus. Starting time is 4.30 and the course length is approximately 4½ miles.

JOHN HAYMAN

Hayman established the course record time of 22.48 while edging Trenton High School's David Prudhomme in one of the best races in some time last year. Prudhomme's second-place time was 22.49 while Robert Ostrander, of Prince Edward Collegiate, was third.

Should Hayman win this year's race he will receive the current edition of the Colling trophy, donated by Mr. Cleo Colling in honor of his brother, as a permanent possession. Any runner winning the trophy three times retains it and a new one is donated.

Prudhomme is one of 10 Trenton entries among a total of 78 accepted up until Monday of this week and is again expected to give Hayman a run for the money. Prince Edward (Picton) has 23 entries, Moira nine, Quinte Secondary eight, O.S.D. and Campbellford seven each, BCIVS and St-Nelson Catholic College four each, Tweed-Hungerford three and Stirling-Bawdon one. And more were expected in this morning.

3 Entries In League Reported

Jim Guernsey, manager of the Picton Kinsmen, confirmed the club's entry in the newly-formed Quinte-KASA softball association via phone this morning.

Guernsey called re: his own entry but also said that only two clubs from Belleville, the Bobcats and Ellis Paramedics, entered at a meeting at Harry Rollins' home last night.

"Apparently Trudeau Motors have dropped out but they left them time to enter if they change their mind. None of the Kingston clubs was represented but I guess they have their strong teams, one of them junior," Guernsey added.

His also announced that Bob Cummings, of Bloomfield, had been added to the new loop's executive body. "Along with myself, that gives us two executive members, the same as Belleville and Kingston," he said.

Questioned as to Picton's expected strength this season, Guernsey said that was still in doubt but he expected to have three pitchers, Ken Dodills and Carl Stacey of last year's Belleville and District League championship club, and Earl Foster. "We will likely have most of last year's players back."

Reception Favored

Eight In Derby Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Cool Reception, pride of Canada's Florida-bred Lightning Orphan and seven other three-year-old thoroughbreds will be given a try of making it to the Kentucky Derby were entered Monday for today's running of the one-mile, $13,000-added Derby Trial at Churchill Downs.

The big question was who will be whom in Saturday's re-val of America's No. 1 horse ce as the favorites either re- ished in their stalls or went out for slow gallops while a heavy rain turned the racing strip into fetlock-deep mud.

Cool Reception, Canada's three-year-old champion owned by Mrs. William Seitz of Montreal and Mrs. Vincent Reid of Toronto, can answer part of the question in the Derby Trial with Walter (Monsie) Blum in the saddle.

The son of Nearctic will need the Trial big, says trainer Lou Cavalaris, to get a chance at the big money. Should he capture the Trial handily, Blum would be in the saddle Saturday.

That would toss the question back to trainer John Jacobs, filling in for his dad, Hirsch, in the handling of Reason to Hail, winner of last week's California Derby.

"We are prepared," said John "If Cool Reception doesn't start Saturday it'll be Blum. Should Cool Reception go, we have signed Bobby Usserry."

Trainer Lloyd Gentry also has adopted a wait and see attitude as far as a rider is concerned for Proud Clarion from the Darby Dan Farm of John Galbreath.

He would like Braulio Baeza, who was under contract to Darby Dan until last Sunday and finished second to Diplomat Way with Proud Clarion in last Thursday's Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland.

The pitch is that Baeza is slated to ride Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Successor.

Cool Reception and Lightning Orphan of Freeman Keyes' Rerin Knoll Farm, are likely to be close to co-choices for the Trial, the final prep for the Derby.

Senior Baseball Attracts 20

About 20 players turned out for the opening practice of the Belleville Lombards senior baseball club last night, according to spokesman "Moe" Hunter.

"It is too early to tell much yet but we are holding open workouts every night this week, at the Fairgrounds, at 6.30, and will welcome all players, plus other interested parties", Hunter said.

An effort is being made to line up one of the district's established senior players of a few years back as a coach but so far all contacted have declined.

Names such as Vern Goyer, Bob Bunton, Art Wright, John "Shaker" Baker, Tom Meeker and numerous others have been bantered about in the coaching field.

"We need a good coach in the worst way" Hunter says, "but several other interested persons have agreed to serve on our executive and I will be re-naming the names as soon as we confirm a couple more."

Memorial Cup

Ports, Marlies In Final

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Goalie John Adams sparked Port Arthur Marrs to a 5-0 win over New Westminster Royals Monday night and a berth in the Memorial Cup finals.

"Adams was the whole show," shouted an enthused Ab Gave who coached the Marrs into the Canadian junior hockey finals—the first time a Port Arthur team has reached the finals in 10 years.

Marrs took the best-of-seven Western Canada series four games to one.

Eastern champion Toronto Marlboros will meet Port Arthur at the Fort William Gardens Sunday for the opening game of the best-of-seven games final.

The Marrs will remain on the West Coast until Wednesday.

New Westminster, trying for a victory to get back into contention in the series, had several scoring opportunities Monday night but could not get the puck past Adams, who made 29 stops.

"We just wouldn't get the puck to bounce," said coach Bob Fenton in the New Westminster dressing room.

Cava did not believe there was any turning point for Port Arthur—"We were the best club, it's as simple as that."

He said he had not seen Toronto or any other team from the Ontario junior circuit in action.

"I just know it's the strongest league in Canada."

Memorial Cup

Marlies Dunk Miners

TORONTO (CP) — The augmented Thetford Mines Canadiens gave everything they had but Toronto Marlboros had more.

They (Toronto) just wouldn't play any harder than they had," said coach Gus Bodnar after his Marlboros defeated Canadiens 5-3 here Monday to win the best-of-seven series for the Eastern Canada junior title.

Toronto took the series 3-1 and now prepares to meet Port Arthur Marrs for the Memorial Cup.

Thetford Mines, under the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's handicap system, were allowed six players from other teams in the Quebec Junior League for the series against the Ontario Hockey Association champions. The Marlboros had to cut their roster from 17 to 15.

Only remarkable goaltending by Pierre Chagnon of the Canadiens prevented the game from turning into another rout. Toronto outscored Thetford Mines 12-5 here Sunday, in Monday's game, they outshot Thetford Mines 17-8 in the first period, 13-0 in the second and 15-8 in the third.

Despite their superiority the Marlboros only managed to gain a 2-1 lead in the first 20 minutes, and were ahead 3-2 at the end of the second period.

Doug Acomb scored twice for Toronto, and Frank Hamill, Cam Crowby and Tom Martin once each. Thetford Mines goals were scored by Normand Sarrazin and Andre Boudoin.

Gaudette and Rejean Houle were outstanding for Canadiens, proving themselves more than a match for the Marlboros' speed. But Toronto, as a team, dominated the game and, as Bodnar put it: "They were laughing all the way."

The Marlboros plan to head west Thursday or Friday to prepare for the best-of-seven final series there.

No Trace Is Found Of Girl

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario attorney-general's department Monday offered $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Marianne Schuett's abductor.

The offer increased the total reward to $5,000 as the search continued for the 10-year-old Kilbride, Ont., girl missing since last Thursday.

Other rewards posted are $1,000 each from the Burlington board of education, the Burlington police commission and the Hamilton Spectator. Local 707 of the United Auto Workers of America, of which the girl's father, Milton Schuett, is a member, has offered $500.

Provincial police searched Monday through dense bush and rocky overgrown in a drizzling rain without finding any trace of the Grade 4 student last seen entering a stranger's car or station wagon.

Four witnesses who saw Marianne get into the vehicle have not been able to agree on its make.

Police Watch Planes, Ships In Hunt for Gold Thieves

LONDON (AP) — Police scrutinized airports and harbors and sent alerts to ships at sea today for traces of a gas-gun gang who hijacked gold bars worth £750,000 ($2,250,000) in Britain's biggest bullion theft.

A reward of £50,000 ($150,000) was offered by insurance assessors for information leading to recovery of the ingots and capture of the bandits.

The Great Gold Robbery, staged with speed and precision at noon in a London street Monday, was the most lucrative ambush in Britain since the Great Train Robbery netted more than $7,000,000 nearly four years ago.

If these Scotland Yard into a frenzy of effort is stop the 140 gold bars, weighing more than 1½ tons, from being smuggled abroad.

A Dutch coastal freighter, which sailed from London soon after the robbery, was boarded by police and customs men in the Thames estuary downriver night after an underworld tip that the loot was aboard. But no gold was found, and the 500-ton coaster Thea was allowed to proceed three hours later.

Other ships off Britain ports after the bullion haul were contacted by radio and told to check their cargoes.

The international police organization, Interpol, was asked to keep watch at docks and airports overseas. British police said attempts might be made to smuggle the gold eventually to the Far East where it would fetch a higher price than in Europe.

Another theory, and a more likely one, was that the gold would find its way to a backstreet smelter for melting down and sale in small quantities to jewelers.

Scotland Yard said bandits sprayed ammonia from gas-guns into the faces of two guards, knocked out another, and bundled all three into the back of the truck and drove off. Four miles away they switched the gold to another vehicle, and vanished.

Shulman Says Pembroke Death Was Covered Up

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Morton Shulman got his chance to speak before the Farrer royal commission Monday and it wasn't long before he placed a hot potato in the lap of the Ontario government.

The royal commission, called to investigate charges by Dr. Shulman that government officials had interfered with the conducting of inquests, heard the former Metropolitan Toronto coroner tell of a 1961 Pembroke death in which he said authorities suppressed investigations.

Dr. Shulman told Ontario Supreme Court Justice W. D. Parker that Dr. Sinkie Lawson, Ontario's supervising coroner in 1961, and Dr. H. Beatty Cotterill, the present provincial supervising coroner who was coroner for Renfrew County, agreed not to hold an inquest into the death of a three-year-old child after "too vigorous" application of oxygen by a nurse following an operation in Pembroke Hospital.

"It is very obvious that this is a case of medical negligence," said Dr. Shulman, 41, who was dismissed April 7 as chief coroner for Metropolitan Toronto. The hearing continues.

Dr. Shulman said he found letters in a file in the basement of the coroner's building here that indicated Dr. Lawson and Dr. Colman agreed not to call an inquest into the death of the three - year - old girl, Barbara Moore.

Dr. Lawson wrote in one letter: "We, in Toronto, do not hold inquests into all deaths due to anesthetic or surgical deaths, as they are usually accidental. . . . In my own opinion, I do not think an inquest is necessary."

During his testimony, however, Dr. Shulman could not name persons who might want to suppress evidence.

Dr. Shulman made his allegations of government interference in inquests after he had called an inquest into the death of a man in a fire at the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board hospital contrary to the advice of Dr. Cotterill, the province's supervising coroner.

Concerning another case, Dr. Shulman told the inquiry he had told newspaper reporters last month that he feared an inquest into the death of John Stern, 30, of Toronto, would be "a cover-up, whitewashed or swept under the rug."

The inquest into the death of Mr. Stern later was held but he experimented with the hallucinatory drug LSD hours before his death-fall from a Toronto viaduct.

Dr. Shulman also said in letters to Attorney-General Arthur Wishart that he had proceeded with the hospital fire inquest because he feared that some details would not be exposed if there was a delay.

Disturbed Children To Get Care

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Matthew Dymond gave the legislature details Monday of a new program in which the government will underwrite the full cost of care for emotionally disturbed children in accredited institutions.

Speaking as his department's spending estimates were being debated, Dr. Dymond said the program will be started as soon as the house approves the estimates and said it will involve two basic criteria.

He said a child will be admitted to a centre as a ward of the state only after a thorough checking by the assessment team and then only if it is referred to an accredited centre.

He said accreditation will be "basic to our whole program." James Trotter (Toronto-Parkdale) called the Ontario Hospital school at Cobourg a fleetrap. He said the institution has 36 women in a single ward and the hospital school at Aurora is similarly overcrowded.

Union Autonomy Queried

TORONTO (CP) — Leonard Braithwaite (L — Etobicoke) called Monday night for government investigations into union autonomy and the status of women workers in the province.

He said the legislature all efforts toward labor-management peace "may be rudely shattered by this . . . new search for autoomy by certain Canadian unions here in Ontario."

He proposed that the government make a thorough examination of the problem of labor autonomy, including "whether members of Ontario unions are being deprived of their civil rights by certain international unions."

He said the government should also investigate complaints by contractors that they have lost bids and jobs "because their men belonged to the wrong union."

PECKHAM, England (CP)—The Queen, as head of the Church of England, signed an order changing the name of the parish of St. Chrysostom and St. Jude in northeast London to plain St. John's. Many parishioners had complained they could not pronounce the old name.

Britain to Try To Lure 'Brains'

LONDON (CP) — Britain's first timid steps to reverse the "brain drain" to North America have not exactly been welcomed with a trumpet fanfare in the press.

The way to encourage highly-trained young Britons to stay at home is to give them something to stay home for, says critics of the new plan.

Technology Minister Anthony Wedgwood Benn announced Monday that the government will pay £75,000 ($225,000) during the next three years for an international employment agency to set up recruiting offices for Britain in Toronto, New York and San Francisco.

The firm, Management Selection Ltd., will try to recruit individual Canadians and Americans who have skills the British need. But its main job will be trying to lure back skilled Britons who have already migrated to North America.

Wedgwood Benn said the problem is "acute" but added: "The time has come when we must stop whining. . . ."

His critics in the press had some suggestions about what the government can do.

The right-wing Daily Express says the "whole policy of the government—especially the tax policy—is working in the opposite direction" by encouraging young Britons to migrate.

The Influential Financial Times says Europe must probably resign itself to a net loss of talent until it can match North America's research and technology.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph also says the "key to a decision against British industry in a number of cases lies at a feeling that a high - powered young man may have to wait many years before he is given the scope and responsibility for which his training has fitted him."

Expo Officials Move to Overcome Problems Of First Few Days

MONTREAL (CP)— An Expo 67 official Monday announced a series of measures to iron out early bugs that have cropped up in the first days of operation of the world's fair.

At a press conference, Michael Dibben, head of public relations for press, radio and TV, said:

"We're finding out our problems, holding daily meetings of the top persons concerned and doing our best to sort them out fast."

Problems that have beset the fair since its public opening April 28 range from a breakdown in the $2,000,000 Gyrotron ride in La Ronde amusement area to difficulty in finding washrooms, a place to eat, or a packet of cigarettes.

Other Expo headaches include:

—A breakdown in the system for recording the number of admissions to the site.

—Blockages in the sewerage system.

—High prices at some eating and drinking spots.

—Some establishments not pooling their tariffs outside.

—Crowd jams at the site's subway exit.

—Clouds of dust affecting mechanisms.

—Mobbing of Expos transit systems.

—Shortage of footpaths.

—Tons of garbage overwhelming cleaning facilities.

Mr. Dibben said the seating capacity of all restaurants on the site is about 20,000 at any one time and that available restaurants now can feed about 275,000 in any one day. This figure would increase to 350,000 when seven more pavilion restaurants and two concession restaurants become ready for operation.

The Quebec provincial government had sent out early Monday a telegram to all eating and drinking establishments on the site instructing them to comply with the Expo rule that all prices be displayed outside for the convenience of visitors.

Referring to complaints about high charges for imported beer at one restaurant—as much as $3.25 including tax and service charge for a 25-ounce stein, Mr. Dibben said imported beer prices are set by the Quebec liquor board. A 12 - per - cent charge on all items sold in eating and drinking establishments was taken by Expo.

Negotiations now peer in progress with the managements of site restaurants to try to ensure that there is no over-charging.

Mr. Dibben said there is no immediate plan to install more washrooms despite complaints that there are not enough.

An engineer flew in from Britain Saturday to check the track system of the 215-foot-high Gyrotron, a spectacular ride through simulated space and a simulated volcano and monster's mouth that broke down Friday and still is out of order. No estimate of when it might be working was available Monday.

Expo's system for recording the number of admissions, using computers and electrical impulses, which got a terrific publicity build-up before the fair began, broke down completely during the weekend and Mr. Dibben admitted that "we'll probably never know exactly how many visitors we've had during this past weekend."

"We hope to get the system working properly soon," he said.

Asphalt paving was being laid to beat the dust problem. Dust raised by thousands of trampling feet had sent swirling clouds of dust into the bearings in several rides in La Ronde.

Footpaths were to be laid to permit visitors to cover many areas now completely grass-covered. And special squads were to set up more garbage disposal containers, picking up paper with spiked sticks and hosing down dirty, dusty areas.

Studies were being made of ways to cut down the platform crush at Expo-Express stations and one probable way should be to keep visitors in lines in the lower parts of the stations until there were trains standing at platforms. This would prevent people being flung forward on in the rails by pushing from behind.

No system had yet been worked out for easing the crush on the mini-rail system which has been highly popular and featured long queues, but a system of colored tickets was being considered.

Wow, It's Out of This World!

MONTREAL (CP)—A busload of Toronto school children, vanguard of 17,000 who will visit Expo 67, during its six - month term, entered the fair-grounds Monday serenading their French - speaking compatriots with Vive la Canadienne.

The 47 singing students from Davenport Road School Grade 6 were part of a group of 800 children in 22 busloads who toured the world's fair, wonderful at the national pavilions and trying out the electronic gadgetry on display. They were from grades 5 to 8.

The Toronto children arrive in Montreal Sunday night and spent the night at College St. Laurent in the northern suburbs. Like other groups to follow, they will spend two days at Expo.

A second group, due here Wednesday, numbers 1,000 secondary students. The pattern of two trips weekly will continue throughout Expo's season. The total cost to each student visitor is $30 and the Toronto board of education voted $67,000 from its contingency budget to defray supervisory expenses.

Once inside the telephone pavilion, several students become involved with the many telephones which recorded their voices and played them back.

Then they listened to recorded conversations with Mickey Mouse, Snow White, Goofy and a host of other characters.

"It's so much more than I had expected," said Bruce Grisdale, an 11 - year - old from Gledhill School.

"I saw some pictures in the newspapers and on television but, wow, this is out of this world!"

"The Toronto board of education's Operation Expo is vivid proof of our belief in modern education," said William P. Moss, chairman of the board, in a message to the first group. "It demonstrates that education experience extends far beyond the classroom."

Ethiopia Day 1st of 60

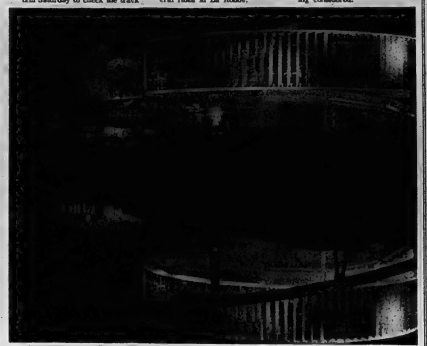
MONTREAL (CP)—Emperor Haile Selassie arrives in Expo 67 today to preside over his country's national day and to receive a gold medal commemorating his 75th birthday and friendship between Canada and Ethiopia.

The emperor, who will be 75 July 23, arrived in Montreal Monday night on the sixth day of his nine-day visit to Canada and attended a white-tie dinner at City Hall.

Today, he is being received with pomp and ceremony at place des Nations, Expo's centre for national and cultural events, on the fair's official Ethiopia Day.

The day is one of about 60 national days to be celebrated at Expo between now and the fair's end Oct. 28. Ethiopia is the first.

The medal, to be presented to the emperor when he visits the Ethiopian pavilion, is called the Ethiopia-Canada Friendship Medal.



A gold one is being presented to Haile Selassie. Others will be struck in silver and in bronze for numismatists.

Phonovision At the Fair

MONTREAL (CP) — Phonovision, a telephone-television system that will answer visitors' questions, is coming to Expo 67.

Drums - topped, mushroom - shaped phonovision units are being installed at 30 locations on the world's fair site and officials say they are expected to go into operation Friday.

CALLED Expo-Vision, the system is the latest word in formation services. Besides answering individual questions, it will also offer a continuous stream of Expo news and features, plus commercials.

Ginger Rogers Given Ovation On Her Return to Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"It's so nice to have you back where you belong . . ."

The familiar lyrics of Hello, Dolly! had a special meaning last week when they were sung to Ginger Rogers at her Music Centre opening in the long-run musical. The first - night audience rose for a standing ovation to express that fact.

"And this is where I belong," said the blonde star as she reclined beside the pool of her fivestwood house the following day.

"I've been as outdoor girl all my life, and to face a year and a half in New York was almost more than I could stand. The only thing that kept me going was Hello, Dolly. It's an emazing show; it does as much for the cast as it does for the audiences."

At an age—35—when most of her fellow stars of Hollywood's glamor era are semi-retired, or passed on, she continues purring the Ginger Rogers image. She remains lovely and blonde (the red hair went long ago). She can still dance up a storm and play a set of tennis that would leave most men exhausted.

Hello, Dolly marks her return to the Los Angeles stage after a 30-year absence. In the early 1930s she starred at the Hollywood Pantages in a truncated version of Girl Crazy, in which she appeared on Broadway. Then began the long, distinguished film career highlighted by her dancing with Fred Astaire and by the Oscar for Kitty Foyle in 1940.

Her return will be brief. Next Ginger takes Dolly to San Francisco, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington, with a possible stand in Chicago.

Surgery Can Correct Flabby Throat

Dear Dr. Molner: My problem, at age 47, is a very flabby throat and chin line. My mother (71) has the same condition but naturally worse.

She says it always made her self-conscious and unhappy and she hates to see it develop in me. It is more disfiguring because it is not softened by plumpness. I can only ask you to take my word for it that it is very ugly.

My mother encourages me to investigate plastic surgery before it is too late, as she believes it to be in her case, although she has otherwise a comparatively youthful face and figure.

We can afford it, but I am filled with doubts and fears, not the least of which is fear that a surgeon would secretly think me a vain and silly fool. Would you advise me to go ahead or forget it? — Mrs. F. V.

Your problem is one which makes plenty of sense. The patients that plastic surgeons dread are the ones who think that if they only had their noses changed, they'd look like some movie star. They are bound to be disappointed. Surgeons can't provide a new face; they can only modify a feature here and there.

It is entirely logical to correct ears, that stick out, to bob a nose or build one up, to correct a very badly shaped jaw, and so on.

I have also discussed this with plastic surgeons who feel that some of their most satisfying (and satisfied) patients are those who have seemed to age faster than they should. For example, a business woman had her face "lifted" because her seeming age was so much greater than her real age. The surgeon didn't try to make a young girl of her. He just made her look her true age. Her self-confidence and her business both popped up. Sometimes a correction of abnormal bags under the eyes can have equally striking results.

In your case, Mrs. V., your wrinkled neck does not match the rest of you. By all means consult a plastic surgeon who probably can give you a very good idea in advance of what can be done.

I am not saying, "Go ahead and have the operation." At this distance I can't judge that — and not being a plastic surgeon I wouldn't be competent anyway.

What I am saying is to go ahead and find out from such a surgeon what you can expect. Then make up your mind.

Dear Dr. Molner: A corn on my little toe recently turned black. All pain is gone. Could this be cancer? What type of doctor should I see, a chiropodist or a medical doctor? — F. J. A.

It doesn't resemble cancer. There can be a little gelatinous material under a corn. The blackness suggests bleeding into this area, either from irritation, pressure or injury, and the relief from pain probably is only temporary. Go to either a chiropodist (podiatrist) or MD.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I think I have venereal disease, and have had it or two months. Is it too late or me to be cured? I also had bad headaches, am losing weight and having trouble with my eyes. Would it have anything to do with those conditions? Will I have to go to a hospital for treatments? — C. J.

No, it is certainly not too late to be cured, but the sooner you start treatment, the better. The disease would not cause the symptoms you mention, but nerves might. You need not go to a hospital or clinic.

Note to Mrs. G. T.: Since the dust has been identified as the cause of your husband's trouble, I certainly would explore use of some sort of a mask first before quitting his job.

Janice Caverly (with shovel) and Rosemarie Gatcum, Grade 7 students from King George Public School in Belleville plant white pine trees at Thomasburg under the direction of Management Forester Bill Hiscock of Tweed.

Belleville schoolboy Peter Settle acts as waterboy for some of the 10,000 trees being planted at Thomasburg this week.

Students End Tree Planting Project

This is the year for Centennial tree planting and it is safe to say that more young trees will be planted in 1967 than for many years.

But the two senior governments have had a two - year start on local municipalities, horticultural societies, and others who just this year are getting into the Centennial tree planting act.

Under the three year program approximately 30,000 young trees will have been planted by school children in the Quinte area — 10,000 of them this year on Moira River Conservation Authority property just north of Thomasburg.

The first year of Centennial planting saw Department of Highways property north of 401 highway north of Bayside planted. Last year planting was done at several locations but this year's final planting will all be done at Thomasburg.

Approximately 1,000 Grade 7 school children from school's in Belleville, and the Quinte area, Centre Hastings and from the Frontenac and Addington areas will take part in this year's planting.

The planting will go on for five days, "with pupil's from Belleville and the Quinte area handling the pails and shovels for the first three days. On Thursday and Friday children from Centre Hastings and from Frontenac and Addington will have their turn.

The children work in pairs with each two children planting anywhere from 20 to 25 trees.

The children are transported by buses from their schools to the planting area where they are divided into almost equal groups.

While one group, armed with shovels and pails of trees are engaged in tree planting, the other group is taken on a hike where they get in some tree identification.

Yesterday a fossilized boulder deposited by a glacier millions of years ago was spotted in a stone fence with the result that the kiddies had a minor lesson in geology.

In charge of this year's planting on the farms of Clare Carter farm are Bill Hiscock, management forester from the Tweed office of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, and Jack McMurray, forester technician, also from Tweed.

Tree planting by public school children is admittedly not the best, but according to Mr. Hiscock, the survival rate is amazingly good.

"It all depends on the weather," said the Tweed forester. "If we get rain most of the young trees will survive."

This year is the first time under the three-year Centennial tree planting program that all trees in Hastings are being planted at the one location.

And to mark the spot Moira Authority parks workers are preparing a handsome sign to mark the project for future generations.

Since the Moira River Conservation Authority was formed 20 years ago, approximately 15,000 acres of sub-marginal farm land have been purchased by the Authority and more than 2,500,000 trees have been planted.

The Authority reforestation areas are managed by the Ontario Department of Lands & Forests who this year will plant another 80,000 trees on Authority property.

In addition to it's reforestation program, the Moira Conservation Authority operates water control dams and has three major conservation areas at Vanderwater Park at Thomasburg, the Price Area at Actinolite and O'Hara's mill north of Madoc.

Thirty Tons of Feed Dropped Starving Cattle by Copters

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Helicopters dropped more than 30 tons of feed to starving southern Alberta cattle Monday and Alberta Welfare Minister L. C. Halmrast said he hopes Ottawa will share the cost of the operation.

Nine helicopters dropped feed and two mercy missions in the snow-stricken area, two of them from a Calgary firm which normally charges $450 an hour for commercial use.

Meanwhile, roads were cleared and power was restored to all but a few isolated areas.

Mr. Halmrast, Agriculture Minister Harry Strom and Lt.-Col. Arnold Lavoie of Edmonton, Alberta Emergency Measures Organization co-ordinator, flew over much of the stricken area by helicopter.

"We saw some dead cattle but not many dead adult animals," said Mr. Halmrast. "I'm afraid calf losses will be high. Cows are weak. We can't estimate losses because ranchers themselves don't know what's happening.

"The main concern is west of Claresholm and in the Pincher Creek area. . ."

The minister said the Alberta cabinet "has never discussed" compensation for lost cattle but this province "will certainly be prepared to share" in the cost of operating helicopters.

He said in an interview he hoped the federal government at least "might be lenient with us in the matter" of helicopter costs.

Ottawa has already offered that they have loosed us. . . . We hope they'll forget the bill."

Earlier, in Calgary, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said in an interview the federal government should mobilize RCAF helicopters. Two USAF helicopters are operating out of Lethbridge.

Snow and low cloud hampered helicopter operations Monday, particularly in an area about 40 miles south of Lethbridge, where a USAF "Huey" dropped bailed hay to stranded herds.

A Canadian Army helicopter and two others combined to drop feed west of Claresholm, 25 miles northwest of Lethbridge. Scores of volunteers helped in the drops.

One of the six helicopters at Lethbridge dropped food to 11 families on the sprawling Blood Indian reserve southwest of Lethbridge. Feed-dropping operations for 10,000 cattle on the reserve were to continue today.

Writing Styles Likely to Change

TORONTO (CP) — Writing styles and methods of presentation of the printed word must change if newspapers are to keep pace with transmission developments of the electronic age, St. Clair Balfour said today in his presidential address to the annual meeting of The Canadian Press.

Mr. Balfour reviewed the past and looked to the future in his address to members of CP, Canada's news-gathering cooperative that celebrates its 50th anniversary this year.

"I believe firmly in the future of newspapers, but I am sure they will be different from those we know today," he said. "Not only will our own technique change, but the changes adopted by the electronic media will force us to change our writing styles more rapidly than we think.

"Already there are 44 ground stations under construction around the world capable of transmitting to and receiving from satellites such as Telstar. It will mean, as a recent article in The Economist said, that the American parent will be able to watch his own son being killed on the battlefields of Vietnam. The view will be narrow, restricted and capable of distortion.

"It will be up to us to provide the balance, the interpretation, the editing and the presentation of the written word in such a way that will attract our readers and hold their respect. It won't be easy. It won't be cheap, but I am convinced it will be worth doing."

Pulitzer Prize Denied Salisbury Despite Jury

NEW YORK (AP)—R. John Hughes of the Christian Science Monitor has won the 1967 Pulitzer Prize for international reporting despite a jury panel's recommendation that the award go to Harrison Salisbury of the New York Times.

The award announcement Monday prompted loaded off a controversy after a source disclosed the jury panel voted 4 to 3 to honor Salisbury for his dispatches from North Vietnam.

Instead the panel was overruled by the Pulitzer Prize advisory board which voted 6 to 5 against Salisbury because his original dispatches failed to give the source of listed casualty figures.

In turn, the trustees of Columbia University upheld the board and went along with the recommendation that Hughes — the second choice of the jury panel — be honored for his coverage of the attempted Communist coup in Indonesia and the purges that ensued.

Salisbury, a Pulitzer winner in the same category 12 years ago, commented: "I put the opinion of the editors of The Times above my jurors. If The Times thinks my stuff is good, I put that above the Pulitzers or anything else."

There was no immediate comment from Hughes on the controversy but Michael J. Ogden, a member of the five-man panel, said he stood by the 4-to-3 jority vote for Salisbury.

Ogden said there were technical defects in the Salisbury dispatches but that their "impact and general overall effect" far outweighed other considerations.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Did you ever see such a lovely feather boa as Maerie was wearing?"

All-Indian Group Meets in Toronto

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — The all-Indian advisory committee to the minister of the Department of Welfare met its new director for the first time last Thursday in Toronto, and Melville Hill, a member, reports that the meeting was the most satisfactory one since the new committee was formed. Mr. J. M. Dufour, the director, has great power leadership, Mr. Hill states. The meeting was harmonious, with Mr. Dufour drawing the members out to express their opinions, and not forcing his own views on them.

At the close of the meeting the director expressed his own satisfaction with the committee. He has recently finished a project in community development, mostly with Indians, in Manitoba.

Experience has taught him that what the Indian needs is not paternalism but the opportunity to develop his own ability. His handling of the meeting gave promise that he is a man of sympathy who will help the Indians to help themselves.

Several concrete problems were discussed but not solved. It has just come to light that when the Canada Pension Act was passed, the Indian was left out. He is not eligible as he pays no income tax unless he has employment off the Reserve. There is no provision whereby he may subscribe to it voluntarily and eventually reap its benefits. Action will be taken to see that the Indian does not remain the man left out.

A second matter proved that Mr. Dufour had the interest of the committee members at heart. Meetings will be held, not on an arbitrary date, but at such times as they do not interfere with the busy season of the members. The farmer cannot well leave his farm during harvest time, nor the fisherman during the fishing season. Between meetings members will be kept informed of any developments which influence the welfare of Indians.

Under the previous director, the agenda was so filled that many matters could not even be brought up, and nothing really was accomplished. Henceforth the agenda will be small, with the object of thoroughly thrashing out the one or two items it will contain, the meeting decided.

Mr. Hill states that he feels that his people will now be able to make real progress in Ontario.

Hospital LA Plans Activities

NAPANEE — All sorts of activities are being planned in connection with the County Hospital. The Hospital Advisory has three projects lined up. The first is a dessert-bridge-whist party in May on Hospital Day, so named in honor of Florence Nightingale's birthday. This will be a real springtime event, with the accent on flowers, and on today and tomorrow.

In June the scene will change to the Town Hall for the Auxiliary rummage sale, with another sale of baked things in a separate room.

June was to have been the garden party of the Auxiliary, but the month is so filled with other Centennial events that the group will have to hold it in September again. It will be held in the gardens of Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Ellicott in September, with an alternative location so that it can be changed to a tea should the weather be unkind.

In June the hospital itself is making plans for a Centennial event. June 5 through 11 will be Hospital Week, with all members of the business staff in old-fashioned dress, and members of the nursing staff in uniforms of another day.

Saturday, June 10 will be a big day with activities afternoon and evening in Prince Charles School. Centennial costumes are in order for everyone. The afternoon will see a tea and bake sale, and the evening a variety show. All day there will be two displays of antique articles one of outdated hospital equipment, and the other of household articles. The doors will be open at 7.15 so that the public can view them, and the program will start an hour later.

All proceeds for the day will be given to the County Centennial committee.

Heading the committees for the week are Mrs. Linda Quevillon, Mrs. Flora Barr, and Mrs. Helen Loucks.

Delegates Attend Legion Convention

DESERONTO — A good representation of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch No. 280, delegates left Deseronto by bus Sunday morning to attend the district convention and service of remembrance at Lakefield. The host branch was Lakefield, Branch No. 77.

The morning was given over to regular business, and dinner was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the branch.

The election of officers took place during the afternoon session. Comrade Earl J. Brant was installed as Zone Commander of Zone F-3. Commander Brant is the first Indian living on a reserve to hold this office.

To commemorate the event, the Mohawk comrades of Branch 280 presented to the Zone a collar to be worn in turn by each commander. It is of buckskin, beautifully beaded by an Indian woman who is master of the craft whom Comrade Melville Hill had met in his work with the Department of Lands and Forests.

Incorporated in the design are the Tree of Peace, the three Mohawk clans, the Turtle, the Bear and the Wolf, 12 teepees, each with the number of one of the branches.

Comrade Hill made the presentation and described the significance of part of the design. Zone Commander Brant will be the first to wear it.

Zones represented at this district convention have branches at Bowmanville, Cobourg, Belleville, Lindsay, and Peterborough.

Canada Will Retain Present NATO Force

OTTAWA (CP)—No major Canadian military reduction in Europe is foreseen here despite U.S. and British announcements Tuesday of troop cuts.

Canada did a bit of military reducing in Europe last month when the number of CF-104 Starfighter bomber and reconnaissance squadrons was cut to six from eight.

However, this move was associated more with the shift of all NATO troops out of France and the decreasing number of planes available for squadron duty than with a deliberate reduction on the lines of that announced by London and Washington.

Canada maintains a 5,300-man air division and a 6,900-man infantry brigade group in West Germany.

Informants said a brigade is the smallest unit which could operate effectively in Europe and any reduction would mean complete withdrawal of the brigade. There is no immediate prospect of this.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield urged today a "phase by phase reduction" of U.S. troops in Europe, and said a planned 35,000-man cut is a good start in that direction.

At the same time, the chief Senate advocate of a substantial reduction in U.S. troop commitments in Europe indicated he will seek to keep the pressure on for continuing withdrawals.

The United States announced Tuesday a plan to withdraw up to 35,000 army and air force personnel, plus their dependents, from West Germany.

Britain and West Germany endorsed the move as part of an effort to cut the cost of European defence.

U.S. officials estimated the manpower transfer would mean savings of about $100,000,000 a year in foreign exchange expenditures.

The withdrawal of U.S. troops and of four squadrons of U.S.

British Await French Reaction To Bid to Enter Common Mart

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government, anxiously awaiting official French reaction to its new bid to join the Common Market, spread word today that will seek a second decision by the market to admit Britain. The hope is for an agreement in principle by the end of 1967.

Officials indicated that Britain was getting its application ready for submission to the Common Market headquarters in Brussels next week after a three - day debate in the House of Commons.

This document—free of qualifications, hedging or special pleading—is to be designed to inject an immediate note of urgency into Britain's bid to join the six-nation customs union.

Wilson himself set the tone in his calmly delivered but momentous statement in the Commons Tuesday, proclaiming his government's intention to push for membership "with all the vigor and determination at our command."

Official sources said Britain has no intention of being kept "hanging around" for perhaps a couple of years if French President de Gaulle chooses to prolong negotiations beyond a reasonable span.

No one knows whether de Gaulle may veto or stall Britain's bid for the second time.

Gold Thieves Identified

LONDON (AP)—Photographs of three known criminals, one of them badly scarred, were circulated through the underworld today by police hunting Britain's Great Gold Robbers.

Scotland Yard sources said it was the first break in a nationwide search for the gang who hijacked 160 gold bars worth £750,000 ($2,250,000) from an armored bullion truck in London Monday.

The photographs were picked out by the truck driver and two guards who were overpowered by the raiders. None of them were masks in the daylight ambush.

Police at docks and airports were given photographs of the three suspects and told to grab them on sight. At the same time, detectives tapped informers in underworld clubs in London and other centres.

Police said they had little doubt the stolen gold, weighing 1¾ tons, had been hidden in one place while the gang waits for the heat to ease off the search. Then it likely will be melted down for sale in small quantities.

Milk Bag Damage Was Mostly Minor

PATNA, India (Reuters) — An Indian state official today urged stronger packaging for powdered milk being sent here under international famine relief programs.

A. K. M. Hasan, deputy secretary of the Bihar state relief program, said about five per cent of the gift powdered milk received from Canada and other countries arrived in damaged packages.

Most of the damage, he added, consisted merely of the outer brown paper carton being torn while the inner plastic bag remained intact.

Hasan said the damage to the cartons could have occurred in rough handling en route to India. He added that the state government has issued instructions calling for extra care to be used in handling the cartons here.

Love His Cure For Wars

NEW YORK (AP) — A delegate with a banana skin stuck on his nose was walking down the aisle of the Village Theatre as Louis Abolafia launched his campaign platform for the presidency of the United States.

"I want to spread love through art," Abolafia was saying between bites of a banana. "If I become president, I will set up cultural centres throughout the country."

People's tastes would be improved," he explained. "Eventually love would spread all over the world and wars would become impossible because everybody would love everybody else."

De Gaulle Cautious

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle today told his cabinet that Britain's new move to join the European Common Market will have to be examined thoroughly by the six member states and this probably will take considerable time.

The cabinet, meeting for its regular weekly meeting, held a long discussion on the new British bid.

Fierce Ground Fighting Takes Big Toll of Reds

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces claimed 237 Communist dead today after two fierce battles at the opposite ends of South Vietnam.

The U.S. command said American infantry killed 181 Viet Cong in nearly seven hours of fighting with a Communist battalion in the Mekong Delta about 40 miles southwest of Saigon. Fifteen Americans were reported killed and 27 wounded in the engagement Tuesday. Action continued until around midnight under flares dropped from planes.

South Vietnamese paratroopers, reinforced by armored vehicles, reported killing 156 members of a Communist battalion trapped in a loop of the Song Bo River five miles northwest of Hue, the coastal city. Government losses were described as "very light" in the 24-hour engagement.

Hue, about 400 miles north of Saigon, has been under heavy pressure for two months from Communist attacks on roads, bridges, outposts and pacification teams.

The battle furnished added evidence of a heavy Communist buildup throughout Quang Tri and Thua Thien provinces. Hue is the capital of Thua Thien.

Rain squalls and high winds hindered ground action in the southernmost corner of South Vietnam near the Laotian border.

U.S. marines, however, claimed possession of the south ridge of Hill 881 late Tuesday.

The marine objective is to prevent a North Vietnamese regiment estimated at 2,500 men from holding three prime firing positions—Hill 881 south, 881 north and 861.

The marines claimed they killed 64 North Vietnamese in the long battle for the three hills. Reported marine casualties total 96 dead and 278 wounded.

U.S. Senator Wants U.S., Russia To Create Peace Force Within UN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One of the most vocal U.S. Senate critics of the Vietnam war suggested Tuesday night the creation of a peacekeeping force by the United States and Russia within the framework of the United Nations as a step in halting the conflict.

Senator George McGovern said that such an army should be empowered to order and enforce a ceasefire in Vietnam or wherever "small wars" erupt.

The South Dakota Democrat addressed the Philadelphia Bar Association at the University of Pennsylvania.

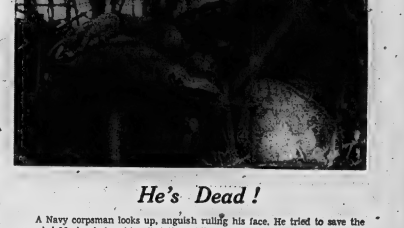
McGovern proposed an end to an immediate ceasefire as soon as a response to the bombing order is received.

Peking Says U. S. Jets Bombed Chinese Village

HONG KONG (Reuters) — China claimed today that four American jets bombed a Chinese village Tuesday, and warned its armed forces to be vigilant against any surprise attack by the United States.

A Chinese defence ministry spokesman, quoted by the New China news agency, said four U.S. F-105 jets dropped four bombs on the town of Nanping, about 20 miles north of the border with North Vietnam.

He said the bombs dropped at about 3 p.m., destroyed a house and three cow sheds.



The spokesman said the U.S. planes fled when Chinese Air Force aircraft attacked them.

None of the American planes was reported shot down.

In Washington, the U.S. defence department rejected the Chinese claim. The department said reports failed to show there was any evidence the charge was true.

The Communist party newspaper, People's Daily, threatened the United States with "doubly severe punishment" for the alleged raid.

The defence ministry spokesman said "warmongers" President Johnson had acted like a "cornered animal striking out in desperation" after five U.S. planes were shot down recently over Chinese territory.

Expo Crowds Ignore $35 Million Display of World's Art

MONTREAL (CP)—There is violence, color, serenity and passion packed into Expo 67's $35,000,000 international fine arts exhibition, but only a small portion of the huge crowds milling through the fair's turnstiles seem to be interested.

Museums, galleries and private collectors in 20 countries have sent some of their most prized works for display at the art exhibition.

The 200 works, on view at a two - storey gallery near the main entrance, date from thousands of years ago.

Officials of the fair estimated Tuesday night that about 33,300 persons have visited the gallery since Expo opened April 28.

The displays are insured for $35,000,000.

The exhibition ranges in subject matter from a classic self-portrait done by the 17th-century Dutch master Rembrandt in 1669 to the wild portrait of a woman done in a grotesque and sleepdash spirit by the contemporary United States painter William de Kooning.

From the Egypt of 2580 B.C. comes a plaintive dual statue of a man and woman seen side by side in enduring partnership; from the France of 1894 a study of war by the "primitive" painter Henri Rousseau.

Among pictures sent from the Soviet Union is Cezanne's famous Mount Ste. Victoire, with the mountain's brute form looming massively toward the viewer.

The effect of such realism is offset by the dazzling colors and intricate geometries of a 1951 work by Fernand Leger. This depicts the pneumatically-swollen figures of puppet men, typical of Leger, at work in a maze of scaffolding.

The gallery offers peaceful moments too, with the serenity of its Oriental exhibits, the gentle, sunlit touch of Pierre-Auguste Rodin and the ingenious playfulness of painters such as Paul Klee and Joan Miro.

The tempestuous world of Vincent van Gogh is on display too, as well as the exoticism of Gauguin and the saintly intensities of Georges Rouault and El Greco.

Weird African and New Guinea masks abound as do creations by ancient Mesopotamian and Sudanese sculptures which, despite the millennia that have passed place their creation, have a decidedly modern ring.

The ability of works to go on display so soon after being completed is exemplified by the half-frightened gasps of a few gallery visitors as they approached a picture painted in 1892 by Edvard Munch.

The picture's title is deceptively serene—Spring Evening in Karl Johan Street, Oslo.

The work in fact portrays a procession of death's heads through a quietly sinister thoroughfare of the norwegian capital.

160,000 More Men Requested

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. William C. Westmoreland has asked President Johnson to send another 160,000 fighting men to Vietnam to bring the total U.S. strength to 600,000, the New York Times reports.

Quoting informed sources, the dispatch from Saigon says Westmoreland, the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, made the request during his trip to the United States last week and urged that the reinforcements be sent "as soon as possible." Associates said he hoped the buildup could be completed by Jan. 1, The Times says.

Some 440,000 American troops now are in Vietnam, and the last reported plans called for them to be increased to 470,000 by the end of the year.

Family Expectancy May Create Adverse Pressure on Child Mental Health Assoc. Told

Great expectations for a child's academic accomplishments can lead to some breakdowns, a leading Toronto psychologist warned parents and teachers last night.

Too often parents will set their own scholastic achievements as the standard their offspring must also attain, Richard Shooter told a meeting of the Canadian Mental Health Association, Belleville branch, at Queen Elizabeth School.

The snag is such family expectancy may create adverse pressure to which the child will act psychologically.

"Appreciation of the child's personality and its capabilities both at home and in the school was crucial to personal development," he said.

"One of the fundamental needs is to be aware of your children as individuals; to be aware of what they can do and what they can take and be willing to accept it."

Mr. Shooter's speech — a keynote of Mental Health Week in Belleville — climaxed a busy day around town for the Toronto psychologist.

In the morning he spoke to Grade 12 students at Quinte Secondary School, then took the open line over CJBQ's popular "Why Not Call," and spoke to Children Aid Society workers on adolescence before talking to high school School.

"Throughout the day his repeated theme centred on the mental needs and attitudes of school-age offspring. Parents, teachers and even teenage students were in the audience when Mr. Shooter made his final address of the day at Queen Elizabeth School, following it with a question-answer period.

A key factor to be realized in child psychology, he warn-teachers at Moira Secondary ed, was that a problem does not remain isolated from the child's general outlook on life.

A student who suffers incompetency in one area is in danger of having other behavior patterns blemished.

"It never is isolated — it generally spills over into other areas of the child's life," said Mr. Shooter.

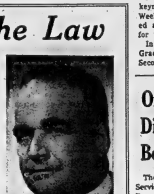
Mental Health and the Law

By JOHN A. PRINGLE
Crown Attorney
(Second in a Series)

Although there exist many good books and learned treatises on mental illness and the law, there art too few who have had experience with the problem. I cannot speak with great authority, but only from my experience as a citizen and a member of the legal profession with cases in the criminal courts involving mental illness.

In practically all instances, if there is any doubt as to an accused person's fitness to plead, and regardless of the alleged offence, the Crown Attorney will ask for a remand to allow a psychiatric to examine the person to see if he is fit to stand trial.

This precaution is necessary to ensure that the person standing trial must be able to instruct his counsel and know the nature and quality of his act.



The increasing incidence of mental illness manifested in the present rate of attempted and completed suicides shows the real need for people to seek assistance from clinics and family counsellors.

Many serious breaches of the law could be avoided if persons having knowledge of a potential exhibitionist or pedophile, to name only two, sought assistance of medical or legal counsel.

There are many channels for remedial action long before a person contravenes the law if the person himself or those concerned for his welfare would only seek help.

The laws of our country are designed to help people who genuinely wish to help others who are suspected of being or who actually are mentally ill.

After a mentally ill person contravenes the law, he is directed to the appropriate treatment, but by then an innocent party may have been injured. I urge anyone who wishes to help a person suspected of being mentally ill to seek early diagnosis and treatment.

Construction Back in High Gear

Following a rather sluggish winter, construction in Belleville swung back into high gear during the month of April with a total of $847,600 in new building permits being issued at city hall.

New residential construction made up well over one half of the total with permits for 33 single family residences amounting to $445,900, and 24 apartment units adding another $145,000.

The total in residential permits for the month was $606,100.

The big item in industrial construction was a permit to Stephens Adamson for erection of a new carrier building at $100,000.

New commercial construction totalled $124,000 the main item being a permit for building a new Shell service station on North Front Street north of Elliott Motors.

City Building Inspector J. Grant Sickle said the $847,600 total was the biggest April building list since 1961.

Worker Suffers Crushed Leg

PICTON — Alex Brownlie, about 35, of 21 Pine Street, Belleville, suffered a badly crushed leg last night while at work at the Lake Ontario Cement Plant at Picton.

Reports are that Mr. Brownlie fell about 16 feet, his leg being crushed by a heavy object which fell on him.

Mr. Brownlie was given emergency treatment at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital and was then transferred to the general hospital at Kingston.

Social Planning Subject of Talk At Meeting

Tuesday night was the May meeting of the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children at the John Street school. Guest speaker of the evening was Mr. Robert L. Porter B.A. M.S.W. (Master of Social Work). Mr. Porter is executive director of the Belleville United Community Service.

His talk on social planning was enlightening. Social planning is relatively new in Belleville and this planning has its source in an actual need or problem of the people. The key in planning must be at the beginning to give the plans a firm footing, as would an architect in following blue prints. The foundation is the putting into words of action the actual planning. If the plans have had a firm footing from the beginning it follows the plans would continue to develop.

The sample of social planning here in Belleville is the "Meals on Wheels" for our senior citizens. These tasty and nutritional meals are served once a week to these elderly and handicapped people by volunteers who give of themselves in time and energy. The physical branch of this social planning has allowed these elderly and handicapped people to lead a more active and productive life, one of the basic needs for these sometime forgotten people.

May 13 is the Parents' Rally and Well-ye meeting at the Rideau Regional Hospital School at Smiths Falls. This is a great day for the Cubs, Brownies, Guides and Scouts. They will be presented with well earned badges and promotion.

The association's Fly-ver of Hope campaign is now on and it is hoped it will be a success.

The June meeting will have the delegates who attend the 16th annual conference of the CARC in Ottawa give the highlights of this convention. We are particularly looking forward to hearing from Miss Connie Sorvell, one of the 300 young people, in the Youth Activities Commission of the conference.

Ontario Hydro Director to Be Speaker

The Director of Medical Services for Ontario Hydro, Dr. Donald K. Grant, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Association of Professional Engineers for Ontario at the Hotel Quinte tomorrow night. The subject of Dr. Grant's speech will be "Microbes of Modern Managers."

Dr. Grant, a native of Regina, Saskatchewan, received his degrees from the University of Saskatchewan and the University of Manitoba. He spent one year in general practice before joining the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps in 1940.

He was overseas from 1941 to 1946 and ended his army career with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

On return to Canada he spent a year in post graduate training in surgery before joining Ontario Hydro in 1947. He was promoted to his present position in 1958.

Prior to his address a reception will be held in the Hotel Quinte at 6.30 p.m. Members of the Belleville Medical Association and their wives have also been invited to hear Dr Grant.

Crew members give Coastal Carrier brush up after ship docked in Belleville today. Event marked opening of navigation season in Bay of Quinte.

Silk Hat, Stiff Blow!

Captain Robert Daneau holds on to silk hat as stiff breeze whips deck of his ship after traditional presentation by harbor master Don Barrett. The captain's ship departs tonight after discharging oil cargo.

Navigation Season Opens

The navigation season is officially opened in the Bay of Quinte.

While the bay has been ice-free for weeks and private sailors have been plying yachts and cabin-cruisers up and down the waterway, the formal signal marking the new season wasn't flown until today.

Traditionally, opening day dates from the arrival of the first commercial carrier to navigate the bay up to Belleville.

This year it's the 3,000-ton Coastal Carrier, an oil tanker out of Montreal which docked in Belleville early this morning.

It immediately began discharging its cargo — 16,500 barrels of fuel oil which will help heat Belleville next winter.

The Coastal's arrival was the signal for the age-old Canadian ceremony whereby a top hat is presented the first ship into port after the winter shutdown.

The ceremony was performed amidships by harbor master Don Barrett, with Captain Robert Daneau clutching his prize to his head as stiff bay breezes whipped the area.

Captain Daneau expected to clear Belleville tonight, returning to Montreal.

John R. Hubbs Loses Home

PICTON (Staff) — Fire completely gutted a Bloomfield district landmark Sunday night when flames swept through the former Homer Talcott residence on a side road just west of the village.

The large two-storey brick house, now owned by John R. Hubbs was a total loss including all contents, with only the walls remaining standing.

The alarm was turned into Bloomfield volunteer fire department about 10.30 p.m. Sunday. Flames shooting from the old home could be seen for miles around. Bloomfield Fire Chief, Ralph Rolston, said the wind blew the flames directly toward the barn and but it not been made of metal, the barn would have gone too.

Water was a problem for the firemen who had 1,000 feet of two and a half inch hose, through swampy ground to a creek at the rear which fed the blaze. Mr. Hubbs, a widower, was living alone on the property — no cause for the fire has been determined.

Kiwanians Told Way To Establish Plants

"A poorly - situated plant could have very detrimental effects on the industry's future," J. E. Lizard, Industrial Development Officer Rideau Area Canadian National Railways, said yesterday. Mr. Lizard was explaining good industrial development processes to the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

He outlined the whole procedure of establishing a plant. He began with the approval of the Board of Directors and the voting of project funds.

"We now have a team with money, knowledge of their source of raw products, a market analysis showing their prime sales area, a general outline of the plant configuration and supporting land requirements and a need for some place to put it."

Mr. Lizard stressed the fact that the land for the plant must be suitable. "You want level land with enough water to provide adequate drainage."

"The municipality should have an Official Plan and a Zoning or Restricted Area By-law which implements the Official Plan."

Mr. Lizard stated that rail services would have to be provided. "This is usually in the form of an industrial lead track on its own right-of-way, from which the various firms can have private sidings extended to meet their own particular requirements."

Mr. Lizard warned the Kiwanians that there were other details considered by industrialists when they were considering a municipality for plant sites. He suggested that if four or five municipalities are being considered that the "aesthetics" of the city will be under the microscope.

"Is the municipality is the most progressive? Has downtown deteriorated? Is anyone doing anything about it, or just talking?"

"If Bill or Jim is to run our plant there, what about a reasonable atmosphere for his wife and family? Are various civic organizations active in working for continued improvements? How long will they be outside-ers?"

Mr. Lizard offered advice for the municipality that desires more industry.

"Is your municipality organized to provide a suitable plant site? Are you really receptive to new industry in your outlook?"

"You may be in the race right up to the end, with all the good hard statistics, but only you as a person or group can put on the final spurt that wins the prize."

The representatives will seek to uncover some of the problem areas in communication and will establish action study programs to explore these problem areas.

Senior Citizens Record Memories on Tape

MARMORA—Marmora Town Hall was an interesting spot on Sunday afternoon when most of the senior citizens of the area accepted the invitation of Miss Grace Warren, historical convener of Marmora Women's Institute and curator of the district, to record their memories for posterity. Thomas Brady taped the voices.

The eldest citizen of the village, Julian Bedore, now of Hastings Manor, Belleville, was present and said he would celebrate his 99th birthday May 9. He recorded some of his and his late wife's fishing adventures.

Mrs. F. N. Marest (nee Pearce) recorded that the Marcasite business in Marmora was at present owned and operated by the fourth generation.

Altogether, over 30 recordings were made.

Gordon Bennett, chairman of centennial affairs, Marmora, spoke and Miss Warren called on Warden Shannon and the reeve of Marmora and Lake Township, John Wilkes, both of whom complimented Miss Warren on this effort to record something of the past, which is fast slipping away.

Mrs. T. Shannon and a company of Rangers served afternoon tea. Mrs. G. J. Meikle-John, co-chairman of affairs, thanked the citizens for their interest.

Farmers Plan March On Ottawa on May 24

PICTON (STAFF) — Eastern Canada's farmers are going ahead with plans to march on Parliament Hill May 24, in spite of a possible conflict with President Johnson's visit to Expo. The date was set Wednesday at a meeting in Toronto of the Ottawa march committee. Prince Edward County farmers will join the march in Ottawa. About 200 expected to go from here. Both farm groups, the Federation of Agriculture and the Farmer's Union are uniting in this effort to achieve better prices for milk. The Farmer's Union met with the Federation at it's regular monthly meeting Monday night in the board room of the agricultural office.

It was decided to call a meeting of all farmers to be held Friday night May 12 in Queen Elizabeth School, Picton. This is a tentative date only. Speakers will bring farmers up to date on the march and plans will be made for the Ottawa trip. At Monday's meeting, a committee of three was named to co-ordinate local participation in the march. They are Leo McAlpine of the Farmer's Union, Claude Werkhoven of the Federation and James Alexander of the County Milk Committee.

One of the problems facing both groups in connection with the Ottawa trip is lack of funds for buses etc. Neither group received the customary county grant and each has received only $200 from municipalities. Last night, (Tuesday) both the Federation officials and the Farmer's Union met with members of North Marysburgh Township Council. Both organizations received a favorable greeting from council and each were granted $50. North Marysburgh Township Council voiced their disapproval of the levy system of grants to organizations.

Anyone overlooked by canvassers may have their donation picked up by calling the Trenton Cancer Society office.

Community Can Help

Mental Illness Represents $1,000,000,000 A Year Loss

Seventy-five thousand Canadians are under treatment in mental institutions at any one time . . . In terms of absenteeism, accidents, alcoholism, and the like, mental illness costs Canadian business and industry nearly one billion dollars a year . . . More people are damaged and disabled by mental illness than by all the well-known physical illnesses put together.

These are some of the facets of a problem that JANETTE THOMPSON, past president of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, describes as the all-pervading "quiet disaster" of our time.

However, the situation is not one without hope of improvement. Even with existing facilities and with the aid of psychiatric services and drugs mental illness is yielding to better times for its victims.

In combatting mental illness the community has a part in play. Mrs. Thompson discusses it in the following article.

Across Canada communities, such as ours are recognizing Mental Health Week. But how many people are really aware of the extent of the problem that we are being asked to consider

Perhaps a few facts will serve to emphasize the seriousness of the situation. Mental illness disables more people than all other diseases combined.

Thirty percent of the population of any community has suffered from definite illness, with at least temporary disability. One out of every two babies born this year is destined to spend part of its life in a mental institution or clinic. Seventy-five thousand Canadians are under treatment in mental institutions at any one time and 50,000 new patients enter our hospitals each year. There are some 100,000 acutely ill children in Canada, but treatment facilities for only 400. In terms of absenteeism, accidents, alcoholism, inefficiency, and physical illness with emotional effects, mental illness costs Canadian business and industry close to $ billion a year.

If such a health problem suddenly appeared in Canada for the first time, like the outbreak of an epidemic, it is certain that a national emergency would be declared. But because mental illness has always been with us, because it flies always been difficult to understand, because it has until recent years appeared hopeless to treat, it has been allowed to creep along in an insidious way and we have learned to accept it as one of the inevitabilities of life.

Mental illness is not dramatic. Unlike cancer, and heart disease, it is not a common cause of death. But more people are damaged and disabled by mental illness than by all the well known physical illnesses put together. It is the all-pervading "quiet disaster" of our time. It startles and frightens us only when it appears in the form of serious and dramatic forms, among those close to us, or when it comes to us ourselves.

Until recently, even when someone close to us was attacked we attempted to hide it; to ignore it, to pretend that it just wasn't so. If the problem became too serious, we sent the patient off to an Ontario Hospital — away from the community — and to some extent "out of sight and out of mind".

Whether we like it or not, this day is rapidly drawing to a close, and the responsibility for our mentally ill neighbors is being brought back where it belongs — to the patient's own community.

It is doubtful that you will ever see another large Ontario Hospital built. More and more general hospitals are being encouraged to include psychiatric units as an expected facility for their communities. The time will come—and soon — when Mr. Jones, who has a mental breakdown like Mr. Brown, who has an appendectomy, will go to the Belleville General Hospital for treatment. Both will be able to be visited by their friends and families, and the day will show that Mr. Jones will recover more rapidly than if he were sent away to an Ontario Hospital.

But more and more we are coming to consider hospitalization as only one phase in the total treatment of the mentally ill person. We are now seeing more patients returned to the community before having passed through the acute stage of their illness. If a patient leaves hospital only to help from anyone, he stands a 50-50 chance of being back within a year. He needs support, guidance, and special services to help him on his way back to the community and to give him the best chance to recover from his illness.

After care services must be provided for the ex-patient by four main areas; as a fixed care, social adjustment, housing, and vocational rehabilitation. It is up to the community to see that these services are provided.

Most psychiatric authorities are convinced that the best way of treating mental illness is through a plan of continuous care. Such care must start with community facilities for early diagnosis and treatment, may involve intensive treatment in a hospital, preferably a psychiatric unit of a general hospital, and should be followed with community after-care services.

This pattern of treatment offers us hope for controlling the problem of mental illness more effectively. Our community cannot afford to do without it.

Quinte Planning

Last week's Quinte-zone meeting of the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council in Napanee evoked some interesting ideas relevant to the planning scene in this region.

They ranged from Trenton clerk- comptroller O. W. Larry's rock-the- boat suggestion that northern townships of Quinte should be separated into an improvement district, thereby leaving the more affluent southern areas with greater freedom to expand, to Hastings County Warden William Shannon's response that county boundaries were formed with the purpose of equitably distributing the economics of the region between rich and undeveloped areas.

"I don't think we should think as parochially as this," the Marmora reeve said of Mr. Larry's proposal.

Still, both Mr. Larry and Mr. Shannon have the same vision of prosperity in mind for those parts of the Quinte region whose economy today is lagging. Only their approach is different. Mr. Larry sees the northern townships as the target of a development program while leaving the south to its own devices. Mr. Shannon on the other hand would prefer to work from the south up and have the entire region co-operate — and sink or swim as a result.

Mr. Shannon told the meeting of the debt the southern townships owed to the north in the past when potash was brought down, and Trenton's economy was assured by northern timber that fed the town's mills. True, times have changed but the reeve had a point when he said: ". . . If the mines started up and if Bancroft were to have 10,000 people tomorrow, Mr. Larry would immediately say we should have a share in this assessment."

Certainly there are difficulties enough inherent in any attempt to achieve uniform planning and growth in the region due to the legacy of "muddling through" and lack of co-ordination in local government that has been handed down to the planning-conscious administrators of today.

Tweed reeve Mrs. Barbara Allen put it this way: "How do you cope in a small rural municipality the size of mine, with the hodge-podge of development that has occurred over the past 100 years, without any planning whatsoever?"

Harold Costell, reeve of North Grimsby and chairman of the Lincoln County Planning Committee had an answer: "Every town has a hodge-podge and you have to live with what you have," he said. But the mistakes of the past, he added, should not discourage smaller municipalities from introducing land-use plans.

He is right. Those directly concerned with planning, be it for land-use, industrial development, housing or what, need the stimulus of ideas from the smaller communities or from any other. Conferences such as this one in Napanee play their part.

Warden Shannon spoke of the success of joint ventures between the county and the separated municipalities of Belleville and Trenton, in the administration of the health, welfare of the aged and justice, and he envisaged this being carried over into the sphere of education and industrial planning.

Where industry is concerned he said a nine-member committee of county councillors had been established to promote new ventures. Progress may be slow in all these phases of planning, but when administrators come together, as at Napanee, the needs of the region do come that much closer to realization. Co-ordination was the keynote of the meeting, and there is no doubt close ties must be maintained among the various elected bodies to ensure the overall development of the region.

Guarding Children

The disappearance of a 12-year-old Trenton boy last February and last week's abduction of a Burlington girl of 10 are symbolic of the possibilities that occasionally disturb the relatively even tenor of life in Canada.

Latest information on Brian Thorpe is not encouraging. Trenton authorities believe he may have fallen into the Trent River while walking across a footbridge on his way home.

Marianne Schuett of Burlington is still missing. Here, in Belleville, reports have been received of a man resembling a suspect in the girl's disappearance.

It is one of the unhappy features of our society that children can fall prey to the attentions of mentally-disturbed people. The "don't talk to strangers" advice of parents, fortunately, is a valid instruction.

But more than that parents should make certain of the safety of their children by accompanying them where possible, and particularly (as in the case of the Burlington child) where they have to walk any distance alone.

Letter to the Editor

Water Could Be Tapped Near City

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

May 1, through your paper, present a few thoughts on Conservation. Although no longer favored by an appointment to the Authority I am still interested in it and in Conservation in general.

On several occasions the Mayor has spoken in public about the possible necessity of bringing water from Lake Ontario to supply the city of Belleville. The advantages and disadvantages of this should be carefully examined before the city commits itself to such a course. At the fall annual meeting of the Ontario Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America, of which I am a member, there was a symposium on pollution. One of the speakers was Dr. G. B. Langford, a former director of the Great Lakes Institute.

The picture he painted of the future of the Great Lakes was grim indeed. In spite of the efforts that have been made, the situation as far as pollution is concerned, is deteriorating. After the meeting, I talked with Dr. Langford and asked him what his opinion of Belleville would be. He said that he could not make a definite answer without investigation, but he believed that water for the city should be sought north of the city. He further stated that there was enough water in Hay Bay, water, in Southern Ontario, for all future uses provided it were caught and cared for.

My opinion in this matter does not differ from that held by the Water Control Advisory Board of The Authority, particularly Mr. Bell, the chairman. Plans for reservoir capacity were contained in the original report on the Moira watershed.

The second matter is that of the small representation on the Authority allotted to the city of Belleville. Some will recall that I made very strenuous efforts to have this changed in 1961 when I was still chairman of the Authority. I was even successful in having the full Authority pass a resolution which was sent to the minister, Mr. Simonette, asking that more representation be given to the city of Belleville. I had every reason to believe that the then deputy minister, Mr. Hilliard, was giving our resolution full support. It looked as though we were going to achieve our aim, until one day Mr. Hilliard called me to say that the matter was being laid over on account of the appointment of a Parliamentary Committee on Conservation. In part, I might say that the only representation on the Authority opposed the petition for more representation, was the present chairman of the Authority.

The brief to the Parliamentary Committee from the Moira Authority stressed the necessity for more representation. The city of Belleville, through its council, endorsed this brief. The Moira Authority had a chance to defend its brief. This was ably done, not by either the chairman or the chairman but by Mr. Graham Bell and the secretary - treasurer. On the same day the City of Belleville was invited to appear before the committee, it so happened that I was in the committee room to present a brief on a matter not concerning the Moira Authority. After I had presented my brief I said a few words to the committee on the subject. Having no official status either as an authority member or an alderman the interest in my remarks was limited.

While I heartily commend Mayor Ellis for his two articles on the confused state of municipal government and taxation, may I humbly suggest that had he headed a strong committee of council before the parliamentary committee on conservation their report might have recommended changes that would have increased the number of representatives for the city of Belleville.

Mini-Morality Cult

Adapting to the Modern World

Peterborough Examiner

Allan Grossman, the Ontario Minister of Reform Institutions, has been reported as having remarked, in apparently assuming the role of resident sociologist of the Ontario government, in view of his portfolio this is not inapt, for the penal system which he administers is a direct product of social attitudes and morality (some of which are now clearly outdated). This a recent address by him was delivered to the Humber Valley, Ontario Club on "LSD and the mini-morality."

His attitudes to youth seem, on the whole, to be much commendably tolerant. He is not disturbed by long hair, modern teenage mores or peaceful demonstrations. And he concludes not merely that today's youth is better informed and more sophisticated than his generation but that "today's young" parents." The main thrust of his attack is directed, against the excesses of what he calls the mini-morality, — those who advocate experience for the sake of experience, those who proudly advertise their lack of religious faith; those who endorse permissiveness — even the youngest "teenager". He expresses suitable — and no doubt necessary strictures on the indiscriminate use of LSD. But he goes a little further than this. He asks whether public censure and condemnation are sufficient deterrents or whether more severe penalty should be invoked against those whose irresponsible urgings may, if followed, lead to individual and social threat to a large segment of society.

Here Mr. Grossman is raising a prospect, admittedly in a tentative way, which is full of his own dangers. Canada has already made a questionable excursion into limitations on the freedom of speech in the matter of hate literature. It is inhibited by the law and by moral considerations from considering restrictions on their expression of opinion on matters of morality, religious, mental and physical health and the like. If, for instance, we were to ask the penalty for Dr. Timothy Leary extolling the virtues of LSD or Pierre Berton that for those for premarital sex, it could presumably become possible to prevent people opposing fluoridation of advocating (opposing) the death penalty. These are very tricky waters to embark upon.

However one may also question his definition of 'minimorality'. We cannot, for one thing, think of many people who have advocated premarital sex for even the youngest 'teenager'. Nor do we see that it is more immoral or amoral to advertise one's lack of religious faith than it is to advertise one's religious faith. Also it seems to us highly questionable as to which is the real immorality: to be what we are abandoned some standards because they are hypocritical or to pretend to be what we do who maintains them. Is the situationist more of a mini-moralist than the moral reactionary?

Finally as Mr. Grossman says, it is a particularly trying time both for parents and children. The inevitability of it is for us to make are both more rapid and of greater magnitude than those that have surely one of the most crucial adjustments that is being made is in the very fabric of morality — moving it from a weighty emphasis on sex, drink and dogmatic religious belief to our behaviour to our fellow-men, war, social conditions and other more crucial concerns. In these matters the older generations clearly have a rather poor record and, as Mr. Grossman says, youth is probably more appreciative of the problems and more prone to current conditions than its elders.

Debate on Guillotine Rule Likely at Next Session

OTTAWA (CP)—A crackdown on prolonged Commons debates through use of the so-called guillotine rule is in prospect for the new session of Parliament opening May 8.

The rule was one of several revisions in Commons procedure adopted in 1965 and continued on a temporary basis for the current session that began Jan. 18, 1966. The revisions will be extended into the new session.

First use of the guillotine was made by the government in the debate which led to unification of the armed forces.

It forced the issue to a vote Tuesday night after 13 days of deadlock on the bill's clauses. There had previously been 18 days of hearings in the Commons defence committee.

Despite an outcry from some Conservatives and charges of closure, there was little public reaction. Liberals claim the guillotine' move was widely accepted as the only alternative the government had.

This has led to a general feeling among parliamentary observers that cabinet ministers will rely on the rule from now on whenever an issue becomes bogged down in lengthy debate.

First step in the guillotine is for a minister to propose that an all-party committee be requested to consider a fixed time schedule for a particular bill. The committee must report back to the House within three days.

If the committee cannot agree on a timetable, the cabinet minister may give notice of a motion fixing a schedule. This motion can be debated for a maximum of one day before going to a vote. If it passes, debate is limited to the time proposed by the minister.

The minister must allow a minimum two days for second reading, two days for clause-by-cause study and one day for third reading.

Some Liberals are concerned that too much reliance on the guillotine could arouse public feeling against the government. Some of the old-timers still are sensitive over the way the St. Laurent government applied the old debate-cutting closure rule to the 1956 pipeline debate.

That year, closure was introduced before debate had begun, stirring the opposition to an emotional outburst unprecedented in modern parliamentary history.

The Liberals used closure again in December, 1964 to cut off the marathon flag debate, it proved to be a popular decision.

Tariffs at Stake

Canada Prepared for Economic Jolt If Britain Joins ECM

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is not counting on retaining permanently any of its special advantages in trade with Britain if Britain wins membership in the European Common Market, says a trade department source.

There is hope here that Britain will be able to negotiate a transition period of several years for Canada to adjust to the market's tariffs.

The second British bid for membership now also brings some reductions in the market's tariff levels. But this is so complicated by current world tariff negotiations in Geneva that it must be regarded doubtfully.

About 95 per cent of Canada's exports to the United Kingdom enter duty-free. Of that total 45 per cent has the additional advantage of Commonwealth preference; that is, British applies duty to the same goods when they are bought from non-Commonwealth countries.

The preference applies mostly to manufactured products, which make up somewhat more than 10 per cent of sales to Britain.

Canada is seriously concerned about the fate of its aluminum, newsprint and pulp exports, and there is apprehension about the whole range of agricultural products.

Within Canada's sales of $1,123,000,000 to Britain last year was a total of $287,000,000 in agricultural products. This included $133,000,000 worth of wheat—down from $140,000,000 in 1965—and $16,800,000 worth of flour, down from $19,600,000 a year earlier.

Oilseed exports, totalling $25,000,000 last year, would become subject to market duties, as well as about $20,000,000 worth of soybean oil cake and meal and animal feed. Canada sold Britain $13,000,000 worth of cheddar cheese in 1966, another export that would be affected.

The trade department makes this breakdown of changes in its sales volume to Britain:

—25 per cent now entering Britain duty-free and without preference would not be affected.

—15 per cent would lose preference but continue to enter duty-free.

—20 per cent would lose free entry and become subject to duty.

—27 per cent would lose both preference and free entry, becoming subject to duty.

Four per cent already subject to British duties would become subject to higher or lower market duties.

Banks Split Shares

TORONTO (CP) — Bank of Nova Scotia said Tuesday it will mail to shareholders May 15 four additional shares for each one held.

Shareholders will be asked to confirm the 5-for-1 stock split at the next annual meeting Jan 1, 1968.

Bank of Nova Scotia rose 75 cents on the Toronto Stock Exchange Tuesday to $77.50.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Royal Bank of Canada announced Tuesday it plans to split its shares on a five-for-one basis and a notice to shareholders advised them of a special general meeting June 20 for approval.

Commenting on the proposal, W. Earle McLaughlin, chairman and president of Royal, said:

"The subdivision of shares will not alter a shareholder's proportionate interest in the bank. However, we believe it will be of advantage to the bank and its shareholders in that it should facilitate wider distribution of the shares."

Securities Commission Adds Staff

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Securities Commission is in a stronger position to police the province's new securities act as a result of a sharp increase in its staff.

Harold S. Bray, OSC director, says the commission now can take quick action against delinquent companies. The staff, now 76 compared with 50 a year ago, is soon expected to reach 85.

The act, which became effective May 1, has been described as far-reaching in overhauling the province's securities laws.

The act takes a tougher stand on such things as proxy solicitation, takeover methods, prospectuses and fuller financial disclosure on an interim basis.

It also requires that insider trading be disclosed. This part of the act goes into effect June 15.

Insiders are described as directors or senior officers of a company or any persons or company owning more than 10 per cent of equity capital of a corporation.

The commission will also have more influence over the Toronto Stock Exchange, not only because the new TSE president, John Kimber, is the former chairman of the OSC.

Henry E. Langford, former president of Eastern and Chartered Trust Co. who took over the OSC chairmanship in March, is confident the commission will be able to handle administration and policing of the new act.

The commission is divided into four operating sections, each with a deputy director up from OSC ranks.

The administration section handles insider trading, financial disclosure, preliminary processings of filings and applications for registration.

The prospectus division has been made fully professional in character by appointment of legal, accounting and analysts teams.

The registration section will deal with the variety of classes of registrants entitled to trade securities or give advice and the investigation section becomes the OSC's policing agency.

British Await French

Bet Wilson's men were confident that their application stands a better chance than the one made by Harold MacMillan's Conservative government in 1961.

On that occasion the British began the negotiations to see only whether "suitable terms for entry" existed. De Gaulle gave his answer—"non"— two years later.

This time the French and other pro-British partners in the Common Market are confronted by a straight-forward request to join the Treaty of Rome, under which the European Economic Community was founded a decade ago.

The first clear reactions on a high level are anticipated at the NATO summit meeting in Rome May 29-30.

The French cabinet was reported ready today to discuss the British bid for membership —but it was not known whether the de Gaulle government would break its silence on the matter.

French newspapers today were generally cool to the new British bid. The Gaullist party's official newspaper, La Nation, wondered whether Britain had become sufficiently dedicated to Europe in the four years since its last bid for membership.

But de Gaulle's brother-in-law, Jacques Vendroux, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the French National Assembly, said he would welcome British membership, although he was emphatic in saying that no changes should be made in any of the major agreements reached by the six since the signing of the Rome treaty 10 years ago.

Wilson's readiness to embrace the full existing rules of the Common Market, thereby virtually ditching special relations with the Commonwealth and the U.S., is considered by British officials to have significant appeal to de Gaulle who seeks development of a powerful third force to balance the strength of both the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Wilson told the cheering Commons that help major issues—such as the need for time to allow British farmers to adjust to managing without subsidies—should be negotiated before entry.

He immediately won the support of Opposition Leader Edward Heath and Liberal Leader Jeremy Thorpe.

Wilson's further remark that "lesser issues" could be dealt with after Britain is safely in the EEC aroused foreboding among anti-market factions in his Labor party.

Inside Wilson's cabinet several ministers were known to be deeply disturbed by the course of events, but informants said none was prepared to consider resigning—at least at this stage.

Cominco Cuts Price Of Zinc

MONTREAL (CP)—Cominco Ltd. announced Tuesday that, effective immediately, its Canadian zinc price has been reduced three-quarter cents a pound for prime western zinc, to 13¼ cents a pound.

Grade extremums will remain unchanged for high-grade and special high - grade zinc, at three-tenths of a cent and one cent a pound respectively.

High-grade zinc will sell at 14.35 cents a pound and special high-grade zinc at 14¼ cents a pound.

Cominco's announcement follows reductions in zinc prices by some U.S. producers.

In Winnipeg, E. S. Austin, president of Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd., said Tuesday any decision to reduce that company's price for prime western zinc would not be made for at least 24 hours.

Hudson Bay produced 73,000 tons of zinc from its mine at Flin Flon, Man., last year, third highest production in Canada.

Reader Feels That Height Is Stressed Over Brains

Dear Doris: Do you know what the next favorite tools nowadays is? (The first one is how much money one has.) Well, the second is height. It isn't how many brains a chap has, how much character he has, how much personality; it is, how big is he? A man can be a detriment to society, but if he is tall enough it does not matter one iota. This goes for everyday conversation. When the aunts and uncles gather, newspaper reporters — you name it, you hear it. You can see how that makes a little guy like me feel (five-foot-three) I feel as though someone will step on me some day and I'll be finished.

Think of this, my friends, when you refer to this touchy subject in the presence of us dwarfs. — Touchy.

Dear Touchy: I have one diminutive male friend whom I highly prize and who says, "What matter how tall or how short a guy is? He can have a six-foot personality, can't he?" So can you.

Far too much emphasis is put on physical height, and that's for sure.

Dear Doris: I've been wearing lipstick since I turned 13 and it hasn't made me "spend hours standing on the corner talking to the current boy friend."

I spend much of my time participating in sports. I also like to read. I enjoy good poetry and am an average teen-ager.

The thing that forces teen-age girls out onto the street corners to talk to their boy friends, is parents that don't realize it's time to loosen the apron strings. — Lipstick? Why Not!

Why Not: — And that it's better to let them talk to the boys in their own front room? I agree

To Hoping Graduate: If your teeth are of a natural creamy color, nothing on earth will turn them to pearly white. But there may be a brownish film of calculus dulling them down; and past a certain point tooth-paste fails.

Let your dentist clean them once; and he'll refer you to a specialist if he thinks you need special help.

Restraining the laughs because of tooth-consciousness will give your whole personality a queer look. Ever think of it.s?

Dear Doris: In one of your articles, you said something to the effect that good clothes sell you."

Wouldn't you know I've lost that paper, so my next step is writing directly to you. I thought it was perfect; what was it? — A Ran of Yours.

Dear Fan: What, indeed? I wouldn't mind taking credit for such a sage remark, but we can't seem to track it down here.

The idea is fine. People, certainly tend to size us up by the clothes we wear, especially at first sight. On a second or third look — if the first has sparked a little interest — they are likely to pay a little heed to a happy smile and an intelligent expression.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I'm always at Jimmy to get his nose out of a book and go out and play. I've read that children use reading as an escape. I'm not going to let him turn into an anti-social bookworm."

A child may retreat into activity because he is unhappy or unsuccessful, but he will show other signs of unhappiness as well. He will act sullen and miserable or be uncommunicative or completely friendless. These are things about which to be concerned.

Children turn into bookworms for many reasons — not all of them undesirable. Jimmy may have a true love of books and a desire for knowledge — which should be no cause for concern.

reading, or any other "loner" activity because he is unhappy or unsuccessful, but he will show other signs of unhappiness as well. He will act sullen and miserable or be uncommunicative or completely friendless. These are things about which to be concerned.

Here you see a Peach Meringue Pie but it is put together in a jiffy and can be made by inexperienced harried hostesses. Mary Moore gives each easy step in detail. Buy the packaged ingredients and have them at hand on your emergency shelf.

Peach Pie Is Quick'n' Easy Dessert

By MARY MOORE

John brought the new young minister home after the evening service.

The wheels whirled in Shirley's head: what could she make quickly and easily and that would be attractive to two young men? She had this peach meringue pie to test for us and without a moment's hesitation excused herself and went to the kitchen.

All went wonderfully. When the minister took his first bite he said, "I love any pie with a graham cracker crust. Will you write this out for my new wife?" She sure would!

PEACH MERINGUE PIE
(graham cracker crust)

Crust:
1¼ cups fine graham wafer crumbs
¼ cup soft butter
¼ cup sugar

Filling:
One 3-oz. pkge. vanilla pudding mix
One 20-oz. can peach slices (or halves)
1 cup peach juice (see below)
1 tsp. Angostura bitters (buy this at Hostess counter)

Meringue:
2 egg whites
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. cream of tartar
¼ cup sugar.

Blend crust ingredients with wooden spoon (or by hand). Press into 9" pie plate evenly making top edge even and smooth. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 6 min. Chill.

To make Filling, drain peaches and measure juice. You should have 1 cup. If you do not have 1 cup add water to make it up to 1 cup. Heat peach juice and milk together in heavy saucepan. Stir in dry pudding mix and cook, stirring frequently, until thick. Pour half of filling into baked and chilled crust. Arrange half of the drained peaches over the pudding in shell. Pour over remaining pudding mixture. Cool.

To make Meringue sprinkle salt and cream of tartar over egg whites and beat until foamy. Add sugar, 1 tbsp. at a time, while beating until stiff and glossy. Pile on pie in 3" wide circle. Arrange remaining peaches attractively at center and bake meringue at 425 deg. Fahr. for 5 min. or until meringue is tinged with gold. Chill if dessert but if footsteps are approaching your door, the chilling step may be skipped.

NOTE: Put the two leftover egg yolks in a small jar, cover with 1 tbsp. water, put on lid. Store in refrigerator and use in scrambled eggs or eggnog for next morning's breakfast.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

GUIDE CONFERENCE

The Provincial annual meeting and Conference of the leaders of the Girl Guides of Canada (Ontario Council) was held on Thursday, April 27, and Friday, April 28 in the Centre for Continuing Education in Elliott Lake.

Approximately 250 were present, including some members of the Local Associations. All areas in Ontario were represented in spite of the long distance had to travel. Belleville were billeted at the Centre which is a series of apartment blocks that have recently been converted into a residential school for adults wishing to take program fees, and for summer courses in arts, crafts and languages.

The hospitality and friendliness of the people in this northern mining community were felt at every turn, enabling the Guiders to see something of the surrounding district including a tour of the processing plant at a uranium mine.

The theme of the conference was "Understanding Through Communication," and as well as hearing from members of the Movement on the Dominion and National level, the Guiders were privileged to hear from other outstanding citizens mostly women.

The guest speaker at the main banquet was Mrs.' (Dr.) Orange of Sudbury, member of the Board of Regents of Laurentian University who spoke on the contribution that women could make to society through boards, councils and volunteer organizations.

Mrs. Eric Colwill, the editor of the Elliott Lake Standard and Mrs. Clark Johnson, who has served on councils and had been a school board member in the Toronto area were part of a panel discussion which also included Mrs. W. A. H. Filer, Deputy Chief Commissioner of the Girl Guides of Canada, and Mrs. H. F. Crosby Deputy Provincial Commissioner.

Woman Nearing 100 Keen Of Mind and Quite Happy

MONTREAL (CP) — Fashions were impressive when she was a young woman, says Anne Seguin, who celebrating her 100th birthday May 10.

She remembers nostalgically the bustles, ostrich feathers and little laced boots with which her sex adorned themselves.

"Women were really beautiful then."

The great-grandmother of 50, grandmother of 28 and mother of eight has been in hospital in Montreal for two years but still enjoys reading books and newspapers.

Mrs. Seguin says women are no happier today than they were in her time.

Her memory is still keen and some of the prominent names of the early part of the century are fresh in her mind. She recalls Henri Bourassa, founder of the Montreal newspaper La Presse, and former prime minister Wilfrid Laurier as "really a good hotel room in Toronto after the middle of May," a reservations clerk at one hotel predicted.

Montreal, she wanted to become a teacher but said her father vetoed this because the profession at that time was not highly regarded.

She stayed at home on her father's farm until she married Pierre Seguin, a farmer at Pointe Fortune, Que., on the Ontario border.

She and her family rejoiced when women obtained the vote.

"That made one more vote for the Liberals."

She added she had always been a Liberal but one of her sons had turned Conservative. "I told him that Duplessis was too old-fashioned for progress."

TORONTO HOTELS FILL UP

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's centennial and Expo 67 are helping to fill this city's major hotels, hotel spokesmen said Tuesday. "It will be hard to get a good hotel room in Toronto after the middle of May," a reservations clerk at one hotel predicted.

English School Operates in Moscow

MOSCOW (Reuters) —Children from 71 countries go to school in the heart of old Moscow in a house where one of Russia's best-known propagandists of violent revolution was born.

Founded in 1949, the Anglo-American School has become an important part of the life of the Soviet capital's foreign community.

Although primarily for American, British and Commonwealth children, it accepts children from any country if they can speak and understand English sufficiently well to follow the lessons, and if there are places available.

Five days a week, the children converge on the two-storey yellow stucco building in a quiet street.

At the school this year there are children from Australia, Argentina, Canada, Ceylon, Chile, France, West Germany, Ghana, Greece, India, Israel, Italy, Japan, Nigeria, Norway, Pakistan, Sierra Leone, Tanzania and Zambia.

The teachers—10 full timers, including the principal—are recruited from Britain and the United States, five from each country. They normally stay for at least two, and often three years.

In 1942, Prince Peter Kropotkin, Russian anarchist-theoretician, was born in the house, which is listed as a state monument by the Soviet authorities. It bears a plaque commemorating the prince.

The school is managed by the ambassadors of Britain and the United States through a school board appointed by them.

Ann Landers

Ann Prints Letter Destined for Basket

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My letter is a complete Do-It-Yourself Problem Solving Kit which would put you out of business overnight, so of course it will land in the wastebasket. I am going to mail it anyhow.

All problems can be divided into four categories.

ANN LANDERS

(1) Problems that must be talked over with a psychiatrist, a clergyman, a doctor, an astrologer, your hairdresser or barber, the laundress, a tea-leaf reader, a plumber or a tool and die maker.

(2) Problems that call for action. You must marry it, divorce it, wash it, bury it, sell it or housebreak it.

(3) The problem for which there is no solution, so you must forget it.

Classic examples of this last type are: Domineering mother-in-law, loud-mouthed sister-in-law, father-in-law who thinks he is Jack Benny, a husband who snores.

If your readers knew these facts they would not need you ever again. But please don't stop writing, Annie, your column is my laugh for the day. — ILLINOIS.

DEAR ILL: Thanks for writing. Your letter was mine.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three years ago dad died leaving my mother, my three brothers and me. I was so broken up over dad's death that I went to live with my grandparents for a year, just to get away from the house that held so many memories. I was 14 at the time.

When I returned home I discovered my mother had fallen for a boss and was spending every possible minute with him. My brothers and I hate this man and mom knows it. When he got hauled off to jail six months ago, mom said he would never enter our home again.

Three months ago he came back and is now living with us. Mom says we have to respect him because he is her choice. How can children respect a guy who has a record for burglary and is living with a woman he is not married to?

It is sad when a teen-age girl has to write such a letter about her mother, and I am sorry, but I need your advice. Should I go live with my grandparents and have some peace of mind? — TIRED.

DEAR TIRED: Yes, go live with your grandparents. If there is any chance that they can take your brothers, too, I recommend that they go also, provided they feel as you do about this shameful mess.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was amused by the letter from the woman who had two daughters-in-law — one a neat housekeeper (like herself) and the other a sloppy housekeeper. My mother used to say she could always tell who was boss by the looks of the house. According to Mom, when the wife is boss, the house is neat and orderly. When the man is boss, the house is messy and disorganized.

I believe this is true. Do you? — REGULAR READER.

DEAR REG: No. The man can be boss, but if his wife is a slob the place will look like it, since it is up to her to do the housekeeping.

SYRUP GOES WELL

The wild rose hip, used to make syrup in Europe, is richer in vitamin C than almost any other fruit.

to the contractor who doesn't think a dime can prevent a $50,000 law suit

We know it sounds hard to believe, But we've proved it time and time again.
During the past few years we've been laying our cables underground. They now run up streets, down streets, across lots and under buildings. In fact, right now it's pretty hard to dig a hole in the ground without damaging a few of them.
Many of these cables are the major means of communication for large corporations, small companies and hospitals. The slightest damage to the smallest cable could result in death because patients were unable to contact their doctors at a hospital, or considerable financial losses to firms that had their service disrupted.
The people who suffered losses, as a result of the break in service, sometimes file suit for damages. Not against the Bell Telephone Company, since we are not responsible — but against the contractor.
It's very easy to prevent this from happening to you. Simply call our Repair Service before you start digging. We'll send someone out to locate any cables that might be on the site.
Incidentally, we'll also return the dime.

BAGPIPES ON EQUATOR

SINGAPORE (AP)—The island republic of Singapore is getting an all-girl band of 20 bagpipers, 15 drummers and one majorette, to be trained by two of Britain's famous Dagenham Girl Pipers. Because pipestem legs would look unseemly beneath a kilt, shapely underpinning is a prime factor in recruitment.

Mrs. S. Hayton welcomed the visitors and the worship service was conducted by Mrs. J. Ewing. Mrs. G. Priest gave an inspiring meditation on the Scripture. Mrs. J. Daniels led in prayer. The offering was received by Mrs. H. Beatty and Mrs. J. Patterson and was dedicated by Mrs. J. Daniels.

Mrs. L. Carter thanked Mr. and Mrs. VanWinkkoop.

Glistening Vinyl Is More Popular Than Ever Especially for Rainwear

NEW YORK (CP)—If you already look wet before you step outside on a rainy day this spring, chances are you're right in style.

The so-called wet look—the glistening vinyl that came in strong a couple of seasons ago—is more popular than ever, especially for rainwear for the younger set.

Anne Fogarty goes for full pyramid raincoats in black-and-white abstract print vinyl. Another black vinyl raincoat is embroidered in a beige abstract floral pattern.

Some designers are using vinyl rainwear with a costume dress. Malcolm Starr tops a black silk and worsted dress with a matching A-line raincoat in eire. Oscar de la Renta combines a cerise dress with a see-through clear vinyl coat sprinkled with glitter.

Cosmo Kinsel of Montreal designed a vinyl raindress for the national spring collection spon-sored by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. It's a combination of dots and stripes on white. The yoke is in black horizontal stripes, the skirt in vertical stripes with side scoop-inserts of white with black dots.

Even more inexpensive from the fashion viewpoint is the expanding selection of shower-proof rainwear. Almost any fabric can be processed to resist normal showers, even bedcades and lamés.

The rain pants suit appears in various shower-proof fabrics. Rainmaster of Montreal showed a scooter version in the national spring collection. In cotton poplin, it features short slacks and a big hold zipper.

Cuddlecoat of New York favors the rainwear pants suit in white cotton duck, in a modest style of slim pants and long jacket with large patch pockets on cuff trimmed and one hip.

Cotton duck is popular generally and other raincoat firms feature it in bright solids and brilliant plaids.

Weatherized cotton in one form or another is probably the most popular of the natural fibres used. Originala of New York showed a batiste with almost the texture of canvas in a leopard print, as in a swinging cuddled rain costume with skirt-wide knee pants and a tailored jacket.

Awning - striped cottons, mostly used horizontally, are seen frequently. Lydia of Montreal shows a black and white cotton in a belted double-buttoned coat. Originala combines gold, yellow and white in varied vertical widths with horizontal stripes in contrast yoke.

Other fabrics include shower-proof poplin, as in a white military coat stitched in black by Irvin Psalms of Toronto, combined with black plastic belt hat and shiny high boots.

Wool jersey is another favorite, especially with Lawrence of London. One is Kelly green in a double knit with a wide neckline and removable belt.

A few rules to remember about water-proofed rainwear. Except for rubberized fabrics or vinyl, no raincoat will withstand a deluge. Usually a rain-proofed coat needs to be re-processed after several dry cleanings, so it's a good idea to read the tag attached to the rainwear before buying.

Sudbury Mines 'Face Death' Over Restrictions Rand Told

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — The mining industry must be permitted to change to meet competition, the Rand commission on labor disputes in Ontario was told Tuesday.

R. P. Riggio, chairman of the labor relations committee of the Ontario Mining Association, said Sudbury area mines "are getting closer to death every day."

Management had a moral obligation to keep competitive.

Companies should have the right to operate during a strike with supervisory personnel or others who agree to work for the wages and under the conditions offered by management, he said.

Mr. Riggio, an official of Noranda Mines, said his company will not permit union shops or closed - shop agreements.

Representatives of railway union locals defended their decision not to cross picket lines during a bricklayers' strike at the Algoma Steel Corp. in Sault Ste. Marie last Dec. 15 to Jan. 15 before the Rand Royal Commission on Ontario labor disputes.

Algoma president P. A. MacHumm Monday had criticized railway union members for not crossing picket lines.

A. R. Gibbons, vice-president and national legislative representative of the Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, said he advised members to fulfill their contract obligations.

But when a member is intimidated, Mr. Gibbons said, the decision to cross picket lines rests with the individual.

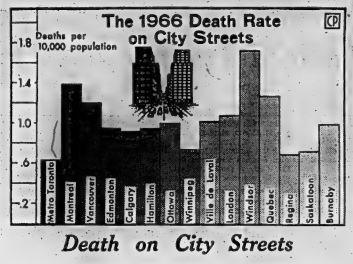
Trinity U.C.W. Holds Pie Sale

NAPANEE — For the second time, Trinity United Church UCW tried their hands at a pie sale, but this time using the Centennial theme. And for the second time, the venture was a successful one. Friday morning saw a busy two hours, but it paid off both in goodwill, and financially.



Shoppers dropped in for a cup of coffee and a piece, with their little ones looked after meanwhile by Mrs. Lloyd Cowland Mrs. William Finlay. They were then free to make their selection of pies or tarts, in most part from Mrs. Allen Martin or Mrs. Robert Paul and the sweet ones from Mrs. A. B. A. Mounce, Mrs. Ralph Mumby, Mrs. George Ballantyne, Mrs. J. D. Mayhew or Mrs. Frank Hutchinson.

They had been received from the makers by Mrs. Harold Hillard and Mrs. Kenneth Lipsett, who sent them on their way to the proper tables. Miss May Searcy and Mrs. H. J. Bastin were cashiers.

Small tables covered with checkered cloths were there for the coffee-drinkers. In the kitchen six women were in charge and ten others acted as servers. The president and the vice-president, Mrs. Edward Powell and Mrs. Paul Anderson were on hand to welcome everyone as they came in.

Half dozen who took part or who attended were in Centennial dress. The room was appropriately decorated, with antique household articles on the window sills, paper cutouts on the walls, and a hand carved cradle and a reel on the small platform. Lamps from Mrs. E. R. Elliott's collection were on the tables, miniatures on the small tables, and larger lighted ones on the side tables. Miss Beatrice Baughan, in a hat of bygone days, added not a little to the atmosphere of yesteryear, and to the pleasure of all, by playing all the songs and airs grandmothers loved.

Mrs. Wark Poole, Mrs. Lloyd Woolsey, and Mrs. Nelson Cunningham made up the committee in charge.

Death on City Streets

About one person in each 10,000 living in Canada's 15 largest cities died in a traffic accident on a city street in 1966, but the actual death rate in each city varied widely. In Metropolitan Toronto, with a population of 1,870,500 in 1966, some 120 persons died — or .641 persons per 10,000 population. In Windsor, Ont., which had 192,200 people, there were 33 traffic deaths, or 1.717 per 10,000. The graph ranks cities by size from left to right, with Metro Toronto the largest and Burnaby the smallest at 111,100. The city of Laval was formed in 1966. (CP Newsmap)

Saskatchewan Senator Dies

SASKATOON (CP) — Senator John Hnatyshyn, 60, died in hospital Tuesday after being stricken during a meeting with Opposition Leader Diefenbaker three hours earlier.

The Ukrainian-born lawyer, appointed to the Senate Jan. 25, 1939, is survived by his wife, three sons and a daughter. His funeral will be held Saturday.

His death leaves the Senate standings: Liberals 63: Conservatives 30; Independent 2; Independent Liberal 1; vacant 6. New Brunswick has two vacancies and Nova Scotia, Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia one each.

South Koreans to Vote

SEOUL (CP) — Eighty per cent of South Korea's 13,900,000 registered voters were expected to vote in a presidential election that may affect the country's role in the Vietnamese war.

President Chung Hee Park, 48, was favored to win a second four-year term. Political forecasters predicted he would be returned by 500,000 votes or more.

The main opposition candidate, former president Yun Posun, 69, of the New Democratic party, has pledged to seek an "early honorable withdrawal" the 45,000 Korean troops now fighting alongside the Americans and South Vietnamese.

Yun contends that Park if re-elected would add a further 50,000 South Korean troops to the forces fighting in Vietnam.

Park, who heads the Democratic Republican party, and his chief opponent, Yun, were among the early voters in Seoul, the capital.

Many citizens who belatedly found their names dropped from voters lists Tuesday protested to district administrative offices, but no disturbances were reported.

Park has headed the government since 1961 when he came to power in a military coup that put Yun out of the presidency.

Couple Killed

QUEENSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Stanley Hodgson, 70, of Lefroy, Ont., and his wife, Gertrude, 64, died Tuesday when their car hit a truck on Don Mills Road.

Truck driver, Richard Mahoney of Bowen Hill suffered a broken left arm and shock.

Queensville is about 20 miles north of Toronto.

Child Missing

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Rain and light snow hampered search operations Tuesday night for Freddie Briel, 3, missing since Sunday.

The boy was last seen playing in a vacant lot bordered by the West Davignon Creek in the former township of Korah. The creek is about 15 feet deep in places.

Rhodesian Solution Will Take More Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Commonwealth Secretary - General Arnold Smith said Tuesday it will take time to solve the Rhodesian problem.

The Canadian diplomat told a news conference that some businessmen believe the prospects of Rhodesia holding out for more than a year under United Nations economic sanctions are poor.

He said it is unrealistic not to allow time for the sanctions to work against the white-supremacist regime, which unilaterally declared independence from Britain.

"Flowers of Hope" To Be Distributed

NAPANEE — Soon residents of this area will receive through the mail a small packet of coffee seed. These are seeds of the "Flowers of Hope." When you plant them you hope that they will emerge from the soil, grow, and eventually produce bright flowers.

Many of these seeds have been packaged by little ones who are mentally retarded, and the rest by friends who want to see that those children are trained to their potential. At one time such children were concealed from the public and were given no training except that which could be given by a heart-broken mother, herself untrained to teach her child what he was capable of learning.

All this has changed now, and parents of retarded children have themselves been largely responsible for the change. They have met together, exchanged experiences, and by acting together, are responsible for the help such children and young people are receiving. True, there is government assistance now, but it is not total, and the parent himself must put his shoulder to the wheel and do his part.

As it is the mother of a retarded child who bears the greatest part of the load, it is fitting that the annual campaign for the Association for the Mentally Retarded should take place the week of Mother's Day. Just as you have hope when you plant the cosmos seed, so she now has hope that her child will receive the maximum of training he is capable of absorbing.

Course in Modern Driving:

Joe has his car serviced regularly, sees his dentist twice a year, and has a physical every spring. So how about your driving, Joe?

Joe is like thousands of other motorists who consider their driving skills adequate; and they may have been 15 years ago.

But today's driving requires a whole new set of skills, plus polishing up on even the fundamentals of operating a motor vehicle. Cars are larger and have more power. Laws and regulations have changed. Ontario now has many thousand miles of multi-lane, high-volume highways that demand special techniques.

The refresher course in modern driving will help determine and correct faults in your driving ability. A series of three interesting and challenging sessions will leave you confident under any motoring condition. The cost is nominal. Call O.M.L. about enrollment, details.

Shulman Levies Another Charge

Alliston Inquest Involved Loaded Jury, Probe Is Told

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Morton Shulman, fired last month as chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, said Tuesday he can prove that an inquest held three years ago in southern Ontario "involved a loaded jury."

The statement came during the second day of a royal commission hearing into Dr. Shulman's charges that government officials interfered with or suppressed inquests and inquest evidence.

Dr. Shulman attempted to read a note concerning the loaded jury, but was prevented from doing so by Mr. Justice W. D. Parker.

The judge ruled that the note was not admissible at this time because the inquest involved was held outside Toronto...and the inquiry is restricted to Dr. Shulman's term of office from March 7, 1963, to April 7, 1967, and to the area of his jurisdiction.

"This has nothing to do with the Metro coroner's office," said commission counsel Charles Dubin.

"The death of this woman occurred in Toronto," Dr. Shulman argued.

During the exchange it was disclosed that the inquest Dr. Shulman was talking about was held in Alliston, about 12 miles southwest of Barrie, over a death that occurred in late 1964.

Dr. Shulman then asked Dr. Elie Cass, a Toronto coroner who is conducting the current inquest into a fire March 31 at the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Hospital, if he was aware that a witness in the case was "so frightened" he was afraid to appear at the inquest.

Dr. Cass answered that there had been an allegation, passed on to him by Dr. Shulman who had received it from someone else, that a witness was intimidated by police while they got a statement from him.

He said he didn't know who the witness was, but was "trying very hard to find out."

"I am checking with the police officers and so far they have assured me there was no intimidation."

Earlier in the day Mr. Dubin pressed Dr. Shulman to name names of persons he accuses of wanting to cover up an inquest into the death of a 20-year-old Toronto student, John Stern.

Dr. Shulman said he never intended to identify persons in the Stern case but that he had 11 other cases in which he "will name names, but Mr. Dubin won't let me get to one of them."

A&P

How good is the Beef A&P sells?

Did you know that there are actually eleven different government grades for beef? One of them is Canada's finest—No. 1 Grade, Choice Red Brand Beef.

That's the only grade A&P sells.

But, that's not all. Because we have our own "Super-Right" standards of quality...because We Care about you, even some beef labeled Red Brand isn't good enough for A&P customers. We're that fussy.

And, don't forget your pocketbook. We not only buy the best beef available, A&P prices are always as low as we can make them.

Is this a good reason for shopping A&P? It's one of many.

A $1,000,000,000 development near the Toronto waterfront would turn an existing tangle of railway tracks and buildings into an above-and-below-ground complex along the line of Montreal's Place Ville Marie. To be built over the next 25 years, the project would cover 170 acres bounded by Yonge, Bathurst and Front streets and the Gardiner Expressway. Property includes railway yards, the existing Union Station and the main post office. (CP Newsmap)

Islanders Go Alone

LERWICK (CP)—Inhabitants of the Shetland Isles may invoke a treaty of 1468 in order to prevent their tiny police force from being amalgamated with that of the Scottish mainland. They insist that a treaty between Scotland and the ancient Norsemen gives the islanders the right to administer themselves.

Corvair Crash Widow Gets $95,000 Award

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A U.S. district court jury awarded Tuesday $95,000 to a Denver widow who had sued General Motors Corp., alleging her husband was killed because of a faulty 1965 Chevrolet Corvair.

The jury deliberated seven hours after a nine-day trial before awarding the judgment to Mrs. Dorothea M. Walden, mother of seven children.

Her suit alleged that her husband, H. L. Walden, 46, a welder, was killed Oct. 1, 1965, near Tucson, Ariz., when the Corvair he was driving left the road and crashed in a ditch.

Her lawyers claimed the universal joint bearing on the car's drive shaft failed from fatigue because of improper factory assembly.

General Motors lawyers claimed Walden had been drinking and lost control of the car after swerving across the highway centre line.

Council Briefs

TRENTON — Two zoning matters were on town council's agenda Monday evening. It was agreed that Bruno Scocchio, a north Catharines St. resident, would have to apply to the committee of adjustment to have a rear portion of his lot re-zoned from its present "open space" classification. Mr. Scocchio wrote council he had needed to increase the size of his home and, anticipating "little difficulty" in obtaining a building permit to this end, went ahead and constructed the foundation for an addition to his home without town authorization.

Council was told the man had recently filled out an application to have the property rezoned, but failed to submit the required $20 fee.

And council were informed they will have to notify Mrs. C. A. Patterson of 63 Delmey St. that her long-standing complaint against a neighbor for operating a body shop in a residential zone is unfounded.

The man was operating the shop before the town's zoning bylaw went into effect.

Council accepted the tender of Albert Defoase in the amount of $10,892 for curb installations. The tender was the only one submitted.

A Public Works Committee recommendation that an offer of $8,000 be made to L. C. Carr for his Byron St. gravel pit was moved by council. Mr. Carr had earlier indicated he was prepared to sell the pit to the town for $8,000, which he said was some $3,500 below the normal market value. Council would use the property for sanitary landfill purposes.

In response to a request from Chamber of Commerce president Harold H. Clark, town council last night agreed the chamber is best equipped to poll local industries and businesses to determine interest in active participation in the annual Belleville Fair.

Mr. Clark, recently selected to represent Trenton on the Belleville Fair Board, noted in a letter to council that there was not a single exhibit from Trenton merchants or industry in last year's fair. Mr. Clark suggested council might determine the extent of local interest in the exhibition, and appoint a committee to coordinate reviews of potential participation appeared substantial.

Town Fire Chief Cecil Ellis reminded council by letter of his request in the 1966 annual report for an extra full - time man on the department. There are at present only two men in addition to the chief on duty in the station at once, meaning a short-handed situation in the event of rescue or dragging operations. Council indicated it would have to give the matter budgetary consideration.

The application of Vern Davis, of Byron St., was approved by town council to give a assortment commission at Alias Smith's summer assistant. Davis is a student at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto.

Council will further consider Mr. Smith's request for an additional assistant in the event a commercial re-assessment is to be held this year.

Purchase of $1,370 worth of air conditioning equipment for the main floor level of the town municipal offices was authorized by council Monday.

Holstein Dispersal Third Highest

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The Holstein herd of J. E. Houck and U. G. Halward, Brampton, brought $167,675, for an average of $2,620 on 94 head at the Oakville auction Tuesday.

This is the third-highest average ever achieved at a Canadian Holstein herd dispersal, exceeded only by a $3,154 average made in 1960 by the Sheffield Farms herd at St. George, Ont., and $2,643 in 1964 at the partial dispersal of the Rosnadale herd at Unionville, Ont.

The pride of the herd, Clover Acres Citation Beau, excellent and honorable mention all-Canadian cow of 1966, sold for top price of $27,000—fourth highest amount ever paid at auction for a Holstein cow in Canada. She was bought by a syndicate of Ontario breeders composed of Claude Pickel, George Town, Robert Lowe, all of Maple; Russell Bowstree, Woodbridge; and Dr. G. Sisk, Brampton.

She was one of nine cows from the Class Extra Save Rosafe Citation R., that averaged $5,650 to start the sale off. One of these went to R. R. Dennis, Oakridges, Ont. at $7,800; one to A. Ledina, Cremona, Italy, at $6,200; and three to Richard Schleissner, Jerseyville, Ont. at $3,000, $2,950 and $2,000.

The five-year-old birth sire Rosnadale Reflection Commander, brought $15,000 on the bid of Nosawa and Co., Tokyo, Japan.

R. R. Dennis paid $12,000 for a daughter of Selling Rockmeadale, while Rosnadale Farms, Unionville, bought a daughter of Rosnadale Dividend for $11,500.

Twenty-one were sold for export—16 going to Italy, two to Japan, one to the U.S. and two to unnamed foreign buyers.

Of the 94, 44 brought at least $1,000 and nine $4,000 or better.

Seven bulls averaged $3,364 each: 27 milk cows $2,927; 11 bred heifers $2,345; five open heifers $870 and four heifer calves $1,000.

Gun-toting California Police Subdue Armed Black Panthers

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The California state legislature sought to tighten its security precautions today while Negroes who burst into the capitol bearing a variety of loaded guns at noontime Tuesday were summoned to court.

Twenty-six youths between 17 and 25 were arrested by police with drawn revolvers and taken to the police station in a paddy wagon shortly after they left the capitol.

They were accused of possessing two sawed-off shotguns, brandishing weapons in a threatening manner, disrupting the legislature in session and carrying a loaded weapon in a car.

A dozen of the armed youths, members of the Black Panther party, succeeded in penetrating the state assembly briefly before they were ushered out and ordered of the loaded rifles, pistols and shotguns taken away by two state policemen in a mild struggle.

No guns were fired, and the armed men took care while in the capitol not to overtly threaten anyone with the guns.

They remained silent except for a spokesman, Bobby Seale, 25, of Oakland. He said they appeared to defend their constitutional right to bear arms, criticized "racist Oakland police" and opposed a bill outlawing the carrying of loaded weapons in public.

No one could remember anything like it happening before.

A Democratic Negro assemblyman from the Watts district of Los Angeles, Bill Greene, considered a militant advocate of Negro rights, commented:

"This action was not militant. It was senseless. No person black or white can condone this action."

Jim Rooney, one of three sergeants - at - arms manning the swinging gates that block off the assembly chamber door 50 feet away, said that suddenly "a wave of them just rushed in and shoved us out of the way."

He was knocked into a chair by someone in the travelling mob of about 50 Black Panther members, reporters and television cameramen.

Assemblyman Don Mulford, author of the gun control bill the group protested, said he was "shocked beyond belief."

He reminded assemblymen of the time in 1954 that Puerto Rican nationalists fired guns from the gallery into the House of Representatives chamber in Washington, D.C., wounding five congressmen.

Governor Ronald Reagan commented: "Americans don't go around carrying guns with the idea they're using them to influence other Americans. There's no reason why on the street today a citizen should be carrying loaded weapons."

Cobourg Rotarians Pay Visit

The young people of the coming generation, regardless of what may be said of them, are concerned about the things taught them by their parents, Art Duncan of the Bata'een Shoe Company told a joint meeting of Belleville and Cobourg Rotarians in the Hotel Quinte.

"I think they have a pretty good sense of balance. They are bigger, stronger and brighter than we were — and if you don't believe me take a look at their record.

"At the same time we ought to tell them that they will need these qualities, because they are moving into the most competitive era of all time."

Mr. Duncan spoke of the need of a sense of humor, a sense of appreciation of old values and of good citizenship.

He said the principles of good citizenship are constituted of people who have time for everything that is for the betterment of the community.

"These good citizens are the ones who never say they are too busy . . . complacency and indifference are the only enemies we have in this world."

Noting that 2,000,000 new Canadians had come to this country since the war, Mr. Duncan said: "There is a certain drama in this. They have left everything that is home and have come to a brand new country where five years elapse before they gain citizenship. Meanwhile they are looking about them for what they believe is the essence of good Canadianism."

Dr. J. F. McCorquodale president of Belleville Rotary, welcomed Cobourg president Ken Cooper and members of his club.

Mr. Cooper presented Dr. McCorquodale a set of framed pictures taken of the dinner meeting earlier in the evening.

Farmers Start To Work Land For Seeding

It's been a late, late spring but farmers in the Hastings county area are finally getting around to doing some spring cultivation.

In the Plainfield area yesterday there was evidence of some spring plowing having been done while one farmer was seen hard at work with tractor and cultivator working a field in readiness for spring seeding.

But the cool weather slowed the growth of new grass and farmers have still not turned their cattle out to pasture.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver

Dear Gabby: — "My boy friend is a star baseball player but he cannot see me or anything but the game. What should I do?" Lonesome.

Dear Lonesome: — Convert him into an umpire.

Dear Gabby: — "I am an avid sports fan and like attending baseball, hockey and football games, but my girl friend won't go along. She stays home alone while I'm at a game. Any suggestions?" Lone Wolf.

Dear Lone Wolf: — Let me know the date of your next sports event — and send me the girl friend's phone number.

Dear Gabby: — "What does a baseball catcher say to his pitcher when he (the catcher) walks out to the mound?" Curious.

Dear Curious: — I cannot say for sure but probably "Don't look now, Buster, but you're slipper is slipping."

Dear Gabby: — Why does a harness race horse wear what they call blinkers?" City Guy.

Dear City Guy: — Likely to keep his mind off that blonde filly in the stable.

Dear Gabby: — "My wife is a natural umpire or referee baiter. Can we bar the officials come in for her vocal blasts. I think she's the one who coined "Kill the Bum." What can I do about it?" Worried.

Dear Worried: — Gag her — and give her a gun.

Dear Gabby: — "Why are men golfers better than women golfers?" Birdie.

Dear Birdie: — Because they always come up with a better "lie."

Dear Gabby: — "Why do baseball umpires always face the crowd when dusting off the plate?" Fan.

Dear Fan: — They're done that ever since one day years ago an ump faced the diamond and got a thundering roar of laughter from the crowd. The south side of his lap was exposed.

Dear Gabby: — "Why do soccer players wear tape on their boots?" Outside right.

Dear Outside Right: — Just for kicks.

Dear Gabby: — "Is football when is a pass said to be completed?" Pigskin.

Dear Pigskin: — Usually when the redhead next to you smiles in return.

Dear Gabby: — "My mother-in-law is always using the expression "I was tickled to death." How can I stop her?" Bored.

Dear Bored: — Tell her the origin of the expression dates back. Prehistoric man in search for food used to lie alongside a trout pool and when he saw a lunker lazing in the shallow water, would reach down and gently tickle the fish on its belly. After a few "tickles" he would suddenly grab the fish and toss it ashore.

Dear Gabby: — "How do you get down off an elephant?" Safari.

Dear Safari: — You don't. You get it off a dock.

Dear Gabby: — "What is a screwball. I often hear it mentioned at baseball games?" Curve.

Dear Curve: — Any guy who rooks for the other team.

Dear Gabby: — "An aged man was watching a bunch of kids playing with those little round globes when suddenly he burst out crying. What do you think was wrong with him?" Onlooker.

Dear Onlooker: — Probably lost his marbles.

Dear Gabby: — "Why do grey horses seldom win a race?" Tipster.

Dear Tipster: — Because there are fewer of them.

Dear Gabby: — "Why do a lot of baseball players wear heavy cuts of tobacco in a cheek?" Inquirer.

Dear Inquirer: — So they can get juiced up and still remain sober.

Dear Gabby: — "Saw an international yacht race last summer and I noticed a Soviet craft veer away. As it did so it ran up burgee with a message on it. What do you think it said?" Poopdeck.

Dear Poopdeck: — From Russia with Luff.

Dear Gabby: — "Saw a baseball manager rush out to the plate once to berate the umpire and when he reached the official he turned his back on him and started talking to the crowd. Why did he do that?" Strike.

Dear Strike: — He was silently insulting His Nibs inferring through his action HIS eyes were in the back of his head.

Leafs Win 'Punch' Bowl

TORONTO (CP) — Veteran George Armstrong has the answer when asked who made the difference in Toronto Maple Leafs' victory in the 1967 Stanley Cup.

"It was a great mesh of old and young and great goaltending," the Leafs' captain said after the Leafs defeated Montreal Canadiens 3-1 here Tuesday night to win the best-of-seven series in six games.

The truth of Armstrong's assessment of Toronto's strength was evident in the final game when youthful Ron Ellis opened scoring and Jim Pappin, relegated to the minor league's in mid-season, scored the winner while 36 - year - old Armstrong scored Toronto's third goal into an open net.

And in a major supporting role in goal was 37-year-old Terry Sawchuk, perhaps playing his last National Hockey League game if he carries out a pre-series threat to retire.

The Montreal goal was scored by Dick Duff early in the third period with Toronto leading 2-0.

The Leafs also had Dave Keon, a leading candidate for the Conn Smythe Trophy as the most valuable player in this year's playoffs.

Keon, who played on three former Stanley Cup teams, said: "Maybe we had better teams in those years—the Leafs won the cup in 1962, 1963 and 1964— but this win gives me a greater deal of satisfaction. We kept coming back against both Chicago and Montreal."

"The old fellows kept us in the games and the young fellows came along and gave us the extra edge," Armstrong said.

The young fellows were Pappin, the leading scorer in the playoffs with seven goals and eight assists, Peter Stemkowski, second highest point getter with six goals and six assists, and rookies Mike Walton—four goals and three assists — and rookie Brian Conacher — three goals and two assists.

Walton was used mainly on power plays, Stemkowski and Pappin played on a line with veteran Bob Pulford, who scored a goal and added nine assists.

Added to this were veterans Frank Mahovlich, with three goals and seven assists and defenceman Tim Horton with three goals and five assists.

The old fellows were Allan Stanley, 41, Johnny Bower, 42, Red Kelly 39, and Marcel Pronovost, 38, as well as Larry Hillman, 30, who finished his first full season with the Leafs.

The Leafs had defied the odds makers and defeated the National Hockey League champion Chicago Black Hawks in six games of the semi-finals, while Montreal disposed of New York Rangers in four games.

It was the 11th Stanley Cup victory for the Leafs and the fourth under Punch Imlach who has coached the club for nine years.

The victory was worth $3,000 to each member of the Toronto club. Montreal received $1,500 a player. Members of both clubs received $2,250 each for their semi-final wins.

The Leafs also received $750 a man for finishing third in the regular NHL schedule, boosting their total playoff purse to $6,000 each.

The Canadiens, who finished second in the NHL, each received $5,000.

Imlach was subdued after the game.

"They have to be the best hockey players I've ever had. They were great guys and I have to thank everyone."

Meanwhile, coach Toe Blake of Montreal said it was "the toughest series I ever lost."

Blake has coached the Canadiens to seven cup victories.

But the real sore point with the losers was Sawchuk.

Montreal captain Jean Beliveau said his club couldn't buy a goal against the veteran netminder.

"He came up with the key saves and gave them the time to get ahead." There were three or four shots in the early part of the game you could usually count on as goals."

Blake agreed the goaltending throughout the series was great.

"That 3 - 0 shutout Johnny Bower scored against us in Montreal in the second game was a tough break for us and seemed to take some of the sing out of us," Blake said.

Bower was injured in a warmup before the start of the fourth game.

The teams played through a scoreless first period Tuesday before Ellis gave the Leafs a 1-0 lead early in the second. He streaked in behind Kelly, who had been stopped by Montreal goaltender Gump Worsley, picked up the rebound and flipped it high into the Canadiens' goal.

Pappin got the winner with 36 seconds remaining in the second period.

The goal was first credited to Stemkowski, who was standing in front of the Montreal goal, but an official correction was made, crediting it to Pappin, late in the third period.

Duff scored the prettiest goal of the game, scooting around Stanley and losing his balance just as he scooted across the Toronto goalmouth. But even as he fell, Duff hooked the puck backhanded past Sawchuk.

Armstrong scored the final goal of the game into an empty net after Worsley had been sent to bench in favor of a sixth Montreal attacker.

Leafs: One Heluva Mesh!

TORONTO (CP) — Captain George Armstrong says Toronto Maple Leafs may have had more "subtlety" in other years, but I've never played with a club that had more fight."

That's how the veteran right winger summed up his team after it won the Stanley Cup by defeating Montreal Canadiens 3-1 in the sixth game of the best - of - seven finals Tuesday night.

"We might not have outplayed them but we certainly outscored them. This was a different kind of team. Young fellows came along and they were the ones that gave us the edge.

"It was a great mesh of old and young and great goaltending.

"You can't say anyone gave it to us. Montreal fought and fought and fought until the end. They're a great hockey club—but we're better."

Coach Punch Imlach was subdued after the game.

"They have to be the best hockey players I've ever had," he said.

"They were great guys and I have to thank everyone. Clancy did a hell of a job for us too."

King Clancy, the assistant general - manager, had taken over the coaching while Imlach was in hospital during a 10-game stretch in the regular National Hockey League schedule.

Toronto Mayor William Dennison made an appearance in the Leafs' dressing room after the victory.

"I owe it all to our new mayor," Imlach said. "Let me thank him."

Dennison was elected mayor late last year.

Clancy said the Leafs had used a tight-checking type of positional play to defeat Montreal.

"It was just about the same way we beat Chicago," Clancy said. "But against Montreal we had to play it tighter against their centres. We didn't drop back behind our own defence. Our centres stayed right on top of them."

Jim Pappin, who led all Stanley Cup playoff goal - getters with seven, said:

"We just kept plugging—that's all."

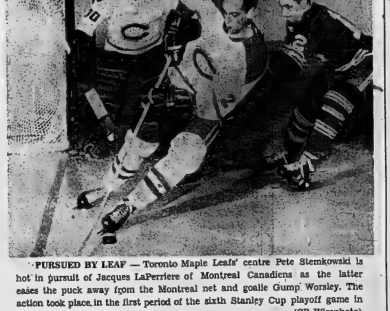
Pappin had scored the winning goal in the second period. It appeared to go in off Peter Stemkowski's stake from Pappin's pass from the corner.

"It went in off Jacques Laperriere's stick," Pappin said.

Pete told the referee right away, but they gave him credit for it."

An official correction was made late in the third period.

The Pappin, Stemkowski, Bob Pulford line scored 13 goals and 25 assists during the playoffs. Stemkowski had five goals and six assists.



"We're a digging line," centre Stemkowski said.

"We knock them down and shoot it in — that's the whole secret of our success."

Pecks The Pirates

The Dodgers' Vulture Swoops Again!

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax, Maury Wills and Tommy Davis are gone but Phil (The Vulture) Regan still is around.

Regan, nicknamed the Vulture for the way he swooped down on victories in late inning relief last year, picked up his first of the season Monday night in Los Angeles Dodgers' 5-3 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates.

It's been almost one full year since Regan lost a game. The last time was May 13, 1966.

He won 13 straight last season and Tuesday's victory extended his unbeaten appearance string to 66 games—58 last season and seven this year.

The Pirates and the Dodgers were tied at 3-3 until the 11th.

Then Dodgers John Roseboro opened with a single. Jim Hickman bunted and the Dodgers had runners at first and second. A sacrifice moved the runners up and then Wes Parker, batting for Regan, doubled the two runs home.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday night, New York, Mets rallied for two runs in the bottom of the 12th inning and nipped San Francisco Giants 3-2. Bob Gibson shut out Cincinnati on two hits as St. Louis defeated the Reds 5-0. Houston Astros battered Philadelphia Phillies 10-3 and Atlanta Braves stopped Chicago Cubs 3-1.

Former Dodger Wills, making his first appearance against his ex - team - mates, smacked two hits, scored two runs and stole a base. But even he was unnerved by The Vulture. He singled with one out in the 10th but then was thrown out stealing.

Al Ferrara homered for the Dodgers.

By Krausepoet, who had homered earlier, tripled home the tying run for the Mets in the 12th inning and then pinch-hitter John Sullivan's single delivered the winner against San Francisco.

The Giants turned in the season's first triple play in the second inning.

Gibson struck out 13 Reds and ran his record to 4-1 as the Cardinals ended a four-games losing streak. It was the second time this season that the ace right-hander has fanned 10 or more batters.

Mike Shannon drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double in the fifth inning after Jim Maloney had walked three straight batters. Maloney, 1-1, also made three wild pitches, one of which allowed a run to score.

Rico Carty smashed a three-run homer as Atlanta topped Chicago 3-1; Carey's shot in the second inning followed two walks by Cubs Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont.

Rusty Staub drove in four runs with three hits and Houston tallied for eight runs in the eighth inning and a 10-9 victory over Philadelphia. Bob Aspromonte tagged a three-run homer for the Astros.

Top Eagle Predicts 'Win Allan In Four Straight'

DRUMMOND VILLE, Que. (CP)—Rolland Bolduc, general manager of Drummondville Eagles of the Quebec Pro group, predicts a 30 - minute workout Tuesday night in preparation for tonight's opening game in the best-of-seven Allan Cup final series and predicted that the series won't go more than four games.

"If we win the first game, we'll take it in four straight," he said after the session. "Even if we lose the first game, we'll win the Allan Cup."

Bolduc said his club can take the series against Calgary Spurs because of Drummondville's well - balanced squad—a combination of veterans and youngsters.

"I have four defencemen who certainly aren't weaklings and a backup strength in Lionel Robidas, whom we borrowed from Sherbrooke Beavers for the series," he said.

The Eagles also have a strong netminder in Claude Cyr, who recently signed with Philadelphia, one of six new clubs in the expanded National Hockey League next season.

The Spurs took over the ice for an hour after the Eagles had finished practising and went through skating sprints and line rushes.

Coach Tony Schneider said he is looking for a fast-skating and close series.

"The Eagles have the advantage by playing the series at home but we're young and fast," he added of the Calgary Spurs' workout. "We have two adequate goaltenders and I think the clubs are evenly matched."

Wants To Fight Clay No Corn On This Cobb!

HONG KONG (AP) — A former Navy officer from Kansas City said Tuesday he is going to make formal application to the World Boxing Association to fight Cassius Clay—despite the fact that he is almost twice as old as Clay and has never fought professionally.

James Cobb, 42, says he wants to show up Clay "for what he is—a man who won't fight for his country and uses religion as an excuse.

"I believe in God, too—a just God. He believes in an unknown one. If he is a real minister, he would not be fighting at all."

Cobb is scheduled to leave Hong Kong for the United States today.

Clay, 25 - year - old heavyweight champion, was shorn of his title last Friday when he was reclassified 1-A by the U.S. military service at Houston, Tex.

Cobb said he had seen active service as naval officer in World War II and the Korean war.

Cobb, 6-foot-2 and 215 pounds said he had fought several times as a bare-knuckled whale in the Navy and Marine Corps.

"I have fought some rough ones in my life—real men, I mean. I have won many fights and have never been knocked out," Cobb, said.

Habs: 'Disaster' Sawchuk!

TORONTO (CP)— Disaster is a word named Sawchuk as far as Montreal Canadiens are concerned today.

Terry Sawchuk, the 37-year-old Toronto Maple Leafs netminder with 18 years and 100 shutouts in his National Hockey League career, was the word on the lips of all Montreal players after the Leafs downed the Montreal 3-1 to take the Stanley Cup in six games.

Jean Beliveau, Montreal team captain, said his club couldn't buy a goal in the early going when Canadiens stormed Sawchuk's domain.

"He came up with the key saves and saw them the time to get ahead," Beliveau said. "There were three or four shots in the early part of the game you could usually count on as goals."

Toe Blake, the Montreal coach, said the goaltending on both sides had been great throughout the series.

"But the Toronto goalminding in the last two games was exceptional," Blake said.

"That Johnny Bower scored against us on Montreal ice in the second game was a tough break for us and seemed to take some of the zing out of us.

"This is the toughest series I ever lost," Blake said.

Sam Pollock, Montreal general - manager, said the Canadiens lost two important games at home and one in overtime here.

"But we can't complain because we had our problems it seems in all seasons. That's why I couldn't see home ice as an advantage."

Blake said his club looked a "lot better now than it did at the first of the season, when it looked like we'd miss the playoffs."

The Montreal coach said Sawchuk played a great game Tuesday to take the cup.

Lorne Worsley, who made his first start in four days since March 12, said the Leafs second goal — by Jim Pappin — "hit someone, either Terry Harper or Stemkowski," before entering the net.

"It was just going in and I took a dive for it, but I was too late," Worsley said.

"The first goal (by Ron Ellis) just tapped my shoulder and bounced over behind me."

Dick Duff, who scored the Canadiens lone goal in the third period while sliding into the net, said he managed to squirt the puck between Sawchuk's legs after he was felled by defenceman Allan Stanley.

Centennial Rally Off And Running!

VANCOUVER (CP)—A David and Goliath - type battle which will take eight days to finish was to start today at 9 a.m. PDT and no one gives David much chance of pulling an upset.

The centennial 4000 rally pits car manufacturers' teams and privately owned and operated specially-prepared cars against cars.

In the 4,500-mile event, which winds up at Expo in Montreal, car preparation is an extremely important factor—and this is where the manufacturers take on the form of Goliath.

With large amounts of cash and manpower at their disposal, the manufacturers turn out cars able to withstand the pounding inflicted by the formidable terrain and weather conditions between the start and finish.

The individual entrants has neither the time nor the money to spend on his car that is available to the makers.

In the six-year history of the event a private entry has never won.

However, the individuals keep trying and the rally organizers help as much as possible by giving $1,000 to the top individual entry—the same as first prize in the rally.

Last year, a private entry finished second and many people are hoping that this is the year. David finally wins his battle.

There are five teams in the event—Ford, American Motors, Citroen, Nissan and Volkswagen—and a total of 24 cars prepared by manufacturers.

There are 69 private entries for a total of 93 cars. Seven cars dropped out before the rally got under way, disappointing rally officials who had hoped for 100 competitors in Centennial Year.

Of the 93 starters, less than half are expected to reach Montreal.

Rally organizer Jim Gunn said the treacherous roads will probably take a heavy toll early and many vehicles are not expected to get out of British Columbia.

Few veteran B.C. rallyist said he thought less than 40 cars would make it into Alberta.

Senators, A's Split

Twins Ice-Box Yankees 13-4

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Charlie Finley's snow-colored playshoes inspired Washington Senators but Cal Griffith's frost-covered playground left New York Yankees cold.

The Senators, aroused by the white kangaroo footwear introduced by owner Finley at Kansas City this spring, donned white caps and socks before splitting 1-0 shutouts with the Athletics in a doubleheader Tuesday night.

The Yankees, meanwhile, shivered through a 13-4 setback in Minnesota's sub - freezing weather after Twins' president Griffith decided against a postponement.

California Angels edged Boston Red Sox 3-2 behind Jim McGlothlin's three - hitter in the only other American League action. The Detroit Chicago and Baltimore - Cleveland games were washed out.

George Selkirk, Washington's general manager, came up with the idea of going white-on-white against the Athletics, who survived an opening-day protest by Cleveland Manager Joe Adcock that their white shoes distracted opposing batters.

Southpaw Pete Richert, working 7 1-3 batsmen, and two relievers then whitewashed the Athletics on two hits in the twilight opener, decided by Ken McMullen's run-scoring single in the sixth. But Kansas City rebounded behind right-hander Catfish Hunter, who scattered seven hits, and an RBI single by Dick Green in the sixth to snap the Senators' winning string at four games.

In Minnesota, a combination of 13 Minnesota hits, four New York errors and temperatures that ranged from 32 degrees at the start to 28 at the finish took its toll on the Yankees.

It was the coldest weather in which a game has gone on in Minnesota since the Twins entered the league in 1961. Monday night's scheduled game between the clubs had been postponed because of 40 degree temperature, strong winds and sporadic rain.

The Twins rocked Yankee starter Fritz Peterson for six runs in the first inning, enabling Dean Chance to breeze to an easy victory.

Out Of Derby

Reception Too Cool

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (CP) — Canada's faint hope for a second Kentucky Derby victory in four years deemed Tuesday when Cool Reception missed by a neck in the $16,350 Derby Trial.

Sired by Nearctic — as was 1964 winner Northern Dancer—Cool Reception was pulled from the Kentucky Derby after Tuesday's loss to Barb's Delight because the three - year - old colt doesn't "belong in the Derby field."

Trainer Lou Cavalaris Jr. said before the Trial he would not enter Cool Reception in the Derby unless he won the Trial and backed his words with action.

"I said before the race he had to win big to come back Saturday," Cavalaris said. "He didn't even win and I do not think he belongs in the Derby field."

Owned by Mrs. William Seiko of Montreal and Mrs. Vince Reid of Toronto, the chestnut colt was Canada's champion two-year-old of 1966 but chipped an ankle bone early this year and had won only two of five previous outings this year.

Under a heavy whip by jockey Bill Hartack, Barb's Delight made a fierce rush in the stretch to win in 1:35 2-5—just four-fifths of a second off the Churchill Downs record for the mile.

Northern Dancer set the 1¼-mile record at two minutes flat in his 1964 victory in the colors of Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor.

A distant third, but still to be entered in Saturday's 93rd running of the Derby, was Lightning Orphan with Second Encounter fourth in a field of nine three-year-olds.

In winning first prize of $16,647, Barb's Delight returned $10.90, $4.00 and $2.80 while heavily backed as the favorite, Cool Reception paid $3.00 and $2.40 with Lightning Orphan paying $2.80.

Met Vet Retires, Stays On

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy McMillan, veteran shortstop who underwent an operation on his right shoulder during the off season, retired Tuesday and New York Mets named him a special assistant to work with infielders.

McMillan, 36, came to the Mets' spring training camp this spring on a trial basis. He was reinjured in an exhibition game.

After spending 10 years with the Cincinnati Reds, McMillan was traded to Milwaukee Braves in 1960 and joined the Mets in 1964.

He played only 76 games last year when he suffered a shoulder injury while trying to check his swing while batting.

McMillan had a lifetime batting average of .243 and was the starring shortstop for the National League in the 1956 and 1957 All-Star games.

'Twas Cold, Only 897 Showed Up

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Professional Soccer League's bersided average of 6,185 fans a game took a dip Tuesday night when Chicago Spurs and Philadelphia Spartans played to a scoreless tie.

A chilled crowd of 897 showed up for the game in mammoth Soldier Field as the Spartans managed to turn their way into first place in the Eastern Division.

No other games were scheduled.

The tie enabled the undefeated and unscored upon Spartans to wrest first place from Pittsburgh with a total of 22 points.

The game was played despite cold weather, and Chicago had a chance to win it in the 29th minute of play. The Spurs were awarded a penalty shot only to have Glen Dereberdt blast the ball into the hands of goalie Ernest Lopeve.

Three games are scheduled tonight with Pittsburgh at Baltimore, Atlanta at San Francisco and Toronto at Los Angeles.

Rain Slows Influx Into Expo But It Still Tops 100,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Rain Tuesday night visibly slowed the influx into Expo 67 and more showers were forecast for today.

But whatever happens Canada's world's fair still is ahead of the game.

Tuesday's attendance up to 12 midnight was 138,005, putting the total attendance from inaugural day last Thursday at 1,728,604.

Expo's advance projection of total attendance up to the closing of the fair — site Tuesday night was 780,400. This meant that total attendance was more than double the estimate.

Despite Tuesday night's rain, more than 40,000 remained on the site with many of the 6-0 hards concentrated in the La Ronde amusement area.

Talks were held with Montreal Transportation Commission officials about better means of funnelling visitors into the 1,000-acre site which covers two islands in the St. Lawrence River and a course of downtown Montreal stretching into the river.

Better methods of cleaning up litter were put into force and restaurants were being closely watched to see that they abided by Expo's rule that prices must be posted at the entrance.

Maurice Novek, Expo's restaurant boss, defended the prices in some of the national restaurants which some visitors have called steep. He said that visitors should be ready to pay for the luxury and the experience of eating in a fine national restaurant.

"But they should know what they're getting into. The prices should be posted."

An outdoor event scheduled today is the laying of the keel of the Atlantics outside the Atlantic Provinces pavilion.

The keel-laying of the two-masted schooner will be attended by the premiers or their representatives from the Atlantic Provinces. The schooner will be built during the fair and launched in August.

Tuesday was Ethiopia's national day, presided over by Emperor Haile Selassie who leaves today for Quebec City and the eighth day of his ninety visit to Canada, which started in Vancouver last Wednesday.

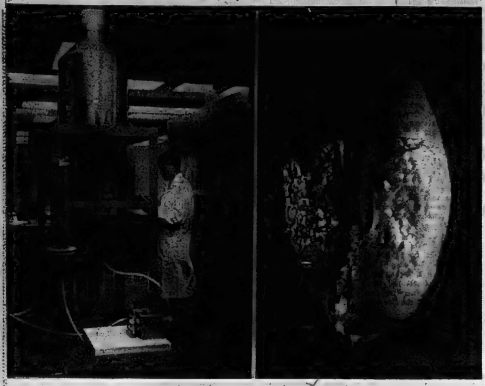
Next national day is Thursday when Mauritius, a tiny Indian Ocean island of 750,000 population, will be honored.

Here for the ceremonies will be the prime minister, Sir Seewoosagur Ramgoolam, and Lady Ramgoolam.

Haile Selassie in Limelight Will See Rest of Fair Today

MONTREAL (CP) — Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, who presided over his country's national day at Expo 67 Tuesday, will visit the world's fair today incognito, it was learned Tuesday night.

The public relations department said the emperor will pass through the turnstile at Place d'Accueil, the fair's main gateway, this morning and will try to visit those national pavilions that he missed Tuesday.



On Tuesday, he visited the Ethiopian pavilion and that of the United Nations and at each visit he was surrounded by friendly crowds of visitors.

The emperor appeared to enjoy himself during his first day at the fair, smiling and waving to acknowledge the applause.

Officials of the CNR's central station and Queen Elizabeth Hotel had a beautiful curtain - lined walkway prepared Monday so that the emperor could step directly from his train, through the walkway and into a VIP elevator to get to his suite above.

That beautiful walkway has had to be rebuilt completely for today's arrival of the premier of Mauritius.

When the emperor's train backed out, it took the curtains with it.

In the spring, while the land is still too wet to work with machinery, the seed springs to life, bursting through its protective plastic coating. 'Far and Away the Greatest' -- Sullivan

MONTREAL (CP) — Television star Ed Sullivan, an Expo 67 button gleamicz from the set of his quiet little suit, Tuesday called the world's fair "just tremendous."

"It's far and away the greatest," Mr. Sullivan told reporters who clustered around him in the Expo press lounge.

He was in Montreal to prepare for a May 21 broadcast of his show from the Expo theatre.

The program will be beamed to national audiences in the United States and Canada.

Mr. Sullivan opted for the United States pavilion as the top exhibit at the fair and gave special praise to the French and Soviet showhouses as well.

He had not been able to see the whole fair but was able to praise the "truly intelligent way" in which it had been conceived.

The 1964-65 world's fair at New York had been "dominated by a couple of men," while Expo presented a "much wider consensus of opinion."

Commonwealth Nations Studying Development

OTTAWA (CP) — Commonwealth countries, beset with a growing discontent with each other, are pondering new ways to promote economic development, Commonwealth Secretary - General Arnold Smith said Tuesday.

En route home to London following a visit to Australia and New Zealand, the Canadian diplomat told a news conference the Commonwealth picture is not all rosy.

"Disenchantment is widespread and is becoming more widespread," Mr. Smith said. New action is needed to promote the economic development of the underdeveloped Commonwealth countries.

To help, senior economic officials from Commonwealth countries will discuss a multilateral scheme to increase technical assistance to more needy countries at a conference in Nairobi, Kenya later this month.

Also on the agenda is a proposal for a Commonwealth export development fund to promote trade and do research work.

South African Ruling

Girl Is Colored, Parents White

PRETORIA (Reuters) — The South African Supreme Court has upheld the classification of 11-year-old Sandra Laing as colored—or mixed race—although her parents and other children are classified as whites.

Dismissing an application by her father for Sandra's reclassification, Justice Oscar Galgut said Tuesday Sandra's position as the only colored in a white family "created an impossible situation." But it could not be said that her reclassification was wrong.

Sandra was reclassified colored by the race classification board in February last year. She was said by South African officials to be a genetic throwback, showing strong non-white characteristics.

The judge said Sandra might still become a white under legislation now before Parliament which would make descent, rather than appearance and general acceptance, the standard for race classification.

Ottawa Boy Safe

LUSKVILLE, Que. (CP) — Richard Hutchings, 13, of Ottawa was found safe and well in the Gatineau Hills at 2 p.m. Tuesday, about 48 hours after he became separated from his sister and younger brothers.

The boy was reunited with his father, fireman Harold Hutchings, at a forest ranger station near the spot where two of more than 200 searchers found him.

Police at first planned to take the boy to hospital, but after examination on the scene allowed him to go home with his family.

The boy told police he set off Sunday to trace the source of a stream. When he tried to go back to the picnic site he took a wrong turn and became lost.

He said he saw the helicopters, but was unable to signal them. It was while he was shouting at a helicopter that rescuers on the ground heard him.

Death Sentence Is Commuted

OTTAWA (CP)— The cabinet maintained its opposition to capital punishment Tuesday, commuting to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on Roger Poirier, 28, of Montreal.

The Pearson government has intervened in all death sentences since taking office four years ago and plans to introduce a Criminal Code amendment to abolish capital punishment at the parliamentary session opening Monday.

Poirier was convicted of capital murder March 25, 1965, for the slaying of Bernard Robitaille, 25, a fellow prisoner in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. His execution had been set for Friday.

'Commie' Tag Put on Liberal By NDP-er Raises Lively Fuss

TORONTO (CP) — Kenneth Bryden (NDP—Toronto Woodbine) told the legislature Tuesday he has documentation of links between the Liberal party and the Communists in the Grey North federal byelection of the 1940s, when Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton was the unsuccessful Liberal candidate.

He was commenting on a point of personal privilege raised by Eddie Sargent (L—Grey North) who said a Canadian Press story quoted Mr. Bryden as referring to a Grey North byelection of 1962.

"There was no byelection in 1962" in Grey North, Mr. Sargent said.

The Canadian Press, in its report of a legislature speech by Mr. Bryden Monday night, erroneously referred to 1962 as the date of a byelection in Grey North.

DIDN'T MENTION YEAR

Mr. Bryden told the House Tuesday he had not mentioned any year but had been referring to the federal byelection held in the 1940s.

In his Monday night speech Mr. Bryden termed Mike Solski, Liberal candidate in the provincial riding of Sudbury East, a "Commie", and said links between the Liberals and the Communists had been shown "in the Grey North byelection."

Mr. Sargent said in the legislature Tuesday that if Mr. Bryden had been making reference to a campaign in which he—Mr. Sargent—had been a candidate, Mr. Bryden should document his case outside the legislature "and I'll take him apart."

Mr. Sargent was first elected to the legislature in the general election of September, 1962, in Grey North. He was not in the legislature Monday night when Mr. Bryden made his reference to Grey North.

Speaker Donald Morrow ruled that Mr. Sargent did not have a point of privilege.

The late Gen. McNaughton, who had resigned his Canadian Army command to be named defence minister by Prime Minister King, was defeated in his attempt to win a parliamentary seat in a Grey North byelection Feb. 5, 1945. The seat was taken by Conservative Garfield Case. A CCF candidate, retired RCAF vice-marshal A. Earl Godfrey, placed third.

CONISTON, Ont. (CP)—Coniston Mayor Mike Solski, called a "Commie" by Kenneth Bryden (NDP—Woodbine) in the Ontario legislature Monday, has challenged Mr. Bryden to repeat his remark outside the house.

Mr. Solski, Liberal candidate in the new riding of Sudbury East, Tuesday called Mr. Bryden a "damn liar" and said he would sue the NDP member if the remark was repeated outside the house.

Members are immune to legal action for statements they make in the legislature.

"He's lucky he wasn't close to me when he said that. In addition to getting a law suit he'd get a punch in the nose."

Mr. Solski, Coniston Mayor since 1963 and former president of the Sudbury local of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, said he first fell into disfavor with the NDP in 1948 after he quit the old CCF because of a dispute with party headquarters.

He said the trouble started when the CCF refused to continue to support Robert Carlin, a Mine-Mill union official as its Sudbury candidate. Mr. Carlin first won the seat in 1943 and was re-elected in 1945.

He ran as an independent candidate against a CCF candidate in 1948 and the seat was won by the Conservatives.

The CCF, predecessor of the NDP, claimed it withdrew support from Mr. Carlin because he had supported the Communist leadership of the Mine-Mill union in the 1940's.

Mr. Solski said the CCF's action led to many members leaving the party. He subsequently joined the Liberal party.

Towns Under 5,000 Can Turn to OPP For Police Service

TORONTO (CP)—The legislature's standing committee on legal bills and municipal affairs Tuesday approved a bill exempting Ontario towns with populations under 5,000 from maintaining police forces.

The exemption now is given to towns with populations under 2,600.

The amendment to the Police Act which will go back to the legislature for third or final reading also permits municipalities policed by the provincial police to hire their own officers to enforce local bylaws.

Attorney - General Arthur Wishart said the amendment clears the way for an OPP takeover of smaller police forces. The aim is to replace all municipal forces of fewer than 10 men.

A number of the province's 43 one-man police forces have accepted the OPP's offer to assume their duties with the exception of local bylaw enforcement, and the province hopes to take over the 97 two-to-five man and 43 six - to - nine - man forces.

Mr. Wishart assured Chief J. S. Torrance of Sarnia, president of the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police that the OPP would attempt to absorb displaced municipal policemen.

Registry For Liens Debated

TORONTO (CP)—A bill that would set up a central computer registry system for liens was given a bumpy and far from complete ride Tuesday by the Ontario legislature's standing committee on legal bills and municipal affairs.

The three - party committee approved only three of the bill's 71 sections during a three-hour session and then adjourned for a week.

A section of the bill that excludes "a mortgage, charge or assignment whose registration is provided for in the Corporation Securities Registration Act" generated most of the debate.

A committee under lawyer Fred M. Catzman that spent seven years developing the bill joined with legislature members James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale), Fred Young (NDP — Toronto Yorkview), Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) and Vernon Sloger (L—Toronto Downsview) in opposing the exemption.

Attorney - General Arthur Wishart said the disputed section excludes "only a very very small percentage" of the documents that would be registered under the bill. There already exists with the provincial secretary a central registry for corporate securities.

The bill and five related bills now before the committee would simplify Ontario's laws on small loans.

Police to Talk To All Owners Of Renault R-4

KILSRIDE, Ont. (CP)—While 150 searchers continued to look for the missing 10-year-old girl, Tuesday they will question the owner of every Renault R-4 station wagon in the province.

Marianne Schuett was last seen last Thursday getting into a car or station wagon near her school in this Hamilton - area community. Three witnesses described the vehicle as a small station wagon, possibly a black, late-model Renault.

Michael Tate, regional manager of the Renault company, has supplied police with names of all persons who have bought a Renault R-4 station wagon since it was introduced in 1962.

OPP Inspector William Lidstone said 100 policemen and 50 civilians searched Tuesday north of Kilbride and will continue as far as Acton, 15 miles from Kilbride, if necessary.

The area has been searched before by about 18,000 persons last Saturday and Sunday, but Inspector Lidstone said the rough terrain could require closer inspection.

Police in Niagara Falls, Ont., said a woman clerk in a downtown bookstore phoned to say a customer resembled the composite sketch of the abductor.

She told police the man, who had bought some comic books, had gone to a nearby post office.

When police arrived, the man left the post office and fled down a side street. The suspect escaped after a chase through the railway yards, police said.

Rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the girl's abductor total $5,500 and her parents have offered to sell their home to raise ransom money.

GOING BACK IN TIME

MONTREAL (CP) — Changes in Canadian society today make it resemble more and more the old French - Canadian regime, says Toronto historian William J. Eccles. He told McGill students the good of society prevailed when it conflicted with the good of the individual in old Quebec but, when the British took over, the good of the individual came to the fore.

Medicare Path Clear

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature Tuesday gave speedy approval in principle to three bills establishing the framework for Ontario's participation in a federal - provincial medical care scheme.

The bills, all approved unanimously, provide for establishment of a health insurance registration board which will take over registration and billing of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission and the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan.

A second bill bringing the OHSIP Act in line with the new legislation prompted Stephen Lewis (NDP—Scarborough West) to note that he was to prepare Ontario for the new medical care scheme.

When the third bill—adapting the OHSC Act to the new policy —came up, Kenneth Bryden (NDP — Toronto Woodbine) commented it would have been simpler to amalgamate the hospital and medical services plans instead of establishing a new board and a new bureaucracy.

Pay More Attention to Use of Drugs Doctors Urge Fellows

OTTAWA (CP)—Growing concern is evident in some parts of the medical profession over unfettered use of drugs to treat illness without sufficient safeguards against their harmful effects.

A variety of warnings were given and some solutions suggested at a two - day annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Chronotherapy which ended Tuesday.

Dr. J. M. LeClair, youthful professor of medicine at Sherbrooke University, told the meeting that too many drugs are being used on patients without adequate knowledge on the part of doctors of the side-effects.

Dr. W. B. Spaulding, professor of medicine at Hamilton's McMaster University, cautioned doctors to pay more attention to the risks of suicide, addiction and physical and mental impairment in treating psychosomatic illness with drugs.

Dr. LeClair said half the patients taking drugs shouldn't be receiving them. Doctors were becoming too complacent about how much is known of harmful effects.

He urged that each hospital set up a professional committee to review the use made of drugs in hospital treatment just as is done by the hospital's surgery committee with respect to surgical cases.

He said it is impossible for doctors to keep abreast of all the information on the 20,000 drugs on the market. He estimated that the number could be cut to between 500 and 1,000 since many drugs were only variations of each other.

Dr. LeClair said this reduced listing should be made part of a national drug formulary which would give full information about what drugs were permitted for medical practice.

The proposal for such a formulary, he said, was turned down by the Canada drug prices inquiry because of drug-industry lobbying and fear of economic dislocation that would result from a limitation of diversity of drug products.

Baptist Shows Prize "Dig" To Touring Jesuit Leader

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP)—It was a great day for the Jesuits—and one Baptist.

"Wonderful, wonderful," said Very Rev. Pedro Arrupe, world head of the Society of Jesus, as he toured Tuesday the reconstructed 17th century village near here of Sainte - Marie among the Hurons.

Leading the way jauntily in an intermittent rain was Wilfrid Jury, a 78-year-old Baptist archaeologist.

He trotted up and down stairs in log and plank houses and wagged an admonitory finger as he pointed out details of chapels, dwellings, storehouses and stops on the site of the wilderness home of the Jesuit martyrs.

To Dr. Jury, an honorary curator of pioneer life at the University of Western Ontario in London, it was a chance to show off his prize "dig" to an appreciative audience.

He glowed as the church bell in the little chapel was rung. The bell, from a 17th century French church near Rouen, was bought by Dr. Jury and his historian wife, Elsie, on one of their tours on the continent to find authentic designs of Sainte-Marie-type buildings.

"It is here, at Sainte-Marie, that we are most conscious of what we owe to Canada," said Father Arrupe in his address to dignitaries who included Premier John Robarts of Ontario and provincial cabinet ministers.

Restoration Shows Role Of French

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP)—Premier Robarts said Tuesday the restoration of Sainte - Marie Among the Hurons, a Jesuit settlement founded near here 300 years ago, "particularly illustrates the important role our French compatriots have played in the development of Canada."

The premier spoke in welcoming Very Rev. Pedro Arrupe, superior-general of the Society of Jesus, to Ontario.

Shrine Curator Displays Crusty Sense of Humor

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — The man who Tuesday acted as unofficial host to the Very Rev. Pedro Arrupe, Jesuit superior general, had an audience with the Pope two years ago in Rome and regards him as "a real funny man . . . got a good sense of humor."

But Dr. Wilfred Jury, 78-year-old Baptist archaeologist, still isn't sure of the Pope's name.

"That new Pope — whatever his name is," Dr. Jury said, referring to Pope Paul.

Dr. Jury, who prefers to be called Will, only got as far as Grade 8ix, he has an honorary doctorate from the University of Montreal, is honorary curator of the Museum of Indian Archaeology and Pioneer Life at the University of Western Ontario, and himself directed the reconstruction of Sainte-Marie Among the Hurons, the first European settlement in Ontario.

He taught himself all he knows about archaeology and has long been interested in the history of Huronia, centre of an Indian culture at the foot of Georgian Bay.

While showing Father Arrupe and his entourage around the reconstructed village Tuesday, Dr. Jury also displayed his crusty sense of humor.

While pointing out an old rolling pin in what appeared to be a pile of flour, he suggested that someone taste it.

One of the Jesuits next to Father Arrupe dipped a finger into the white material.

"Ha, ha," said Dr. Jury, "That's not flour, that's lime."

Don't take our word for it..

To Your Good Health

Why Time to Take Pills Varies

Dear Dr. Molner: Why are different pills prescribed for specific parts of the day, as one in the morning, one after meals, before meals, four times a day, before bedtime, etc. Does the pill color or container (capsule, etc.) have any significance? — R. J. S.

There are lots of reasons. I'll give you some of the more significant ones.

It depends on what a medicine is intended to do; how fast it must get to where it's going; whether it tends to irritate the stomach lining; sometimes whether its nature is changed by stomach juices.

Long-acting drugs are usually taken morning and evening. Some antibiotics, taken orally, maintain their action so that, taken every 6 hours, they provide steady effect without a gap.

Some appetite - depressing drugs are taken in the morning only, since later in the day the effect may linger and cause wakefulness at night.

Drugs to affect the digestive tract are commonly given before meals but drugs to counteract excessive acidity (as for an ulcer patient) are usually taken an hour or so after eating.

Some medications may be irritating to the stomach lining and so are taken after a meal when the stomach, being full, is protected by the presence of food.

It is obvious why sleeping pills are taken in the evening, but with other medications, such as digitalis, which may be taken only once a day, a person specifies a fixed time of day, perhaps at breakfast, the purpose being to establish a daily habit so the patient won't forget, or may not remember for certain, whether he has had a pill. This is particularly true of birth control pills.

Colors, shapes and designs are applied by manufacturers to make medications readily identifiable, and the shape may signify a difference in strength or amount. Dosage in some cases may be imprinted. Some pills are scored so they may be easily cut or broken into a fractional dose.

Capsules at times contain pellets of the medicine with coatings of differing thickness, so some are absorbed quickly, others slowly, thus spreading the effect over a longer time.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband and I both suffer leg cramps during the night. How should we bring our legs up Should we bring our legs up and rub the muscle to relax them, or just keep the legs up until the pain goes away? — Mrs. R. R.

Changing position, including getting up and walking, is usually better — but there are various methods which often relieve the leg and foot cramps. Why don't you write for my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Pains"? Send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed envelope for a copy.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother-in-law claims that pork chops fried are tenderized and fried are well done in 20 to 30 minutes. I say it takes 1¼ to 2 hours to get rid of the danger of trichinosis. Two people in her family have bleeding gums, and also she must be because of vomiting and diarrhea. — R. P.

Twenty to 30 minutes sounds very meagre. However the thickness of the meat is important. To protect against trichinosis, pork should be cooked until the meat is never pink. Chops would not take an hour and a half, how-ever.

I doubt if the bleeding gums are related to trichinosis. Vomiting and diarrhea can be symptoms.

• • •

Note to L.B.: No, you are wrong. Syphilis can be completely cured, and in that case will not reappear in future generations.

The National Science Test On CBS Was Heavy Going

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS news has been quietly getting to be neither a portrait of the stupid American.

It started a couple of seasons back with its first national drive-in test which was flanked by a national sample of cars taken and also by most of the living-room audience who were appalled by revelation of a lack of Edsel and knowledge of safety rules of the road.

Segment and challenged the Then the National Science Test, and now will retire permanently from the air Sunday since the grade was a pure fluke.

CBS's national sample came up with an average grade of 74 but that obviously was because the participants just didn't know as many hicky pieces as I did.

There were easy - to - guess questions about laser beams, bird calls and sonic booms, and the individual results just came out of a perfectly marvellous label for comedy.

In the delightful one-man special on ABC Monday night, the host, Jonathan Winters, had her sister, Mrs. Frank Osbourne, at Petherick's Corners.

Mrs. Mary Lyons of Hamilton, was a weekend guest of Mrs. Thomas McKeown and Paul.

line of overweight boy dancers, or hula a baby discovering its hands or doing a long, semi-impression of Jimmy Durante. The fast-paced show was directed with—surprisingly and imagination by Dwight Hermon who only last week was responsible for the five special with Herb Alpert and Tijuana Brass at NBC. Also in charge was Bill Dana as host, president-secretary and occasional sketch performer, made its debut Monday night on more than 100 stations around the country. The two-hour program, transmitted by the new United Network, was a loud variety show with appearance by a number of stars appearing in that resort city.

The first program was interesting, ambitious and showed promise.

No Monday Blues For Mutual Funds

WINNIPEG (CP)—Executives of Canada's largest mutual fund firm can't afford beginning-of-the - week blues. Monday is money day.

Every week at the Monday meetings in The Investors Group head office on Broadway Avenue, major decisions are made involving the investment future of about $3,000,000.

That means the seven men who make up the brain trust of The Investors Group security committee must cut into their weekend leisure with homework on study reports and data, says Robert H. Jones.

Mr. Jones, vice-president in charge of the securities division, is the chairman of the Monday meetings.

Of the approximately $3,000,000 the company has to invest each week, most is invested in common stock.

However, not all of that goes into stock as we have a big mortgage operation here," Mr. Jones said in an interview.

The basic premise of a mutual fund operation is that investors' money is used to buy equities. Benefits to the individual investors are the facilities, experience and sufficient capital to permit broad investment diversification.

Last year more than 100,000 Canadians became shareholders of Canadian mutual funds and the total number of shareholder accounts reached a record 595,-083.

At the end of March, Canadians had invested $855,000,000 in The Investors Group's four mutual funds. Investors dominate Canada's mutual fund business with about 40 per cent of all sales and has total assets of $1,200,000,000.

The Investors Group is based in Winnipeg, rather than Toronto or Montreal, by reason of the original setup of the company when the Winnipeg office was a branch of Investors Diversified Services Inc., a large Minneapolis investment management firm.

Framework Set Up For Medicare Plans

TORONTO (CP)—Three bills establishing the framework for Ontario's participation in a federal - provincial medical care scheme were given speedy and unanimous approval in principle on second reading — by the Ontario legislature Tuesday.

The bills provide for establishment of a health insurance commission to take over the registration and billing functions of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission and the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan.

In other business:

—The standing committee on legal bills and municipal affairs will meet today to start examining police reports. The police forces presently examined serve towns over 2,000.

—The local bills and municipal affairs committee approved a bill to allow the sessions of a bill that would set up a central computerized system of records. The legislature was adjourned for a week.

—A committee of the whole house approved an amendment to the Niagara Parks Act making the Niagara Parks Commission responsible to a minister designated by the cabinet. The minister will have the commission report annually to the legislature on its activities.

—John White (PC —London South) proposed the government develop the guidance trade into industrial and house - building branches for the purpose of setting minimum wages and limiting hours of work. He said there should be more flexibility in wages and hours for employees of small firms.

—Health Minister Matthew Dymond said the Ontario Medical Association is no longer entirely opposed to a campaign of urging doctors against direct dealing with the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan. He said 75 per cent of the doctors are dealing with the plan now and only 12 per cent insist on billing patients themselves.

The medical care bill setting up the commission was given approved without a word from the Opposition. The board will be in addition to conduct mass registrations needed to establish a registry under which a medical card is issued.

Details of the plan are still being negotiated in Ottawa.

The other bill is an amendment to the Police Act, also permits municipalities policed by the provincial police to hire their own officers to enforce local bylaws.

Attorney - General Arthur Wishart said the amendment favors the hiring of an additional 75 smaller police forces. The aim is to replace all municipal forces of fewer than 10 men.

A number of the province's one-man police forces have accepted the OPP's offer to assume their duties and the province hopes to take over the 37 two- to five-man and 43 six- to nine-man forces.

Mr. Wishart said the OPP would attempt to absorb displaced municipal policemen.

The bill now goes back to the legislature for third reading.

He Teaches Pupils How To Learn

HALIFAX (CP) — "Students on the whole do not know how they learn," says a professor at university," says Dr. Horace D. Beach, a professor in Dalhousie University's psychology department.

"I am convinced that with appropriate training in the tactics and principles of learning, a 25-to50-per-cent increase in learning efficiency can be achieved before a student ever arrives on campus."

To help Dalhousie students with their emotional or psychological problem s, a student counselling and psychological services centre went into full-scale operation last September, with Dr. Beach as director on a part-time basis.

Dr. Beach now spends most of his time as director of counselling centre, which is devoted to counselling individual students, counselling with student leaders and staff, high school counselors and guidance officers, and carrying out applied research on the learning process.

Between September and Christmas 70 Dalhousie students brought their problems to the centre. Many of the cases involved learning problems—students who were in consequence on a certain subject or unable to maintain sufficient interest in it.

Dr. Beach says that in seeking the cause of the problem, it's not always enough to look to the student. Sometimes a lecturer or professor may not be able to reach a very student who sits before him.

"If all teachers had a clear understanding grasp of learning process we would be counselling far fewer students."

Puerto Rico Will Vote On Status This July

WASHINGTON (CP) — Puerto Rico, a Caribbean island in the sun noted for rum, tourism and poverty, votes July 23 on its political future.

The options for the 2,968,000 Puerto Ricans include an independent republic or the 51st U.S. state, or remaining a special half-and-half status as a U.S. commonwealth which may offer the best of both worlds. The last choice seems heavily favored.

The plebiscite will be the first opportunity Puerto Rico has had to indicate its desired political relationship with the mainland U.S. in 1898 after the Spanish-American war.

By comparison, Newfoundland faced a simpler choice in 1949 when it chose to become the 10th Canadian province rather than remain Britain's oldest colony.

Puerto Ricans now are U.S. citizens. Several hundred thousand, in fact, live in the U.S., primarily in New York City. Its people freely access to the U.S. and it draws federal U.S. financial assistance.

But Puerto Rico pays no federal taxes.

It has self - government, cannot vote for a U.S. president and has a non - voting representative in the U.S. Congress. Its military forces are subject to the U.S. military draft.

Further, while the labor force is largely employed in factories by a jobless rate of perhaps 12 per cent, by Latin American standards Puerto Ricans are comparatively wealthy, and increasingly so.

In line with the U.S. have produced significant economic expansion during the last 20 years. Net income per capita runs around $900 annually, low by North American standards but the highest in the remainder of the Western Hemisphere.

Chartered Banks To Inject $200,000,000 Into Housing

OTTAWA (CP) — The chartered banks will inject at least $200,000,000 into housing this year, predicts H. W. Hignett, president of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

The money will go into both National Housing Act and conventional mortgages, and it will be lent throughout the branch system, reaching areas traditionally untouched by the institutional lenders oriented to the big cities.

Mr. Hignett predicted in an interview Tuesday that while the generally-accepted construction target of 170,000 housing units a year may not be met in 1967, the current upsurge guarantees that it will be met in the 12-month period between June 1, 1967 and June 1, 1968.

The banks are back in mortgage financing by virtue of the new Bank Act, which went into force Monday.

They have been shut out of mortgage lending since 1859 because of a restriction on the interest they may charge but the new legislation permits them to lend at going rates.

The banks have been preparing for mortgage operations during the last three months, some taking applications in advance of May 1.

Apart from the return to the scene of the eight operating banks, private lenders are back with the starection of the higher NHA interest rate.

These life insurance and trust companies had NHA loans for 14,652 housing units approved in the first three months of 1967, more than for the entire 12 months of 1966.

The government took a direct step of its own by offering 20,000 loans in April and May for speculative building, that is, for construction by contractors wsh o u t prearranged buyers.

The contractors are expected to subscribe this $200,000,000 program fully within a few weeks.

The speculative program is usually offered each fall. This one was set ahead to stimulate the week housing market and the government is expected to delay a decision whether to introduce a second spec-building program this fall.

Last week CMHC reported an unprecedented increase in loan applications during March to 23,458 dwelling units, more than four times the total of 5,255 units for the same month of 1966.

Allowing a lag of about two months between applications and starts, the boom in construction can be expected to strike by June and continue throughout the year.

The National House Builders Association is predicting 150,000 starts for the year compared with 134,474 last year with a rate of 170,000 a year to be reached by late fall.

The long - run optimism for housing construction stems from the guarantee that a competitive interest rate will prevail, holding private lenders in the field.

Last year and at other times of economic strain, it was more profitable for them to lend money for commercial building purposes.

A new formula this year for determining the NHA interest rate ties it 1¼ per cent above the average yield on long-term Government of Canada bonds, with provision for adjustment as necessary every three months.

As the economy moves... so will the NHA rate. The first adjustment occurred April 1 when the rate dropped to seven per cent from 7¼ per cent.

Decision On Vietnam

Dirksen Leaves Hospital To Quell Republican Revolt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen is keeping his sometimes balky Republican troops lined up behind President Johnson in fighting the war in Vietnam.

Dirksen left his hospital bed Monday, not yet fully recovered from a bout with pneumonia, to put down an incipient revolt among party members who do not like the way the war is going and are searching for a Republican alternative.

When Dirksen got through lecturing them at a closed policy committee meeting about the political liabilities of questioning the president's basic direction of a bloody conflict, they went along with a statement giving "wholehearted support" to Johnson and standing "foursquare" behind him.

This put the Senate Republicans in line with the latest stance assumed by one of the long candidates for their party's 1968 presidential nomination, Governor George Romney of Michigan.

Romney said in Atlanta, Ga., Monday: "I don't think we should pursue a course that will help the enemy."

Dirksen left an avenue open for the Republican dissenters in "preserving wholly the right of full and fair inquiry and criticism" on their part.

Senators Jacob Javits of New York and Charles Percy of Illinois, leading war critics, were joined by Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, a supporter of Johnson's course, in urging greater administration efforts to negotiate peace and avoid any step that might bring China into the war.

Dirksen said a statement will be made by the Senate-House of Representatives leadership at its next meeting. But he made it clear it will not "modify our support of the president."

Senator Mark Hatfield of Oregon, first - line war critic, called for "a frank review within the Republican party of this nation's policies and objectives in Vietnam."

About a disputed report of the policy committee's staff which sharply criticized Johnson's policies, Senator John Tower of Texas said that while the bulk of the report was factual and useful, "I find it necessary to dissociate myself with a number of its inferences and suggested conclusions."

Rehabilitation Centres Join Forces

KINGSTON (CP) — Rehabilitation medical facilities, here will merge July 1 to provide an enlarged service for the city and a regional rehabilitation centre for eastern Ontario.

The head of the new department of rehabilitation medicine will be Dr. David C. Symington, now a director of the rehabilitation centre.

The number of physiotherapists will be increased to 14 from six and a speech and vocational therapy section will be added. The department also will function as a clinical teaching unit.

Court Rules 8-1 Against Truscott

OTTAWA (CP)—Steven Truscott today lost his unprecedented bid for reversal of his 1959 murder conviction at age 24.

The Supreme Court of Canada ruled in an 8-to-1 opinion that there was no miscarriage of justice in the trial of Truscott for the sex slaying of Lynne Harper, 12, near Clinton, Ont.

Eight of the nine justices of the high court, acting on a special referral to the court by the cabinet, agreed that if they had heard an appeal in the case they would have rejected it and confirmed the conviction.

Mr. Justice Emmett Hall dissented.

The court's majority opinion now goes back to the federal cabinet. If it abides by the decision, as is expected, Truscott, now 22, will remain in prison under a sentence of life imprisonment.

The death sentence ordered for him after his conviction was commuted.

Public controversy over the case was stirred up last year with publication of The Trial of Steven Truscott, a book by Toronto author Isabel LeBourdais that challenged much of the evidence and was critical of the conduct of Steven's trial at Goderich, Ont.

The cabinet sent the case to the high court for an opinion.

The cabinet asked the court what it would have done if an appeal had been made to it. The court's majority reply today:

"The answer of the court is that this court would have dismissed such an appeal.

"The answer of Mr. Justice Hall, dissenting, is that such an appeal should have been allowed, the conviction quashed and a new trial ordered."

Most of those present were reporters. Steven's parents, Dan and Doris Truscott, and Mrs. LeBourdais were not present.

Steven was at his regular job in the machine shop of Collins Bay penitentiary near Kingston when the decision on his future was announced.

A key point in the Crown's case was that the girl was strangled between 7:15 and 7:45 p.m. June 9 in a woodlot known as Lawman's bush.

The court's majority opinion said nothing it had heard could "disturb the finding implicit in the jury's verdict" — that Truscott and the girl went into the woodlot.

Another point implicit in the verdict was that the girl was killed in the woodlot, not

Trial Verdict Is Upheld

By an 8-1 margin, the Supreme Court of Canada today ruled Steven Truscott, top, received a fair trial when he was convicted of murder in 1959, at the age of 14. The court reviewed the case at the request of the Federal Cabinet, after a book by Isabel LeBourdais criticized the trial. Mrs. LeBourdais is shown, bottom, with Truscott's parents. (CP Photo)

Pacification Workers Hard Hit

SAIGON (AP) — Intensified Viet Cong attacks are seriously battering the South Vietnamese government's latest pacification program, raising the spectre of another failure in Saigon's efforts to win over the countryside.

In the first four months of this year 309 Communist attacks on pacification teams killed 218 government workers and wounded 299. Another 31 are missing and presumed captured. Several hundred government troops deployed to protect the pacification teams have been killed.

Westmoreland May Get Two More Divisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William Westmoreland stands a good chance of getting at least one more army division to strengthen his forces in Vietnam, government sources said today.

And he could gain two more divisions, depending on the course of the war in the weeks ahead.

Each additional division and its supporting elements would swell Westmoreland's force by 25,000 to 30,000 men.

Present plans calling for a buildup to about 470,000 U.S. servicemen in Vietnam by year's end were completed last fall. The U.S. force in Vietnam has last reported officially at 440,000.

Since last fall, the Communists have intensified their operations in South Vietnam and have built North Vietnamese regular army elements in the buffer zone area to about four divisions.

There is a marked contrast between the way the Communist buildup is viewed by state department officials on the one hand and by those at the defence department on the other.

State department officials warned late last week that a major North Vietnamese assault across the border may be imminent.

But defence department officials, while concerned about the Communist buildup, say they

North Vietnamese Attack On Camp Takes Heavy Toll

SAIGON (AP) — Well-armed North Vietnamese forces inflicted heavy casualties today on South Vietnamese irregular troops defending a U.S. Special Forces camp six miles from where U.S. marines still fought furiously to capture a strategic hill below the demilitarized zone separating Vietnam.

Four other Communist attacks in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces were reported, one of them on a refugee camp. Many civilians were killed and wounded.

The North Vietnamese, estimated to number 1,000, hit the U.S. Special Forces camp at Lang Vei near the Montagnard village of the same name where 316 civilians were killed last March when two U.S. planes bombed it by mistake. Lang Vei is 420 miles north of Saigon.

Two of the 12 American advisers were killed and three South Vietnamese and Montagnard companies—about 300 men —in the camp suffered heavy losses, a U.S. military spokesman said.

Six miles from Lang Vei, U.S. marines still were battling to seize HH 881 north. In 11 days of almost constant fighting, the marines have driven North Vietnamese regulars from adjacent Hill 861 and Hill 881 south.

Casualties figures for the campaign were given as 137 killed and 704 wounded with 264 of the wounded being evacuated. A field dispatch said two American artillery shells hit the marine lines as they were on the way up Hill 881 north, killing one and wounding nine. The marines said 506 Communists were confirmed killed.

But Lt.-Gen. Lewis Walt, marine commander in Vietnam, examined after a visit to the battlefield Wednesday that at least 1,000 Communists had been killed.

Pursued, Four Fall 150 Feet

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) Four 15-year-old freshman students at Niagara University were in hospital today after they tumbled in the dark and fell about 150 feet into the lower Niagara River gorge after they had been chased by a gang of unknown youths.

Two of the boys, James Ryan, of Buffalo, and Robert Gerard, of Tonawanda, Pa., are in serious condition at Memorial Hospital after being rescued from the gorge by helicopter this morning.

Police said the incident happened 500 yards north of the American Falls and north of Rainbow Bridge when the four freshmen, chased by youths in the dark, slipped and fell down an ice chute into an abandoned plant, known as the old Schoellkopf plant.

Don't Let Your Dog Smoke Or He May Get Lung Cancer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Cancer can be induced in dogs by training them to smoke cigarettes, and the rate of growth parallels that of cancer in humans who smoke, a researcher says.

Dr. Oscar Auerbach called the results of his research "pathological evidence" that cigarette smoking causes cancer.

In his 14-month study he used 79 beagles as a control group for a second group of 10 beagles which he taught to smoke up to 12 cigarettes a day.

He performed a tracheotomy and attached to each dog's trachea a tube connected to a smoking machine outside its pen. After the first day, the dogs smoked one their own, Auerbach said.

Autopsies showed the nonsmokers had no physical disabilities. The smoking dogs began to die of varying ailments after the first two weeks until five of the 10 smokers had died after 412 days, Auerbach said. Autopsies showed the dogs who died first had slight changes in the tissue around the lungs and those who died or were killed during the last days of the research had advanced cancer cells lining the entire tract.

Auerbach compared the stages of advancing cancer with tissue taken from humans who had been light, moderate or heavy smokers and found the profiles parallel.

Seventy-four Laborites Attack Euromart Plans

LONDON (Reuters)—Seventy-four Labor members of the House of Commons today bitterly attacked Prime Minister Wilson's decision to seek British membership in the European Common Market.

In a statement in the left-wing Weekly Tribune, they said that instead of trying to get into the six-nation trade group Britain should look for ways to promote co-operation between Western Europe and the Eastern bloc.

This, they said, should be done through the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe.

The 74, led by Emmanuel Shinwell, former chairman of the parliamentary party and one of the Labor party's most bitter opponents of the Common Market, claimed the European Economic Community was "tending to intensify the division of Europe."

The statement said EEC appeared in be an economic reflection of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and the Communist government would ever sign it.

It appeared unlikely that more than 40 of the 74 actually would vote against the government after next week's three-day debate on the decision to seek Common Market membership.

Judge Surprised By Jury

OTTAWA (CP)—A jury of 11 men and one woman surprised Mr. Justice J. P. Donnelly of the Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday night when it found Antonio Calabro, 34, not guilty of non - capital murder.

Calabro admitted shooting his 21-year-old brother-in-law Vincenzo Santoro Feb. 9 but testified that he fired his double-barrelled 16-gauge shotgun at the menacing" figure of Santoro because he thought the man was going to kill his sister.

"I realize that you have been the judges of the facts . . . but how you could have come to this conclusion is beyond me," Mr. Justice Donnelly said after hearing the jury's decision.

Calabro was freed immediately and mobbed by a large group of happy friends and relatives.

The jury spent more than five hours deliberating its decision.

1,300 Teachers Ready to Resign

TORONTO (CP)—More than 1,300 of Metropolitan Toronto's 1,900 high school teachers indicated Wednesday night they are willing to resign en masse to back their salary demands.

About 80 per cent of the 1,300 teachers attending a meeting gave a standing ovation to Douglas Penny, chairman of their salary negotiating committee, as he urged them to reject the last salary offer of the Toronto board of education.

The 1,300 high school teachers will vote Friday and Monday to decide if they are willing to have the salary dispute handled by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

If the teachers and the board of education had come to tentative terms for salary increases ranging from $6,100 to $13,100 up from the present $5,400 to $11,100.

However, negotiations broke down when the teachers said they wanted the salary increases retroactive to January, 1967, in the past, salary increases have been effective at the beginning of the school term in September.

Mayors Agree

Tax Relief for Elderly Welcomed

Belleville Mayor J. K. Ellis, and Mayor James Macdonald of Trenton today expressed agreement with legislation passed yesterday in the Ontario Legislature which will permit municipalities to grant elderly homeowners interest-free property tax deferments of up to $150 a year.

"It is a good compromise between what I proposed last year and what our local city council was prepared to pass," said Mayor Ellis.

He agreed with the amount of the $150 tax deferment and also with the fact that the deferment is actually a loan, but said he was not quite so happy about the fact that there is to be no means test.

"However, I will go along with that," he said, noting that he did not feel there would be any abuse because of the no means test.

Mayor Ellis' motion last year for tax relief for elderly persons would have included a means test but he said today this was not so important now as the tax deferment was in effect a loan.

Mayor MacDonald agreed that municipalities could take advantage of the legislation this year since most have not yet collected taxes.

"I think council would almost certainly agree with the principle of the act," he said. "Any relief we can provide for elderly persons on fixed incomes is excellent what with rising taxes and all."

The mayor expected the matter would be given some council consideration at the earliest convenience and expected the subject would be discussed at tonight's regular meeting of Hastings county, Belleville and Trenton municipal officials.

Committee Seeks Airport for Area

The city of Belleville and the immediate Quinte district need a commercial airport which could handle executive type jet aircraft and air cargo planes.

This was told last night to members of a special committee from Belleville, Trenton, and the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, named to enquire into the need and feasibility of such an airport in the Belleville area.

The meeting held at Belleville city hall was told that executive aircraft owned by Mead Johnson Ltd. and other firms fly into the Belleville area regularly.

Murray Clapp, from the Picton Flying Club said there were approximately 13 commercial-type privately-owned aircraft flying into the Quinte area, while a considerable air freight was shipped out of the district.

Also more than 40 companies could be expected to use a local commercial airport.

Attending the meeting were two committee members from the above municipality, and also two officers from the Canadian Forces Base at Trenton.

The general opinion of the meeting was that the Mountain View Airport was the most ideal and likely location for a commercial airport.

The Mountain View air strips already see limited use by the Picton Flying Club, but the CFB also uses the field in flying operations.

Air Force officials attending the meeting said that a commercial airport closer than 10 miles to the big CFB base at Trenton would not be feasible.

Also they said that expansion of the private airport just east of Belleville would not be the airstrip, while the Stirling field was incapable of being enlarged.

They said commercial use of Trenton air station facilities was out of the question.

Today committee chairman Dr. J. Russell Scott of Belleville said this left the committee with but two alternatives if a commercial airport were to be established in the Belleville area — to start from scratch which would involve the expenditure of huge amounts of money, or using the Mountain View air strips as a commercial airport.

A sub-committee of Howard Booth of Belleville and Murray Clapp of Picton was named to enquire into the desirability and feasibility of Mountain View and to ascertain the availability of the field.

Court Rules 8-1

brought there after death, the opinion said.

"We do not think that this conclusion could be disturbed by anything to be found in the evidence given at the trial or on this reference."

Testimony on the content of the girl's stomach, used by the Crown to fix time of death, was a point of contention among expert witnesses at the special hearing.

The majority opinion said:

"We think that the evidence indicates that this was the same meal that the girl had finished eating at 5:45 p.m. We know the time of the meal."

The eight justices agreed that the degree of digestion of the food in the stomach backed the Crown contention that the girl was killed 1½ to two hours after eating.

Sores on Truscott's penis were another key point. The Crown contended they were consistent with a sexual attack on a young girl. The defence contended they were not.

Noting that Truscott testified he had sores for about six weeks before he was questioned by police, the majority opinion said:

"We find it impossible to accept Truscott's statement that he had never described the condition of his penis, as it existed prior to June 9, 1959, to anyone before he described it to his counsel on the reference."

Doctors who examined him three days after the slaying in the presence of his father discovered the sores and drew inferences from them, the opinion noted.

". . . It is incredible that no disclosure was made by him to his father and to his then counsel as to the condition which he says had existed for six weeks before he was picked up."

Bancroft Mine to Be De-watered

TORONTO (CP)—Shareholders of Canadian Faraday Corp. Ltd. Wednesday approved consolidation of their holdings with Metal Mines Ltd. and Augustus Exploration Ltd. into Consolidated Canadian Faraday Ltd.

Canadian Faraday shareholders will be able to exchange their shares on a one-for-one basis. Shareholders of Metal Mines will get one new share for each two old ones they now hold and Augustus shareholders receive one new share for each five shares they hold of Augustus.

A. W. Johnston, president of the three companies, said plans are well under way to de-water the Faraday uranium mine at Bancroft, Ont.

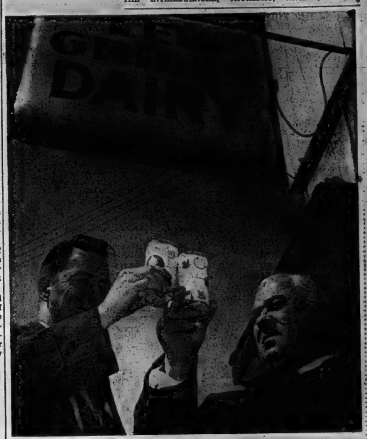
He said the company and Federal Resources Corp. of Salt Lake City, Utah. have started hiring crews and purchasing equipment for the de-watering program to be under way by July and finished by the end of September.

Suspend Sentence On Women

A mother of six children today was placed on suspended sentence for what Magistrate T. Y. Wills called one of "the most flagrant" cases of shoplifting.

The 36-year-old woman, resident in the Holloway area, kept her loot in the trunk of her car when she returned to pilfer more articles at the Riteway Stores shopping complex.

When store detectives finally stopped in the woman told spirited goods worth a total of $34 from various counters.



Legal aid defence counsel Ted Follwell described the woman as respectable with no previous record.

"I'm informed by the accused that she just has no explanation for this at all," Mr. Follwell added.

Countered Magistrate Wills "There's not much room for temporary aberation (as an explanation), because she just kept coming and going."

"This is one of the most wholesale (cases) I've ever had."

However, the magistrate said he saw no reason to alter the pattern of sentence in similar local cases and placed the woman on good behavior for 12 months.

"Here's to Us!"

Friendly milkman - MP Lee Grills (left) and new company president Gordon Spencer decided business deal meant more than paperwork formalities in dairy amalgamation. So, they decided to drink a toast yesterday to success of new venture — in milk, of course.

Grills Merges Dairy

Belleville's Friendly Milkman has got himself some new buddies.

Lee Grills, MP for South Hastings and owner of one of the Quinte district's biggest milk plants, has confirmed a big change in his business.

Mr. Grills now becomes vice-president of Lee Grills Dairy Ltd., which has been amalgamated with two other Eastern Ontario dairies.

The amalgamation joins the Belleville enterprise in Spencer's Quality Dairy, of Brighton and Brookside-Price's Dairy, of Kingston.

Taking Mr. Grills' place as president of the Quinte unit of the new group is Gordon J. Spencer, of Brighton.

Mr. Grills, started in business more than 20 years ago, when he came in from a Sidney-township farm and borrowed money to buy out Harper's Dairy.

"Our first day in business — Nov. 1st, 1944 — we delivered 180 quarts of milk," recalls Mr. Grills. "In 22 years I've had the satisfaction of watching the business grow 40 times to a daily output of 8,000 quarts."

He moved to expand in 1949 when he successfully bid for Citizen's Dairy Ltd., on the site of the present Grills operation at Coleman Street.

Competitors have also dropped out along the way.

When he started in business, there were seven dairies plying for trade around Belleville. Now there are only three.

He also began with three employees — now Lee Grills' Dairy counts 20 on its payroll.

Mr. Grills credits his business success is confidence in his home area — not forgetting the milk producers, who maintain consistently high standards, he says.

His "Friendly Milkman" slogan which has followed him all the way to Parliament since his first election in 1957, was a simple inspiration that stuck. It happened night after he opened business in 1944.

"The second day we were in business a calender salesman came to me and told me I would never succeed in business without a slogan," Mr. Grills recalls. "I prize friendship more than anything else, so I thought 'Your friendly milkman.' The salesman said that was good enough — and sold me some calendars."

Police Assist Choir

They had to call out the police to help direct choir practices yesterday in Belleville.

In fact, it took three constables and nearly a score of school teachers to get the big choir show across the road.

The event was the first combined practice of all 1,200 voices in the Centennial choir from Belleville public schools.

The choir will make its first bow in public May 12 with a program of music marking the anniversary of Confederation at Memorial Arena.

Yesterday's run - through followed an assembly of the young choristers on the parade square of Belleville armory.

Using bull - horns, perspiring teachers sorted out the chattering, carefree crowd.

Once they meshed off under choir sections, the students were marched in double line across Pinnacle Street to the arena for practice under choir director Phyllis May.

May Add Wildlife Studies To Conservation Program

If present plans of the Moira River Conservation Authority are carried out, wildlife studies could be added to the public schools conservation program instituted last year.

The program is for all grade 6 public school pupils in the city to spend a day in June at the Col. Vanderwater Conservation Area at Thomasburg.

During the day the children study nature, identify trees and shrubs and study soil profiles.

This year public school children from the rural areas of South Hastings and Marmora-burg townships are expected to take part in the program.

It is not expected that wildlife studies will be co-ordinated into the school conservation program until next year, but at least a start will be made in 1967.

BIRD HOUSES ERECTED

This year bird houses have been erected along the nature trails both at the Vanderwater Park and at O'Hara's Mill north west of Madoc.

The authority fish and wildlife advisory board at a recent meeting moved to request the department of lands and forests to approve all authority property under forest management and report on the most suitable purpose for which the land should be developed with particular emphasis on wildlife potential.

The assistance of the Otonabee Region Conservation Authority will be sought in blasting pot holes in the marsh area at the Thurlow wildlife area with the view of improving the duck habitat.

Allay Parents' Fears

TORONTO (CP) — Parents who find girlie magazines hidden under their teen - age son's mattress should not be alarmed, a panel told a meeting of the suburban East York social planning council Wednesday. Magistrate David Coon said studies by the advisory committee to the Ontario legislature on pornography revealed that teen-age interest in such magazines stems from "a fairly healthy attitude on the young-ster's part."

"Indian City?"

In one way the Indian pavilion at Expo performs a useful function by bringing home to visitors that Indians are Indians, that for the most part they are not at home among the dominant white society, that the institution of the white man in their affairs and architecture of the invaders' failure to live up to treaty obligations.

A Montreal woman's reaction was possibly typical. "This is horrible. I'm not going to stay here," she said as she came face to face with a large panel reading: "The white man's school is an alien land for the Indian child."

And so it is an alien land for the Indian youngster. As James H. Buller executive secretary of the Indian-Eskimo Association of Canada put it to Belleville Rotarians recently, "what possible use are the Dick and Jane stories to the Indian student?"

Again, the Montreal visitor and thousands like her probably had never given the Indians of Canada much thought, or concerned herself with the appalling problems they face as virtual aliens in the land they have occupied since long before the coming of the white man.

At the same time the Indian ought to stop feeling sorry for himself. Many have made a successful transition to modern society. They have come to terms with the realities of the white man's world, and while they will never forget their own proud ancestry they realize that to make a living in terms of the 20th century they need skills other than the ability to hunt and fish and make handcrafts.

Indians, like white men, need a purpose in life. Recognizing that they belong to different bands and tribes, one wonders if some form of central Indian government could be established in Canada?

What if a central Indian community were established, say in a predominantly agricultural region where there is good land and good fishing, where Indians could live and pursue their traditional skills?

At the same time schools would be established as well as industries which would attract a growing number of the younger Indian population.

Such a community could start in a small way. Ultimately it would attract more of Canada's 240,000 Indians. It would serve as an example to those who find it difficult to leave the Reserves. It would be a focal point and a stimulus for all Indians. In time such a community might have a university of its own, staffed by Indians.

The community would be called say Indian City. And who knows, it might represent the salvation of hundreds of Indians now living or rather existing without hope or promise of any future as we know it in our materialist society.

Natural Phenomena

The "Man and his World" theme at Expo gives visitors plenty of insight into the environmental aspects of day-to-day life.

Environment does play a very important role. Consider just one aspect of it — the allpervasive weather — which holds the power of both life and death for many.

Spring storms in Alberta and the Dakotas, tornados in the Chicago area and more recently in Minnesota, have spread death and destruction over a wide area.

It is unlikely Expo provides anything so realistic as a man-made tornado. It might frighten people. And anyway there is that Man and his Health pavilion, and judging from the morbid interest millions of North Americans have in their inner wellbeing the latter exhibit would likely win hands down in any crowd poll.

And what a touch of irony was provided Sunday, when equipment used at the Health pavilion for dramatizing the accomplishments of modern medicine broke down. A damaged lens and faulty synchronization were at the root of the trouble. But hear this — a technician was flown in from Germany to join "local experts" in fixing the equipment. Why he was asked, if the locals are so expert, why do they have to seek aid overseas? Who pays for this little mechanical failure and expensive repair work? Guess who? And is this not a good example of the lack of skilled people in some technical spheres in Canada and the need to attract more of them as immigrants?

But to return to natural phenomena — tornados all. Strange that Minnesota should bear the brunt of the recent disturbances. The State borders with Ontario, yet in our part of the world such disastrous visitations are rare.

In Minnesota the northernmost report of a tornado touching down was at Owntonna, about 50 miles south of Minneapolis which is only 400 miles southwest of the Canadian border at Pigeon River.

The moral is that all things in this world are of temporary duration. We are transients, subject to storms and alarms, problems and breakdowns, and the perils of natural phenomena. And some more than others — if you happen to live in the tornado regions of the mid-west.

As Thomas Carlyle once said: "You should live every day as if it were your last."

A Youthful 70, Prime Minister May Stay at the Helm

Whither Dief?

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — For months, in fact, almost from the very start, four years ago, of his minority administration, political people — many of them Liberals — have been saying that Prime Minister Pearson will go as soon as Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker leaves the scene.

Well, from the look and sound of things, they'd better start saying something different. Maybe the Prime Minister's going to be sticking around.

John Diefenbaker may go next Fall; will go, unless this Old-Master - of - The - Unexpected contests and wins the September Conservative convention.

And just think of the panic and purge there'd be among the wolves closing on Lester's now around the beleaguered Old Chief's pseudo political wagon train if he were to succeed himself.

But his chances of survival don't seem to be improving as each passing day brings more defections from the wounded warrior's side by so many of those who, only 18 brief years ago, swore by all that is politically holy that he was the greatest leader to come down the Conservative pike since Sir John A. Macdonald.

Would you believe, even greater?

So, if you show sentiment aside and forget about his victory of 1957 — the first it was for the Tories in 27 years — and ignore that greatest of all Canadian election triumphs of '58 when he swept 208 of Parliament's 265 seats, then nothing has changed for the Old Chief.

Short of a miracle, Dief is doomed, for sentiment is an expensive luxury that can't be afforded politically in these tough Tory times.

But things have changed and are still changing for Lester Pearson.

Suddenly, after the disenchantment of Walter Gordon's two disastrous budgets, Mitchell Sharp's increased taxes, scandals and one Parliamentary disaster after another, Liberals again like Mike.

And a lot.

Listen carefully, and even from there you should be able to hear a faint echo of the latest pop song on the Grit Hit Parade — "Don't Go Mike."

And you know, he begins to sound like he's heard them and sort of fancies the We-Like-Mike love song they're singing.

It was just last Fall he was talking wistfully of what sounded like the near-future delights of retirement — a bit of teaching on some college campus, a spot of memoir writing, a little travel, and best of all, some time to do what he liked.

Then things seemed to be making much of an effort to grab him by his coattails and pull him back from the pasture he sounded so surely and even happily headed.

There was talk of the Party's "New Wave" of youth soon to be taking over, of the need for young, dynamic leadership, and broad hints that more than half of the voters today are under 35.

That wasn't more than six months ago.

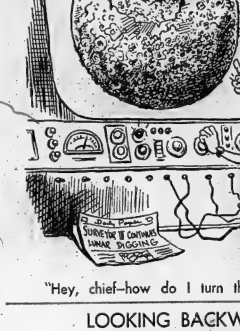
Since then the Prime Minister has passed another milestone.

But just listen to him now!

There he was on the platform the other day discussing political leadership and saying — of all things — and what a switch — that youth isn't necessarily everything.

He wasn't defending the kind of leadership Canada's currently getting, he made a point of saying.

But he was suggesting that the kind of leadership he'd developed and delivered from his awesome troubles simply by tracking "political leaders over 60 for leaders under 40."



There are "young politicians over 60," he grins, "and oldsters, and what's more important, looking very much like one of them."

"Just as there are," he almost seems to wink, "some old, tired, stuff-shirt politicians under 40."

Being old semi-pro ball player who still takes a weekend turn at tennis, fishes, swims, waltzes and, as he likes to put it, "does all kinds of good and enjoyable things for exercise," may be on the shadowed side of 70 but he's "thinking young."

Which is another way of saying, and nothing that he's never looked better — displaying a degree of vigor and zest surpassing his chest like a lecturday Tarzan — they've got "this Mike Don't Go" song almost trilling in his willingly open ear.

It surely must make Dief the Chief wonder how it always seems that the Liberals love, honor and usually obey their leaders, while the Conservatives can't wait to divorce theirs.

"Hey, chief—how do I turn that thing off?"

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

Merchants of the city in general and their sales staffs in particular can take a well-deserved bow. Compliments the city received over the weekend by two out-of-town shoppers are rarer than the proverbial day in June. The two shoppers, ladies, in this case, who reside in a city much larger than Belleville, were loud in their praises of the courteous treatment accorded them by staffs and management of various stores on Front St. and other business thoroughfares.

William Ayres, said to be the "oldest soldier" in the district, celebrated his 93rd birthday in his comfortable room in the new convalescent home on the Marshall Road. The elderly ex-soldier, who still retains his military bearing, is well-known in military circles in the city and district.

Food or Luxuries?

Farmers Are Subsidizing Industry

In the following letter to the editor a Tweed area farmer presents some interesting facts on the cost of living as it affects the farmer and the consumer.

He claims that money spent on luxury items which could — and should — be spent on food adds up to a situation whereby the Canadian farmer "is subsidizing industry to the tune of four billion dollars a year."

This situation, he suggests, will continue as the farm community, with a heavy load and old a wonderful job. If I were you I would sure put in a plug to have it in operation

To those who quibble, while the farmers diddle on "Program 5," don't be alarmed: what the farmer learned about increasing production will assure you of cheap food for another spell.

You are buying your food at half prices, at any few tax dollars you spent on "Program 5" will be repaid a hundred fold before the year is out. The average working man of the world pays 85 cents of every earned dollar for his food, the average Canadian working man pays 24 cents, which amounts to about $1,000 dollars a year, leaving each family with an extra thousand dollars to spend on other consumer goods. This means that with a 4,000,000 man work force in Canada, each spending a thousand on luxury products, which he should be spending on food, the Canadian farmer is actually subsidizing Canadian industry to the tune of $4 billion a year.

When you talk of subsidies to farmers, remember for each $1 million the farmers get big business, and indirectly, labor, gets $10 million in tax and tariff concessions.

The farmer has no money or votes, so how is he going to get anything from Ottawa. If the farmer had his prices go up, as everyone else has, every time labor has got a big increase in pay, milk would now be $3 a cwt., but the farmer doesn't dare, or even look after his business; he would rather run to Ottawa and ask for a handout, then stand on his own two feet, and run his business on a business basis.

The only way he can be moved, is in production, as at present the fact that we are the most efficient industry (by far) in Canada. No politician is heeding a few "high rise" salaries in our business.

The farmer produces a lot of corn for $1.27 when you buy it back in flakes it's costing you from $22 to $24 a bushel. Field milk producers will soon be getting 17 cents a quart for milk, you pay 30 cents. How can you possibly get more for manufacturing the feed or a few minutes than the farmer gets for the tomatoes in the can.

Sounds like a pipe dream? I'm sorry to say that these are the facts.

When you spend your $30 weekly food budget at the supermarket, why don't you eat the toilet rolls, nylons, cigarettes, cat litter, rubber gloves, garden seed, encyclopedia, potted plants, etc, etc.? You say you spend the $30 on food?

As with all farm subsidies, you sure get your 100 dollars worth out of "Program 5".

The director, and all the infrastructure, were plumbed by two and old a wonderful job. If I were you I would sure put in a plug to have it in operation again next winter, so that you can continue to go to Ottawa and get $20 worth of food and $20 worth of other stuff, all for $30, at the expense of the farmer. The more the farmer produces, the easier it will be for the government to continue its cheap cheap food policy.

As I said before, the farmer has no money, for electioneering campaign, and he does not have overdrafts to about 8% percent of Canada's total vote, so don't be afraid to contribute too much from Ottawa or Toronto.

Racing Results On Radio

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

We have always been curious about the broadcasting of race results on Canadian and New York radio stations. Although these results say who won the race, they concentrate on such strange extra information.

Never do we hear what length the race was or in what time the horse made it. We are told how many seconds (or minutes) its beat the second horse by. We are not told whether it is a "he" on a "she", how old the horse is, what breed it is, or even whether it actually is a horse.

We are told (we presume) how much money we won if we bet on the horse. Of course, if we were betting on the horse we would be at the track and would not need a radio. If we were not at the track we would not be able to bet because that is illegal.

We do notice that most stations keep the information away from the sportscast. This keeps the sportscaster pure and amateur but it cests a shadow on the stock market.

Tax Boost In Toronto

Windsor Star

Toronto is supposed to be the city where the big money is. Said things are rather, relative even in this aspect. It also is a costly place to live, having reared to the high costs of property and of taxes.

Metropolitan Toronto is boosting taxes this year by $30 on the average home — and the average home there probably is worth more than those in Windsor. But there is more to it. The various borrowing making up Metro Toronto also have their own budgets. It is estimated the average total increase in Scarborough and North York will be $70.

In some ways Toronto is not too desirable a place to live, on account of the cost, traffic conditions, etc. Taxes there already are far higher than in Windsor.

Needs Trade Stimulus.

Britain Makes Further Attempt to Join Common Market

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP)—Britain is renewing its petition to join Europe's Common Market in a more positive atmosphere than last time, despite the persistence of major doubts and heightened technical difficulties.

Major shifts in British attitudes and outlook in the last four years have built up a more helpful political background for the new application. At the same time, Common Market leaders are seeking stimulus that might lift the organization out of its current political doldrums.

Political indications that inhibited Britain's last abortive approach between July, 1961, and January, 1963, have diminished in importance.

UK suspicion of political federation and fears that involvement in Europe would weaken global Commonwealth and transatlantic ties were cited by President de Gaulle when he vetoed British Common Market membership four years ago.

Since then, prospects of a politically - united Europe have diminished to almost nothing. Worries expressed in Britain five years ago about threats to the sovereignty of the British Parliament in Common Market membership no longer are prominent.

Britain is rapidly reducing commitments in Asia and the Pacific in an effort to match its world role to restricted financial resources.

Prime Minister Wilson has indicated disillusionment with the Commonwealth on political and economic grounds. Racial divisions exposed by the Rhodesian crisis have reduced the organization's effectiveness.

The Commonwealth's economic underpinning of trade also has diminished in importance. Britain now conducts more trade with continental Europe than with the sterling-area Commonwealth. . . .

Anglo - American relations likewise have become more distant under President Johnson and Wilson. . . .

Supporting the altered political outlook is the hard economic lesson that Britain remains

Computer Gobbling Up Three Tons of Last Minute Tax Returns

OTTAWA (CP) — More than three tons of income tax returns filed at the last minute by Canadians have arrived so far this week at the revenue department's data centre.

Officials expect the week will see the arrival of more than 1,500,000 returns just catching and just missing the May 1 filing deadline.

The official deadline was April 30, but because that day was a Sunday, Revenue Minister Benson granted a 24-hour extension.

Late-filed returns are subject to an interest penalty, charged on amounts owing the government. But traditionally, all save a small fraction of taxpayers settle with the tax collector in time.

As of Tuesday night, the revenue department had counted 8,211,354 T1 short returns filed, up from 4,375,723 at the same date a year ago. Most employee file these forms.

Despite some taxpayer confusion over how to enter Canada Pension Plan contributions, the T1 Shorts has dropped slightly from last year. The department believes the new simplified form has helped somewhat in reducing the error percentage to 21 per cent from 23.5 per cent in 1966, on the 2,819,394 returns so far processed by computer.

Among T1 General forms, filed by employees, professional people and other self-employed persons, the error rate now continues at a high 39 per cent, up from 26 per cent last year. Pension plan complications have caused 40 per cent of the errors and the revenue department hopes to straighten this situation out before next year.

A spokesman said the data centre is operating at full capacity, gobbling up 1,000 returns in every three-day cycle. The top rate was established about three weeks ago and the job is about half done.

Most taxpayers, including last - minute fliers, expecting refunds should count on their cheques arriving within six weeks if their returns are error-free. After six weeks, ask the nearest revenue department office to track down the reason for delay.

Economy Now in Balance, Needs New Base: Crump

MONTREAL (CP) — N. R. Crump, chairman and chief executive officer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said Wednesday the Canadian economy has "pretty well reached the limits of its present manpower base and industrial capacity."

Addressing the 86th annual general meeting of the shareholders of the CPR, Mr. Crump predicted a more moderate rate of development than the country had been accustomed to in the last several years.

"We have recently experienced the sharpest burst of inflation since the 1950s. Price increases have recently been running at the rate of approximately four per cent annually. Wages and salaries per worker rose in manufacturing industries in 1966 are estimated to have grown nearly three times as rapidly as output per worker. . . .

Mr. Crump said that after six years of vigorous expansion the Canadian economy appears to be "in a state of overall balance, poised between the periods of inflation and recession."

Total output has increased by about 35 per cent since 1960 and consumption of goods and services by about 30 per cent, he added. Exports rose during this period by more than 52 per cent and private business investment by about 54 per cent.

These increases are remarkable, bearing in mind that population increased by only 11 per cent, Mr. Crump said.

I. D. Sinclair, CPR president, outlined the current position of the railway, airlines and the non - transportation interests of the CPR.

The pressure of higher productivity grows as our labor costs mount," said Mr. Sinclair. "The final wage and fringe benefit costs inherent in the collective agreements recently signed will add more than $42,000,000 annually to the company's operating expenses."

Mr. Sinclair told shareholders the railway earnings for the first quarter of 1967 were less favorable than a year ago because of higher wage costs and a pause in the economy.

Other CPR income was better than in the first three months of 1966, he said. Airline earnings dropped as a result of increased operating costs.

Canadian Pacific Airlines is expecting to share in a significant growth in air traffic foreseen in the next few years, Mr. Sinclair said.

Third Reduction
Britain Cuts Bank Rate Again

LONDON (CP) — Britain cut its bank rate by one half per cent to 5½ per cent today to help ease the country's high interest rates in other countries.

It was the third cut announced by the Bank of England since Jan. 26 when the rate stood at seven per cent. The bank rate sets the pattern for all interest on loans in the country.

The rate was cut Jan 26 from seven to 6½ per cent and in March it was reduced another half per cent to six per cent.

The new cut had been generally expected since Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced in April outlined continuance of Britain's austerity program. The April figures on Britain's steadily rising gold reserves announced this week, bolstered confidence in the pound remains of provincial population at mid-year, personal income per capita in 1966 were: Newfoundland $1,286.12; Prince Edward Island $1,376.15; Nova Scotia $1,573.60; New Brunswick $1,472.27; Quebec $1,886.44; Ontario $2,454.09; Manitoba $2,054.58; Saskatchewan $2,237.94; Alberta $2,419.72; British Columbia $2,437.70; and Yukon and Northwest Territories $1,500.27.

Personal Income Up 7.7 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP)—Personal income per capita rose $156.56 last year to reach $2,144.39, a gain of 7.7 per cent from 1965 and more than 30 per cent in three years.

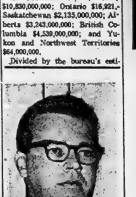
The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday that aggregate personal incomes reached $42,712,000,000, compared with $39,802,000,000 in 1965 and $32,934,000,000 in 1963.

A break-down of personal income for the 10 provinces showed the largest gains in the three-year period occurred in Newfoundland and New Brunswick, both up 27.8 per cent.

Ontario's gain just matched the national average, 19.9 per cent. The parts of Canada to fall below the national average were Saskatchewan, 19.9 per cent, and the Yukon and Northwest Territories, 14.8 per cent.

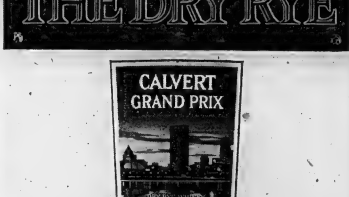
Total personal incomes by provinces for 1966: Newfoundland $650,000,000; Prince Edward Island $150,000,000; Nova Scotia $1,197,000,000; New Brunswick $925,000,000; Quebec, 000,000; Manitoba $1,958,000,000; $10,830,000,000; Ontario $18,921,; Saskatchewa $2,133,000,000; Alberta $3,243,000,000; British Columbia $4,539,000,000; and Yukon and Northwest Territories $64,000,000.

Divided by the bureau's estimate of cedingspring the pound, and the British reaped a harvest of "hot money"—short-term funds attracted to London by high rates.



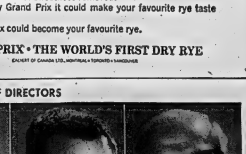
These deposits helped the Bank of England close away all the short-term debts to other European central banks incurred protecting the pound during the crisis.

The debts were wound up in March.



If Callaghan was to keep his part of the bargain, he had to convince his policy of cautiously lowering interest rates at home. The April gold figures indicated the government would be safe in ordering a further cut.

A spokesman for the Bank of England pointed to the international reduction in rates, the budget and the strength of the pound in foreign exchange markets.



The government now is searching for some way to stimulate failing industrial investment while restricting home demand. The lower price of commercial credit, coupled with continued restraint on consumer spending, appears to be its chosen method.

DORIS, CLARE

Dear Doris: Until I had babies of my own I had no knowledge of care for babies. I prayed for understanding.

I remember my neighbor once calling me outside to see what my children were doing. They were twin boys between two and three years old and were busy transplanting tomato plants which their father had been doing the previous evening.

She exclaimed to me, "I'd give them a good whipping!" "Oh, no", I said. "They are trying to do as their Dad did last night. I'll give them a little garden of their own." And I explained to them why.

I never remember my children being disobedient to me, but I was sometimes very grateful I arrived on the scene in time to perhaps prevent an tragedy!

They naturally did anything openly so I was able to explain if there was any danger. They were never slapped, and we enjoyed our children!

I'm writing to you as you seem to want to help people, for I read your articles daily. —Eighty-Four Now.

Dear Eighty-Four: There are many times when a child is punished for doing what comes naturally. Your frank counsel beats slapping 40 ways. It shows insight.

Successful Living

This Mother Does Not Slap; She Explains Reasons Why

Dear Doris: "Sara", sent in a request in your interesting column, asking for the story about the pansy. Here is one I was told:

The pansy is called the step-mother flower, according to a Swedish legend. There are five petals: one larger than the other four. This is the step-mother. She and her two daughters are dressed with pretty white collars, while the other two petals, the step-daughters, are just plain, plain.

The man of the house is suffering from a cold. He can be seen, if you pull the centre of the pansy apart gently. He has a red woollen cloth around his neck, and his feet are presumably in a hot mustard bath. — Miss M. L. T

Dear Miss M. L. T.: Thank you. "A Reader" describes the white collars, which are the sepals, as "others to sit on." Also points out that you can see father's bare legs if you carefully pull away the hot water bucket. Sara will be grateful to both of you.

Next pansy season I'm going to do a little exploring.

Dear Doris: I think it is wrong to allow mini-skirts for girls, and long hair for boys. They are just ordinary people. Why the disguise? — Puzzled Ole Gal.

Dear Ole Gal: They do for us old-timers a bit, and that's for sure. But I'll wager we'd be just as apt to see smile-length dresses peradicy along the street; yet maxi-skirts were standard garb a scant half-century ago.

As for the boys, is is much more than a century ago that men wore long, wavy locks all the time?

Enjoy your teenagers, — if you are lucky enough to have some. They simply have to be different; and they'll settle down to serious living all too soon.

Ann Landers

Worker Uses Flag For Window Wiper

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am pretty upset about something I saw this afternoon and I didn't know whether I had a right to speak up. Please tell me.

I was walking by a lot where some men were tearing down an old house. One of the men was wiping a piece of window pane with what appeared to be a striped rag. When I got closer I discovered it was the American flag. I couldn't believe my eyes. I walked up to the man and asked him how come he was using the American flag for a cleaning rag. He said it was an old worn out flag so it didn't make any difference.

I think it makes a lot of difference. Is there a law against this? Please print my letter and your answer. There is so much ignorance around these days it is hard to believe. — D.J.

DEAR D.J.: You are right; this is a shocking example of disrespect for the flag. Proper use of national flags, our own and those of other countries, is a matter of law in some circumstances and a matter of good taste at all times. You can obtain a list of regulations and customs concerning use of the flag at any public library.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 13-year-old boy who would like to pay tribute to all the mothers in the world.

Last week our mother had to go to the hospital for an operation. Before she left she baked our favorite things, cooked a lot and cleaned up the house so it was spotless. We told mom not to worry, that we would keep everything nice until she got home.

After three days my dad and I realized how much we had taken mom for granted. We try to keep things in place but anyone who walks into the house can see that it's not like when mom is here.

Please print my letter to show my mom and all other moms that we really do appreciate them a lot. It's funny we didn't know how much she did for us until we had to do things for ourselves. — J.L.S.

DEAR J.L.S.: Here's your letter and I hope by the time it appears in the paper you haven't started to take her for granted again.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been carrying your Christmas essay around in my wallet ever since I read it. You said, among other things, that it was no disgrace to fail, the disgrace was in not getting up to try again.

That one line bit me right between the eyes. I decided you meant it just for me. I have had some tough breaks in my life (a few I brought on myself) and instead of picking myself up I just lay there and wallowed in self pity.

After I read your essay I decided it was up to me to fight back. I did and it paid off. In case you haven't already guessed, the problem was booze. Thanks for your help. It's amazing how one line in Ann Landers' column changed my whole life. — BETTER DAYS AHEAD.

DEAR BETTER: I'm proud of you. The battle of the bottle is one of the toughest of all. But hold the phone, friend, it's a little too early to count your victory as permanent. Live one day at a time and congratulate yourself for that day's victory.

Cherry Cookies for Tea

A week or so ago I gave here a recipe for Rosettes — dainty pink macaroons which I hoped would help you with your spring teas.

Now I have another little beauty of a cookie that belongs in the same category as the Rosettes. If you are planning a spring tea chip this. I hope you clipped the Rosettes recipe, too, (April 17).

CHERRY NUT ICEBOX COOKIES (no eggs)

NOTE: Basically this is a shortbread dough made with brown sugar instead of white and with whole cherries and large pieces of walnuts or pecans added. The appearance and flavor are so good your guests will ask for the recipe as I did at a reception.

1 cup butter (room temperature) (see note below)
½ cup light brown sugar (lightly packed)
½ tsp. vanilla
½ tsp. salt
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup walnuts or pecans sliced once lengthwise
1 cup glace or drained and dried maraschino cherries, left whole

In large bowl cream together the butter, sugar, vanilla and salt until well blended. Add flour and beat until mixed as well as you can. (It will be crumbly.) Add nuts and cherries and mix. Divide dough in halves. Turn each half out on large double sheet of heavy wax paper, bring sides of wax paper up to cover dough and press and force into compact rolls 2 or 2½" in diameter, poking your finger into the ends to push in crumbs neatly. Crease and fold ends of wax paper over and chill dough (or freeze) until hard. With very sharp heavy knife cut into ¼" slices. (Note: If these are to be "family" cookies make rolls 2½" in diameter and cut them ¼" thick.) Place on unbuttered cookie sheets ¼" apart and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. They do not spread. If cookies are thin they require only 10 to 12 minutes baking; if they are thick they should bake about 18 to 20 min. Do not overbake these cookies. They should not be brown at all — barely baked through.

Remove and cool on cake racks. These keep excellently in covered cookie tin.

NOTE: Margarine may be used instead of butter if desired.

Mountain Climbing Is Enjoyed

VANCOUVER (CP)—At five-foot-three and 133 pounds, Gertrude Smith looks more like a school teacher than a mountaineer.

And five days a week she is a teacher, at David Livingstone elementary school in Vancouver.

It's on those other two days, and on holidays, that she climbs mountains.

For 20 years she has been enjoying her hobby—"mainly to get away from the rat race"—and now she has been chosen to climb a mountain to celebrate Centennial Year.

Miss Smith, a former Lodecer, has been assigned to conquer an unexplored Far Northern peak. She will lead an all-female team up 11,387-foot Mount Sanford in the St. Elias Range on the British Columbia-Yukon border.

Thirteen other teams will climb 13 other peaks in the area. All teams will plant Canada's centennial flag atop their mountains.

Miss Smith applied to the centennial commission at Christmas to be one of the climbers and figures she was picked because of her experience.

That includes a recent climb of Switzerland's Matterhorn which "went with the greatest of ease."

For the centennial climb, she and three other women will be flown about July 15 to within a few miles of a base camp where others climbing mountains in the area will make their headquarters. They'll then decide when to start climbing.

Retarded Children Get Break

EDMONTON (CP)—A special physical education program has been developed for retarded children as a centennial project by the Canadian Association for Retarded Children.

Main purpose of the program is to enable retarded children to qualify for centennial athletic awards as normal children do.

Dr. Patrick Austin, Alberta chairman of the project and a physical education professor at the University of Alberta, said that because retarded children cannot function at the same level as other youngsters the same age, special courses had to be designed for them.

These courses were planned to develop the same type of physical skills that other children need to pass the tests, but scaled down to the ability of the youngsters involved.

Awards for the children will be the same as those received in regular competition — red cross for participation and bronze, silver or gold awards for reaching increasingly higher levels of achievement.

In creating the special program, members of the retarded children's centennial athletic program development subcommittee also produced teaching-aid booklets which contain lesson plans, physical education activities and recreation activities.

The third phase of the project is the development of recreational activities, such as swimming and skating, which retarded children can enjoy independently.

Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, convener of the University Women's Club "Spring Fair" holds material while Mrs. P. Harris, chairmah of the decorating committee, cuts into centennial tartan to be used for the tea room decor in St. Michael's auditorium. The fair and art exhibit of Manly Macdonald paintings will be held this Saturday afternoon commencing at 1:30 p.m.

Women Now Invading Ham Radio Field

HALIFAX (CP) — More ower men, the women are invading the ham radio field.

The Maritime Sparkettes, a women's group formed in Nova Scotia last year, now have two dozen members and are preparing to spread out.

They aim to form a national women's organization for persons interested in amateur radio.

A breakthrough for the women hams came last year when Mrs. Ian R. MacLeod was appointed secretary of the Nova Scotia Amateur Radio Associa tion, the first women to hold office in the organization.

Most of the Sparkettes admit they become interested in amateur radio through fathers or husbands who were hams.

"It's not an expensive hobby for someone who understands the theory and can build her own equipment," says Mrs. MacLeod.

Homemade sets, known as "home brews," can be built for about $50. Before going on the air a ham must pass a test in copying 10 words a minute and sending code. A certificate is then issued together with a call sign. At the end of a year an advanced exam must be taken.

The women estimate they spend an average of one to six hours a day on the air.

"For anyone who is disabled and cannot get about it's the perfect hobby," says Mrs. MacLeod.

U.C.W. Meetings

COLLEGE HILL UCW

The April meeting of College Hill UCW was held in the church hall with the president, Anita Dickens in charge.

Plans were made for the June meeting in the form of a potluck dinner, catering at two weddings in June and a hat show in the fall. Mrs. Miller was presented with a life membership pin.

Evelyn McIlquham conducted the devotional period. She gave a reading and with Mrs. Williams, Lorena Bird and Marie Ashton presented a play in the home of a Christian woman. Mrs. Blakely sang a solo and poems were read by Ruth Daniels and Sue Moorcroft.

Women's Club Plans Spring Fair

A centennial motif will be used to decorate St. Michael's Academy auditorium on Saturday, May 6 for the 22nd annual exhibition of Manly Macdonald paintings at the University Women's Club "Spring Fair."

Highlight of the fair is a draw for a door prize, which is a painting of "Hay Bay," donated by Mr. Macdonald. The proceeds from this will be used to assist area high school girls to continue their education to university. To be eligible they must live in the city or within a 25-mile radius of Belleville and attain the highest aggregate on seven papers. These girls must not have received more than $1000 in other scholarship money. This year three $200 awards, known as the University Women's Club, the Manly Macdonald and the Beverley Macdonald scholarships, will be given.

To follow the national objective of University Women's Clubs in Canada, a special Centennial Award of $800 will be offered to encourage a past woman graduate to continue her education. If a suitable applicant is found by June 30, the money will be used to purchase books in Canada for the Corby Library.

Mr. Macdonald, who studied art in Canada, Europe and the United States, is well known in the area being a native of Point Anne. He portrays many local scenes on his canvases which are composed largely of pastel tones. Some of the works hang in the National Gallery in Ottawa. This is the only public exhibition and sale of his paintings outside of the Laing Gallery in Toronto. Mr. Macdonald will be present at the fair from 1:30 p.m. to discuss his art with the visitors.

A tea and bake sale are included in the afternoon's activities.

FOOD ROTS IN FIELD

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — About 5,000,000 cartons of good lettuce stayed in California fields in February because there was too much of it—a loss to farmers of $15,000,000. Luscious prices were about four cents each, the cost of packing and marketing, leaving nothing to pay for growing and picking costs.

Giving to South Vietnamese Children Can be Complicated

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — It is more blessed to give than to receive, but in South Vietnam it can also be more complicated.

Take kids and candy, for example.

To Staff Sgt. David Hughes of St. Catharines and his fellow marines in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces, giving candy to children is a simple act of kindness.

"You just like to see a kid happy," says the 27-year-old artillery man now home on 30-day leave after a 13-month tour of duty. "No, it has nothing to do with trying to win the kids over."

But the South Vietnamese sometimes see it differently.

In South Vietnam the family is important and the father very definitely head of the family, says Sgt. Hughes. His word is law. The wife and mother remains in the background except when it comes to heavy manual labor.

For the head of a family who cannot provide even the necessities of food and clothing for his family, a present from an outsider is not the kindness can be the cause of resentment.

"It would be like taking away his manhood, and you can't do that to a man."

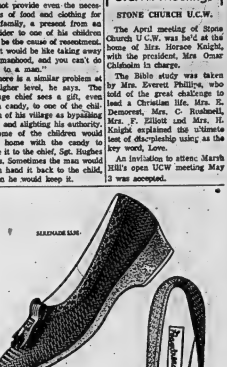
There is a similar problem at a higher level, he says. The village chief sees a gift, even of a candy, to one of the children of his village as bypassing him and slighting his authority.

Some of the children would run home with the candy to give it to the chief, Sgt. Hughes says. Sometimes the man would then hand it back to the child, often he would keep it.

Only during Tet, the country's New Year, can gifts be given directly but even then the gift should be appropriately wrapped and presented.

Military authorities are aware of the resentment that can be stirred and troops are told not to hand out candy and gum to youngsters. But the children may not know this and it's difficult for the men to resist the appealing youngsters who quickly learn that American servicemen often don't use up all the gum and candy issued to them with their field rations.

"They can take it without whimpering, more so than kids at home here. Most of them wear no shoes and I've seen them standing in water up to their knees in the rice paddies when the temperature is about 40 degrees. Some of them just run around in a shirt, nothing else."



U.C.W. Meetings

STONE CHURCH U.C.W.

The April meeting of Stone Church U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Horace Knight, with the president, Mrs. Omar Chisholm in charge.

The Bible study was taken by Mrs. Everett Phillips, who told of the great challenge to lead a Christian life. Mrs. R. Demorest, Mrs. C. Rushnell, Mrs. F. Elliott and Mrs. H. Knight explained the ultimate test of discipleship using as the key word, Love.

An invitation to attend Marsh Hill's open UCW meeting May 3 was accepted.

Rooming-house Owner Gets $500 for Story of Childhood

TORONTO (CP) — Shirley Feessler, a Toronto rooming-house owner who came up from the wrong side of the tracks, has joined a select group of writers whose first story has appeared in the magazine Atlantic Monthly.

The April issue of the magazine carries Mrs. Feessler's 8,000-word account of her girlhood in the 1930s. It is called Maybe Later It Will Come Back To Me Mind and earned her $500.

Daughter of a man who once collected garments for a peddler who sold them on a $1-a-week instalment basis, Mrs. Feessler has owned a rooming-house in rundown east-central Toronto for 18 years. She caters to actors as clients.

For years, her friends, after listening to her tale about her past in Toronto's Jewish community, urged her to write down her stories and publish them.

"What held me back chiefly was that in telling stories you rely on tone and direction. But to sit down when you have only a typewriter, that's very different, that's harder."

But about a year ago she started her first story emerged. She sent it to the New Yorker and it was rejected. She next sent it to Atlantic Monthly, waited six weeks for a reply then wrote an indignant note demanding that it be accepted or returned. Next day she received a letter of acceptance.

Mrs. Feessler rented her rooms together and told them:

"Now listen, people of my house. I'm a poor kid, born on the wrong side of the tracks. No education. And the Atlantic Monthly is willing to pay me good American dollars for what goes on in my head. Now I want a little respect around here."

She received it. After all, Ernest Hemingway got his start in the same magazine.

About future writing? Mrs. Feessler has completed a second story and is trying New Yorker again. She has a child in the works and may expand Maybe Later into a novel or cycle of stories.

In any case, she feels she is on her way, and so do the tenants at 576 Sherbourne St.

The Experts Say

Master Bookbinder Has Given Life To Books Dating Back to 15th Century

MONTREAL (CP) — "My work is a labor of love," says Lisolotte Stern, one of the world's few women master bookbinders.

It's a good thing, too. Not although the profession is far from crowded, the absence of competition doesn't mean big money.

"For some reason people complain if they have to pay $10 or $15 for restoration of a book for which they originally paid only $6.50," she says.

"They don't realize that sometimes 15 or 20 hours of labor go into the repair of an older volume."

Mrs. Stern, who earned the right to call herself a master bookbinder in her native Germany 25 years ago, has given new life to books dating back as far as the 13th century.

"Each book is a completely different problem. Books that are brought to me may have been damaged by water, mildew, acid or just may have fallen apart from old age.

"I begin by cutting a book apart and tacking each page individually. The seams of the pages are mended with strips of Japan paper. If a book is badly stained it gets a vinegar bath."

Mrs. Stern is also an expert calligrapher and can copy anything from medieval manuscripts in Arabic script. She learned this art from Anna Simons, who studied under Edward Johnson, the English master of calligraphy.

This enables her to reproduce a page that may be beyond saving. To "save" such a page Mrs. Stern may seek it in weak tea or coffee until it acquires the same color as the original.

When a page is badly torn or crumbling with age, she glues French silk chiffon—gossamer evening dress material—over the entire surface to hold it together. The silk becomes almost invisible and the page must be held up to the light to detect any evidence of repair.

Mrs. Stern, whose husband Kurt is a psychiatrist and author, does most of her work for McGill University's Osler and Redpath libraries and for the renowned Shakespeare collection of Montreal industrialist S. T. Fisher.

Her basement workshop houses such equipment as brass finishing tools, gold-trim bindings, marble slabs, a four-foot paper cutter, plywood pressing boards, antique fleurons and a quill for medieval lettering.

She has a supply of sheep and goat skins, some of which come from India. "There the leather is particularly desirable as goats are exposed to such extremes of temperature it makes their skins easy to work with."

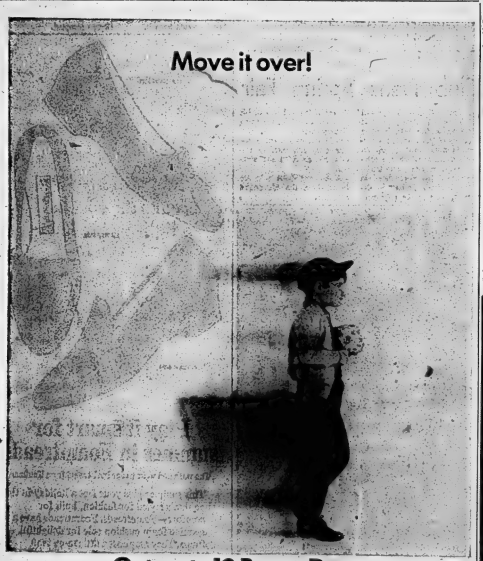
Mrs. Stern has a collaborator in Paula Heinemann—"a real book doctor" who "considers each book a sick patient that must be resuscitated to health."

The way Mrs. Stern became interested in bookbinding is a story in itself. It began when she was 11 and wrote and illustrated children's stories.

"The binding was always such a mess and my fingerprints and glue were all over the pages. So mother suggested I go to the local bookbinder who was not far from our home in Heidelberg.

"There I became fascinated with what he taught me. At 15 I quit school and became a full - fledged apprentice. Those weren't easy hours and for four years I worked from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"Later I had to take four more years of formal training in Munich and Weimar before I qualified as a master bookbinder at the age of 23."



Since then her assignments have included the restoration of 17th century Koranes and tooling the royal crest on a souvenir photo album for Queen Juliana of The Netherlands.

She has also raised three children and now is the grandmother of 10.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I've told you a dozen times to put your toys away and get ready to go to grandmother's house. Will you stop that noise and listen to me?"

This is a trick kindergarten teachers have been using for years to attract the attention of a roomful of noisy active children. It works equally well in the home.

Mother: "This is Tinkle Bell and when you hear her ring, it means it's time to be quiet so I can tell you about something interesting we are going to do."

Mermaid Plans to Take Dive, Stay Under for Five Days

LONDON (AP)—Mary Margaret Revell is a 29-year-old California mermaid who plans to take a dive to the water this June and stay under five days.

It's an experiment she's conducting to test how a person can withstand being submerged for extended periods without any shelter. The attempt will be made from June 5 to 10 in a little cove on the Mediterranean coast line of Sardinia.

She is training in London with a 65-pound self-contained backpack made by a French firm. It is an advanced-design squalung fully equipped with a radio, breathing apparatus and a feeding system.

The radio will keep her in contact with a boat stationed above. Her air will come from the tank's four cylinders and will be replenished every 30 minutes with an air gun device lowered from the boat. Two divers, in attendance at all times, will operate the air gun.

Food for the tall, athletic blonde from Shafter, Calif., will come from a detachable tank with a pump-fed hose leading to her mouthpiece. She will get only liquid foods, changed from time to time for variety.

Miss Revell will start at about 100 feet down, and work up the cove shelf until her last day is spent at 10 feet. While below she will map the bottom of the cove, photograph sea life, and take rock samples.

At night she will sleep under —yes, under—a bed being designed to prevent her from floating away.

All the time she will be monitored by closed-circuit television and two divers from the team of 14, working in shifts.

Miss Revell has been diving for sport for 10 years. The last three months have been spent in training for this project. She hopes to sell a book on her experiences.

Among things she will look for is weight loss, which she predicts at 40 pounds. But she won't disclose her present weight. Another is the effect of salt water on her skin, which will be covered by a "wet suit," in which the skin is constantly in contact with water.

The experiment is Mary Margaret's own idea, she said.

"It's in my interest. I have the stamina and endurance abilities and a love of the sea."

French Designers Cut Into Off-the-rack Business

PARIS (AP) — The Paris ready-to-wear fashion season is winding up, with increasing indications that French designers are cutting themselves well into the off-the-rack business.

Time was when Paris couturiers did the designing and watched the American ready-to-wear trade move in to take much of the profit.

Now Paris is turning out mass-produced clothes that are swinging, young, snappy and gay. Designers have mastered production techniques, limited quantities and price for every level and every market.

Paris designers are determined to cash in on their own ideas and not just sit and watch others exploit them.

"This has gone on long enough," one prominent designer said. "A trend-setting new idea that lasts six months should pay for itself by being industrialized as it reaches the street. The dollars and cents will reward the originator and Mademoiselle and Madame Toutlemonde—French for everybody—will get a chance to be really well dressed."

The ushering-up process has reached the haute couture designers, whose problems are serious. Mass production of their couturier-labelled models will give them a "shot in the arm."

So far they have largely depended on their couturier perfumes to meet their overhead. But Jacques Rouet of Dior has found that every accessory and fashion item can be copyrighted and sold under licence, tagged with "Dior" and the "Made in France" label.

Rouet proof that French ready-to-wear has asserted itself is the interest foreign buyers are taking. They're flocking in from every country, particularly Canada, the United States, and Germany—"glad to buy fashion where we can find it," as one U.S. buyer put it.

Michel Gross, Patou's designer, said one New York store bought three-quarters of his collection.

The success of French ready-to-wear will hardly threaten the couture's existence. Collections may become smaller as the elite clientele has dwindled, but the high fashion houses will keep up their facade. Pierre Cardin explained: "Creation should not be confused with dressmaking. And mass production again is quite a different thing. That's an industry."

Ready-to-wear week in Paris is now an established biennial event. Figures soar annually. The 10-year-old industry of French feminine apparel encompasses 1,500 firms employing 50,000 workers.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

LADIES' AUXILIARY

District Scout Ladies' Auxiliary meeting was held recently; President Mrs. Thomson opened the meeting when 28 members were present. First Belleville Auxiliary hosted the meeting.

Mrs. Jordon read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Mrs. Jordon read the report from the tea prepared by Mrs. Berry who was unable to be there — 1285 tickets were sold. Various reports were read. It was decided by vote that song books be purchased.

The bus scheduled for Toronto on June 7th was cancelled. Pot-luck supper is to be held on May. 31st at Eastminster Church.

Mrs. Lynch gave the report of handicapped conference held at the OSD. Mr. Locklin welcomed the visitors. The supper for the event was served at Christ Church by the District Ladies' Auxiliary. Lionel Hope from Peterborough gave a most interesting talk. His last thoughts were, there is no such thing as a handicapped person only a different degree of disability.

Mrs. Farrell gave a report of the nominating committee with three offices yet to be filled.

The annual meeting will be held October 4th in Collegs Hill United Church.

Couple Observes 25th Anniversary

THOMASBURG—Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilson celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary April 28 at their home in Thomasburg. Saturday evening Mrs. Vicory Morton and Mrs. Ernest Morton on behalf of the community presented them with gifts and read an address of appreciation for their contribution to community affairs. Mrs. Wilson was organist at the Thomasburg United Church for many years until ill health forced her retirement.

Wife of Zambian President Against the Mini Skirt

LUSAKA (Reuters) — Betty Kaunda, wife of Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda and the mother of nine, doesn't approve of mini-skirts.

"I do not think a woman, especially a married woman, can retain her dignity when she wears skirts four inches above the knee," she said. How can you sit down properly and relax?

"Married women in short skirts are a disgrace. I would not try to do anything to stop them, but I really hope this fashion goes out soon."

Kaunda's views on fashion, WKaunda's views on fashion, quoted her as favoring the wearing of national dress instead of mini-skirts which have had a mixed reception in Zambia.

"National dress is so comfortable," she says. "You just make a blouse and then wind more material around for a skirt."

The president's wife also has strong views on divorce.

She thinks Zambian statistics for broken marriages are terrible.

"Now, after independence, people should be happy," she said. "The men are getting more money and they should look after their wives and children."

State House in Lusaka, where Mrs. Kaunda lives, is a red-brick, neo - Georgian building which once was the home of colonial governors.

Mrs. Kaunda has her own preferences on how it should be furnished and run.

She wants to see copper, the country's biggest export earner, used in the kitchen and she prefers "comfortable" furniture to pieces bought only because they are modern.

Mrs. Kaunda has plans to start a poultry farm at State House to feed her family and staff.

Mrs. J. Spry, Mrs. Cyril McKeown and Mrs. C. Purkitt will represent the WI at the convention at Wellman's Corners, May 26.

Mrs. A. Burkitt was asked to prepare a paper on making soft soap from mapee ash.

Mrs. John McKeown was in charge of election of officers and all officers will remain in office for the coming year.

Mother's Clothes Reproduced In Miniature for The Young Set

NEW YORK (CP)—You don't have to be grown up to wear avant - garde fashions this spring. Mother's clothes are reproduced in miniature for the young set.

There are even pant-suits in balance stretch and cotton poplin with short shorts or narrow pants and pullover tops.

The bloomer is visible, too. These often have rickrack edging and use contrast colors for bloomers and top — shocking pink with white pique, for example.

Joseph Love has adapted the bloomer girl for the kids with a dotted swiss dress and matching pantaloons.

Dotted swiss will be popular for many summer costumes. Alyssa uses it in a long-sleeved, red-and-yellow smock with a white yoke. Elen Henderson of Toronto employs it in a red dress with a white sailor yoke and white hem and cuffs.

Other tailoreds from grown-up styles are tent dresses, long sleeves, military accents, bold stripes and blazer prints. In fact, many of the colors seem almost too adult, such as chamoon pink, orange yellow, chartreuse and lilac.

Animal and insect prints are popular. Most amusing is a red-and-white polka-dotted ladybug appliqued on a white chicken-wire pique bubble playsuit. And there are lots of flowers, such as sunflowers and tulip prints.

Awning - and Roman stripes and dots are in for summer. For an older girl Alyssa chooses a swinger style in Roman striped cotton with white yoke and mini-sleeves. A low-slung white belt and white socks complete the costume.

And a tiny girl looks appealing in a wide-striped dress of deep purple and gold.

Bloomer-and-pullover shapes are a seasonal favorite. Love uses them in both vertical and horizontal stripes with matching hat. Another combination is a skimmer rust navy, green and orange stripes vertically for the dress with horizontal striped yoke and bloomer. Navy-red and white are another stripe combination for an A-line dress with navy neck and sleeve trim.

Emphasizing how versatile this season's fashions are for the young, Helen Lee created several story-book looks. One is A-ne of Green Gables, the Prince Edward Island heroine of the Lucy Maud Montgomery novels.

Helen Lee describes it as "a fresh ultra-springy apple green series, some with bindings as white as picket fences, others ruffly as a sunbonnet."

Another early heroine she uses is priggish Elsie Dinsmore. Her style is sugar-coated, ranging "from delicious froths of organdy with lace frills, pink petticoats and ruffled aprons to" good-deed dresses in pink pique, gingham pinafores and boxes with embroidered decorations.

Still another is adapted from The Little Colonel, a book made into a film starring Shirley Temple. It's military, with brass buttons, epaulettes and navy-and-white dresses.

Finally comes the fictional bret Elsine, who lived in New York's Plaza Hotel. Her style runs to knickbones and so Helen Lee jumbles together dots of all sizes, also flowers and plaids.

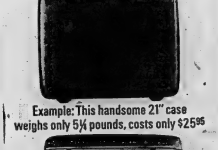
U.C.W. Meetings

TABERNACLE UCW

Christians should face each new day determined to 'gossip the gospel'. This was the theme of a playlet given by a group from unit 8 of Tabernacle UCW, portraying a gossiping fodroome at a local market place. The dangers of common gossip were discussed at a brisk question and answer period.

The meeting was opened with prayer, by the president, Mrs. E. Corrish who conducted the business. It was announced the regional meeting at Kemptville would take place June 16-18.

Mrs. R. Bailey asked the members to save stamps from letters received, to be turned in to her for mailing to the Leprosy Mission in Toronto. Mrs. Bailey had received a letter from the Mission thanking her for a parcel of stamps and indicating they would welcome any number. The work carried on by this Mission is a very vital one to the patients concerned as they receive physical help as well as spiritual teaching.



A bake-sale was held by unit 7. The worship service was carried by Mrs. R. Irwin and Mrs. W. D. Embury.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

In most communities, land use is controlled by zoning ordinances. Often, purchases are made in hopes that a change can be obtained for a use other than that permitted. This places all the risk upon the buyer. There is a better way of handling this type of problem.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I'm now the proud possessor of an MD degree. I'm supposed to be an expert in medicine, but as far as real estate goes, I know nothing.

I must have a place to live and an office. I plan to combine the two of them in one structure and have already picked the lot for it. The only trouble is that the lot is zoned exclusively for residential purposes, and a professional office is not permitted.

The zoning officer tells me that I should buy the lot and take the chance, because in the past most requests for professional offices in residential districts have been granted. Would you go along with this advice? Mr. Y. M.

ANSWER: I definitely would not accept the zoning officer's advice and unconditionally purchase the lot hoping I would get a variance allowing me a professional office. Experience in Dayton with too many surprising cases which have been turned down by zoning boards. Politics works in many ways.

However, there is one way you can buy fool-proof protection. Have your attorney insert a clause in the agreement with the seller that the transaction is conditioned upon your obtaining the proper zoning within a reasonable time. If this is not forthcoming, then the whole agreement is null and void and monies paid on account will be refunded.

This is the way knowledgeable people buy real estate whose intended use is different from his present zoning — be it for the purpose of professional offices, apartment houses, junkyards or slaughterhouses.

• • •

Dear Mr. Mekzer: The two best ways known for losing friends are either to lend them money or to enter into business deals with them — I tried the latter. I'm willing to settle for a lost friend, but I want my money back.

For years, we used to visit the country place of a college classmate. After much urging, he prevailed upon me to buy a half acre lot out of his so-called estate. The price was $3,000, which I thought was high, but I agreed to pay to avoid argument.

We signed a simple contract and I gave him a $1,000 deposit. At so-called settlement, he delivered to me a deed with restrictions of the type I could not accept. For example, it contained the clause that a $20,000 house was the cheapest house which could be built on the lot—nothing around there is worth over $20,000.

Also, any house erected on the lot would have to be at least three stories high — I hate climbing steps. Also, no intoxicating beverages can be served on that lot — I like my cocktails. There were several other restrictions just as far-out.

I didn't get any advice before I signed the agreement, so humbly I now ask: "Do I have to accept the deed and pay him the balance of the money, or can I call it quits and get my money back?" — Mrs. R. W.

ANSWER: The general rule is that unless the original agreement provided otherwise, a buyer is not required to accept a title encumbered with restrictions of the type you name. In other words, if these deed restrictions were sprung on you at settlement, and you knew nothing about them before, as the agreement made no reference to them, it appears to me that you're entitled to call the deal off.

I recommend strongly, however, that you don't do it yourself, but go to your attorney for specific advice as to whether the deal can be terminated and how to do it. Otherwise, you will have lost your lot, buddy and your money, but will have gained a lawsuit.

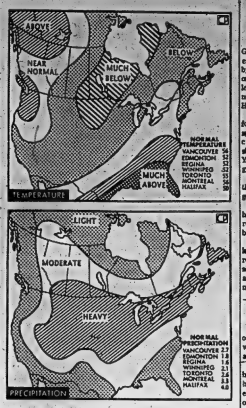
Dear Mr. Meltzer: My husband is a law school student, and I'm a part-time secretary, so furnishing our first home has been slow and difficult. Usually, we buy unpainted furniture and finish it ourselves. My problem is that when we are done, it still looks like the work of an amateur.

My husband works so hard — he sandpapers conscientiously, rubs vigorously, removes every speck of dust, but still the surface ends up looking rough. It's not smooth like the store-bought article. What's wrong? — Mrs. P. H.

ANSWER: Your husband is probably skipping one step used by professionals to obtain a smooth finished wood surface. He is probably not applying a filler to smooth out the small, microscopic ridges. Most common woods have this defect in the unfinished stage.



Wood fillers come in variety of colors or a natural stain can be used. It is applied after the sealer coat, but before the finish coats of varnish.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

VANIER PORTRAIT UP

OTTAWA (CP)—An oil portrait of the late Governor-General Georges P. Vanier has been hanged in Government House beside the portraits of the other Governors-General of Canada. The painting by Toronto artist Clark Cunningham shows Gen. Vanier in a general's blue uniform.

Normal and below normal temperatures are forecast for most of Canada during the next 30 days and precipitation will be heavier than normal. The U.S. Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for May predicts normal temperatures for southern Ontario and western Quebec. Heavy precipitation will fall in the same area and spill over into the Atlantic provinces.

Dartmouth Rebuffs Wallace

HANOVER, N.H. (AP)—Georges C. Wallace, former governor of Alabama, was snubbed by some legislators and deserted off the stage at Dartmouth College by hecklers Wednesday night during a tour of New Hampshire.

About 10 Negroes and whites forced Wallace to stop his speech at Dartmouth when they charged the stage. They shouted: "Wallace go home! You're an insult to our intelligence!"

Wallace retired to the rear of the stage until ushers and guards had ejected the group.

When he returned to continue his speech, he said: "I want to recommend a new book—how to behave in a crowd."

Earlier, six Negroes screaming "Wallace is a racist!" disrupted his speech. They waved signs proclaiming, "Wallace is a killer;" but left after about 15 minutes.

Wallace told the audience of about 1,300 that he had "never made a speech in which I reflected on anybody because of race or color."

He said the American "working man is getting tired of a bunch of theorists talking him where he can send his children to school and of the Supreme Court's destruction of law enforcement."

About 1,500 persons had gathered outside the hall, and when Wallace tried to leave his car was surrounded and buffeted. Police quickly got the car free of the crowd.

The top of the car was dented and the aerial was ripped from it. No one was injured and police made no arrests.

Wallace began his day's activities, a possible forerunner of his entry into the New Hampshire presidential primary campaign next year, with talks to students at two high schools in Concord.

Reporters were barred. Two other Concord high schools cancelled his planned visits.

The Democratic former governor then went to the House of Representatives—at the invitation of a Republican—and three legislators walked out.

Nine Trapped in Hot Springs Pool After Truck Upsets and Gasoline Ignites

RADIUM HOT SPRINGS, B.C. (CP) — The driver was killed and nine persons were trapped in a hot springs pool Wednesday night when a gasoline truck crashed and spewed flaming fuel into a creek.

"I heard the explosion and then saw the wall of reddish-black flames pouring down the creek towards us," said a 20-year-old Maigaret, Vic Thrien-son.

He said the tanker truck roared out of control down a steep bank and plunged into Sinclair Creek, 100 yards above where it flows past hot baths in Kootenay National Park.

Within seconds the 6,000 gallons of gasoline aboard the tanker burst into a wall of flame carried down the creek toward the baths adjacent to a resort.

Flames engulfed a wooden bridge at one end of the main pool and made a concrete walk at the other end too hot to walk on.

The group in the pool was led to the lifeguard's shack to wait for the fire to burn itself out. It was no hot one of the women suffered burns.

Douglas McIntosh, resort manager, said none of the bathers was seriously injured.

The dead truck driver's name was withheld pending notification of relatives in Eastern Canada. The truck was owned by H. M. Trimble and Sons Ltd. of Calgary.

The resort area is about 70 miles southwest of Calgary.

U. S. Is Hopeful Russia May Copy Cut in Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States hopes its announced troop withdrawal from Europe will encourage Russia to follow suit—but has no place to make such a suggestion, officials said today.

The United States, Britain and West Germany announced Tuesday their agreement to withdraw 35,000 Americans and about 4,500 British servicemen, both ground troops and air personnel, from West Germany beginning next January. The fighter-bombers of four American and one British air squadrons also are to be withdrawn.

U.S. sources maintain the cut will not affect the combat potential of the U.S. 7th Army in Germany. American troops assigned to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but stationed in the United States can return to West Germany within days if needed.

Although the Soviets are believed to lack giant troop-carrying planes, they could comply with the U.S. move by pulling back their troops a few miles across the border.

President Johnson in an Oct. 7 New York speech invited the Soviets to—consider the "gradual and balanced" withdrawal of U.S. and Soviet forces from central Europe. Such a move, the president said, would "help greatly to shape a new political environment" in Europe.

There was no answer, official or otherwise, from the Soviet Union, informants said.

Some sources believe that Soviet political - military policy now is under major review in the Kremlin. The same sources deny, however, recent reports alleging that the Soviets already have secretly withdrawn some forces from East Germany and Hungary.

The Soviet Union has an estimated 26 divisions outside its borders in central Europe. Twenty of them with 200,000 men are in East Germany, four with 30,000 men in Hungary and two with 25,000 in Poland.

After the troop withdrawals announced Tuesday the United States will have less than 200,000 ground soldiers and less than 30,000 airmen in West Germany.

PC Split Could Result In Early Election--Dief

WINNIPEG (CP)—Disunity in Progressive Conservative party ranks could precipitate an early federal election, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker warned Wednesday.

Making a strong plea for a united front while addressing a Conservative dinner, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberal government is ready to exploit any advantage accruing from Centennial activities and Expo 67 by calling an election, unless the Conservatives maintain a united front.

It would be an attempt to gain a clear majority in the House of Commons.

At the same time, Mr. Diefenbaker gave a veiled indication that he would again seek the Conservative party leadership at the party's convention this fall.

He said he had taken a number of unpopular stands on issues in the past. "I didn't drop out—I've never been a dropout."

"You don't choose the easy route. I stood many times as a candidate in the past. I know the easy route to defeat. . . ."

Question of New Bridge Comes Up for Consideration

CAMPBELLFORD — The question of a new bridge again came up for intensive consideration at the recent council meet. Campbellford Council had met recently with the engineer and road commission of the United Counties road commission. First that the Campbellford Council take immediate steps to contact the Ontario Department of Highways but before making contact to go forward a letter accepting the extra cost which would probably amount to 40 or 50 thousand dollars because of an agreement made years ago when the present bridge was built and now under study to have repealed. Also that the town of Campbellford and Municipal Council take all responsibility for the present safety of the bridge. Reeve Free stated no other municipality in Ontario was having to pay for a bridge.

A resolution from Campbellford Council to Counties Council asked for a new bridge, width, is the same locality with new lift over canal, the cost to be borne by Counties Council and two departments of Highways, Federal and Provincial.

At the Municipal Council decided this was a firm resolution they asked Counties Council to take it to the Department and come back with an answer. Copies of the resolution were to be forwarded to Ontario Minister of Highways and Russell Rowe, M.P.P.

Council Briefs

CAMPBELLFORD — Councillor Sharp reported that the original cost of water main, sewer, and storm sewer to the new public school on Elmore Street to be estimated at $84,200. The consulting engineer advised deleting the storm sewers, and enlarge the sanitary sewer which would result in a considerable less expense. The work will be carried out under local improvement.

The centennial committee expressed disappointment at the lack of interest shown by poor attendance at meetings called. While a number of events are on the future planning so far not much has been done. The Campbellford Lions Club is holding a centennial ball in the new arena, June 2nd.

Due to recent resignation of a second local policeman, two applicants will have to be screened from the three applications received to bring the force to four members. Some discussion resulted as to what might take place in the future regarding smaller centres being taken over by the O.P.P. A delegation will wait on Attorney General Wishart to learn the latest information on this legislation.

The tourist information booth will be removed to the Queen Street Park for service this coming summer. The Chamber of Commerce assumes responsibility for supplying this service to the travelling public.

The Campbellford and District High School requested permission to hold a Centennial Day parade on May 17th. This would necessitate a blocking Ranney St., and Booth St. partially for a short period and would also require police patrol at intersections. Permission was granted.

In extending sewer service to Riverside Inn as requested by Mr Kay the owner, specific instructions were given as to the necessary procedure to extend sewer service beyond the town limit. The rent agreement to Campbellford would be $75 per annum as well as the regular public utility charge. No guidance will have to take place between Seymour Township Council and Mr. Kay referred back to Campbellford Council.

Correspondence was received from the Department of Public Works in relation to 75-three-bedroom family dwellings, due to the building of the new patrol in proximity to Campbellford, housing accommodation for priest staff is at a premium. It is hoped to have some new units available this year.

Councillor D. Wilson, of the Industrial Committee gave an optimistic report concerning new industry. The industry is interested in a five to ten acre site on Highway 30 and would like to arrange an option immediately. The sale price is $500 per acre. This acreage was purchased by the town several years ago as an industrial site.

As a member of the building committee of Seymour township council for the new arena, Mr. Alex Dunk contacted the Campbellford Council in regard to installation of sound equipment for the arena. Mr. Dunk is also president of the Seymour Agricultural Society which is also affiliated in the ar na project. A forthcoming grant would be payable by the Agricultural Society. As the arena is now ready for the installation of sound equipment is a matter of urgency. The matter was turned over to the arena building committee.

As the eastern boundary between the town of Campbellford and the township of Seymour has never been clearly defined confusion has arisen over the supplying of water and sewer services to the area. Mr. Wayne Gunter, manager of Canadian Tire Store recently returned to Campbellford from Elliot Lake was interested in determining the availability of such services in buying a lot. The matter was left for investigation by the proper committee.

Parkland Caterers of Oshawa requested permission to obtain a license for such service, although such permission had not as yet been granted Mr. Wally Payne representing Parkland Caterers said in anticipation of receiving a license had been giving catering service to the construction employees at the new public school building. Mr. Payne was advised to make application at a future date.

Representing Branch 103 of the Royal Canadian Legion Robert Hughes addressed council in relation to Veterans' Week June 11 - 17 and asked permission for a Sunday parade to the Cenotaph on June 11, a band concert of combined bands on June 15th and a dance at Edgewater Park on June 18th. Mr. Hughes also asked of council would be willing to share some of the cost of sand blasting the monument and putting the area in good condition. The amount of money will be determined at a special meeting May 8th.

Representing Campbellford Memorial Hospital were administrator S. Carr, W. F. Scott and J. F. R. Douglas. As spokesman for the group Mr. Douglas recalled that at a previous council meeting the Hospital Board had asked for $93,000 as the town's contribution to a building program. Due to a legislature proclamation of county grant percentage it was now found necessary to increase the amount asked for to $129,000 for the town of Campbellford's share. Seymour township has agreed to increase their contribution accordingly as has Percy township. The request of the hospital board was agreed upon.

The dog control bylaw of Campbellford Municipal Council was amended at Monday night's meeting to what is expected will be the final edict of legislation. To establish the meaning of control in relation to dogs the bylaw reads "A dog must be held by some means, leash, thong, chain or by some means to within four feet of person in control and if this control is not followed by the person is liable to a fine of not less than $15 and not more than $50 exclusive of any other costs."

Lettuce Cigarettes Free of Nicotine

TRENTON — A new vegetable product is aimed at showing smokers what a drag their habit can be.

In case you hadn't heard, the latest brand of "weed-" is a nicotine-free tobacco-less, lettuce leaf variety so far offered for sale in Ontario on the shelves of at least one supermarket chain.

"Welcome to the pleasures of nicotine-free smoking," reads the package back of Texas-made and proudly boasts a "wholesomeness" content of a lettuce strain "treated by a patented process to assure smoking pleasure and satisfaction."

Also known as U.S. Patent 3,106,209, "Bravos" — Texas-based manufacturer claims the product is 100 percent free of nicotine, which the package points out is the most harmful ingredient in tobacco.

"It causes significant increases in blood pressure and heart rate," the pack states. "It constricts the blood vessels."

As unconvincing as lettuce-leaf reefers may be to members of the solitary set smokers since Sir Walter Raleigh have demonstrated that their habit's prime objective is flavor. And after a few trial runs, it appears a toss-up whether lettuce-leaf smoking passes the test.

One ardent puffer told this reporter he didn't like the first new smoke he tried, but after several, it was just as if he had changed brands.

But accepting the maxim that most smokers would rather fight than switch, it can only be guessed how much heed will be paid to the ever-informative "Bravo" package reminder that "it takes a few packs to become accustomed to any new brand."

One specific criticism of the lettuce cigarettes is directed against their odor described by testers as characteristic of burning leaves. A number of heavy smokers admitted, however that this would again take getting used to much in the same way as a brand change by a user of regular cigarettes.

Hartman's I.C.A. store, the only Trenton outlet to carry the recently introduced product to date, reports sales to be fairly brisk. A spokesman noted "Customers were wary at first, and would come in and buy just one pack. But, last on a number of them came back to pick up a carton."

Cost, incidentally, is not an incentive to select the experimental over the standard brands — the lettuce leaf variety costs a fraction more.

The appeal of "Bravos" and similar products may make itself felt in an atmosphere where health officials, forego trying to stamp out cigarettes altogether, and instead advocate "safer" smoking. This idea was admitted this week by a frustrated United States Secretary of Health, who noted his department's once-valiant anti-smoking campaign had fizzled out.

But smokers are an unpredictable lot, and, as one pack-a-day man put it, "You've got to have some vices!"

As to a miracle product sweeping the nation on a daily form of "Excellence Through Research" — maybe, only don't butt on it.

Council Passes Bylaw Re Substandard Housing

NAPANEE — At long last Napanee has a bylaw which will empower the Council to clean up many an eyesore in the town. The formidable nine-page document setting forth these powers has been over a year in preparation, and was the subject of discussion for many years previous.

Councillor Donald Reid was commissioned a year ago to prepare the bylaw, and he and Mayor Lorne A. Smart, among others, have done a great deal of research work before presenting the bylaw to the Council Monday evening. Substandard housing bylaws of several cities and towns were studied and points from each were adapted to local conditions.

Standards for houses are set up, with even such matters as the number and type of windows considered. The number of occupants is limited. Not only unsightly and unsanitary houses but must be brought up to standard or be torn down, but also the yards surrounding them must be cleared of rubbish. Definitely old cars must go. The owner of a wretched old house must not only either put it in good shape or tear it down, but he must also clear away the rubbish and level the site.

The Council awaits only the approval of the OMB before going into action. Most people halt the bylaw with delight. Only the occupants and owners of substandard houses are disturbed

Milk Co. Employees Return to Work

NAPANEE — The Pet Milk (Canada) Ltd. plant began normal operations Wednesday, after its 33 employees had been on strike for six days. The plant did not close down, but its production was limited, with part of the milk diverted to other plants.

Although the new contract is not yet signed, both employers and employees have come to a satisfactory agreement, with the workers making headway on each point in their demand. They had been without a contract for a year. The new contract will be signed as soon as it has been written.

The workers are members of the United Dairy and Creamery workers, local 477, a branch of the retail, wholesale, and department store union.

Under the new contract, wages will go up; the shift bonus will be increased, and there will be more money for overtime. For sickness and accidents, there will be higher benefits, and there will be more holidays with pay.

Although the plant was picketed throughout the six days, the strike was uneventful.

Fire Protection Arranged For Two Municipalities

DESERONO — Deseronto's first council meeting for May was a quiet one. Two bylaws were passed, one completing the agreement with Richmond Township for fire protection. The two municipalities now have a standby agreement by which Deseronto gives fire protection for an annual fee of $400, plus $6 per hour for firemen while fighting a fire, and an additional $3 per hour for each man above five.

The second bylaw set up a sick leave credit for all town employees.

Clarence Wagar was appointed streets foreman. He replaces Keith Sharpe who resigned at the previous meeting for reasons of health, and was appointed caretaker of the town cemetery.

Council may advertise for a gardener for the town buildings. Wilfred O'Brien submitted his resignation because of having obtained employment elsewhere.

The chairman of each committee made his report, but there were no recommendations. The welfare situation remains much the same.

WALLBRIDGE — Mrs. Ann Pomeroy of Kingston was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Lazia.

Prairie Precipitation-Aug. 1 to Feb. 28

Another Bumper Crop

Soil moisture conditions in the Prairie grain belt aren't quite as good as last year, when a record 840,000,000-bushel wheat crop was harvested, but they have improved since last fall. Precipitation is above normal except in southern Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan, and April rain and snowstorms have boosted prospects for another bumper crop. The map shows precipitation in relation to normal conditions. (CP Newsmap)

April's Rain and Snowstorms Improve Prairie Crop Outlook

By JIM NEAVES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

While April rain and snowstorms across the Canadian Prairies had city - dwellers dancing a dirge of sweating to work, they may have provided just the added soil moisture to allow farmers to waltz to the bank with another bumper crop next fall.

Ideal warm, dry weather last fall enabled Prairie farmers to harvest a record-breaking wheat crop of about 840,000,000 bushels. But it also meant a slow start on replenishing the needed moisture reserves to get this year's crop off to a good start.

Dr. A. D. Rennie of the University of Saskatchewan soils department says much of that province, which produced 40 per cent of the 1966 crop, was "bone dry" last autumn.

Most agricultural experts now agree soil moisture conditions are not as good as at this time last year but they have improved since the fall.

Robert English, statistician for the Alberta agriculture department, says soil moisture conditions now are "very good and we should get away to a good start."

Garry Rice, a Saskatchewan wheat pool official, says the snow moisture condition "is generally good throughout southern Saskatchewan and most other parts of the province."

A spokesman for Manitoba Pool Elevators says subsoil reserves generally are below normal across the province.

"But this is not of much concern to producers as long as they get adequate rain after seeding."

The meteorological branch of the federal transport department, in statistics prepared for The Canadian Press, reports that precipitation in Manitoba averaged six per cent below normal during the period from Aug. 1, 1966, to Feb. 29, 1967. In Saskatchewan it was six per cent above normal while Alberta had an average excess of 13 per cent.

In Alberta the Peace River district received 10.91 inches during the period compared with the normal average of 9.18, an excess of 19 per cent. The north central and central areas received an excess of 10 per cent of normal while southern areas had 13 per cent more than the normal.

Saskatchewan had a wide fluctuation ranging from a reading of 14 per cent less than normal in the northwest to an excess of 26 per cent in the northeast. During the period the northwest received 5.30 inches compared with the normal average of 6.43. Other areas, with the normal in brackets, were northeast 9.44 (7.47), central 6.37 (5.73), southeast 7.17 (7.23).

Manitoba was the hardest hit. Western areas received nine per cent less than average, 7.94 inches compared with a normal of 8.74, and eastern districts, with a normal of 10.03 inches, received 8.74, a three-per-cent deficit.

During the period March 1 to 25 all areas, with the exception of southwestern Saskatchewan, received above-normal precipitation.

Then during the first week of April temperatures soared into the 60s and it looked like an early repeat of winter. But the respite was short-lived and the rain and snow storms, while providing additional moisture for Manitoba, set back seeding operations across the Prairies.

The Manitoba pool spokesman said the April precipitation improved the province's crop prospects "tremendously" but added that many factors will influence this year's crop.

"Well distributed rainfall and warm weather during the growing season and another dry, warm harvest season is essential," he said.

The soil moisture reserves prior to seeding are important but these alone do not guarantee a bumper field. The reserves provide insurance by helping developing grain over hot, dry areas of the growing season.

"What is needed now is a good spell of warm weather to allow seeding to proceed," he said.

A United Grain Growers spokesman agreed that seeding delays contribute to a "risky" crop.

Any delay moves harvest to a later date and the added risk of killing fall frosts.

While the farm scene remains quiet and farmers anxiously watch weather forecasts, a lot of planning has gone into the 1967 crop. Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures, compiled from farmers' reports, show acreage planted to wheat this year will increase a modest two per cent — 29,000,000 acres compared with 28,845,000 last year. Acreage increased five per cent in 1966 from 1965.

Durum, of what is used mainly in macaroni, will be grown on 1,420,000 acres this year compared with 1,139,000 acres last year, an acreage increase of 25 per cent.

Flax production is expected to take a 28-per-cent decrease with 3,457,000 acres to be sown this year compared with 2,029,000 acres last year.

Barley acreage will increase six per cent to 7,230,000 acres and acreage to be sown to oats is almost unchanged from last year at 6,290,000 acres.

The land to be left idle in summerfallow is about the same as a year ago—25,000,000 acres compared with 24,800,000—but this could change if soil moisture conditions warrant. In 1956, early summerfallow estimates were cut by an acreage of seven per cent.

Coroner Hired by Shulman Is Dismissed

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. John Porter, hired as a coroner during Dr. Morton Shulman's term of office as chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, has been relieved of his duties so he can be retrained.

Dr. Porter said Wednesday he had been informed four inquests on his schedule were being taken from him.

"Now I have to assume I have been fired but I can't get anyone to do it officially," he said in an interview.

Dr. H. Beasley Cotnam, deputy chief coroner, confirmed that he did not like Dr. Porter's handling of recent inquests and that he would have to be retrained.

Last month Dr. Porter was dismissed from his role as co-ordinator of a detailed study of Metropolitan Toronto traffic fatalities initiated by Dr. Shulman. Dr. Cotnam said at the time the study was being expanded, and he wanted more than one coroner to gain experience in handling accident investigations.

Dr. Fred Cruikshank, acting Metropolitan Toronto chief coroner since Dr. Shulman's dismissal, said in an interview he knew of at least one of Dr. Porter's inquests that had been conducted in an irregular fashion.

He said the inquest into the death of Peter Tymchi, who died after being struck by a police car last month, "was not."

"People got up from the body of the court and asked questions, reporters got up and asked questions and witnesses experience in handling accident investigations.

Dr. Fred Cruikshank, acting Metropolitan Toronto chief coroner since Dr. Shulman's dismissal, said in an interview he knew of at least one of Dr. Porter's inquests that had been conducted in an irregular fashion.

He said the inquest into the death of Peter Tymchi, who died after being struck by a police car last month, "was not."

"People got up from the body of the court and asked questions, reporters got up and asked questions and witnesses contradicted each other," Dr. Cruickshank said.

He said he suggested to Dr. Porter that he attend the four inquests he had been taken off.

Dr. Porter said he knew the inquest he followed in his last few inquests was not routine. He said his charges had been related to a general study into the causes of traffic fatalities in Toronto.

Four of Five Alliston Jurors Patients of Doctor Involved

ALLISTON, Ont. (CP) — Four of the five members of a 1965 coroner's jury said Wednesday they had been patients of the doctor involved, but denied this had any influence on their verdict.

Dr. Morton Shulman, whose charges of interference by government officials in the conduct of inquests is the subject of a royal commission in Toronto, said Tuesday the jury "was loaded."

Three of the four said the doctor was their family physician, and the fourth said he had been treated by the doctor before the inquest into the death of Mrs. Ursel Gray, 64.

Mrs. Gray died in Toronto-St. Michael's Hospital where she had been transferred after a haemorrhoid operation performed in Stevenson Memorial Hospital here. The doctor had also corrected a protrusion of the rectum.

The jury's verdict said no negligence had been proven and the major cause of death was failure of the woman's kidneys.

The foreman of the jury, one of those who was a patient of the doctor, said there was no conflict of interest.

"The inquest was fair and square."

Union Gets Injunction Against Employer Group

TORONTO (CP)—A labor union Tuesday obtained an injunction against the Toronto Construction Association, prohibiting the employers' group from trying to induce firms other than its members from refusing to hire strikers.

The application was made by Local 721 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers. Union counsel Aubrey Golden said he believed it was the first time in Ontario that an injunction had been granted to a union against employers.

Mr. Golden charged in a hearing before Mr. Justice Albert R. Henderson of the Ontario Supreme Court that the construction association was urging discrimination against union men, a contravention of the Ontario Labor Relations Act.

The union and the association are negotiating a new contract, but the union members will be free to strike May 9.

The ironworkers objected to letters sent out to member and non-member firms of the employers' association last week, urging them not to employ striking members of the union if a strike occurs.

The injunction granted by Mr. Justice Henderson restrains the construction association until final disposal of the action, from wrongfully inducing employers other than its members to refuse to employ, continue to employ or discriminate in granting employment to any member of Local 721.

It also forbids the association from discriminating against or refusing to employ any member of the local because he is exercising his right to strike against another employer.

Chamber of Commerce Leaders Suggest Urban Renewal Patterned After Fresno

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Is Belleville ready for an urban renewal scheme to revitalize its downtown district?

A few forward thinking members of the local chamber of commerce feel that it is and are currently in the process of preparing long range proposals for redevelopment of the downtown area.

The proposals outline what they feel the downtown area could look like in say 20 years — providing city council and downtown merchants go for the idea.

The suggested program, patterned to some extent after what has happened in Fresno, California, on Sparks Street in Ottawa, and in many other American centres, will be presented around the end of May.

Draft plans of the proposals are now on the drawing boards at the office of Watson and Wiegand, local architects. Chamber past-president Fred Deacon emphasizes the proposals are not intended as anything like a final plan, but merely suggestions as to what could take place in Belleville.

But before anything can happen, the idea has to be sold to city council and also the merchants themselves will have to be convinced that urban renewal is the only thing that can stop the rot and decay of downtown districts caused through strangulation by the motor car.

Mr. Deacon who is taking a leading part in the downtown redevelopment proposals, says that city council acceptance of the scheme is the first requirement.

"City council would have to initiate the necessary planning studies," he said.

Mr. Deacon went on to note that urban renewal is encouraged by the provincial government which makes grants available for planning and also for certain aspects of the actual redevelopment.

Initially the chamber was thinking only in terms of a Norwich type beautification program for the downtown area. But it was soon realized that much more than a Norwich plan was needed.

"What is needed is a complete redevelopment scheme for the entire downtown area," he says.

Mr. Deacon feels Belleville today is in much the same position as was Fresno California, before it commenced its scheme which has since become the model for all Americas.

Back in 1956, the downtown area of Fresno, a city of 150,000 and county seat for a primarily agricultural area, was facing decay. There had been little major construction in the downtown area for 20 years, many of the buildings were in a bad state of disrepair and the business area was strangled by 10,000 cars a day, stalling around the blocks seeking a place to park.

Adding to the confusion were merchants trying to park in front of their own stores — youngsters "dragging the main", fumes, noise, red lights, green lights, amber lights and pedestrians scrambling to make the lights.

The city's biggest department store decided it had had enough and moved to a suburban shopping plaza and there seemed every likelihood that others would follow.

With the handwriting on the wall, a group of Fresno merchants decided something had to be done to fill the void. The result is now history.

A planning consultant with previous experience in downtown revitalization was retained to undertake a study to see what could be done. He came up with a mall proposal taking in a 20 square-block area.

What happened was that motor traffic was banned from the mall area and a park-like atmosphere of trees, flowers, shrubs and fountains was created. Funds for development came from a special mall assessment, federal urban renewal grants and from city taxes.

The view taken was that the surest way of revitalizing cities was to transform the core into some kind of a haven for pedestrians. Along the middle of streets where there was once traffic jams and perilous fumes are gardens, fountains, pools waterways and numerous pieces of handsome sculpture.

For the children there are imaginative playgrounds. And for the elderly, or those who just want to take their ease, there are benches shaded by grape arbors and placed in proximity to some fountain or pool.

Some of the Fresno merchants, opposed to the mall idea, prophesized financial ruin if motor cars were ruled out of the downtown area.

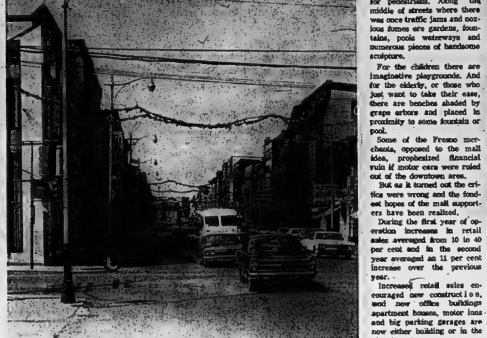
But as it turned out the critics were wrong and the fondest hopes of the mall supporters have been realized.

During the first year of operation increases in retail sales averaged from 10 to 40 per cent and in the second year averaged an 11 per cent increase over the previous year.

Increased retail sales encouraged new construction, and new office buildings apartment houses, motor inns and big parking garages are now either building or in the planning stage.

Down in Canada's capital at Ottawa, much the same enthusiasm has resulted from the mall project on Sparks Street.

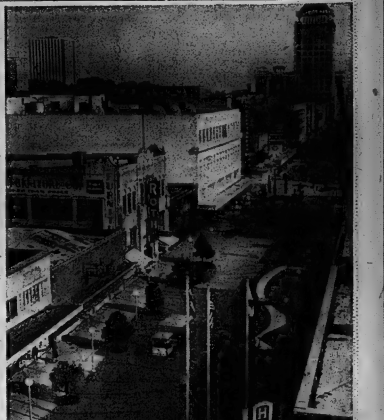
The first "temporary" mall opened on Sparks street in 1960, much year later it was opened with increased enthusiasm and success.



In fact so great has been the enthusiasm at Ottawa that the mall is now to become permanent at an over-all cost of $378,000.

The cost of storm sewers, sidewalk and street reconstruction is being paid out of general taxes, while the cost of surfacing fixtures and mall furniture estimated at $318,500, will be paid by the property owners on a local improvement basis over a 20-year period.

Mr. Deacon feels that the mall idea would meet with much the same reception in Belleville.



The area envisioned for eventual redevelopment would extend from the Upper Bridge south to Dundas Street and from the river to Pinnacle Street.

The Chamber proposal is expected to be ready for presentation to city council by the end of May or early in June.

This Is Belleville Today

Traffic-choked thoroughfares, such as shown in this scene during noonday rush at Front and Bridge streets, are taken for granted today in downtown Belleville. But the Chamber of Commerce visualizes redevelopment which could change it all. Chamber proposals will be unveiled to city council in June.

This Could Be Future Belleville

Pleasant street scene such as this in Fresno, California, could become a reality in Belleville if redevelopment proposals by the Chamber of Commerce are realized. Downtown area of Fresno was strangled by traffic and fast sinking into decay before urban renewal program was undertaken a few years ago.

Expo Nears 2,000,000 Mark

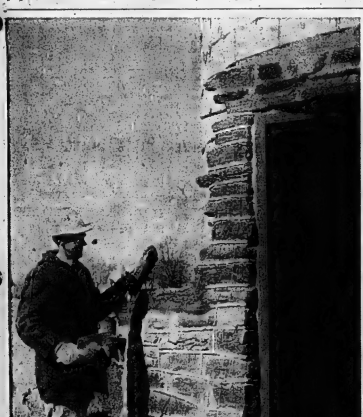
MONTREAL (CP)—Expo 67 today began looking towards its 2,000,000th visitor just a week after it opened.

Throughout a rain-lashed day Wednesday, visitors continued to pour through the gates of Canada's world's fair which opened with pomp and ceremony last Thursday.

By midnight 127,786 had passed through the turnstiles for a cumulative total of 1,946,128.

There was a chance visitor No. 2,000,000 would enter the fair toolate.

There had been plans for honoring she 1,000,000th visitor but crowds surged through the gates so fast last weekend that the count, hampered by the broken-down electronic system, jumped from 750,000 to 1,250,000 before anyone could pinpoint the vital number.



But with the computers back in shape, No. 2,000,000 may be more easily spotted-and duly honored.

There was talk of taking the milestone visitor on a tour of the site by one of the pretty hostesses in what has come to be known as a "Cushman" named after the agency renting these smaller-than - jeep - sized vehicles which rush about the fairgrounds hearing photographers and radio men whose equipment is too heavy to carry by hand.

But there was also a suggestion among fair officials they should wait for No. 3,000,000.

A total of 76 children were lost-and found - during the day and the public relations department also reported that four adults were lost and found. This referred to couples separated in the heavy crowds.

Main event on today's program is celebration of Mauritius' national day when the tiny Indian Ocean island will be honored with the prime minister, Sir Seewoosagur Ramgoolam, presiding over the ceremony in Place des Nations.

Laying Field Stone

Norman Bowler of Halloway lays field stone in re-construction of old False Duck Island lighthouse. The lighthouse is being rebuilt as a memorial to Great Lakes sailors.

Buffalo Gang Loots Shop

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A gang of 200 young persons roamed through a section of the city Wednesday night breaking windows and looting a guns shop.

The persons, ranging in age from 16 to 20, carried off television sets, musical instruments and other items in the second consecutive night of looting, police said. Some of the merchandise was recovered.

Two were arrested and charged with malicious mischief, burglary and grand larceny.

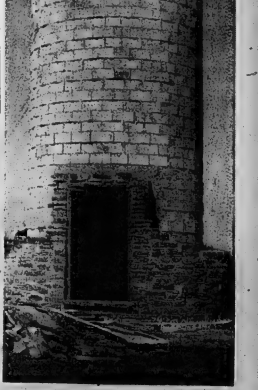
False Duck Lighthouse Moved to Port Milford

PICTON (Staff) — The old marine lighthouse which stood for years on False Duck Island off Point Traverse has found a new home in Prince Edward County.

The old lighthouse boasted 137 years of continuous operation before it was demolished by the government in June of 1966.

Willis Metcalfe, a wisely known local historian and collector of artifacts, and the Prince Edward County Historical Society have arranged for it's transfer to the new site at the head of South Bay near the old "Port Milford."

Here it is being reconstructed to appear as it did for so many years on the island. The historical society has passed the lighthouse to the Township of South Marysburgh to be used as its Centennial Project. According to Mr. Metcalfe, the lighthouse will be 35 feet high from the tip of the weather vane to the ground. As yet the lantern assembly has not been installed but when it is it may have a light (which may be used on special occasions) as electricity is being put into the building.



The old light officially went out on False Duck Island on Nov. 3, 1965 for the last time and over the years the old landmark utilized four different types of lantern. In 1828 whale oil or lard oil was used. About 1858 or 1860 coal oil was used and after some time gas mantles were installed. In later years it was converted to electricity.

It was the second oldest Canadian light on Lake Ontario and the oldest marine landmark in Prince Edward County. The light which is still standing on Toronto Island was the first Canadian Light on the Lake but the False Duck Light continued to operate long after the Toronto light was shut down.

Lightning struck the lighthouse during a severe storm in 1906 and although it did little damage to the tower it did travel to the keeper's house and burned it. Operator for many years and still operating when the structure was torn down is James McConnell of R R 2 Milford.

It is expected the area around the new site will be set up as a park with facilities for sightseers. A lifeboat from the Greek freighter Prototstatis (which went aground off Prince Edward County a year or so ago has been obtained by Mr. Metcalfe to be installed on the site. Mrs. Cecil Bongard has donated a large ships anchor which will also help adorn the area.

Mr. Metcalfe says he foresees a marine museum located there eventually. At any rate it is certainly going to be a most fitting and appropriate memorial to Prince Edward County sailors.

SPORTS SLICES

As the headline in yesterday's sports pages said "The Leafs were one helluva mess". You can change the spelling of the last word to "mess" and it would have fitted them on a couple of playoff occasions.

But the "mess" prevailed when the Stanley Cup statekeepers came under the wire with the mixture of Montreal hicks and Father Time beards grabbing off the gold and the glory.

The Leafs lived up to their reputation of being a tough club to beat when the chips are down. And they proved it against Montreal, a team noted for its consistency either "up" or "down."

The Leafs showed splotches of consistency too. They went into a protracted slump during the schedule and by a stroke of fate — or was it? — staged a brilliant comeback after losing eleven games. Then Imlach was sidelined with something or other. King the Cockeyed Clancy modestly refused to accept the glory of the reversal of form giving the credit to his boss.

Leaf chef Imlach tossed his cup winning salad from a mixture of old boots and young legs. He didn't exactly concur with the late NHL coach Dick Irvin who once stated "The way they're playing this game today, I'll take young legs over an old head every time."

His youngsters matched the wizardry of the ear-to-ear willyness with their remarkable speed afoot, with both young and old coming up with some of the best body-to-body checking seen in the NHL for some time.

As one sports columnist notes: — "Unlike Dick, Punch Imlach's preferences for older players is well known and he gets a lot out of them. He will take players who were considered past their peak by other coaches and managers and inject new life into them. He hasn't made any mistakes in picking up players like Johnny Bower, Terry Sawchuk, Allan Stanley, Marcel Pronovost and Red Kelly."

Bower is the oldest player in the league and like Tennyson's Brook may go on forever. He was in the minors for eight years kicking the puck around when the New York Rangers picked him up and after a year decided Johnny was still excellent minor league stuff and down he went.

He stayed there for three years when Imlach spotted him and decided there was major league stuff in the starting-to-age bones of Bower. That was nine years ago and you know where Bower has been playing all that time.

Like the cat watching the mouse Imlach kept his eyes on the travels of one Terry Sawchuk. Five years with the Wings, two with the Bruins then back for another seven with Detroit who eventually left him off the protected list. Imlach jumped, claimed him for Toronto where he became the left bower of the Leafs las defence.

Allan Stanley is well-travelled too. Six years with the Rangers, two with the Black Hawks then two years with the Bruins who traded him to the Leafs for Jim Morrison. He, too, is in his ninth season with the Leafs.

After thirteen seasons with the Red Wings, Red Kelly walked out on them when they attempted to trade him to the Rangers. Imlach's trouble-shooter Clancy talked with Kelly and the result was a deal for Marc Reaume. Imlach switched Kelly from defence to centre. That was seven years ago.

Marcel Pronovost was so long with the Red Wings (15 years) at one time they were going to nominate him for the mayoralty. Two years ago he was the central figure in a big Wings-Leafs trade.

The Leaflan gardens may have been pasture-fields for so-called worn-out old horses but they have been forming an life-giving grass. But it hasn't been all oats, grass and alfalfa for the oldsters. Imlach is a hard taskmaster and has used the whip often to speed up the slowing feet.

"Sure, I work them hard," he is quoted as saying. "Old players have to work harder than the young if they're going to keep up with them. If there isn't any substitute for experience there isn't any substitute for work, either."

His recipe of "young legs and old heads" produced a beautiful "hockey cake" iced with the silver of the Stanley Cup.

Spain Defeats Canada

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Spain defeated Canada 2-0 Wednesday and advanced into India to the finals Thursday of the international field-hockey tournament.

India defeated Italy 3-0.

Spain encountered more difficulty than it had expected in its match with Canada. The Spaniards scored their two goals in two excellent attacks.

The Canadians counter - attacked to dominate most of the second - half play, but they lacked the required marksmanship.

In other matches, England beat Mexico 6-0 and Belgium downed El Cid of Spain 3-0.

Belgium and Britain play Thursday for third and fourth places, Canada and El Cid for fifth and sixth and Italy and Mexico for seventh and eighth.

Eagles Win; Spurs Fail To Jingle!

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP)—Calgary Spurs will have to change their style of play if they hope to win any games in the best-of-seven Allan Cup final.

That was the observation of Raymond Fortin, captain of Drummondville Eagles, after the Eagles blanked the Spurs 3-0 Wednesday night in the series opener.

"It was a team victory and if we can keep playing the way we did we'll win the cup," Fortin said after the game. "We're faster and if they want to win they'll have to change their style.

"We beat everybody by hitting and shooting and we can beat them (the Spurs) by hitting and skating, too."

Eagles out-dazzled and out-manuvered the Spurs and led 1-0 after the first period. They carried a 2-0 lead into the third period.

Ron Roberts sparked the Drummondville attack with two goals, Fortin and Roland Leclerc scored one each.

Claude Cyr turned in a sparkling performance for the Eagles, kicking out 30 Calgary shots to register the shutout.

Drummondville, meanwhile, fired 44 shots at Calgary goalie Bobby Taylor.

The Spurs were unable to press their attack until late in the game when they held a territorial edge. However, they missed several opportunities by shooting wide of the net or banging on their shots.

Roberts opened the scoring at 11:35 of a rough first period, which saw 15 penalties handed out. He completed a three-way pass play with Michel Lapalme and Jean Therrien before beating Taylor with a 10-footer.

Fortin made it 2-0 at 0:32 of the second period when his 50-foot slapshot caught the goalpost and rebounded into the net to the right of Taylor.

Roberts counted his second at 1:10 of the third period when he picked up his own rebound while lying on his back and shoved the puck past Taylor.

Leclerc closed out the scoring at 10:32 when he took a pass from Michel Lefebvre and backhanded a 10-footer into the upper right corner of the Calgary net.

Coach Tony Schneider of the Spurs said he thought his club played well but the Eagles played better and deserved to win.

Referee John Kubinec of Fort William, Ont., called a total of 21 penalties, including four five-minute majors and a 10-minute misconduct.

Lapalme and Marty Desaulrais of Calgary were each given majors for fighting in the first period and Warren Hickson of the Spurs and Therrien traded punches late in the first period and also drew majors. Therrien was also tagged with three minor penalties in the first period.

Bob Eastcott of Drummondville was given the misconduct penalty for arguing a holding penalty in the second period.

"Nice Going, Buddy"

Dave Keon of Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday was awarded the Conn Smythe Trophy as the most valuable player in the Stanley Cup playoffs. Keon, a centre from Noranda, Que., scored five goals and assisted on five others in the two six-game series Leafs had against Chicago Black Hawks and finally Montreal Canadiens. (CP Wirephoto)

Stonethrower Turns Pitcher

DETROIT (AP) — George Korince was plunking stones into an Ontario pond when his mother suggested it might be more constructive to go out for baseball.

He did and now he's a big league pitcher at age 21.

"I just hope I can get in a full season. Cutdown time is this coming Tuesday, and I hope I can stick with the Tigers," the big right-hander said.

Korince joined Detroit from Montgomery late last year and pitched three innings, allowed one hit and no runs. Last winter he pitched a no-hitter in the Florida Instructional League.

"I was about nine or 10 years old," he said. "I happened to be throwing stones into a pond, the majors is a thrill.

My mother saw me and suggested to go out for baseball.

"So I did. I tried out as a pitcher and I've been a pitcher ever since."

Korince weighs 210 and stands 6-foot-2. He was born in Ottawa but moved to Merrition, Ont., as a child.

"I'd rather pitch than do anything else, on a ball field or off," he said.

"It's hard to get enough work in relief," but my arm has never felt this good.

"Since I've learned to throw that slider real well I've gotten rid of the strain it used to give me before I started talking to Johnny Sain," he said. Sain is the Tigers' pitching coach.

Smythe Trophy To Keon

TORONTO (CP) — They gave Maple Leaf Gardens to Dave Keon here Wednesday night.

The scrappy centre from Noranda, Que., won the Conn Smythe Trophy, a silver model of the Gardens, for being the most valuable player in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

His name will be etched on a silver maple leaf on the base of the trophy, alongside that of Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens, the first winner, and goalie Roger Crozier of Detroit Red Wings, winner last year.

Keon, who gets a bronze plaque and a cheque for $1,500 to keep, said the trophy is a symbol: "There were a lot of guys at least and their names should be on here."

The Conn Smythe Trophy was established by Maple Leaf Gardens in honor of the former coach, manager, president and owner of the team who today is an honorary life governor of the National Hockey League.

Wet, Windy And Wealthy

HOUSTON (AP)—Wet, windy and wealthy, the $115,000 Champions International had a true battle of champs on its hands today as 100 of golf's best sought its tenderoil.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer was thrust into his not-so-unusual role as favorite to grab the $22,000 first prize money, yet he complained he just wasn't playing good at all.

"I three-putted three or four greens," he said after a practice round Wednesday with Masters champ Gay Brewer and Jack Nicklaus, who also looked for the putting touch that had escaped him.

Brewer stands a chance this week of wrestling the year's money lead from Palmer, who has banked $73,278 in PGA sanctioned tournaments.

The list shows Brewer second, less than $6,000 behind Palmer. Last year, he finished 86th with over $75,000, more than double his earnings in any year since turning pro in 1956.

Rain gave the wooded, rolling 7,118-yard, par 72 course a good soaking Wednesday. Tournament sponsors hoped they wouldn't be faced with the same problem they had last year when the event was postponed from spring until fall because of rain.

A's Get Three

Holy Hop!; White Kangaroos

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Move over, Charley O. and look out, White Sox!

Three albino kangaroos are coming from Australia to back up Charley O., Kansas City Athletics mule mascot who toured the American League two years ago. The kangaroos may tour the league this summer.

"The White Sox won't be able to keep my kangaroos out of the park," said KC owner Charles O. Finley.

"They can jump 20 feet up and the White Sox wall in centers is only 12 feet high. We could just pat 'em on the back and they'd jump over.

"Charley O. was welcome everywhere but Chicago, you know." Finley said. "But we smuggled in a baby mule in an equipment truck, it romped on the field and the game was delayed.

Finley's main purpose, however, is to impress "a few doubting Thomases" who wondered out loud and in print whether albino kangaroos existed and if so, whether the A's used them to make their white shoes.

"They questioned my veracity and even intimated we used white dye on our shoes," Finley said. "So I called Sir Edward Hanlstrom, who is Mr. Kangaroo in Australia, and asked him to have his men capture a few."

That was three weeks ago. Wednesday morning Finley received word Sir Edward's men had captured one male and two female albino kangaroos.

Badminton Closes Season

The Garrison Badminton Club climaxed a highly successful season with the annual club championship tournament.

Gill Latchford was a big winner capturing the men's "A" singles championship and teaming with Tod Melbourne to win the "A" men's doubles title.

Billie Waldron, a "veteran" of the club, won the women's "A" singles championship.

The women's "A" doubles went to Barbara McCracken and Jody Frost with the "B" doubles going to Suzanne Smith and Valerie Knight.

Tod Melbourne and Kelly Rooney won the "A" mixed doubles. Roger Hunter and Irene Lewis winning the "B" mixed. Rick Hunter and John Kaiser took the men's "B" title.

Dave Bell teamed with Judy Frost to capture the mixed doubles "A" consolation title. "B" going to John Kaiser and Pat Matthews.

The club membership, as senior and 20 junior players finished the season with highly creditable showings, especially at four out-of-town tournaments.

A highlight of the season was the winning of the Doug Grant Trophy, the first time it was taken from Peterborough since its inauguration.

According to a club spokesman the junior players teaming up with seniors in the club tournament, was more than their share of the honors.

At the closing party held in the armouries officers' mess after play, the various trophies were presented to the winners.

It was the first time singles matches have been played in club tournament competition.

Seven Teams To Play In Commercial

Commercial Softball League president Bill Valence announced the names of seven entries for the 1967 season following a league meeting last night.

Four of last season's clubs, Lightfoot Construction, City Hotel, Black Diamond Cheese and Stewart Warner, plus two former Prince Edward North Shore Leagues clubs, Stinson's and Brant's Body Shop, and one new team, The Tiki Club, have entered the loop.

A 30-game schedule will be played and the opening game is expected to take place at Albemarle Park on Tuesday, May 23.

A discussion was held during the meeting concerning the possibility of a softball tournament being held in early August, with teams from Hastings and Prince Edward counties participating.

Another Commercial League meeting has been scheduled for Sunday, May 7, at the Belvedere Hotel, at 8.00 p.m.

Twas A Blankety-Blank Day In NL

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Billy Hitchcock's Atlanta baseball team is putting up a brave front at home. If the Braves can do as well as the road, it could take them all the way to the World Series.

Atlanta blanked Chicago Cubs 4-0 behind Dick Kelley's three - hitter Wednesday night for its 10th victory against only two setbacks in Atlanta Stadium. The Braves' record is opponents' ball parks is only 1-5.

The triumph moved Atlanta into a tie for second place with St. Louis, two games behind Cincinnati, the National League leader.

Kelley's shutout was one of four pitched in the NL. Ray Washburn had a two-hitter as St. Louis Cardinals downed Cincinnati Reds 2-0, Joan Marichal of San Francisco Giants scattered four hits in an 8-0 triumph over New York Mets and Chris Short yielded five hits as Philadelphia Phillies edged Houston Astros 1-0.

There would have been five shutouts except that Los Angeles Dodgers blew a 5-0 ninth-inning lead behind Don Sutton, and finally were beaten by Pittsburgh Pirates 6-5 in 15 innings.

Mack Jones hammered a two-run homer for the Braves in the eighth.

Larry Dierker.

A two-run single by Mike Shannon backed Washburn's excellent performance. The only runs he yielded came on Hal Reniff.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland Indians beat Baltimore Orioles 5-1, Washington Senators took Kansas City Athletics 6-1 and Chicago White Sox edged Detroit Tigers 3-1.

The Yanks and Twins played in bitter cold, bringing renewed outcries from Yankee players who claimed the weather was more suited to fireplaces than ball parks.

Sonny Siebert drove in three runs with a homer and double and held the Orioles to seven hits.

Phil Ortega pitched a four-hitter and Frank Howard's two-run single was the big blow in a four-run seventh inning for the Senators.

The White Sox moved into first - place tie with the Tigers on the strength of run-scoring singles by Pete Ward and Tom McCraw. Bob Locker saved the victory for starter Gary Peters, who yielded Al Kaline's 10th homer in the ninth inning.

Lead, But Lose In Last

Ninth Inning Jinxed This Pair

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mr. Lonborg, say hello to Mr. Talbot.

Boston's Jim Lonborg and New York's Fred Talbot both stalked claims to charter membership in the hard-luck pitchers club Wednesday night.

Both nursed slim leads all game long and both were victims of ninth-inning misfortune.

Lonborg was working on a no-hitter for six innings and then a one-hitter until California Angels caught up with him in the ninth and won 3-1.

Talbot, for his part, went into the ninth with a two-run lead over Minnesota, but an error by outfielder Tom Tresh opened the gates and the Twins pulled off a 4-3 triumph.

Lonborg's undoing was more of his own making than Talbot's. After giving up a seventh - inning single to Jim Fregosi, the 26-year-old Red Sox righthander then stopped the Angels until the ninth when, with one out, Fregosi got the second hit off him.

Then Jay Johnstone and Rick Reichardt whacked singles, Reichardt's driving in Fregosi to tie the score. Alex Johnson Hall was purposely walked Don Wolfson fouled out.

But Lonborg uncorked a wild pitch and Johnstone scored the winning run.

Rich Reese drove in two-run single in the ninth inning as Minnesota run with a slide to right, driving in Bob Allison and pinning the defeat on Hal Reniff.

Eight Fall By Wayside

Centennial Rally Takes Early Toll!

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—The relatively easy first leg of the Centennial 4000- rally knocked out eight of 53 starters Wednesday, and more are expected to fall by the wayside in today's north 13-hour grind through the Rockies.

Early leaders in the 4,500-mile run to Montreal from Vancouver were Keith Ronald of Guelph, Ont., and John Medwell of Toronto, in a Citroen. They had 12 penalty points.

Another Citroen, with 18 penalty points was second. It was driven by Marcel Rainville of Quebec City and navigated by Robin Edwards of Pierrefonds, Que.

Following closely were Bob Allison and Herb Ashley of Saskatoon in a Mustang, with 23 demerit points.

Norman van Louie of Vedder Crossing, B.C. and William Hayson of Vancouver, in an Alfa-Romeo had 26 penalty points, as did Gene Henderson of Deanborn, Mich., and Doug Gallop of Toronto in a Lotus Cortina.

Five-rally favorites John Bird of Toronto and Klaus Rose of Lachine, Que., in a Datsun, picked up 27 penalty points.

The three-car Citroen team was the early leader in the Manufacturer's team class.

In addition to the perfect score of early leaders Ronald Medwell and Rainville-Edwards, Jean-Claude Jean Ogier and Lucien Pointet of Grenoble, France, had 29 penalty points.

Last year's winners, Paul MacLennan of Toronto and John Wilson of Waterloo, Ont., were reported to have encountered difficulties before reaching the first checkpoint, and had fallen behind the early leaders.

Leading the women's Cup Des Dames class, were Rosemarie Smith of Dublin, Ireland, and Ann Coombe of Toronto in a Sunbeam Imp. Miss Smith, an attractive blonde, won this section, and the $1,000 prize it offers, in her first attempt last year.

Diana Carter-Polivka of Toronto and Barbara Jean Jack of Burlington, Ont., were second.

One of the first problems encountered by drivers Wednesday was a cowboy herding cattle across the highway about 25 miles south of Merritt, B.C.

Some vehicles ripped out gas tanks and broke shock absorbers. Jack Deno of Kirkland, Wash., and navigator Don Yates of Bellevue, Wash., were eliminated when their vehicle collided with a private car 14 miles west of Kelowna.

"To The Victor..."

Picton's Robbie Ostrander flashes across the finish line well in front of the field while winning yesterday's cross country run in record time of 22:14.3.

Hayman Was Seventh

PEC's Ostrander Wins Cross Country

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

District sportsmen should know better by now than to underestimate athletes from "Little Spain".

Robbie Ostrander, an 18-year-old will-o-the-wisp from Prince Edward Collegiate, Picton, proved the point once again here yesterday.

Ostrander defeated 82 district high school harriers and a strong wind to score a record - breaking victory in the annual Ken Colling Memorial Cross - Country run.

While race enthusiasts pondered prior to the event if Moira's Johnny Hayman would chalk up his third win in succession or if one of the aces from Quinte or Trenton would beat the little redhead, the name of Ostrander was seldom mentioned.

But a look at last year's results would have shown the Picton runner a solid third behind Hayman and Trenton's Dave Prudhomme.

Ostrander ran in the pack from the start yesterday and held down about 12th position at the half way mark when he started his move.

He moved into second position, behind Quinte Secondary School's Glen Easton who held a healthy lead at this point. Easton finally faltered about three blocks from the BCIVS finish line while Ostrander held his steady pace and won by a good margin.

Ostrander's official time was 22:14.3, knocking almost 14 seconds off Hayman's record time in 1958 of 22:48. Easton held on for second place in the time of 22:23.2. The course is slightly over four miles in length, over city streets.

"I ran well against the wind. It seemed to bother most of the other fellows more than it did me", Ostrander said, "but I didn't think I had a chance to catch Easton until he seemed to have trouble near the end", Robbie is a Grade 12 student.

Easton was disappointed at the finish: "I led nearly all the way but that wind really slowed me up about three blocks from the school. Ostrander ran a great race".

"The hills are getting longer and I guess I am not in too good condition," grinned Moira's Hayman, who fell to a surprising seventh-place finish, "but maybe I will be back next year for another try at that third win."

Duncan Rogerson of Trenton finished third yesterday with Clyde Jourdain, an annual threat from CSD, coming fourth. Trenton's Dave Prudhomme placed fifth, Tom Wills of BCIVS sixth, Doug Robinson of Moira eighth, Quinte's Mike Shoalker ninth and BCIVS's Ray Bouma tenth.

Cleo Colling, brother of the late Intelligencer sports editor, Ken Colling, was on hand as always to present the happy winner with his trophy. Colling also supplies crests for the first 36 finishers.

"You ran a fine race, Robbie," the donor told the winner.

The official presentations were made in the BCIVS gym.

Teachers from the various schools timed and filled other official positions with Homer "Red" Townsend of BCIVS, firing the starting gun.

Wally Beevor, of the host school, was in charge of the race and said later that 70 of the 84 starters finished.

To A New Record!

Cleo Colling, donor of the trophy in memory of his late brother, Ken, smiles congratulations and shakes Robbie Ostrander's hand following the race.

Minor Baseball Clinic Is Cancelled

Ron Lopenette, president of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association, announced the cancellation of this year's clinic for players, coaches, managers and others connected with minor baseball.

"The clinic was scheduled for May 13 and 14 but there are too many other things going on, plus the fact that the city's senior players will be practicing and would not be available to assist us. We will have movies to show the kids later," Lopenette said.

He added that league schedules in the BMBA would be open for the following week.

The BMBA has the second half of its umpires' clinic slated for the Recreation Centre Monday and Tuesday nights of next week, at 7.00 o'clock.

Russ Soule has announced that the open practice for midget baseball players will be held Sunday, at the Fairgrounds at 1.00, not Saturday as was first announced.

Don't get tires. Get UNIROYAL Tiger Paws

Do you think of your car as more than just a hunk of machinery that gets you from one place to another?

Are you the type of guy who really enjoys driving? Who gets a kick out of taking care of a car?

Then you need Tiger Paws.™

Because Tiger Paws can do a heck of a lot more for your car than ordinary tires can. They combine the high-speed and handling characteristics of a sports car tire with the smooth, comfortable ride and the wear of a passenger tire.

Tiger Paws have been tested at better than 120 miles an hour, sustained speed. Rain or shine, they respond quickly and eagerly. And they can go over some of the roughest roads around, without flinching.

On sharp curves and when you're passing, Tiger Paws give you a feel of the road that you just can't get with ordinary tires. They corner beautifully. With virtually no squeal at all (unless, of course, you're a dynamiter). They make you feel as if the car is a part of you.

If you want a set for your car, come on in and pick them up here. We're an official Uniroyal Tiger Paw centre.

You can own a set of Tiger Paws for as little as $1.00 down, $1.00 weekly

CP Marks Fiftieth Birthday

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Press, observing its 50th anniversary, Wednesday night honored men who covered two wars for its member newspapers and who contributed to the news co - operative's development as its presidents.

Six former presidents and 14 correspondents of the Second World War and the Korean War were head table guests at CP's annual dinner held in conjunction with its semi-centennial meeting.

The correspondents, youngsters in 1935-45 but most of them greying now and some retired, heard CP General Manager Gilbis Purcell salute the group as having matched the toughest of competition. CP came of age during the Second World War, Mr. Purcell said.

The CP chief, main dinner speaker for the first time since he became general manager in 1945, gave credit to the staff generally as "essentially what makes CP and keeps it going."

"To a marked extent, a news association is an exercise in anonymity based on shirtsleeve efforts. It is the scene of team work. Each of every byline is the work of scores of people besides the writer."

The 62-year-old general manager, normally among the anonymous, was called "Mr. Canadian Press" by CP's president St. Clair Balfour, president of Southam Press Ltd. Basil Dean, president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association and publisher of the Edmonton Journal, described him as a man of precision but one tolerant of people's weaknesses.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — The young peoples' concerts, Sounds of the Century, put on by high school students and others from Stirling, in Stirling Theatre, Friday and Saturday nights, were a decided success. Brian and Tom Thomson from here took part in the concerts and Brian assisted in making the decorations for the theatre. The program of music spanning the ruling century, was well delivered.

Mrs. Charles Stewart, Mrs. Richard Morton, and Mrs. Mabyl Jones attended a grandmothers' tea in the church parlors of Springbrook United Church Saturday afternoon as 'honoured' grandmothers, guests of the C.G.I.T. girls from Rylstone.

On Friday evening the people of the surrounding community met at Sentinel Orange Hall, Limerick's Corners to honor Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wildman, who were recently married. Mr. Aaron Anderson was the chairman for the program of musical selections and readings. Those participating in the program were Lorna and Helen Stapley, vocal solo with piano accompaniment; Lois Reid, piano solo; Mark and Michael Thomson, vocal duet; Mrs. Raymond Stewart, Bell Anderson and Mrs. Lindsay Finch, readings.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reid and his mother, Mrs. Essie Reid, were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reid and Mrs. Pro, of Moscown of Springbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moran of Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Percy of Niagara Falls and Ted Reid of Toronto.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Minnie Morton, who received word of the death of her sister, Mrs. Mary Sills in Toronto Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lounsbury and Vicki and Sherry Spencer, all of Peterborough, were weekend guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Spencer.

Mrs. Cecil Finch entertained her family at a birthday dinner in honour of her husband Monday evening.

Sunday school and church services for Rylstone and Stanwood Churches will be held jointly at Rylstone United Church during May. Sunday school will be held at 9:30 a.m. and church service at 11 a.m. Grant Richardson of Stirling, who was recently accepted as a candidate for the ministry of the United Church of Canada will be the guest speaker at the morning service May 7th.

Blossom Princess

High school student Lorraine Adams, 16, of R. R. 1 Consecon has held the title for nearly a year now. She spends her spare time promoting for the annual Apple Blossom Festival being held on Harold Bonter's farm on the Rednerville Road south of Belleville this year.

Wooler Personals

WOOLER — Eric Lawless, who Leighton, has finished his year at Waterloo University, spent the week-end at his home and left Tuesday for the summer in Sudbury.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. McColl spent the weekend in Toronto with their daughter, Mrs. Al real.

Mr. Leighton and daughters.

A birthday party was held in honor of Mrs. A. Smith at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Scott Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Alan Hill and Miss Hill are spending a week in Montreal.

Rural Hospitality Paramount At Coming Blossom Festival

AMELIASBURG — People who dream about waking among fragrant apple blossoms in Springtime can realize their ambition and enjoy good old fashioned rural hospitality at the same time. They're being invited by descendents of Prince Edward County families who settled Upper Canada before Confederation. The group extending the friendly gesture is known as the Apple Blossom Festival Committee with headquarters at Albury in Ameliasburg township.

Former county warden and Mrs. Harold Bonter, chairman and secretary of the Festival committee is that order will be playing host to the public during the long holiday weekend coming up this month as part of their contribution to the centennial celebrations. Among the dignitaries expected to attend is the Minister of Agriculture the Hon. William A. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart.

The occasion is the second annual Apple Blossom Festival. The setting is the Bonter orchards comprising some 125 acres along the south shore of the Bay of Quinte half-way between Trenton and Belleville. The drive from the City of Toronto any on 401 most of the way is just over 100 miles and can be negotiated safely in two and a half hours.

Last year the Festival inaugural presented at the Bonter farm attracted more than 2,500 from Ontario points extending well into the Niagara district. Since then the undertaking has received unsolicited encouragement and financial backing from District No. 7 of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association, the Prince Edward County Council and the Township of Ameliasburg.

MOTHER NATURE BUSY

At the present time mother nature is extremely busy recreating blossoms in the acres and acres of apple orchards which form the principal industry of Prince Edward County. As time for the Festival draws near committee members places a special watch on the budding process hopeful the arrival of the blooms is on schedule for the benefit of the visitors.

By the long holiday week-end the large blocks of fruit trees should have been transformed into a giant patchwork blanket of delicate pink and white blossoms on a green background. Everywhere the route to the Festival will be scented by the exquisite aroma of flowering apple trees.

Preceding the Sunday program is the Festival Ball at the new Kente public school on Friday night with centennial costumes called for as formal dress. Then on the following day at Albury church entries in the apple pie baking contest will be judged. Cash prizes have been offered for the three best entries. The winning entry will also become holder of the OPVG District No. 7 shield emblematic of the Festival pie baking championship.

On Sunday the Festival program starts off with an outdoor interdenominational church service at 11:00 a.m., and continues throughout the afternoon with various impromptu presentations, free rides through the flowering orchards in tractor drawn wagons while the members of Albury church choir serve sumptuous helpings of apple pie and county produced cheese. There will be apple juice available to rinse down the food. The minimal charge for these items goes toward the maintenance of the church choir.

Amateur photographers in the district have been invited to produce prize-winning slides and movies in color for cash awards and ribbons. Throughout the afternoon the Town of Trenton's 25-piece municipal band will provide musical entertainment. Visitors who bring basket lunches will be provided with tables in the orchard down by the bayshore.

Bill Will Let Municipalities Defer Taxes of Those Over 65

TORONTO (CP)—A bill introduced in the Ontario legislature Wednesday by Municipal Affairs Minister Spooner will permit municipalities to grant elderly homeowners interest-free property tax deferments of up to $150 a year.

Mr. Spooner described the legislation as a "temporary expedient" until Ontario's taxation system is adapted in line with recommendations of the Smith committee on taxation, due to report to the government shortly.

The proposed Municipal and School Tax Credit Assistance Act will supersede special legislation recently granted Hamilton, Amherstburg and Barrington under which senior citizens are being given tax credits of up to $100.

Terms of the government bill will permit municipalities to pass bylaws allowing persons 65 and over to claim deferments of one-half their yearly property taxes up to the $150 limit.

The municipalities will be reimbursed for the credits by the province, which will take a lien on the properties involved.

Mr. Spooner said outside the house that the lien will have priority after first mortgages.

The minister said the private bills being superseded provide for tax relief to older citizens "at the expense of other ratepayers" and that they amount to subsidization of the present owners' heirs.

He said the act will come into force immediately and could apply to 1967 tax levies.

The minister said he was unable to estimate the cost of the scheme to the provincial treasury. However, all the money would eventually be repaid.

Unlike the earlier private bills, the government bill does not provide a means-test qualification for the deferment. Mr. Spooner said an elderly municipalities would be able to get the interest-free loan "if he had enough gall."

Outside the house, Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said "the government is not solving the problem; it is merely transferring it to the next generation because the payments become a lien against the property.

"The only real solution is for the province to assume 80 per cent of the total costs of education over a four- or five-year period," Mr. Nixon said.

In other legislature business:

—Mr. Spooner also introduced changes in the Planning Act aimed at speeding land servicing and aiding urban renewal programs. He said a key provision will prevent the use of "sham conveyances" designed to frustrate housing-standards bylaws.

The minister said the bill's general purpose is to "try to get away from some of the evils" holding up land development.

—A bill introduced by Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton will allow governments savings offices to raise interest paid on deposits in line with increasing rates being offered by chartered banks. It removes a four-per-cent ceiling on interest to be paid on deposits.

—Premier John Robarts said he will appoint a legislature select committee to study Canada's divorce laws with a view to making a submission to a federal parliamentary committee now investigating the subject.

—A private member's bill that would have made it impossible for the government to dismiss a coroner without first holding an inquiry was talked out of the house.

The bill was introduced by James Renwick — NDP Toronto Riverdale—who objected to the recent "unwarranted" dismissal of Dr. Morton Shulman as chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto.

Belleville Not Participant In Talk About Store Hours

KITCHENER (CP)—About 40 Ontario municipalities have for a year been discussing plans for uniform store hours and holiday closings, it was learned Tuesday.

The discussions follow an initiative from the city of Hamilton.

The discussions were revealed when Kitchener retail store owners Tuesday night submitted to city council a petition asking for a bylaw covering uniform hours of closing for business days and holidays. M. W. Turner, secretary of the Waterloo, Ont., Chamber of Commerce, said the submission was "a bit premature."

The Ontario retailers want enforceable bylaws to regulate hours of business. Many municipalities have bylaws, but there has been difficulty in enforcing them in the past.

Mr. Turner said the discussions are not part of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce program, but individual chambers have been acting as secretariats for retailer committees.

In Belleville, Stan Albert, chairman of the Downtown Merchants' Association, said his organization had not been a party to the discussions for uniform store hours throughout the province.

He said he expected the discussions were mostly in Western Ontario where many small store owners had been hard hit by plaza operation where stores remained opened at night.

In Belleville there is a fairly rigid bylaw patterned after the Hamilton store closing bylaw.

However, Mr. Albert said in some centres there are no bylaws governing store hours.

First Massed Band Concert Proves to Be Major Success

By STANLEY C. WIGGINS

The first massed band concert of the four Belleville High Schools combined bands was a fine display of the instrumental prowess of our many junior musical citizens. From the opening strains of Howard Cable's Marchmania to the final cymbal crash and the trifling of twenty-seven clarinets in the closing section of Gordon Jenkins' Manhattan Tower, the bands pressed onward with full approval of a packed auditorium of band loving enthusiasts.

A few weak spots were evident, caused partially by an unwieldy seating arrangement which had most of the trumpets and trombones hidden behind music stands. However, conditions such as this will not be prevented when 100 musicians are asked to perform, all at one time, on the stage of Belleville's largest theatre for the performing arts — good old faithful Capitol auditorium, a bit small for the occasion.

The bands obviously enjoy playing waltzes as their feeling for such melodious tunes as Leroy Anderson's Waltz of the Ball and Robert Farnon's Westminster Waltz were well performed and eagerly consumed by the audience.

The Negro spiritual medley entitled Deep River and The Occasional Waltz by Handel were easy to listen to, and I would expect as easy to play. However, for this listener they were equally uneventful and could have been replaced with something more interesting.

A very colorful theme entitled Oasis made one think he was travelling the hot sands of the desert with the descriptive mood-being created by skilful arranging which employed muted trumpets and staccato stamping to theme interpretations by Susan Chase on the alto saxophone and BCI teacher Lew Lambert on the oboe. This tune was the best performed of the entire concert and probably the best rehearsed. The heavier selections were well chosen and provided good body to the very interesting program.

Music from the ballet by Offenbach featured many dance themes, the most notable of which was the Can-Can. The percussion section provided great excitement with its use of the glockenspiel and xylophone to spark the rest of the band.

The popular themes from The Sound of Music by Richard Rodgers were played extremely well by the bands. Many varying tempos and modulations to such tunes as Edelweiss and Climb Every Mountain provided pleasant listening for all ears. At times the band intonation could have been better, but the overall interpretation and colorful dynamics were well executed.

The closing number Manhattan Tower featured a well played trumpet solo by Gary Chaplin and beautiful Latin American rythms by the percussion section. The French horns and euphoniums were also well accounted for in the tuneful counter melodies that are intertwined throughout this selection.

Mid-way through the concert the audience was graced with a charming but slightly grown-up Can-Can. The percussion section provided great excitement with its use of the glockenspiel and xylophone to spark the rest of the band.

Extraordinarily High Mortality Rate for New Shows This Year

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The 1966-67 television season now is history. Its record as its victors hailed. And it was, until the reruns started, a pretty tough time with an extraordinarily high mortality rate for new shows.

When the season started in September, 34 new series were bidding for attention in the evening schedules of the three major U.S. networks. By mid-season, 12 had been cancelled and replaced.

The early dropouts included some with illustrious show business names—Garry Moore, Hugh Hefner, Jack Benny, Lucille Ball, Jackie Gleason and Beverly Hillbillies, to mention a few. Not a single new show climbed into the season's top 10 list.

Two new ones, Family Affair and Rat Patrol, managed to get into the top 20, and two mid-season replacements, The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour and a new Dragnet series, also have done well.

SALARIED REPRESENTATIVES

CIA needs salaried sales representatives for marketing the world famous Encyclopedia. The successful candidate is particularly interested in assignments who are active in credit unions.

Because the salaried representative receives a lot of volunteer sales assistance from sponsoring credit unions, he is not interested in work that takes a considerable period of time and will receive most of his earnings in the form of salary in addition to salary, he receives generous company benefits including life insurance, group and individual life, convalescent, hospital and surgical-medical plans. The company pays moving costs to the home office for our field and other executives. Successful applicants will be married, well-educated, physically and mentally normal persons between the ages of 25 and 35 with some previous sales or management or equivalent education.

Korea President Wins by Landslide

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park was re-elected to a four-year term by a landslide today in the most orderly election since South Korea got its independence from Japan in 1945.

But his chief opponent quickly roused a cry of ballot-box stuffing on a huge scale.

With 80 per cent of the unofficial returns in, the 45-year-old candidate of the ruling Democratic Republican party had won with 3,501,031 votes. Former president Yun Po-sun of the New Democratic party had 4,218,028 votes and four splinter-group entries totalled about 200,000.

The size of his victory margin was a triumph for Park, who had defeated Yun in 1963 by only 150,000 votes.

In a victory statement, Park called on South Koreans regardless of party to get behind the government's program to "modernize the fatherland."

In an attempt to head off the usual post - election disputes, Shin Dong-hyun, spokesman for the government party, praised Yun for a magnificent campaign.

"Now that the election is over," Shin said, "we should bury past grudges and co-operate with each other in the future."

The overture was met with a blast from Yun's camp. A spokesman accused Park's party of election irregularities and said the opposition would "fight to the last" to expose them.

Yun's spokesman charged that about 15 per cent of the ballots had been rigged in favor of the ruling party.

Park's pro-American administration campaigned on its progress toward political and economic stability. Yun concentrated on charges of government corruption and called for the early withdrawal of South Korea's 45,000 troops from South Vietnam.

Relieved by his sweeping victory, Park is expected to press the ambitious program of economic advance embodied in a second five-year plan and to continue the country's active role in the Vietnam war.

It was the republic's sixth election since independence. A near-record 11,000,000 South Koreans turned out in sunny spring weather to cast their ballots at 17,862 polling places.

The campaign was in marked contrast to that of 1963 when, two years after a military coup put Park in power, police and anti - government demonstrators clashed repeatedly.

October, Not June, Now Likely Ontario Election Month

TORONTO (CP) — A month ago all signs pointed to Ontario having a general election this spring, and some opposition members of the legislature went so far as to predict the date—June 7.

Today, the same members are just as sure the election won't come until at least next fall.

The turning point came April 19, when Premier Robarts wound up a day's debate by asking the opposition to "stop trying to fight the election on the floor of the legislature."

The premier reminded the house that the current session had a lot of unfinished business before it, and he said his intention was to get it done.

The members opposite didn't believe what they heard, and one could hardly blame them.

After all, they reasoned, the government had appointed returning officers in all 117 ridings and many of them had already erected offices.

Opposition Leader Robert Nixon and NDP Leader Donald MacDonald agree that Mr. Robarts had been planning a June election but changed his mind in the middle of April.

They also agree that the change of mind was caused by hostile public reaction to the government's financial treatment of the municipalities and the dismissal of Dr. Morton Shulman as chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto.

The former had been anticipated by the premier, but he hoped to improve the government's image by announcing in the middle of the election campaign that a returned Conservative administration would implement recommendations of the Smith committee on taxation.

The committee's report, expected to recommend reforms of the tax system toward removing some of the burden of soaring property taxes, was to have been ready this month.

However, when the premier asked Committee Chairman Lancelot Smith recently for confirmation of the delivery date, the reply was that the report was still at least six to eight weeks away.

Even legislation introduced this week by Municipal Affairs Minister Wilfrid Spooner which will permit municipalities to grant tax deferments to elderly homeowners won't affect the majority of ratepayers and therefore probably won't carry much weight in the election campaign.

The current speculation is that Mr. Robarts is looking toward an October election in hopes that the September leadership convention for the national Conservative party will leave the provincial party united.

The Conservatives now hold 76 of the 108 legislature seats. Redistribution will add another nine ridings. The Liberals hold 21, the New Democrats eight and three are vacant.

Shulman Lists Eleven Cases of Interference

Names Given Counsel

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Morton Shulman, dismissed as chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto after a fight with his provincial government superiors, has listed 11 cases where, he says, there was interference or suppression of inquests.

Dr. Shulman gave the list Thursday at hearings of the royal commission named to investigate his allegations about interference and suppression.

Although the list of cases went on the record before the commissioner, Mr. Justice W. D. Parker of the Ontario Supreme Court, the names of those against whom Dr. Shulman is making allegations were not disclosed.

Instead, he wrote the names down for commission counsel Charles Dubin.

Among the cases listed was that of Barbara Moore, 3, who died in Pembroke hospital Oct. 19, 1961, after what has been described as too-vigorous application of oxygen to a nurse.

Also listed is the case of a woman killed in an accident Dec. 4, 1966, involving Donald MacDonald, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party.

Dr. Shulman told the hearings earlier that he understood the files on the Moore case had disappeared from the Pembroke hospital.

The commission Thursday also received a statement made before her death by Margaret Power, Toronto woman who died of cancer in 1962. In it, she described being treated with health foods and electrical machines by a Dr. X for cancer of the breast.

William B. Common, a former deputy attorney - general who appeared as a witness, said he rejected a proposal by the College of Physicians and Surgeons for an inquest into the death.

Evidence showed that Dr. Shulman personally filed a charge of malpractice against Dr. X and his name was stricken from the rolls of the profession.

Dr. Shulman also discussed the case of a Dr. Y, who he said is still practising although he was also charged by the coroner with malpractice.

In this case, the death of Elizabeth George Aug. 12, 1963, Mr. Common said he had advised the coroner's office not to attempt to proceed with an inquest. The inquest opened, but was prevented from continuing when Dr. Y's lawyer appealed to the Supreme Court.

Paul Whitehouse, a teacher included among 11 adults accompanying the children, said the Burmese pavilion was a hit with the youngsters—and Australia, with its array of "talking chairs."

The chairs are equipped with speakers which relay to their occupants taped commentaries on displays exhibits included in the box-shaped Down Under pavilion.

Food prices, lineups at transportation systems on the crowded Expo site and an apparent lack of signs pointing to washrooms were other complaints from fair-goers as they streamed out of overseas trains en route from the site.

Oklahoma OKs Controversial Bill

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Oklahoma state house of representatives has approved and sent to Governor Dewey Bartlett a bill to legalize artificial insemination of humans and declare children of such conception legitimate.

Final approval of the measure which opponents tagged immoral came Thursday as the house accepted some senate amendments with little discussion. Both bodies had passed the bill earlier.

Bartlett, who hasn't expressed an opinion on the matter, could make Oklahoma the first state with a law on human artificial insemination by signing the bill.

The measure provides that artificial insemination may be practised in the state by a medical doctor. Offspring resulting from the procedure would be considered under the law as having the same rights as a legitimate child conceived naturally.

During the original debate on the measure, Representative J. D. Wiki, a Democrat, warned that passage of the bill could lead to Oklahoma becoming the Sweden of the United States."

Other house opponents charged it was "an immoral" proposal that would "put human beings at the same level as four-legged animals" and "won't make for good relations between husbands and wives."

Representative George Camp, a Republican, has received communications from all over the United States concerning his efforts to pass such a bill.

One letter came from a 21-year-old woman in the Maritime eastern U.S. who is expecting her first child in June. The child was conceived by artificial insemination after 3½ years of failure to have a child by natural methods.

"These last six months have been the happiest of my husband's and my lives," the woman wrote. "My husband is our baby's father.

"Father is more than genes and chromosomes, so much more."

Wilson Loses In Latest Poll

LONDON (Reuters)—The Gallup poll today reported that Prime Minister Wilson's popularity with British voters is at its lowest recorded ebb.

The poll published by the Conservative Daily Telegraph showed 42 per cent approved of Wilson as prime minister—a 10-per-cent drop. His ruling Labor party lost heavily in county council elections last month. Forty-five per cent disapproved.

Potato Truck Threat Wins Subsidy Agreement

FREDERICTON (CP)—Trucks loaded with potatoes lined more than a mile of the Trans-Canada Highway in western New Brunswick early today, but farmers were expected to remove them following announcement of a federal-provincial subsidy for surplus potatoes.

Provincial Agriculture Minister J. Adrien Levesque said negotiations with federal authorities had produced an agreement whereby the province would buy surplus potatoes from the farmers for $1.25 a barrel, 82 cents of which would come from Ottawa.

About 200 farmers had parked their trucks along both sides of the highway above Grand Falls, 130 miles north of here, early Thursday and threatened to block traffic by dumping their potatoes unless their demands for aid were met.

Then Kavanaugh of Grand Falls said following Mr. Levesque's announcement the demonstration would be cancelled.

However, farmers left their trucks on the highway during the night and reports from the area said many greeted the announcement with suspicion.

"Our group had 23 per cent fewer LSD users!"

Court Edict Mistake: Truscott

KINGSTON (CP) — "The Supreme Court made a mistake" —that was Steven Truscott's reaction Thursday when he heard that the court had upheld his conviction as the murderer of Lynne Harper.

The words were spoken softly and without outward emotion to Rev. Malcolm Steinberg, Protestant chaplain at nearby Collin's Bay penitentiary.

"Steven and his family had expected different news," Mr. Steinberg said in an interview later. "But the way he took it was typically Steven — he was disappointed of course, unnerved by the hours of waiting, but he took it in very good shape."

TORONTO (CP)—Leslie Harper, father of the 12 - year-old girl murdered by Steven Truscott, says the Supreme Court of Canada decision on the Truscott case is "purely anti-climactic."

Mr. Harper said he doesn't think his daughter's killer should hang.

"I couldn't care less about Truscott. They could let him out tomorrow."

"When you go through eight years of sleepless nights, of nightmares, and when you've faced with the ghostly voice of a little girl asking: 'What did I do wrong, daddy?' You want to forget it all as best you can."

Soviet Pavilion Rates High With Expo Visitors

Expo Box Score

EXPO TODAY

Thursday's attendance — 198,290 at midnight EDT.

Total attendance — 2,046,969.

Saturday's Highlights

11 a.m. — Mexican pavilion officially opens.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Soviet pavilion at Expo 67 seems to be grabbing top place in the estimation of many visitors to the big fair, including some from the United States.

"Our lovely glass dome makes a wonderful frame," said a man from Springfield, Mass., Thursday night, "but there's nothing in it."

The Soviet showhouse, packed as it is with technological exhibits, is "way out ahead," said the visitor.

But Mr. and Mrs. John Elouza of Newark, N.J., picked the United States pavilion as their favorite.

They found Montreal itself "... just as wild as New York."

Donald Battrick of Hamilton, Ont., who praised Quebecers who had been "very cool" to his family, said his only complaint is the rent charged at the park where he has set up a trailer home for the duration of his family's Expo holiday.

The rate was $6.50 a night, higher than that quoted him in answers to his requests for information.

A group of 35 children from Trafalgar Public School in London, Ont., was alive with delighted whoops as a day at Expo drew to an end.

Hydro Officer Gives Advice

Engineers Hear Guest Speaker

"The modern executive must bring himself to a halt and review his personal and business life if he is to lead a happy, and fruitful existence." This was the advice given by Dr. F. G. Gross, Director of Medical Services for Ontario Hydro, when he addressed more than 100 members and wives attending the annual meeting of the Quinte Chapter, Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, at the Hotel Quinte last evening.

In an hour long speech Dr. Grant told members that stress and tension in executive positions as well as in the home, are causing "Mental Microbes" in modern managers. "The concept of the modern executive is a man accompanying the accused was carrying a pole similar to a fishing rod at the time the spear found near the river."

Magistrate Wills dismissed the charge for lack of evidence, and the quick decision took the accused by surprise.:

"May I say something, please," queried Mr. Belanger.

"Not unless you want to put me you did it," retorted the magistrate as court officials compassized to Mr. Belanger the case was over and he could leave court.

Spear Charge Dismissed

A Belleville man was freed from a charge of illegal possession of a fish spear without having to speak in his defence before Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning.

The charge, against Maurice Belanger, dated to April 30 — the height of the pickerel run in the Moira River — when he was stopped by patrolling game wardens.

Lands and Forests conservation officer, Jim Moore, told of seeing two men — one wearing chest waders and carrying a five - pronged spear — while scanning the river bank through glasses. However, he could not identify the men at that distance.

When he arrived on the spot with another game warden he found Mr. Belanger wearing the waders, but without a spear.

He found the spear on the river bank about 75 yards away.

The game warden told the court the spear had a detachable head and a usual practice was to carry the prongs concealed in a pocket or boot top.

The second officer, Patrick Hogan, said he had seen Mr. Belanger and a companion about 90 minutes earlier. The Water Supply Causes Concern

ŒE L. Burnham, Manager of the Belleville Utilities Commission, fears that there are problems ahead concerning Belleville's water supply.

The commission hopes in institute a system wherein water will be piped to the city from Lake Ontario, but the process of building it will probably not take four or five years.

"The water treatment plant is already loaded to capacity," says Mr. Burnham. "What do we do in the meantime?"

There are at least two solutions but both are expensive. "We could buy land and add to the plant. This would be a million dollar project."

However, Mr. Burnham feels that the expense of the addition to the plant would be saved if, in five years, Belleville did receive water from Lake Ontario.

The other solution is the building of outdoor filtering systems. The microstreamer extension would also be very expensive.

Faced with a dilemma, Mr. Burnham is sure of one thing. "We can't let the quality of Belleville's water drop."

Out-of-control Fire Leaves Family Homeless

Five Hillier residents were left homeless last night when fire destroyed their 1½ storey frame house. The dwelling, owned by Alvman Terry Hallet, had recently been renovated. Damage is estimated at more than $5,000.

The fire apparently started in a hog barn about six o'clock and quickly spread to the nearby house. The Wellington Fire Department was called but the blaze was out of control by the time they arrived on the scene.

Mr. Hallet had expected to leave the air force in about two weeks time to take up residence on the farm.

Living in the house at the time of the blaze were Mr. Hallet, his wife and three children. The family are living with neighbors at the present time.

Everything was lost in the fire and it is not known whether the house or belongings were insured.

Expo Train Requires Added Units

The new Expo-liner service started this week by CN between Belleville and Montreal has exceeded all expectations in the number of passengers being carried.

Kenneth Fleming, CN passenger sales manager for the Rideau Area said that more than 300 persons used the service on Wednesday.

The service was started with three diesel units making up the train but the demand has been so heavy that as of today two additional units will be added to the train.

Mr. Fleming said the five units will have accommodation for more than 400 passengers and should handle all requirements.

Private Park Popular With Campers

Lavallee Tent and Trailer Park offers many "extras" in camping facilities while a survey found its private or government camping area - yet this deluxe camping spot no more than half of its popularity was evident last year when on a holiday weekend 2000 people took advantage of the camp's many facilities.

Located on beautiful Lavallee Lake, the area spreads over 2,000 acres and it includes several smaller lakes. Here one can enjoy relaxed, informal camp life at its best with picnic tables, free fire wood, a safe sand beach, good fishing with bait and boats available, clean flush toilets, water and electrical connections for trailers.

Most camp areas have all of this, but few can boast of such extras as: A resident physician, a complete automatic laundry, an excellent 9 hole par 3 golf course . . . in fact something for everyone, young and old, with regular movies and picturesque nature trails through the woods. The convenient store is well-stocked with groceries and sundries - eliminating troublesome trips to town.

This year further improvements have been made. Included is a diving tower, convenient boat launching facilities and even Sauna steam baths and hot showers. For "trailer travellers" there is now a free trailer sewage disposal dump.

Lavallee Park is 68 miles from Belleville on the lower Far-day Road and is only 11 miles from Bancroft. (It is now listed on all new road maps). We can have a free brochure - or make a campsite reservation - by writing to Marion Scott, Faraday Post Office.

$2,253 Raised By Rotary in Seal Campaign

TRENTON — Rotarian Ralph Hotson reported to the members of the Trenton club this week that $2,253 had been realized in this year's Easter Seal campaign.

Mr. Hotson said an elderly lady had given him seven sprays in lieu of a donation. Slightly nonplused, Mr. Hotson rallied and sold the sprays to members of his staff at the Bank of Montreal.

Commenting in the Rotary bulletin, Jack Goldberg says: "It's little things like sprays, Easter Seals and little old ladies that restore your faith in human nature."

218 Future Students for Sept. Classes

During three days' kindergarten registration this week, 218 future students were booked for September classes in Trenton.

This is comparable with last year's early registration figures, as official at the board of education office said today. Other students will be registered in September, if the pattern of other years is followed.

Principals were reached for Trenton students, and those from outside the town will not be accepted. The separate schools are starting their own kindergarden classes this year.

Costs Queried on Larger School Area By City and Surrounding Townships

County and municipal officials in the Belleville area were told yesterday of the education-al advantages of larger areas of school administration but the councils from the city of Belleville and the township of Ameliasburg will want cost estimates before consideration is given to granting approval for the joining of Stirling-Rawdon and Centre Hastings High School Districts to the Bay of Quinte High School District

These figures will be provided May 19 at a meeting being called by the Quinte high school board at be Centennial Secondary School.

Attending the meeting will be a financial grants expert from the Ontario Department of Education who will explain the monetary implications involved in the suggested larger high school district.

About a month ago Hastings county council voted to attach the Stirling-Rawdon and Centre Hastings High School Districts to the Bay of Quinte District, but the move has yet to be approved by the city of Belleville and the township of Ameliasburg.

Four other member municipalities in the Quinte high school area — Sidney, Thurlow, Tyendinaga and the village of Frankford — have already voiced objection to the move and want the Quinte district high school board left as it is.

Yesterday at an information meeting called by Mayor Jack Ellis and County Warden William Shannon, the chairman of the Quinte district board, Grant Kerr, said the county action in passing a bylaw to join the two centre Hastings high school districts to the Quinte district had come as a shock.

And another official, school superintendent E. A. Orr, suggested that while he was not opposed to larger areas the opinion of the Quinte High School District officials should have been asked before the action was taken.

Yesterday R. W. Frost, superintendent of high schools for district 6, taking in from Trenton to Cornwall, told the meeting that the proposed amalgamated high school area with an enrolment of approximately 5,000 students would allow educational refinements without extra cost.

He said an enrolment of this size would allow a separate building for slow learners, the provision of psychological and other shared services such as attendance counsellors, co-ordinated libraries and overall guidance co-ordination.

It would also allow master teachers to co-ordinate subject teaching throughout the area and also more advanced visual aid teaching.

Mr. Frosta also visualized much greater use of television as a teaching aid, and said a larger school area would allow a central TV receiving area with cable or microwave transmission to individual schools.

He predicted the Quinte district board would have all these things within five years but the larger enrolment would allow them more quickly and more economically.

Mr. W. Woods, assistant superintendent of the Department of Education supervisory branch, said it was often asked why the department did not enforce larger areas of school administration.

However, Mr. Woods said, the feeling of the department was that municipalities should be allowed to make their own decisions.

He said that if the decisions were hammered out at the local level the people would go on from there.

Mayor Jack Ellis asked why Stirling-Rawdon and Centre Hastings were being joined to the Quinte high school area when either Prince Edward or Trenton would seem to be the more logical choice from a geographical standpoint.

The answer was that the two centre Hastings boards had asked to be joined with the Quinte district. So far there had been no request from either Picton or Trenton.

Mr. Orr said the mayor's question had merit. He said the question boiled down to whether the amalgamation should be done piecemeal.

Warden William Shannon said the county didn't want to force any municipality into the larger school area if it was going to cost more money.

However, the county had been assured this would not be the case for the same level of education as grants would be increased.

He said he was surprised that some municipalities were resisting.

Mayor Ellis said he would support the larger area "if it does not cost us a lot of money" but suggested that full projection of costs was needed, both for the same level of education and for any increased facilities.

Ameliasburg Township Reeve George Cunningham took the same attitude. The cost in dollars will be the governing factor, he said.

Mr. Orr said it appeared that if the amalgamation was approved it would set ahead two years the date when more high school accommodation would be needed at Belleville.

When the Centennial school was built he said the board had estimated the additional accommodation would not be required until 1969 or 1970. However, if the amalgamation went ahead, plans for more classrooms space would have to go ahead almost immediately.

Macdonald Smith, chairman of the Belleville public school board, said the board fully approved of the idea of larger areas of school administration.

Personally, he said, he would like to see the ultimate step of fully integrated schools as well as amalgamation. He hoped the step being taken now did not prolong this ultimate step.

Erie Technological Products Announce Plant Expansion

TRENTON — Officials of Erie Technological Products of Canada Ltd. in Trenton have announced an expansion of their modern Fraser Drive plant facilities.

Vice-president and general manager, George Kemp, says the move will almost certainly mean an increased payroll for Trenton's Erie plant within the next year.

To be constructed at a total cost of $130,000, the 10,000 square-foot addition to the existing plant's east side will increase Erie's floor area to some 53,000 square feet. Construction on the single-storey concrete block building will be undertaken immediately by Miron-Wiggers Contractors of Trenton, with a tentative completion date set for September.

Mr. Kelpsf said the expansion is mainly intended to cope with increased need for more service area in the plant. The new area will accommodate environmental and production engineering laboratories, the plant quality assurance division, an electronic maintenance department, an updated machine shop, and larger cafeteria facilities.

Involved in the production of electronic systems for military, space and communication fields since 1964, Erie's Trenton plant is the only Canadian subsidiary of a parent U.S. firm, which also has three branches in the United Kingdom.

"Roughly 80 per cent of Erie's Trenton output is exported internationally, with about two-thirds of this going to the United States," says Mr. Kempf. "Business is good, mainly because we're not dependent on the radio and television field. And we're looking for a 30 per cent annual growth factor."

Mr. Kempf estimated the addition would mean an extra three or four thousand dollars tax revenue for Trenton. The Public Utilities Commission also get their share of the Erie pie. Mr. Kempf noted the plant annual hydro bill of around $18,000 is only matched by telephone expense.

Belleville Budget Day Still Two Weeks Away

Budget Day in Belleville is still at least two weeks away, Mayor J. R. Ellis said today thus the budget draft has been completed and that better than half of the typing is done. There is still some question, however, whether the budget will be ready for distribution to council members at the next council meeting on Monday.

Whether or not the typing is completed there is no thought of discussing the budget on Monday's meeting. This will be done at a special budget meeting.

Also the auditor's report is not expected until May 15th and this has to be received to confirm last year's surplus before the millrate can be set.

What's the 1967 tax rate look like?

Mayor Ellis says that education and other costs are up and almost there will be an increase in the millrate.

"But we are trying to keep it as modest as possible," he said.

Export Picture

Higher production . . . exports. These remain the twin pillars of a nation's economy. Canada knows it. So does Britain as it seeks once again to become a member of the European Common Market with the advantages it offers of geographic proximity, market availability and fiscal stability.

Canada currently ranks seventh in world trade. In 1965 this country exported commodities worth $8,765,000,000.

A year earlier, in 1964, our foreign trade, among nations termed by the Economic Council of Canada as being in the category of the "smaller, open economies," as distinct from the "larger, relatively closed economies" (which include Britain, West Germany, United States, France, Italy and Japan) amounted to 23 per cent of the Gross National Product.

This 23 per cent was at the bottom of the list among the smaller open economies, the others being the Netherlands, 47 per cent, Norway 42, Belgium 37, Denmark 31, Sweden and Austria, 26 each.

In the export field, Canada still relies heavily on its natural resources, as illustrated by the Economic Council's 1965 statistics.

Wheat exports totalled $906 million, while other farm and fish products realized $829 million. Newsprint swelled the nation's coffers by $870 million. At the head of the list were chemicals, fertilizers and manufactured goods to a total value of $2,243 million.

The goal of course is to increase exports still further. As the Economic Council put it in its third annual review at the end of last year: "this is not simple in an open economy, but there are valuable compensations.

"In the field of manufactured goods especially, where world prices do not gyrate as they do in many primary commodity markets, the pressure of foreign competition is perhaps the greatest single long-run force working in favor of reasonable stability in the general Canadian price level."

On the subject of price levels, the Council notes that when the index of export prices increases, it sometimes provokes comments on the dangers of Canada pricing itself out of world markets.

"Often, however, it transpires that much of the rise in the index is accounted for by world-wide increases in the prices of commodities such as base metals of which Canada happens to be a major exporter.

"From the standpoint of the Canadian balance of payments," the Council report points out, "this is good news, not bad."

Colorful Canada

Who says Canada is dull, or that Canadians are dull? Certainly not when we see what is going on in Montreal right now — at Expo. And on a smaller scale in Belleville and other communities across Canada.

There was a lively scene in Hamilton, for example, last week, on the occasion of the opening of a fund-raising campaign to build the new Hamilton Civic Theatre-Auditorium. There was music and dancing, and The Hamilton Spectator, marked the event with a front-page picture of bandsmen and attractively-garbed youngsters from Irish, Ukrainian and Japanese groups in the city.

Where else but in Canada will one find people of so many backgrounds? The United States maybe — but in Canada there is probably more devotion to the preservation of ethnic traditions than anywhere else. One sees it on such occasions as the Blossom Festival in the Niagara peninsula region when there is ethnic dancing and music.

These are the kind of activities that make Canada not only an important industrial nation, with more promise and potential growth and prosperity than most, but one where there is warmth and color, fun and laughter — if you just know where to find it.

Militarism

Military parades are not the sort of occasions one expects to see smiling faces, even in peace time, but the spectators at the tantalizing-touting cadets of the East Berlin officer school pictured in the recent May Day parade in the Communist sector of the city were a grimmer looking lot than most.

They look like so many automotons, these sombre-faced young products of the Communist world in a divided Germany. Yet there is little to distinguish them from the men who blitzed their way through Europe in Hitler's day.

Hitler is long since gone, but the legacy he left the world is a bitter one. Not least of the misfortunes he inflicted upon post-war Europe is the division of Germany into two rival camps, and Berlin itself a four-power administered enclave inside Communist territory.

The Germans of course got what they deserved. Better this perhaps than that united, they should once again threaten the security of Europe. At the same time it makes for a continuing fragmentation of Europe, a continuing evil, were it not for the domination of the rival power blocs, might be of more effective service to the world than it is today.

Computers For Farms?

Chattanooga Post, Tenn.

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman recently recounted some predictions, not necessarily his, of what the farm of 2000 will be like. The farmer, he said, may sit in an air-conditioned office, "scanning a printout from a computer centre." It will tell how many acres to plant to what crop, what kinds of seeds to sow, what fertilizer to use, what day to harvest. All field work will be carried out by automated machinery . . . and supervised by television.

It may be true. But it surely doesn't sound like the farming many of us knew, done in the sogginess of the spring or the heat of the summer, behind an weary mule . . . Will it work? Who can guess? Anyway, you can coax a machine and maybe even kick its tire without being kicked back.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 5, 1967 . . .

France allied herself with the rebellious American colonies against Britain 189 years ago today—in 1778—and the future independence of the United States was assured. With the French navy and arms factories, the Americans could defy British land and sea power and felt free to turn down peace offers from London. The war ended in 1781, when Lord Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown after being surrounded by land and sea.

1825 — The Scopes trial began at Dayton, Tenn.

1936—Italy proclaimed the conquest of Ethiopia.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1917 — Soviet members of the Russian Parliament voted confidence in the provisional government; the French advanced on a 20-mile front capturing the crest of Craonne Ridge.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1942—British naval and military forces invaded Madagascar near the Vichy port of Diego Suarez; Japanese troops drove the Burma Road to invade Yunnan province, China; three pro-Axis rebels were sentenced to death by a court-martial in Iraq.

Tire Wear Hazardous

Chicago Sun-Times

The Sunday Times of London held a competition recently for new ideas in auto safety. The competition was limited to those 23 years old or younger. It was won by 17 - year - old Paul H. Hillmore, of Yorkshire.

His winning idea (which earned him a prize of $140) was to incorporate a layer of red rubber or fabric into the tread of an auto tire so it would show when the tire reached a point in tread wear that indicated replacement was necessary for safety's sake.

The suggestion appears to be an excellent one and worthy consideration by auto tire manufacturers. It would let the motorist know when the tires were nearing the unsafe point — a judgment that should contribute to highway safety.

Expensive Causeway

Hamilton Spectator

A projected causeway from New Brunswick to Prince Edward Island, linking the two provinces with a highway-rail-way connection, was put forward before the last federal campaign. It was originally estimated that it would cost around $150,000,000; now, with the first bids in, it is estimated it will go up to $320,000,000, which would mean an expenditure of around $3,000 for every man, woman and child in the island province.

Canada And Freedom of the Press

Windsor Star

Canada is in disrepute by reason of the federal legislation of 1965 which interferes with the freedom of the press. This law effectively prohibits foreign ownership of Canadian newspapers.

The freedom of the press, as all other freedoms, is indivisible. To be complete it must not be impaired by national boundaries or by the nationality of an individual.

People are not free to read opinions, or even information, originating in other countries or expressed by people of other nationalities if frontiers are taxed for restrictive purposes.

The Commonwealth Press Union, meeting in London, Eng., takes a very sad view of the Canadian legislation and of a similar law in New Zealand. The Union maintains this law is discriminatory, and it is very obviously that.

Its attitude is stated clearly: "In founding and enjoying the greatest freedom of the press, the law will encourage the publication and circulation of newspapers and periodicals, without regard to nationality, race, politics or religion on the right to publish, edit or write in them."

This isn't the only international organization to give Canada a black eye on this issue. The Inter-American Press Association, meeting in Jamaica, on April 1 urged Canada to repeal the legislation. It named Canada, Brazil and Nicaragua as having laws restricting freedom of the press. Canada can take no pride in being associated with these two countries operating, in effect, dictatorships.

Canada may think the freedom of the press is of concern only to newspapers. That is to take a very shallow view. Newspapers, in this sense, are only the custodians of the freedom of the people.

The Commonwealth Press Union in 1965 stated this principle succinctly:

"The freedom of the press is not a special privilege of newspapers but derives from the fundamental right of every person to have full and free access to the facts . . . and his corresponding right to express and publish his opinions and to hear and read the opinions of others."

Political Immorality

Globe and Mail

Mr. Monsarrat, seem to be able to get away with anything, particularly at the local level. The political patronage of French Canada he regards as part of a national scheme — the philosophy of 'anything for a buck' which infects business and political alike."

We find that George Brown, founder of The Globe, beat Mr Monsarrat to the punch by some 119 years. Writing two years after his arrival in Canada, he found the country to be thoroughly debauched politically. "In no country has a more unprincipled or more extensive use of bribery and corruption been made than in Canada," he wrote.

Naughty old unrepentant Canada. Will you never mend your ways?

U.S. Gets Tips From Expo

The Providence (Rhode Island) Journal

The American Revolution Bicentennial Commission in off to a considerably early start. With nine years to prepare for the big event, the commission has set up organizational machinery the other day in Washington.

The commission is fortunate in having the base at hand in excellent example of how such an important undertaking should be planned and conducted. Our good neighbor, Canada, is celebrating its centennial this year with a flair that commands attention . . .

Montreal's Expo, opening in late April, is the highlight of the Canadian Centennial and the most conspicuous event so far as foreigners are concerned. But the Canadians also have planned a host of other activities in cities, towns and villages from Halifax to Vancouver. One particularly impressive feature of the Canadian program is that it is designed to leave a lasting mark on the Canadian scene. In addition to organizational events to mark their anniversary, the Canadians are erecting a host of things that will last many cities. The federal, provincial and municipal governments are pouring tens of millions of dollars into such centres and other public buildings which will provide enduring monuments to the first 100 years of Canadian history.

To celebrate 200 years of American history, we could do worse than take some tips from the Canadians.

The House Number Syndrome

Winnipeg Tribune

Approximately every decade, until the advent of Metro, Winnipeg city council would debate the how, when and why of house numbering. Sometimes the debate ended with the passage of a bylaw which was largely unenforceable. The last time this was done was in June 1953.

Metro has now inherited the house number syndrome. Having cluttered the streets with unnecessary traffic signs, it now proposes to force householders to put numbers on the fronts of their houses, as well as the front.

Book Collectors' Dilemma

Christian Science Monitor

Most city folk have opinions on how to solve a myriad of problems. But we see no indication that anyone has an idea on how to solve the apartment dweller's book problem.

And it is becoming serious. On the one hand you have book sales soaring and a rocketing population explosion in the home bookshelves. On the other hand you have apartments getting to more modern but smaller apartments with less space for the bookshelves and knacks. Something will have to give.

The logical solution is for people to cull their personal libraries volumes they don't expect to read again or to use for reference. But how many people dispose of clothes that have gone out of style. Or to give to the Salvation Army or Goodwill one's discarded furniture and bric-a-brac.

But books? It is only with the greatest self-discipline that any book lover pulls even a useless volume from his secure place on the shelf to relegate it into the discard. When he does, he may feel he has been unkind to an old friend and cast it back.

All book collectors with whom we have spoken on this subject admit they find it hard to do any book-shelf weeding. Most say they "I bet give the book more room and take less for myself." Another: "I don't keep books with any monetary value, the rest of my library, well, it's the history of my times and of myself. Every book has some value."

The only solution seems to be that each family, through good cause a person will part with a few publications. The only trouble is that the door may be tempted to look in on the sale. If he does he is sure to leave home with purchases that fit the gaps left by the books he gave away.

That shows how tough the problem is. We hope for an answer.

Expo Critics Hit Hard

Montreal Gazette

One of the sidelights of the opening of Expo and all the world-wide attention focused on Canada and Canadians was the critical comments of some reporters, particularly in British papers.

Expatriate Canadians, former Canadian residents and some people who have never been here, all offered their comments. ". . . too complacent with their good fortune to be truly civilized . . ." was one. Another was that there is a national sickness in Canada, the philosophy of "anything for a buck." Still another that Canada was a place without history, filled with "places where nothing of the slightest interest has ever happened."

The critical comments are forgiven enough, and not a little refreshing, perhaps. At least, there is something suspicious about too much praise.

It's a pretty dull place that does not provoke some controversy!

Firearm Menace In States

Chicago Daily News

An 18-year-old boy stands accused of terrorizing a class of students with a carbine he had converted into an automatic rifle. As critics point out there is no sure way to guarantee that firearms will not be misused. But to argue against gun control on such grounds is to contend that nothing is better than something. Laws against murder have not always prevented murder but that is not an argument for repealing such laws. Since the accused boy ordered his weapon from out of state, it would take a federal law to prevent such a purchase. Just such a law, which would end interstate shipment of firearms to individuals, is now pending in Congress.

Greek Parallel

Truman Doctrine Led to U. S. Involvement in Asia

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The successful Greek coup last week by right-wing army colonels has surprised, disturbed and somewhat embarrassed American foreign-policy makers.

There are fears of troubles to come for both Greece and the U.S.

These include the possibility of left-wing Greek forces raising strength under the prodding of elements in the outlawed Communist party.

There may arise strains within NATO and perhaps a revival of the Turkish Greek tensions over Cyprus, which the U.S. barely managed to dampen in 1964 with some hectic diplomacy.

So far, the U.S. has indicated a determination to move cautiously because that seems the only course open at present.

"It is the crudest of ironies that the Truman doctrine—bedrock of our involvement in Vietnam and of all our postwar foreign policy—should have its rebirth in Greece," observes the Washington Post.

The Truman doctrine of former president Truman was involved in postwar Greece for the first time to beat back a Communist power threat. It has been invoked consistently by supporters of the U.S. role in Vietnam as a reason for being there.

The Post says it would not take much stretching of that doctrine to justify landing marines in Athens to support free people who are resisting attempted subjugation by armed minorities."

But it has never been used against non-Communist forces and "the Post says it shouldn't be brief again in Greece because "our influence and aid could not touch a people in jail with one voice on their rights, or teach their politicians not to fritter away their constitutional freedom by endless squabbling or to divert a free family from meddling in politics or restrain a ruthless gang of army officers from resorting to strong-armed methods if they hurt to rule."

That most recent coup, the Greek people themselves, says the newspaper.

In short, the U.S. apparently intends to put its faith in young

This is the Skyline Hotel, part of Ottawa's Place de Ville, a $30,000,000 hotel-office-complex under construction on a downtown block. To get it built, dynamic construction man Robert Campeau had to get the ceiling on the height of buildings pushed up to 250 feet. The city had adhered to a 150-foot ceiling in the downtown area to protect the view of the Parliament buildings. The Peace Tower is 291 feet high. (CP Photo)

New Rubber Is Resistant To Heat, Age, Weather

MONTREAL (CP) — A new type of rubber has been developed that is resistant to heat, age and weather.

The new rubber was discussed at a joint conference of the Chemical Institute of Canada and the American Chemical Society. The conference was attended by about 1,200 rubber chemists at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

Possible areas of application for the rubber are in tires, vacuum cleaners, refrigerators, garden hoses, electric wiring and cable.

Martin E. Samuels of the United States Copolymer Rubber and Chemical Corp., said the chief advantage of the new rubber over natural rubber and other multi - purpose synthetic rubbers is its ability to withstand deterioration and cracking from heat and aging.

It is also more easily vulcanized than similar synthetic rubbers, he said. Vulcanization is a process used to improve the physical properties of rubber.

Many synthetic rubbers were formerly used only for special purposes such as electrical insulation in a car. The new general-purpose rubber, under the trade name Epsyn, could find its way into anything from clothwashers to shoes.

"Usually chemicals are added to rubber to protect it from de-ter-ioration," said Mr. Samuels.

"But they are rather expensive and the best ones discolor the rubber. Rubber products can also be made from special synthetics designed to resist degradation and cracking, but they too are quite expensive."

He said that because the inborn resistance of the new type of rubber increases its life span, it could be cheaper for the consumer in the long run. It also will be cheaper than the special-purpose rubbers because fillers such as carbon black and oil to rubber to protect it from de-can be added.

New Bank Of BC Will Open Next Week

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Bank of British Columbia will be launched officially next week with a healthy chunk of cash, a public campaign to raise more and a challenge to the established banks.

The bank, the 10th federally-chartered institution, will name-its permanent board of directors Monday and unveil plans to start business in the fall.

The B.C. bank, subject of a sometimes bitter federal - provincial quarrel between Ottawa and Victoria, has the blessing of Premier W. A. C. Bennett's Social Credit government.

Boosters are not saying how large the bank will be, but it is known the aim is to have capitalization of about $100,000,000—the maximum amount authorized and enough to equal the major banks of Toronto and Montreal.

Elderly Opinion Divided On New Tax Relief Plan

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Early reaction to Ontario's new tax relief for the elderly shows opinion divided on whether it is a boon or a burden.

Under the law, municipalities will be permitted to pass by-laws granting homeowners aged 65 or over the right to defer payment of their annual municipal tax bill or $150, whichever is less.

The municipal bylaws can be made retroactive to the first of this year. Unpaid taxes would remain as a charge against the property involved and are payable when the property is sold or left as an estate.

Merits of the plan have still to be decided in municipal councils. But a survey by The Canadian Press showed enthusiasm in heavily-taxed Metropolitan Toronto.

The city's mayor and those of the five suburban boroughs welcomed the plan as a step to enable the low-income retired to keep their properties.

But Waterloo's Mayor Arthur Palecny attacked the legislation which "just transfers taxes to the next generation." Besides the accumulated tax at subsequent property owner would have to pay at least $100 in legal fees to register and to trace the tax liens, he said.

Mayor Palecny said Waterloo had no problem collecting taxes from senior citizens — "they are often the first to pay."

Simcoe's Mayor Alfred Judd also questioned the "true effectiveness" of the law. He said it could have the effect of tying up property "to such an extent it might become a handicap."

In Toronto, where an estimated 130,000 older citizens in the area would be affected, Mayor William Dennison said he was "very pleased" because the new law "will enable old people to continue in their homes."

York Mayor Jack Muskett said the municipality had asked for legislation to permit deferment of $100 in taxes each year, but the provincial bill was "much better" because it allowed up to $150 and did not require a means test, as asked by other municipalities.

Belleville Mayor J. Ellis and Mayor James MacDonald of Trenton both said they approved the legislation.

But at Owen Sound, Alderman Clifford Waugh, who says he is more than 65, saw a catch in the plan because of the accumulation against an estate. He would not apply because it could amount to a large amount by the time he dies. He said he thought the provincial government is "passing the buck."

Mayor Gordon Stronach of London described the program as "too little too late."

He said the legislation does not go to the root of the taxpayers' problem.

"If that's all the government can offer prior to an election, they better reach a little deeper," the mayor added.

NEW YORK (AP)—The largest single transaction in the history of the New York Stock Exchange was recorded Thursday as a block of 585,000 shares of Sperry Rand Corp. stock changed hands.

The transaction pushed volume for the day over the 12,000,000-share mark.

Atlantic Inquiry Hears Evidence Of Burned Files

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Gail Hotzot, former secretary to Wilfrid P. Gregory, Thursday gave evidence to the Atlantic inquiry which conflicted with testimony given last week by Gregory himself.

Mrs. Hotzot, his secretary when he was president of British Mortgage and Trust Co., said in testimony that among Gregory's personal files at BMT's office were one relating to Aurora Leasing Corp.

Gregory had denied that in his personal files there had been any one for Aurora. His denial followed a statement by commission counsel Albert Bambrick that investigators had been unable to find an Aurora file.

Gregory's explanation for confusing the burning of some files when he quit British Mortgage in July, 1965, was that they were related to associations to which he belonged and had no connection with BMT.

He said that since he had to clear out his office, he had no where to keep them.

Mrs. Hotzot said "at least 50" files not relating to British Mortgage were kept in two drawers next to her desk outside Gregory's office and in the office itself.

She said some contained correspondence concerning the various groups Gregory belonged to, such as the Stratford Festival and the bar association, and others related to companies with which Gregory was involved.

She testified that two days after his resignation she pulled about 15 files from the cabinets beside her desk and gave them to Gregory as he ordered the remainder burned.

She could not recall which files she put in Gregory but said the cabinets contained files on Commodore Business Machines (Canada) Ltd., Severn Investments and Aurora Leasing among others. All companies which have figured in the probe into the crash of Atlantic Acceptance in June, 1965.

The royal commission is currently investigating British finance role in the Atlantic debacle.

The hearing continues.

Actress Linda Kaye illustrates that whether applying for a job or representing your school at a convention, if the physical appearance isn't well groomed and attractive, you'll fail before reaching the second success plateau.

One Is First Judged On the Total Look

By Reba & Bonnie Churchill

What is your success potential? Have you a positive or negative personality? Do you stand out in a crowd or blend into the woodwork? Our postcard poll of readers reveals that is of vital interest to young people. They are aware of the importance of not only making an impression, but being able to follow-through with an alert, active, positive approach. As actress Linda Kaye illustrates, you are first judged on your total look. Whether applying for a job or representing your school at a convention, if the physical appearance isn't well-groomed and attractive, you'll fail before reaching the second success plateau, where you're rated on your ability to communicate.

Conversation is more of an image-maker or wrecker than most realize. As a philosopher wisely advised, "Choose your words as carefully as you do your friends, for words reveal your thoughts." "If you're ever at a loss of topics, try turning the conversation to the other person, their work, hobbies or travels. Being a good listener is the springboard for becoming a good talker. Mentally you stockpile interesting facts and anecdotes that your more exuberant friends seem to toss off effortlessly.

Boy-girl meetings can be free of tension if you also learn to think about the other person. Don't be so "hung up" with yourself that you forget he's probably suffering the same nervous pangs. Compliments, sincerely given, are a good curtain-raiser. "And, if you're used to meeting the public, like Ed Sullivan on the CBS-TV series, "Petticoat Junction," you can relate a funny happening on yourself. Learn to laugh at yourself — and with others, and see how your sociability rating improves.

P.S.: Would you like to rate your success potential? Our brand new 12-page booklet supplies a popularity test, as well as professional pointers on how to change failure into success, how to increase your circle of friends, and how to make the most of yourself. For our photo-illustrated booklet enclose 20c and a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Youth Parade, Reba & Bonnie Churchill — Increase Your Success Potential, c/o The Intelligencer, Room 1310, 80 King St. W., Toronto, Ontario.

Kenya Girls Asking For Pills

NAIROBI (AP)—Hundreds of high school girls asking for contraceptive pills are being turned away from family planning clinics in many parts of Kenya, doctors say.

One rural doctor says "word about pills and loops has spread among our high school girls, and hundreds are coming to us, but we can do very little about it."

It is illegal in Kenya to obtain pills without a doctor's prescription. A leading Nairobi physician, Dr. Y. Eraj, says it is against the law to issue pills to unmarried women.

Another doctor says he has heard that mothers are giving pills to their daughters because of the rising rate of pregnancy among unmarried girls.

Orange Loaf May Be Divided In Half to Serve Diabetics

QUESTION: Can I divide the conventional batter of an Orange Loaf in half and to one half add sugar and to the other half, nuts? Yet see my husband is a diabetic patient and I want him to have what the family has. — Una A.

ANSWER:—Yes, you can do just you suggest, but remember, I am sorry that sugar not the only item that diabetics cannot have. The total number of calories consumed must be considered too.

DOUBLE - PURPOSE ORANGE LOAF

(adapted from a recipe given by Mrs. J. C. McCallum)

NOTE: See below for instructions on dividing batter and adding sugar to one half and nuts to other half.

3¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar (see substitute below)
3½ tsps. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1 tbsp. grated orange rind

½ cup orange juice
¾ cup milk
2 large eggs, beaten
¼ cup soft butter
1 cup light sultana raisins
½ cup chopped nuts

Sift dry ingredients together into bowl. Add orange rind. Make a well in centre. Combine juice, milk, eggs and butter and pour into well in centre and mix and then stir in raisins and nuts. Line an 8½ x 4 x 2" loaf pan with buttered wax paper, turn in batter and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 1 hr. or until baked.

Variation for Sugared Loaf: Number One: Omit sugar and substitute 2 tbsps. liquid eucaryl.

Or Number Two: Omit sugar from batter and divide batter in half. To one half add ½ cup sugar; to the other add 1 tbsp. liquid eucaryl. Bake the halves separately in two small (paper lined and buttered). Bake each about 45 to 50 min.

The above Number Two variation is what you are requesting, Una.

Lawn Bowling Provides Healthful Zest and Fun

DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: Successful living is enhanced by recreation in which there is a maximum of participation and a minimum of just watching.

With more leisure time, many men and women crave an outlet. I suggest that they should investigate the healthful zest and fun which are available in lawn bowling.

It requires a minimum of equipment (a set of bowls, a pair of rubber-soled shoes); membership fees are very nominal; and there are good clubs in most centres. — Lawn Bowling Instructor.

Dear Instructor: What this country needs is more physical activity replacing spectator sports. Lawn bowling has an edge for moderate outdoor exercise, low cost, and sheer fun. And longevity. As long as you can stand up and heave a bowl, you can bowl.

The town recreation department or the YMCA will yield information about lawn bowling clubs.

Dear Doris: What do parents owe their children and children their parents? — In as much detail as possible. — Parent and Child.

Dear P. and C.: I doubt whether any encyclopedia or law book lays it down in chapter and verse. Are you planning to use what I say as a tool to persuade someone of something?

One rebellious daughter turned on her father with, "I didn't ask to be born!" His reply? "But we wanted you, very much."

There are some obligations, both ways. Chiefly though, parent and child owe to each other the love, understanding and practical help each needs. Which is about like saying how high is up.

Give me something to get my teeth into; some special dispute you are having. And I'll try to come up with a bright idea or two.

Dear Doris: We are invited to two golden wedding anniversaries and would like to know what is proper. Do you wear gloves and hat, and how long do you wear these? Are gloves long or short? — Interested Mother.

Dear Mother: For a daytime reception you wear gloves and hat. Gloves are removed when food is served; hat stays on. Gloves should be wrist length or long enough to meet sleeve of short-sleeved dress; not just half-way.

What's troubling you? Putting it on paper to Doris is the first step towards solving your problem.

Ann Landers

Interfaith Marriage May Be Risky

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column you made the statement that interfaith marriage is risky at best and you are against it.

ANN LANDERS

Now I would like to ask what you think about one party changing over and accepting the religious faith of the other. My husband is a Jew and I am lukewarm about my religion. My parents would not like the idea of my changing over, but this would not bother me.

So far as I know you have never expressed an opinion on this. Will you please do so in print? — DIFFERENT IDEAS.

* * *

DEAR DIFFERENT: A mixed marriage stands a much better chance if the lukewarm party changes over and joins the devout one. Serious difficulties often develop when both parties are strong believers and each closes one eye and pretends there is no problem. The children of such marriages are the real victims. Often they are left to choose between the mother's religion and the father's religion. This can cause guilt, ranavalance and anxiety.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last weekend I took a girl skiing, out to dinner and to a dance. This set me back $14.00 which is not exactly a drop in the bucket for a 16-year-old boy who has to work for every cent.

I had a good time and so did the girl. But on the way home, after dropping her off, I came to a very startling realization. What was it all for, anyway? Here I spent $14.00 and had nothing to show for it. Is it too much to expect a token of gratitude instead of a mere: "Goodnight; I had a very nice time!"

I think I was taken for a sucker and I am pretty burned up about it. What's your opinion? — JIM.

* * *

DEAR JIM: I don't know what you mean by "a token of gratitude" but it seems to me the girl expressed her gratitude adequately when she told you she had a nice time. I gather you feel she should have smoocbed it up a little in exchange for the $14.00. If you would settle for the girl who hangs such a cheap price tag on herself you can't be worth much, Buddy.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to comment on the letter from the grandmother who tried to protect her grandchild from an angry mother when the youngster picked a rose from the neighbor's garden.

I am not a mother, but I was a grade teacher for 30 years and I have helped train hundreds of children.

When a child brought me flowers which I suspected had been snatched along the way we would have a class discussion about respect for the property of others and plain, every day honesty.

If the mothers of these children had spent a little time explaining these important principles of behavior, the youngsters would not have helped themselves to someone else's property.

Unfortunately it's the children who suffer when parents fail to teach them the basic rules of society. And, today, we see an appalling amount of evidence that far too many parents have failed. — RETIRED MARM.

* * *

DEAR FRIEND: Too bad you retired. From the sound of your letter your wisdom is badly needed.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Even in today's small homes, rainy days can be delightful if parents do a little planning.

Mother: "Junior will have to stay quiet for another week or two. We work on his lessons part of the day but time drags for him. He even gets tired of television, and I'm worn out trying to keep him entertained."

Help your convalescing child pursue an interest that is educational. For instance, equip his window with a bird feeder and give him a picture book of birds so he can identify and keep a chart of those that come to feed.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario—one of the world's great steel centres.

It seems like only yesterday this was a quiet harbour

Now, it's the site of one of the world's most modern steel plants. Today, it produces a large share of Canada's total steel output. Hardly surprising though—Ontario's industrial growth has been nothing short of phenomenal.

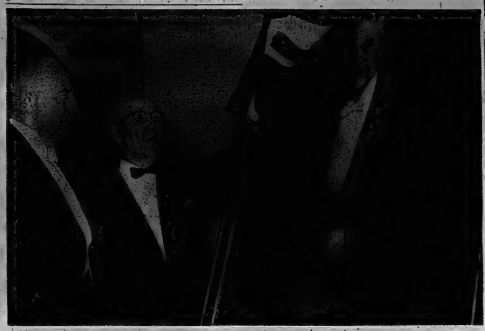
What does this industrial growth mean to you? It means prosperity—measured in more jobs, higher wages, new industries and a better standard of living. A standard of living that ranks among the highest in the world.

Ontario's industrial growth has helped bring unemployment down to 2.5%. Wages run 18% higher per capita than the national average and Ontario produces more products, better products than ever before.

The remarkable thing is—we're just getting started, the best is yet to come. You can help keep Canada prosperous, help keep our industries growing. One way: when shopping for price and quality, SHOP CANADIAN.

ONTARIO'S GROWTH RECORD

Ontario has become a leader in the production of synthetic rubber. We have the most fully integrated synthetic rubber plant in the world.



Ontario produces more than 50% of Canada's manufactured goods and exports goods all over the world. We even sell cameras in Germany and raincoats in Hong Kong.

Business is booming in Ontario. During 1966, 179 new plants were built in Ontario and 391 existing manufacturers expanded their operations.

Penitentiary Remission Plan

Factor in Escapes: Grossman

TORONTO (CP) — Allan Grossman, reform institutions minister, told the legislature Thursday that prisoners in provincial reformatories break out hoping to be caught and sentenced to penitentiary.

He said the marked difference between the amount of remission time granted in reformatories and penitentiaries prompts such escape attempts.

Introducing his spending estimates for 1967-68, Mr. Grossman said the situation is a result of changes made by Ottawa to the Penitentiaries Act which increased the "remission time" granted to prisoners of penitentiaries. No similar changes have been made in the Prisons and Reformatories Act despite several requests by the province.

Quoting a letter sent by a reformatory prisoner, Mr. Grossman said the youth wrote he would get less time by going to Kingston rather than staying where he was. He said that of the 179 escapes from Burwash industrial farm in the 1966-67 fiscal year, only four of the escapees were still at large.

In other developments.

1. Stephen Lewis (NDP Scarborough West) said poor wages and working conditions are turning students away from nursing. George Ben, L—Toronto Bracondale said the top pay for a nurse is $480 a month, the same paid to unskilled laborers in Toronto. The house approved health department spending estimates of $336,851,000 ending March 31, 1968.

2. The transport and highways departments has approved the use of "symbol signs" for provincial highways, Irwin Haskett, transport minister, said. The symbols will warn of steep hills, rough roads and narrow bridges.

3. Eddie Sargent (L—Grey North) said the Ontario superintendent of insurance is "just a filing clerk" under current legislation. He made the remark after Commercial Affairs Minister Leslie Rowntree agreed that the superintendent, Cecil Richards, had no power to lower existing car insurance rates.

4. Premier Robarts rejected an idea that a legislature debate on his proposal for a Confederation of Tomorrow Conference broadcast. The suggestion was advanced by NDP Leader Donald MacDonald.

Three Governments Trying To Aid Dying Calgary Girl

CALGARY (CP)—The roll of people and institutions rallying to help Chelley Lynn Stanway, a pert 15-year-old Calgary girl who is dying of bone cancer, expanded Thursday to include three governments.

The Saskatchewan, Alberta and federal governments set wheels in motion to find suitable air transportation to fly Chelley Lynn to New York, where she may be able to find a cure for her condition at Park Medical Clinic.

The girl needs special arrangements to fly to New York because the seriousness of her illness makes it impossible for her to travel in normal fashion.

Chelley Lynn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stanway, have told her within the last few days that her condition may be fatal unless treatment not available in Alberta can be obtained. The youngster has accepted the news bravely.

As she lay in her bed in the living room of the Stanway home Thursday night while a reporter talked to her and her family, Mr. Stanway turned to Chelley Lynn and said: "We're going to win, aren't we Honey?"

She smiled and replied: "Yes, Dad."

The family — Mr. and Mrs. Stanway, Chelley Lynn, her 15-year-old sister Selma and six-year-old brother Mark—is determined not to give up.

Last week the family had to find $3,000 for expenses, air transportation to New York and a bed in a New York hospital. They now have the money and the hospital bed and the air transport should be arranged today.

Numerous people have donated money in response to an appeal; even youngsters who shovelled sidewalks and donated their earnings. Members of the Calgary teen council have been visiting Chelley Lynn to cheer her up.

If the New York trip proves fruitless, the Stanways intend to take their daughter to Britain to try a new cancer serum.

An Edmonton nurse whose husband was cured in New York of the same disease—Ewing's disease — that afflicts Chelley Lynn will fly to New York with the girl to help make arrangements there.

Chelley Lynn broke her leg in January in a tobogganing accident and the cancer was discovered then in x-rays. It since has spread from her leg to her rib-cage and vertebrae. Radiation treatments here caused radiation sickness, and local doctors say they can do no more.

Alberta Health Minister W. J. Donovan Ross Thursday placed a call to federal Defence Minister Hellyer asking permission to use an aircraft from the Canadian forces base at Namao, 10 miles north of Edmonton, to fly Chelley Lynn to New York.

A department spokesman said Ottawa is awaiting details of Dr. Ross's request and will "certainly give consideration" to the case when details are received, likely today.

Meanwhile Air Canada has ordered a special stretcher from Montreal and is prepared to fly Chelley Lynn to New York. It remains today for the details to be sorted out so that Chelley Lynn, one way or another, can begin her flight to New York and a possible cure.

HODGE PODGE

Lawn bowlers of the city are in for a rare treat Sunday and Monday. Gerry Hyde informs me that Mr. John Henderson, a Montreal bank manager and president of the Canadian Lawn Bowling Council, will speak at the Bowling Club Sunday evening and at the Rotary Club on Monday . . . Mr. Henderson captained the Canadian bowling team that took part in the first World Bowls Championships held in Australia last fall and came back with silver and bronze medals. He will show a colored movie of the games . . . An interesting note. In Australia there is a waiting period of three years for people wishing to become bowlers. The "down-under continent boasts 400,000 bowlers, Canada totals some 10,000. .

Ups and downs in Ole N'Yawk . . . The Yankees had a day off last week sitting pretty on top of the American League. There were sounds of revelry in clubhouse, home and practically every bistro and bar in the Bronx echoed to the dreary hunzas of Bomber fandom . . . There was nothing wrong with the Yankees at this stage of the schedule. Whitey Ford had notched his first shutout in two years. Mickey Mantle playing first base had dazzled the management with his fielding. Joe Pepitone was starting to hit. Mel Stottlemyre had pitched and won two complete games. The Yankee birds were in the basket and all was right with the world. They placed a huge sign on the outside of Yankee Stadium. "Yankees in First Place."

Over in Shea Stadium where the Mets hold forth, there were snickers. "Let's put one up, Mets headed for the Cellar" the wags quipped. "That'll be a bigger drawing card." . . . Ernie Banks' advice to budding first basemen: — Get your body out of the way of the runner or he'll break you apart and get your feet out of the way or he'll carve you with his spikes." My advice: — Play centrefield.

Tickets are still available for the Quinte-McFarlands Sports Celebrities dinner in Picton May 13th. Contact Jim Maddison at the Lands' dispensary Station Street or "Red" Mavety, Maher Shoe Store, Front Street . . . Bay of Quinte Power Squadron Change of Watch and graduation dinner slated for the Yacht Squadron clubhouse, Saturday at 6:30 p.m. . . . Newspaper people are only human. And I hope the guy who phoned me at 10.45 a.m. from Madoc demanding a photographer to take a picture of his gang and the fish they caught realizes that. . .

The Belleville Ten-Pin Bowling Association annual championships, five-man team, two-man team; individual and all events is slated for the Belleville Brunswick Bowl, Saturday and Sunday, May 13 and 14. Closing date for entries May 12 at 3 p.m. Contact Cec Anderson, 73 Gordon Street . . . The "Mr. Bowling" tournament gets underway tonight with the champion declared tomorrow night at the Bowl-O-Drome and I'm told the entry list (24) for the second annual Ontario Gold Cup Championship is filled. That takes place Sunday, May 14 also at the Bowl-O-Drome. . .

Yankee manager Ralph Houk has a warning for umpires although unspoken. Houk took a swing at Gordon MacRae, the well-known radio and television singer, in a pool New York night club. He flattened MacRae with one punch after he got angry with his wife for dancing with MacRae. As the singer lay on the floor a bystander lifted his head "and let it go suddenly. It hit the floor with a "klunk" and MacRae recorder the first double knockout in or outside the ring . . . The Maple Leafs picked up $2,250 in 21 units for their toil in the playoffs. The Habs will bank $3,750 . . . A Toronto buff walked into the newsroom Wednesday morning and presented the hottest Hab fan in the joint with a can of Habitant pea soup on which was printed in large black letters "Crow" and a card of sympathy . . . Picton's 1,000-Fish Derby opens in Quinte waters May 24 at 6 a.m. through Hospital Day 27 at 2 p.m. Top prizes are expensive outboard motors, one to non-residents. There are other special prizes. .

Pirates Wallop Dodgers

Giants Have A 'Hart' For The Mets

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Hart may be the biggest Met fan since Casey Stengel. Not for what the Mets do to the opposition. Which isn't much. For what he does to them.

"I can't explain it," the San Francisco Giants' third baseman said, "I just go up there swinging."

If Hart could play all his games against the Mets he'd probably break all of baseball's most cherished records.

He had a homer and scored twice Thursday night in the Giants' 3-1 victory over the Mets, boosting his season average against New York to .400.

But that isn't surprising. Last season he hit .415 against the Mets, collecting nine of his 33 homers and 20 of his 93 runs batted in. The season before, eight of his 23 homers came off Met pitching.

His night — losing solo shot Thursday clinched it for the Giants.

Pittsburgh Pirates rallied for a seven-run seventh inning and whipped Los Angeles Dodgers 9-3 while Houston Astros took Philadelphia Phillies 4-1 in the only other major league games played. Chicago Cubs at Atlanta Braves in the National League was rained out. There were no games scheduled in the American League.

Giants starting pitcher Mike McCormick, who had a three-hitter going into the eighth, got into a jam with two pinch singles after one was out. Frank Linzy came on, got the next man to ground into an inning-ending double play and retired New York in order in the ninth.

The Pirates vaulted into second place, two games back of idle Cincinnati. Maury Wills was the big gun against his old Dodger mates with two singles and a double.

MAURY WILLS

His bases - loaded single drove in two runs and triggered the seven-run seventh inning that wiped out a 2-2 Dodger lead. Bill Mazeroski had a bases loaded triple in the big inning that saw 13 Pirates go to bat.

Three Houston right-handers, including winner Dick Farrell, combined for a five - hitter against the Phillies.

Three scratch singles and Jim Landis' double got two Astro runs in the first and Bob Aspromonte had a solo homer in the fourth.

Favored 2-1

Derby; The Road To Damascus!

By BOB COOPER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The betting public probably will give its main support to Damascus in Saturday's Kentucky Derby, but kegnbird Dawn Glory will be in a kind of favorite's role, too.

The colt who brought his Puerto Rican owners to the world's most glamorous horse race in their first fling at the sport will be carrying saddle cloth No. 8. That's the one that crossed the finish line first the last two years.

Civil rights leaders have threatened to disrupt this year's Derby and have hinted demonstrators might spread to the track.

Going from the inside post position that produced the last winner, Chateaugay, in 1963, will be Louie Roven's Ruken, winner of his last three starts and victor in the Santa Anita Derby.

Mrs. Edith Bancroft's Damascus, carrying Bill Shoemaker in his 16th consecutive Derby ride, starts from the same No. 2 slot that sent Tim Tam to victory in 1958. Odds now have Damascus as the 2-to-1 favorite.

Pernie L. Grayson's second try in the run for the roses, Dr. Isby, goes from the No. 3 gate which hasn't produced a winner for 25 years. Bill Hartack will be aboard, seeking his fifth Derby victory in eight rides.

Diplomat Way will start from No. 4. Basin Delight from gate No. 5 and Successor, the juvenile champion of 1966 who is still looking for his first win of 1967, starts as No. 6.

Proud Clarion will start from No. 7, last a winner in 1964 when Hartack got his fourth astride Canada's Northern Dancer.

Outside Dawn Glory will be Field Master in the No. 9 position followed by Greatwood's James, Lightning Orphan, No. 11, Second Encounter, No. 12, Reason to Hail, No. 13 and Ask The Fare, No. 14.

If all 14 start in the 5:30 p.m., EDT, Derby, the race will gross $182,200 and hand the winner $119,700 for about two minutes work.

The 93rd Derby will be televised on CBS and CBC from 5-6 p.m., EDT, and broadcast by CBC radio from 5:15 to 5:45.

Judges Clamp Down

No Tattoo, No Race!

TORONTO (CP) — Wyandot Chief was scratched from the eighth race by judges at Greenwood Raceway Thursday night because of a corrective from the Ontario Racing Commission stating an untattooed horse cannot race unless its registration papers are in the judge's office.

The ruling may affect as many as 25 other untattooed horses at the Toronto track, a track spokesman said.

Driver-trainer Ron Feagan said Wyandot Chief, a four-year-old gelded by Charles and Cecelia Fieldman of Springville, N.Y., has raced about 15 times this season without being tattooed.

Frank Haynes, a director of the Ontario Harness Horsemen's Association, said it was hypocritical for the judges to enforce the rule by ordering a horse scratched. The presiding judge H. O. Jerry of Goderich, Ont., said horsemen were aware the commission's directive about tattooing was to be enforced this week.

Sport Miniatures

SOREL, Que. (CP) — Joey Durelle, former Canadian welterweight champion, used a fast left-right combination to knock out Alva Simmons of Charleston, S.C., in the third round of a scheduled 10-round junior middleweight bout Thursday night.

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian halfbacks Mike Wicklum and Peter Lamantia have signed 1967 football contracts, Toronto Argonauts announced Thursday.

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Dale Caron of Rouyn, Que., and Gary Cocker of Toronto were first-round picks this week at the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A annual draft of midget hockey players.

'Shag', 84 Still Loves Baseball

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Shaugessy, former president of the International Baseball League, is reported showing a keen interest in the baseball picture once again.

Shaughessy, now 84, had his right leg amputated above the knee March 4.

The leg was amputated after a circulatory ailment had caused a blood clot.

Frank Jr., who has been active in the Canadian Olympic Association for many years, said Thursday his father is once again "showing an interest in the Dodgers."

"Dad's at home now and in good spirits even though he's confined to a wheelchair," Shaughessy Jr. said. "We're encouraged because he's showing a keen interest in all that's going on in the sports front again."

Shaughessy Sr. was president of the International League for 25 years and had a distinguished career as an athlete and coach at Notre Dame University in South Bend, Ind., before turning to professional baseball as a player and manager.

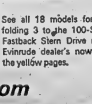
If you're in the market for a 50



look up to Evinrude's economical 60 (it's a V-4)*

If you think big power means big money, forget it! Evinrude's 60 makes high powered boating as practical as it is enjoyable. Price the Evinrude 60 at your dealer's now and see for yourself! Also, the Evinrude 60 gives you all the advantages of V-4—the engine design that officially holds the world speed record. V-4 design solves a major engineering problem: the low-friction, low-profile V-4 design is inherently balanced. It runs smoother. It's short, rigid crankshaft has less "torsional whip" than tall in-line designs, and provides greater fuel economy.

The high-torque, short-stroke V-4 design delivers higher thrust over a wider speed range. Propellering is less critical. Its versatile power is more efficient under varying load and speed conditions. The Evinrude 60 comes complete with sound-sealed powerhead, electric starting, electric choke, thermostat control and built-in alternator.

If you want bigger power yet, see the V-4 80 and the world record breaking V-4 100-S . . . officially the world's fastest outboard motor.

Starflite V-4 100-S

All Evinrudes use 50:1 gas/oil mixture, which increases engine life, saves wear and expense. Every Evinrude carries a full 2-year warranty and with Evinrude's complete coast-to-coast dealer organization, service is never a problem.

Davis Cup Team

Bids To Upset Britain

BOURNEMOUTH, England (CP)—Buoyed by young Mike Belkin's victory Thursday over seasoned Briton Mike Sangster, the Canadian Davis Cup team faces an even more crucial match today in its bid to upset Britain in their first-round series for the Cup's European Zone.

Pelting rain and powerful winds delayed the Belkin-Sangster match for two hours and forced a postponement until today of the second singles match, in which 35-year-old Bob Bedard of Leonardville, Que., meets Britain's No. 1, Roger Taylor.

Belkin, a former Montrealer and now resident of Miami Beach, Fla., showed determination and resourcefulness Thursday on a heavy slippery court in this south-coast resort when he downed Sangster 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

The doubles — in which Bedard and Keith Carpenter, 25, of Montreal, are scheduled to play Sangster and Bobby Wilson — may be postponed until Saturday.

Canadian team captain Fred Bolton said he probably won't decide whether to go ahead with the doubles until after Bedard's match with taylor. Under Davis Cup rules, he has the option to ask for a postponement so Bedard won't have to play two games the same day.

The final two singles, scheduled for Saturday, are also likely to be postponed until Sunday.

MICKEY MANTLE

Mantle Nears Jet Set

NEW YORK (AP) —Mickey Mantle is just one home run away from joining baseball's 500 set.

The 35 - year - old New York Yankees switch-hitter belted his third homer of the year against the Twins in Minnesota Wednesday night for the 499th of his career.

Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants and four immortals of the game are the only other members of the 500- or - more club.

Mays, with only one this year through Wednesday's games, is second with 543 on the alligator list led by Babe Ruth with 714. After him comes Jimmy Foxx, 534; Ted Williams, 521, and Mel Ott, 511.

The Yankees did not play Thursday.

29 Years As Official

Hughie McLean Retires

HAMILTON (CP)—After 29 years as a hockey and soccer referee, Hughie McLean has decided to retire.

McLean, 52, said Thursday his decision came after his appointment Saturday to the Ontario Hockey Association executive.

McLean has earned an international reputation both in hockey and soccer. Since an injury ended his hockey - playing career 29 years ago, he has refereed playoffs in the Stanley Cup, Quidor Cup, Allan Cup, Olympics, world championships, Canadian intercollegiate and the national intermediate A series.

One memorable incident in his years as a National Hockey League referee came in March, 1951—a scuffle with Rocket Richard of Montreal Canadiens in a New York hotel lobby.

Richard, incensed over what he thought was an undeserved game misconduct penalty in Montreal a few nights before, grabbed McLean by the tie and unloosed a flood of invectives. A month later NHL president Clarence Campbell fined the Rocket $500 for conduct prejudicial to the welfare of hockey.

McLean and Bill MacKenzie of Port Arthur in 1960 became the first Canadians to officiate in hockey at the Winter Olympic Games. The year before, McLean became the fifth Canadian permitted to referee soccer games anywhere in the world.

Knudson Two Off Pace

Palmer 68; Lofts 145-Yard Eagle!

ARNOLD PALMER

HOUSTON (AP) — Who but Arnold Palmer could score eagle drives into a lake, a ditch and heavy woods, then end with a three-under-par 68? He did, with six birdies and a 145-yard eagle.

Palmer, defending champion in the $115,000 Champions International, was only one-stroke off the leaders' pace of 67, set by Frank Beard, George Archer and Dan Sikes, as the tournament headed into its second round today.

Just two strokes off the pace was Toronto's George Knudson who fired a round of 69 with nines of 35 and 34, Al Balding, also of Toronto, was in with a 37-34 for 71.

Some called it a peculiar round. Palmer, who has won more money than any other man in golf, said "with the exception of three holes it was one of the better rounds I've played in a long time."

On the first tee, Palmer clattered a hooking drive into a lake, took a penalty stroke, then went two over par after two putting.

He did not let the bad start bother him. By the time he made the turn over the 7,115-yard, par 71 Cypress Creek course, he had three birdies and five pars to go one under.

On No. 13, a par 4, 415-yarder, Palmer's drive sank the fairway. With a seven iron, he lofted the ball to the green 145 yards away.

"It was a three - quarter wooden iron," he said. "The ball flew well, landed about four feet short and bounced right into the hole."

While Palmer had his ups and downs, Jack Nicklaus had only troubles, scoring to a 77. He had a disastrous three over par on the 14th hole, driving first out of bounds and later into a lake.

Only 16 golfers broke par on opening day Thursday over the 6,900-yard course, which was knocked by scattered showers throughout.

Archer, Beard and Sikes found their putting touches to thrust them ahead. Sikes and Beard one putted seven greens each, and Archer, who dropped two from 30 and 60 feet, used one putt on six greens.

Harold Henning, young South African, tied with Palmer at 68. Four players including Knudson, Kermit Zarley, Don January and Ben Hogan, locked at 69.

Japanese Lead In Cup Play

TOKYO (AP)—Japan took a commanding 2-0 lead over the Philippines in Far Eastern Davis Cup competition Friday with victories by Koji Watanabe and Jiro Kondahl.

The Japanese need just one more victory in the final three matches to clinch the right to meet India in August in the zone finals.

Watanabe beat Samuel Ang Jr. in the first match 6-2, 6-0, 6-2 and Kondahl followed with a 6-1, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Felicisimo Ampon.

Ports Will Show Up

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—Port Arthur Marrs think positive, which is one reason the Thunder Bay Junior Hockey League champions are in the Memorial Cup final against Toronto Marlboros.

After a 13-year absence Port Arthur was given little chance to reach the best-of-seven Canadian championship series, which starts in neighboring Fort William Gardens Sunday. But coach Albert Cava and his players didn't agree with the forecasters.

Back in 1965-66, captain Ray Addonco said the Port Arthur squad brought west the 1967. The high - scoring centre even correctly predicted the number of games it would take each play-off rival to fall—Fort William Canadiens in five games, Geraldton Gold Miners in three, Flin Flon Bombers in six and New Westminster Royals in five.

"All I've said all along was that it would take a good hockey team to beat us," said Cava. "We've been the underdogs in a couple of series and we expect to be again. That's the way we like it. They didn't expect us to get this far but here we are.

"We know we're meeting a team which proved itself best in the top junior league in the country (the Ontario Hockey Association). We expect the Marlins to be tough. But we'll show up."

Other series games will be played Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and, if necessary, Monday, May 15, Tuesday, May 16 and Wednesday, May 17. All will be in 4,400-seat Gardens, already sold out for the first four matches.

Marlies Will Be Tough

By BILL SCOTT

TORONTO (CP) — Throughout the regular Ontario Hockey Association season the Toronto Marlboros were inconsistent.

They frequently looked like a club that had not mastered the fundamentals of hockey, but when the occasion demanded, they dramatically changed from an inept and clumsy bunch into a shifty, hard-hitting crew.

"They didn't play any better than they had to," was the comment coach Gus Bodnar made after one game, and this seemed to be true of the entire season.

The Marlboros have played 69 regular season and playoff games and won 37, lost 19 and tied five. At the end of the 48-game OHA Junior A schedule, they were in third place, behind Kitchener Rangers and Niagara Falls Flyers.

After losing twice and tying once, in their first four playoff games against Kitchener, the Marlboros won 10 of their next eleven games. They finished Kitchener with three wins in a row, over Hamilton Red Wings aside in four straight, and disposed of Thetford Mines Canadiens in four games to win the Eastern Junior title.

Allan Cup Finals

Spurs Dig In Tonight

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP)—Both sides agree Calgary Spurs will be tougher for tonight's second game of the Allan Cup championship for Canada's senior hockey crown.

The Spurs, of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League, were outclassed by Drummondville Eagles 4-0 Wednesday night in the first game of the best-of-seven series. Tonight's game starts at 8 p.m. EDT.

"I'd like to see the Spurs play better hockey and they might be tough now," Roland Boldue, general-manager of the Eagles, said Thursday night. Coach-Tony Schneider of the Spurs goes along with the assessment. "I think our club will look better than it did Wednesday night," said Schneider. "I think we'll be a lot tougher too."

Boldue said the Spurs' performances was a disappointment. "Frankly, they disappointed me. Our players got around them all night."

The Spurs had a brisk one-hour workout Thursday morning, concentrating on bringing the puck down the ice.

Right winger Carl Forster did not work out with the club. He suffered a foot injury Wednesday night and is a doubtful starter tonight.

Schneider said the injury was either a bruise or a chipped bone in the left foot. If Forster can't play Schneider will call on John Hutton.

The Eagles, of the Provincial Senior Hockey League, did not schedule a practice session Thursday but five players, including goaltender Claude Cyr, turned out for a voluntary workout.

Boldue had high praise for Cyr, who kicked out 30 shots to register the shutout in Wednesday night's game.

"With Cyr in nets, we're going to be hard to beat."

This could make the double obsolete.

Frazier Still Unbeaten

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Heavyweight title contender Joe Frazier romped unbeaten today after 14 professional fights. The 23 - year - old Frazier won a unanimous decision over George (Scrap Iron) Johnson in 10 rounds Thursday night before almost 10,000 fans who paid $38,-300 at the Olympic Auditorium.

The rugged Johnson, 36, withstood the best punches that Frazier could deliver and is the second fighter to go the distance with Joe since he turned pro.

The other one was Argentina's Oscar Bonavena, who fought Frazier last September in New York.

Johnson seemed content in the later rounds to stave off a knockout and while hurt in the last round, did his own version of a victory dance when the final bell sounded.

Would Send Mixed Team To Mexico

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—South Africa, currently barred from the Olympic Games, told the International Olympic Committee Thursday it would send a massive team of black and white athletes if allowed to compete in the 1968 Olympics in Mexico.

Despite South Africa's internal color bar, Negro, colored and white athletes "live travel everywhere together, can march together in identical uniforms and must wear the same flag, and they can be housed in the same unit in the same Olympic village," South African officials told the Olympic executive board.

Fourteen African countries have threatened to boycott the Olympic Games if South Africa is allowed to compete despite South Africa's relaxation of racial discrimination in sport.

Olympic president Avery Brundage said no final decision will be made at the current conference over the International Olympic Committee would send a special mission to investigate the racial question inside South Africa.

South Africa practises strict apartheid — racial separation — within the country.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Fifty du Nord, a dark bay colt owned by the Frank A. Sherman estate, charged the head of the stretch Thursday to win the sixth race at Fort Erie race track.

Jockey Avelino Gomez used the whip to drive Fifi du Nord to the front and the 7-2 favorite, who had appeared an easy winner.

Fifi du Nord, paid $9.40, $4.50 and $3.00, Batting $2.80 and $2.20. (Carmody Hoop, in third place, paid $3.50.

Apprentice Richard Grubb, 18 - year - old from Edgerton, Ont., had another big day in the saddle, winning three races. He won the first race with Gardner Farms' Ten Jays who combined with long-shot El Esmeralda in the second for a $112.80 daily double. Then he scored with Redirect in the fourth and Bengal in the night cap.

With The Trotters

TORONTO (CP)—Zip Tar set a North American record for the fastest mile this season by a two-year-old by winning the first race at Greenwood Raceway Thursday night in 2:08 1-5.

The previous best mile time for a two-year-old this season was 2:09 4-5, set by Rod-O-Paint at Washington Park last week.

Zip Tar, finishing a length and a half in front of Pearl's Signal, combined with Phyllis Marie for a $12.30 daily double.

Cole Tar set the Canadian mile record for two-year-olds in 1962 by sprinting to a 23-length victory in 2:03 3-5.

ALS SIGN ROOKIES

MONTREAL (CP)—Two 1966 rookies with Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference have etched one-year contracts covering the next three seasons. Both Pierre Desjardins and Ken Galloway were starters on offence last season, with Desjardins playing at left tackle and Galloway at tight end.

Pan-American Games

Cuba, Third, Fourth Place?

HAVANA (Reuters) — Cuba hopes to win third or fourth place in the Pan - American Games at Winnipeg this summer.

President Manuel Gonzalez of the Cuban Olympic Committee says he feels that only Canada, the United States and possibly Mexico, among some 30 participating countries, would put up a better all-round performance than Cuba's team.

The other Latin American countries, he said, have not devoted sufficient money or attention to developing their sporting resources.

Less qualified but more realistic Cubans even pointed out in secret hope that their team might just be able to dislodge Canada from second position.

Whatever the outcome at Winnipeg, independent observers here regard one thing as certain. With approximately 240 athletes, comprising what will surely be one of the largest teams in the Games, Cuba will once again demonstrate the unparalleled great progress which she has made in the field of amateur sport since Fidel Castro came to power in 1959.

Thanks to virtually unlimited government financial aid and a succession of first-class coaches from eastern Europe, mainly from the Soviet Union and East Germany, Cuban sports prowess has advanced by leaps and bounds.

Children showing athletic promise are sent to special sports schools where, apart from their regular studies, they undergo intensive training in various sporting disciplines.

This policy has already shown results. In last year's Puerto Rican Games, Cuba almost tripled the number of gold medals won in the previous Central American Games at Kingston, Jamaica, in 1962. In all, Cuba won 78 medals—33 gold, 19 silver and 25 bronze—as against 31 in Kingston—12 gold, 13 silver and 11 bronze.

Whatever number of gold medals Cuba wins at Winnipeg, it will almost certainly be more than the five won in the previous Pan-American Games in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in 1963.

The country's major medal winning hopes lie in track and field, baseball, fencing, wrestling, boxing and gymnastics. Performances in basketball, judo, water polo, volleyball and shooting are also promising.

Heading the list of individual stars is Cuba's most popular sportsman, the 28 - year - old sprinter Enrique Figuerola, 100-metre silver medallist at the 1964 Tokyo Olympic Games and gold medallist at the Sao Paulo Pan-American Games.

Figuerola will enter both the 100-metre and 200-metre events in which his best timings so far are 10.1 and 20.5 seconds, respectively.

Other track and field hopes include sprinter Miguelina Cobian, who has run the 100 metres in 11.5 seconds; hurdler Daisy Echevarria, with a time of 10.7 for the 80 metres; hammer thrower Enrique Samuelis; javelin thrower Juan Perelis; and 18-year-old sprinter Hermes Ramirez.

Five-Pin Tournament

Intelligencer Gold Cup

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Twenty - four bowlers and a couple of alternates have been named to compete in the second annual Intelligencer Gold Cup match play five-pin tournament Sunday, May 14.

Last year's winner, Bud Petican, plus the next 23 high average bowlers in 25 - mile radius who accepted invitations, will participate. It should be quite a field as the bowlers were selected according to their average on March 1, when the invitations were mailed, so many of the averages are changed now.

The 24 bowlers are divided into three groups of eight and they will play a round - robin schedule of ninety game matches within their respective groups to decide the six semi-finalists, two from each group.

The six survivors then draw for opponents and lanes. Each pair will play a two-of-three games match with the losers being eliminated. The remaining three finalists then play in a four - game round - robin series of matches - two against each of the other two - with one point awarded for each victory. The man with the most points wins the tourney. If there is a two - way tie, a one-game sudden - death match decides it while in case of a three - way tie, the two bowlers with the highest pinfall meet in the sudden - death affair.

The draw has been made and group one has Bud Petican, Jack Canning, Jim Bigley, Paul Bailey, Napanee's Ron Porter, Bob Deline, Leo Lucciola and Wally Dever. In group two are Jim McKenzie, Bill Bateman, Hewa Hamilton, Leo St. Louis, Cec Hirdwick, Joe Allen, Trenton's Tom Fletcher and Ed Bowron. Competing in group three are Harry Ridley, Ron Saylor, Art Butler, Bill Ash, Ken Gregg, Crobb, Les Lennox, Jack Stewart and Campbellford's Jack Stocker. Orrie three bowlers are from outside Belleville this year. Ready to fill in if someone cannot make it are Leo Labelle and Jack Calnan.

The committee in charge of the tourney this year consists of Jack Canning, Bill Bateman and Cec Hirdwick and the tourney will commence at 1.30 sharp on Sunday, May 14, at the Bowl-O-Drome here.

To the tournament winner will go the Intelligencer Gold Cup replica, plus two hampers of groceries, valued at $30, the latter donated by A. and P. The second-place man receives $30, third $20, fourth, fifth and sixth, $10 each. There is also a $10 award for the high single in each of the starting groups.

It looks like a grea tournney, especially for those who favor match play, and the rewards are worthwhile. A large number of bowling fans are expected to turn out to support their favorite.

Most of the bowler competing are also taking part in the annual "Mr. Bowlin" tournament which begins at the Bowl-O-Drome tonight and winds up around 6.00 p.m. tomorrow.

CHUCK HILLER INJURED

NEW YORK (AP)—Infielder Chuck Hiller suffered a broken left leg and ankle in a freak accident before Wednesday night's game with San Francisco Giants and will be placed on the disabled list, New York Mets said Thursday. Hiller was walking off the field after infield practice when he was struck on the left leg by a line drive off pitcher Jack Hamilton's bat. Hamilton was supposed to be hitting fly balls to the outfield.

Kingston Car Second

Toronto Driver Leads Rally

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—Paul MacLennan of Toronto, who drives a fire department rescue truck for a living, showed his skill Thursday in handling small cars.

He drove a Lotus Cortina from Kelowna through mountains, mud, snow and ice and arrived here without a penalty point, holding onto first place in the centennial 4000 rally.

This was the second leg, on most difficult say some experts, of the 4,500-mile rally which winds up in Montreal next Wednesday. On the first leg, MacLennan and his navigator, John Wilmer, a mathematics professor at the University of Waterloo, Ont., had only two penalty points.

The trip from Kelowna took about 18 hours along roads made treacherous by snow and rain.

On a closed section in the Cascades, mountainous country in eastern British Columbia, MacLennan and Wilmer, who won the rally last year, settled through without difficulty.

MacLennan said he experienced difficulty in deep mud on Corkscrew Mountain in east-central B.C. and that the Cheerwater forest section was made difficult by deep snow in some parts.

Holding down second place with an unofficial five penalty points — scores arrived slowly because of the length of Thursday's run—was the privately-entered Lotus Cortina driven by John Smith of Kingston, Ont., and navigated by John Casto of Ottawa.

Karl Schultz and Paul Maroun of Toronto, driving a Datsun for the Nissan team, were third with six points.

One of the biggest talking points of the day was the misfortune of Aasta Taylor of Rotherham, England, and her navigator, Terry Gillies of Montreal, in their Ford - sponsored Lotus Cortina.

Miss Taylor, a 23-year-old black - haired beauty, ran into trouble in the Cascades where a tire blew out. She drove on but had amassed a total of 542 points on the Kelowna-Kimberley leg.

But her problems were not over. Between Kimberley and here she experienced difficulty in thick mud and arrived at the overnight stop more than an hour late.

She declined comment on her experience, saying that she was interested "only in getting some sleep."

Miss Taylor's troubles dealt a severe blow to the Ford team in its quest for a second manufacturers' team prize.

Roger Clark of London, the third member of the Ford team, remained in a strong position for individual honors with a clean run Thursday. He had 22 penalty points Wednesday.

Crowds Pour in So Quickly Expo Misses 2,000,000th Man

MONTREAL (CP) — The 2,000,000th visitor to Expo 67 slipped into the world's fair grounds Thursday unnoticed in the crowd that was surging through the gates at 30,000 an hour in late afternoon.

By midnight, 186,290 had entered the site compared with the forecast of 129,550 for the day, bringing the total to 2,046,258 since opening day April 28.

An Expo official said a meeting was in process to decide whether something should be done about the 2,000,000th visitor when organization control called to say he had slipped through about 4 p.m. Now the thinking involved some sort of ceremony to celebrate the 10,000,000th visitor.

Meanwhile, Expo celebrated its second national day by honoring the tiny Indian Ocean island of Mauritius, a British Crown colony, with a ceremony presided over by its prime minister, Sir Seewoosagur Ramgoolam, in Place des Nations, the fair's international meeting place.

Last Tuesday was Ethiopia's day with Emperor Haile Selassie the central figure.

Next Tuesday will be Belgium's day with Prince Albert of Liege and Princess Paola attending the official ceremony.

Nearly 60 more national days are to come before Expo closes Oct. 27 and they will all follow the same format established by Roger Garand, special events producer.

The format was worked out with Expo services such as protocol and security and then submitted to the participating country for approval. Everything must be done with spall-second precision.

The event begins at 10 a.m. in Place des Nations with music and entertainment and a carnival of guests at Expo's main gate. The guests are then conducted to Place des Nations.

At 10:25 a.m. the fair's commissioner - general, Pierre Dupuy, arrives to greet the visiting dignitaries and the head of state or his representative who will arrive later.

At 11 a.m. the head of state, accompanied by Mr. Dupuy and usually a federal cabinet minister, takes his place on the tribune of honor.

One minute later, the flag of the country being honored is raised alongside Canada's, a cannon salute is sounded, a guard of honor is reviewed and the commissioner - general officially welcomes the visitor. The visitor then replies.

After the ceremony, at 11:25 a.m., the official party leaves for the VIP lounge and later visits the country's national pavilion.

Meanwhile, the fair-goers who have watched the ceremony are entertained either by the Expo band or entertainers from the country being honored.

There is a two-hour luncheon at 1 p.m. at the Helene de Champlain, a luxurious restaurant on St. Helen's Island turned over by the city to Mr. Dupuy for duration of the fair.

In the afternoon there may be more entertainment in Place des Nations by the country honored and at 8 p.m. the visiting head is host at an official reception.

Rats Find Pickings Bit Tougher

MONTREAL (CP)—Expo 67, located on a great river and on a major city, is waging a persistent war to control the longstanding population of rats in its neighborhood and the effort is paying off, a top maintenance official said Thursday.

"We can't hope to eliminate rats but we can control them," said Jean Lapage, who supervises most external maintenance at the fair's St. Lawrence River side.

"The population of rats has gone down since construction of Expo facilities was completed. It's no longer a serious problem."

Mr. Lapage said in an interview that the rats had sometimes of a ball in the area of workers' canteens during the four-year construction process.

They had a wide selection of food to choose from at the time and were able to pass up poisoned sandwiches put out by exterminating teams.

Now, with a comprehensive scheme for garbage disposal and collection, the rodents can no longer afford to be choosy. The result is that they are eating what in fact is poisonous matter for lack of anything better, with results fatal to themselves.

Newscast From Expo Can Leave You Chilled

MONTREAL (CP) — If you happened to be strolling through the boisterous site of Expo 67 Thursday night, you may have seen a bespectacled man in a trench coat holding forth from a pulpit in front of the Western Canada pavilion.

He looked cold and sometimes slightly embattled as chilly winds gave him a bit of a battle for his dialogue put on with his job—the televised reading of a news bulletin to a nonexistent audience.

Earl Cameron, veteran CBC announcer, has been in Montreal doing this for several days. And he will be doing it for some time yet.

The breezes and temperatures in the mid-40s made for anything but ideal broadcasting conditions as the national segment of the evening news went on the air at 6:45 p.m. EDT.

However, Mr. Cameron and other members of the newscast staff put the show over as if it originated from a warm studio.

Actually, some of it did, those parts that were of taped reports originating from other CBC centres such as Ottawa, sent to Toronto, then fed onto the line work as the newscast proceeded.

The entire effort was co-ordinated from a control room deep inside a sleek structure situated on the Expo ground and known as the International Broadcasting Centre.

Elmer Safety Flags Raised At Three P E County Schools

AMELIASBURG — The drive to maintain an accident free record among township school children continues.

During the week Elmer safety flags were raised at three public schools with Cpl. Gordon Oliver acting safety officer of the Picton OPP detachment officiating each place. "School children have a great part to play in keeping their Elmer flag flying," Cpl. Oliver explained following the ceremony at Milford Central school on Wednesday. It's proper on to be the best way to get the idea across to them he said pointing out the percentage of accidents involving school children has diminished since the program was introduced.

In the event a pupil at one of the schools becomes a traffic victim the flag at the respective school would be lowered for a period to show a clean record had been marred.

The outdoor flag raising at Kente school on Tuesday was postponed because of rain. At an improvised presentation in the school auditorium the perpetual victim the flag at the respective school would be lowered for a period to show a clean record had been marred.

Sunday School Lesson

Weakness From Within

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Every person faces two enemies — those who would thwart him and his plans, and weaknesses within himself. In the latter case, a person is often described as his own worst enemy.

What is true of an individual was true of the first Christian group. The followers of Jesus faced opposition from the rulers of the state. Two of them, Peter and John, had been arrested for preaching the Christian message. They had been released with a warning not to preach again.

The early Christian group was frightened. They knew they had to continue witness in their faith. They could not live with their consciences if they did not. But this might lead to imprisonment, and even death, for some of them.

So they met together for mutual encouragement and prayer. Like people in all ages, they turned to sacred scriptures for help. In their case, Psalm 2 of the Jewish Psalter spoke directly to their need. The Psalmist tells how "kings of the earth" took counsel "against the Lord and His anointed." But God's plans were not defeated. "The Lord," says the Psalmist, "has them in derision." (Psalm 2:4 RSV) So by Bible reading and prayer, the first Christians were given courage to maintain their faith.

The second danger came from within. So closely were these first Christians tied together by their faith, "as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of what was sold and laid it at the Apostles' feet; and distribution was made to each as any had need." (Acts 4:34 - 35 RSV)

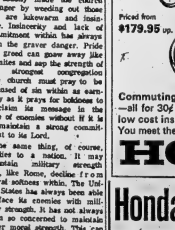
This was a long see mile from present day communism. What these Christians did was motivated by voluntary. No one had to sell his property. No one had to give all he possessed to a common treasury. "While it remained unsold, did it not remain your own? And after it was sold, was it not at your disposal?" Peter specifically asked one of them by the name of Ananias. (Acts 5:4 RSV)

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 7: "The Character of The Early Church." Acts 4:23 through 5:11.

But here was the danger. In order to get credit they did not deserve, Ananias and his wife planned to give all their possessions to the Apostles when in reality, they secretly kept some of it back for themselves.

As Peter pointed out, they had the right to keep as much as they wanted, but they had no right to lie about it. They had no right to try to deceive the Christian group. The shock of being found out in their deception was so great, it brought on the death of both Ananias and his wife.

The practice of common treasury soon dropped out of the picture. It was evidently tried by Christian communities elsewhere also. The danger was left to deception, as to greed for unwarranted praise. Something of the same lesson was learned on U.S. shores. In the beginning, Governor Bradford ordered communistic social living for the Pilgrims. There was one common garden, a common storehouse, but it didn't work. Bradford's history of "Plimouth Plantation" says it led to "much confusion and discontent." Some refused to put their share of the load. So each family was given a parcel of land on which to grow its own food. Each family was expected to take care of its own laundry. This "had very good success." This plan made settlers more industrious, and caused them to plant more corn than had ever been planted before.



The Christian church has always faced two dangers — the danger of persecution from without, and the danger of insincerity and sin within. Persecution usually has led to the church stronger by weeding out those who are lukewarm and insincere. Insincerity and lack of commitment within has always been the greater danger. Pride and greed can gnaw away like termites and sap the strength of the strongest congregation. The church must pray to be cleansed of sin within as earnestly as it prays for boldness to proclaim its message in the face of enemies without if it is to maintain a strong commitment to its Lord.

The same thing, of course, applies to a nation. It may maintain military strength and, like Rome, decline from moral softness within. The United States has always been able to face its enemies with military strength. It has not always been so concerned to maintain inner moral strength. This can only come by unashamed adherence to its democratic principles and to the moral insights of Biblical teaching. The integrity of its people is still a nation's greatest strength.

Elvis Presley Fails to Share Personal Life With Public

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elvis Presley emerged this week from the seclusion of his private life. He celebrated his marriage to Priscilla Ann Beaulieu at a lavish Las Vegas reception, then disappeared once more.

The wedding apparently caused no wave of consternation among the Presley fans. Most of the girls who screamed at his gyrations 10 years ago now are wives and mothers.

Unlike some popular favorites who are willing to share their personal lives with the public, Elvis has led an almost Garbo-like existence in recent years.

He makes no personal appearances, gives only perfunctory interviews on movie sets. His records and movies are his only exposure to the public. While his record sales have been overshadowed by the Beatles and other more recent favorites, he is still a top seller. And he can still earn $1,000,000 apiece for the three films he makes annually.

Elvis first met Priscilla when he was 24 and she was 14. He was stationed with the U.S. Army in West Germany, where her father was an air force officer.

Priscilla finished high school in Memphis, remaining there during Presley's forays to Hollywood for film making. After graduating, she joined his entourage, living in the house like Bel Air mansion Elvis rented during filming.

She used to drive around Memphis in a fire-engine red Corvair convertible," said a Memphis reporter. "She wouldn't say whether Elvis had bought it for her.

"In fact, she wouldn't say much of anything. She was as hard to get to as Elvis."

In fact, she wouldn't say much of anything. She was as hard to get to as Elvis."

During the last year, his fellow movie workers thought Elvis was inclining toward matrimony, especially since several of his close followers were marrying and starting families.

Mind you, it isn't like Miss Booth to be ungracious about industry people. But maybe some of Hazel's candor remains after five years of playing the role. Sipped Donald, she insists on saying what she thinks.

"I remember just before I leaving to do Menagerie in England," she recalled. "My goodie happens to be pepper. bruised, and I opened a newspaper for her.

"My eyes lighted on a story in which Helen Hayes said: That the mother's role in Glass Menagerie is a trap.

"I quickly removed the paper and read what Miss Hayes said: That the mother's role in Glass Menagerie is impossible to play and had killed her friend Laurette Taylor what with all her dieting for it, etc. That should have been an omen for me, but I went to England did it anyway.

"Let me now say that nobody has been able to handle that role, whether it was Laurette Taylor, Helen Hayes, Gertrude Lawrence (in the film version) or Shirley Booth. I could have done better by telephoning my lines in."

Miss Booth would not go as far as George C. Scott, who requested that his nomination for The Hustler in 1961 be withdrawn. The request was denied. But she commented: "That's one acceptance speech I'll never have to make."

Miss Booth now exactlies the role Florence Eldridge was to have played in a CBS Playhouse special, Do Not Go Gentle into the Good Night.

"It's a very small role; I only have four scenes," said Miss Booth. "But I had to do it for the producer, George Shaffer.

"He has had such a terrible time. First the TV strike. Then Freddy March got ill, and naturally his wife Florence wanted to be with him. Freddy is an old friend, and I wanted to help out." The March role has been assumed by Melvin Douglas.

Chaplain Speaks to Assoc. For Mentally Retarded

NAPANEE — "A mentally retarded person must be considered, not according to the size of his body, but according to the age of his mind," stated Rev. Ernest Phipps, chaplain of the Mid-east Regional Hospital School at Smiths Falls, when he spoke on Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Napanee and Addington Association for the Mentally Retarded. Meetings are held in Happy Day School, opened January 9 through the efforts of this Association.

Born in England, Mr. Phipps was the rector of an Anglican Church in Calgary before coming to Smiths Falls. He dwelt on his method giving them religious instructions. A question and answer period which followed his address was most enlightening.

Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Gerald Rose and the report of the treasurer, Mrs. Clifford Pringle was received. It reported donations of $50 from the Rebekahs and the IOOF.

President Harold Todd, announced a conference on adult training to be held in Toronto June 8 through 10, open to all who were interested. He gave a report, also, on the weekend seminar conducted by the Ontario Association for the Mentally Retarded which he had attended in Ottawa. The solution submitted to the Ontario Government was to the effect — "that the retarded schools be taken over by the Department of Education, as are other schools".

Plans were completed for Open House at the Happy Day School May 10, when the public will be welcome to visit the school to see for themselves what retarded children can accomplish when properly trained.

Mrs. Fritz Julliussen accepted the chairmanship of the refreshment committee.

Mrs. Gladys Martin, the teacher, suggested that, instead of having plants sent to the school by some adult, that they be brought to her to be planted by the children as part of their training. Some of the children are quite capable of doing this under supervision, she stated.

OPP Reports A Decrease In Mishaps

NAPANEE — Although accidents may occur at any hour of the day or night, during May of last year, the danger period was between 5 and 11 p.m., the weekly report of the Napanee detachment of the OPP points out. The report explains this by noting that the driver is fatigued by his day's work and hence is less alert. Also, he is in a hurry to get home.

April 1967 showed 30 per cent fewer accidents than the same month last year, according to the report. The first four months of this year show a drop of 25 per cent compared to the same period last year.

In addition is the eight traffic accidents investigated last week, officers made only 31 additional investigations: three break and enters, nine disturbances, 19 other minor disturbances and one investigation of a breach of the Liquor Control Act which led to a charge being laid.

To Your Good Health

Liquid Diets Are Readily Available

I wouldn't have believed it! In this column a little while ago I mentioned the liquid diets that a few years ago were so much in vogue for reducing, but were originated for other purposes.

Ever since I've been getting inquiries from people asking where they can get these liquid diets, as if they were scarce or hard to find.

If your grocer doesn't carry them, your druggist doubtless does — and I don't have to stretch my memory to recall when those "tin-can chefs" were a common topic of conversation all over the country.

I don't know how much they now are being used for reducing diets, reducing being so boost by fads that come and go, but the liquid diets still have various uses.

They come in cans with a measured number of calories, composed of so much protein, carbohydrates, and fat, plus minerals and vitamins to protect folks who aren't getting them from other food.

They come in various flavors, and at one time you could even get flavoring to make them taste somethine like alcohol drinks, which, however, always struck me as being a little too-too.

Anyway, they are moderate cost and may now be getting back to use in their original purposes — balanced nutrition in a form easy to take. They can be used for elderly patients who have difficulty eating enough ordinary foods. They can be used as a source of added between-meals feedings, for people who want to gain weight. They can be helpful at times when other conditions make feeding difficult.

If your grocer and druggist don't know what you mean if you ask for the 800-calorie liquid diets, your doctor can steer you.

Dear Dr. Molner: How can I get a breakfast from Medic Alert? I have been very ill lately. — Mrs. R. S.

Dear Doctor: My husband is diabetic. He doesn't drink but at times could pass for a drunk because of the disease. Where can we get a bracelet or other insignia identifying him as diabetic? — Mrs. W.H.

Write to Medic Alert, Turlock, Calif., 95380.

Any person with an ailment such as diabetes, epilepsy or similar problems, or who is confined medication of a serious nature, such as anticoagulants, should carry some form of identification.

Medic Alert is a non-profit group doing an excellent job at this. A card may well be carried in wallet or handbag, but some more obvious symbol is very useful. Such insignia can also be obtained from jewelry or drug stores, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife says it isn't possible to be allergic to a poodle. Is this right or wrong? — E. L. R.

There may be some reason to think that poodles are less likely to cause allergies, but animal danders (hair, dust, flakes of skin) are a fairly common cause, and I know of no reason why poodles shouldn't be guilty, too.

Note to E. D. M.: Feeling, in general, is to avoid forcing children to stay at the table until they finish the whole dinner. If they aren't hungry, they aren't. But — and this is important — no snacks or eating between meals should be discussed. They wait until the next meal.

Singers On Record Identified

TORONTO (CP)—The Young Canada Singers who recorded the best-selling Ca-Na-Da song, are five children and two women from Toronto.

Four of the youngsters are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Craddock.

The ceremonial commission would not identify the singers, referred to only as The Young Canada Singers on the record cover.

One of the adults is Lynne Ginsby, 22-year-old daughter of the song's composer, Bobby Ginsby. The other is Yvonne Lauder, a bass player's wife.

The children are Laura Lee Rose, daughter of a musician, and the four Craddocks: Ken, 13, Tom, 12, Bonnie, 11, and Tammy, 9.

What is advertising?

ADVERTISING IS YOUR BUYING GUIDE

Advertising, quite simply, is news. News about products and services. When that news is about a product you're interested in buying, it's usually good news, too. It gives you an opportunity to learn more about the product.

To compare features and prices. To decide which is the best value for you. It is, indeed, a very convenient buying guide.

To be sure, the purpose of advertising is to interest you in goods and services. To sell them to you if possible. But the ultimate decision to buy is yours to make. And you make it, as a rule, not after reading one ad, but after reading a number of ads run by different manufacturers or different shops.

That's one of the virtues of our competitive economy. Lots of ads. Providing you with a lot of information to help you make the best possible buying decision.

Parole in Two Years?

Eight Disbelieved Truscott; Dissenter Found 'Grave Errors'

OTTAWA (CP) — The leaden prospect of continued life in prison stretches before Steven Murray Truscott.

A government-ordered study of his 27-month confinement as age 14 was completed Thursday when eight justices of the Supreme Court of Canada upheld his conviction. One dissented.

The majority opinion was that there were "many incredibilities" in his denial that he killed 12-year-old Lynne Harper in 1959 near the Clinton, Ont., RCAF base where the parents of both youngsters were stationed.

The federal cabinet asked for the high court opinion and the question of any further action in the case now rests there. But it is considered unlikely the cabinet would adopt any course of action counter to the majority opinion.

Solicitor-General Pennell, who announced the reference to the high court a year ago when controversy was sparked by a book on the Truscott case, told reporters after the court announcement the decision "speaks for itself."

Asked what the next step might be, he said: "I'm not prepared to say now that there is any next step."

For Truscott, who has spent eight of his 22 years behind bars, this was strong indication that he will continue serving the life sentence ordered for him after his sentence of death was commuted in 1960. He is eligible for parole in about two years.

Truscott was allowed to speak to his mother and Isabel LeBourdais, author of The Trial of Steven Truscott which cast doubt on his conviction and stirred a controversy over the case.

Afterwards he returned to his job in the prison machine shop.

Mrs. LeBourdais and his parents vowed they would continue to fight on Steven's behalf.

But the last legal avenue of appeal appeared solidly walled by the Supreme Court opinion.

In referring Truscott's case to the court, the government asked it to consider not only the trial record but such further evidence as it considered fit. It asked the court for an opinion, once this had been done, on whether it would have allowed an appeal of the case.

Mr. Justice J. R. Cartwright read the finding in the panelled Supreme Court chamber just after 10:30 a.m.:

"The answer of the court is that this court would have dismissed such an appeal."

The answer of the lone dissenter, Mr. Justice E. M. Hall, was "that such an appeal should have been allowed, the conviction quashed and a new trial ordered."

In the telephone conversation, Mrs. Truscott told her son: "Keep busy, son. We're not quitting."

Mrs. LeBourdais told Steven she intended to keep a promise she had made him. She did not say what it was.

Mr. Truscott, a former RCAF warrant officer released from the service last week, said: "I'm not going to quit, by God."

He said he would "go clean across the country getting signatures, if I have to."

The Crown case against Truscott was based largely on circumstantial evidence that hinged on two key points:

1. The contention that Lynne Harper was sexually assaulted and strangled between 7:15 and 7:45 p.m., June 9, 1959, in Lawson's bush near the Clinton station, where her body was found two days later.

2. The contention that notes discovered on Truscott's pants after his arrest were consistent with a sexual attack on a young girl.

A score of medical experts appeared for both sides and gave divergent views on the evidence used to pin down the time of death and the possible causes of sores on Truscott's penis.

Dr. F. L. Penistan, who did an autopsy on the body, quoted the knowledge that the girl had her last meal at home about 5:45 p.m. June 9 with the state of digestion of the stomach content to maintain that death came not more than two hours after the meal.

He also used the degree of rigor mortis—stiffening—of the body in his contention.

Defence experts argued that the time of death could not be so strictly defined.

The majority opinion noted that experts called in later were using photographs of the body while Dr. Penistan had first-hand knowledge.

". . . We think that the man who actually saw the condition had an overwhelming advantage over those who were testifying from photographs."

The eight justices said: "Dr. Penistan's evidence on rigor mortis must be accepted and the defence evidence on this subject tending to put the time of death at a later hour must be rejected."

They found it "impossible to accept" Truscott's explanation that he never told anyone about sores on the sides of the penis, which he said he first noticed some six weeks before June 9, until he was interviewed by his lawyer last year before the Supreme Court hearing.

Doctors who examined Truscott the day after the body was found discovered the sores. Truscott's father was present during this examination.

The eight summed up the special hearing this way:

"There were many incredibilities contained in the evidence given by Truscott before us and we do not believe his testimony. . . . We think the sum total of the testimony of the expert witnesses is, in our opinion, to add strength to the opinion expressed by Dr. Penistan at the trial that the murdered girl was dead by 7:45 p.m."

The eight accepted the Crown contention that the rape and killing took place in Lawson's bush, spurning the defence contention that the girl could have been attacked elsewhere and her body dumped there later.

"We do not think there is any doubt about the place of death. The position of the body, the scuff marks and footprint at the log, and the flattening of vegetation between the legs indicated that the act of rape took place there."

Shoulder and back pathyrns on the body were "consistent with their having been made by twigs scattered around the ground."

Mr. Justice Hall, in his dissent, found "grave errors in the trial brought about principally by Crown counsel's method in trying to establish guilt and by the learned trial judge's failure to appreciate the course being followed by the Crown would necessarily involve the jury being led away from an objective appraisal of the evidence. . . ."

He noted evidence given by Jocelyn Godette, who said she had an arrangement to meet Truscott near Lawson's bush June 9 but was unable to do so because a late supper kept her at home.

Crown counsel, in summation, said if the Godettes were late having supper "it was a God's blessing to that girl." Mr. Justice Hall said the judge rested amid the "impropriety of this prejudicial and inflammatory" statement but too late.

Counsel was "pursuing a planned course of action that included the subtle perverting of the jury to the idea that Truscott was sex hungry that Tuesday evening and determined to have a girl in Lawson's bush to satisfy his desires, if not Jocelyn, then Lynne."

The jury should have been told to disregard Crown evidence about tire marks in mud near the bush that were linked to Truscott's bicycle, the justice said, because they could only have been made under rain conditions many days before June 9.

He objected to the "sinister theory" advanced by the Crown that Truscott deliberately placed Lynne Harper's locket near a fence beside the woodlot as an attempt to mislead police into thinking the girl had been taken into the bush after death.

This theorizing by the Crown "allowed without one iota of evidence" to support it and was "prejudicial and inflammatory."

Mr. Justice Hall said the judge erred in his charge to the jury about theories of Dr. Frederick Stan and Dr. Berkley Brown, an internal specialist called on Truscott's behalf who contended it would take longer for the stomach to empty itself after a meal and thus the time of death might have been later than 7:45 p.m.

"The trial judge said the jury must decide "whether you accept Dr. Penistan's theory, an attorney-general's pathologist of many years standing, or do you accept Dr. Brown's evidence."

The justice said this was "clearly a misdirection" leading to favor Dr. Penistan.

The crime was bound to arouse local indignation and it was inevitable that suspicion should fall on Truscott as the last person to be seen with the girl in the general area where her body was found, the justice wrote. In such circumstances judicial machinery must function objectively.

"This standard was not lived up to in the trial under review in a number of instances which can by one were damaging to Truscott and taken collectively vitiated the trial."

A bad trial "remains a bad trial" and the only remedy "is a new trial."

The majority opinion noted defence counsel declined a chance to move for a mistrial after the Crown improperly referred to statements taken by police and signed by Truscott.

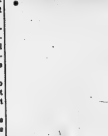
Mr. Justice Hall wrote that failure of counsel to object to objectionable or to evidence introduced during the trial is no answer to such objectionable character they might be raised.

"The consequences of defence counsel's failure to object at the trial do not fall upon counsel but upon the client, in this case a 14½-year-old boy on trial for his life."

How Much Evidence Do They Need: Mother

TORONTO (CP) — Steven Truscott's parents were stunned Thursday by news that their son's last hope for a reversal of his conviction on a murder charge had ended with a decision by the Supreme Court of Canada.

"God: How much evidence do they need?" said Doris Truscott as she sat in the living room of a Toronto home with her husband Don and Isabel LeBourdais, the Toronto author whose book on the Truscott case sparked the Supreme Court review.



Don Truscott, his eyes filled with tears, reached out to grip his wife's shoulder.

Mrs. Truscott, holding a handkerchief to her face, got up to go to a phone.

"I must tell him," she said. "Do you think they'll let me speak to him?"

"Yes, dial direct," said E. B Jolliffe, young Truscott's defence lawyer, who also was present. "I think it has been arranged. He should be in the office."

LeBourdais "Shocked"

TORONTO (CP)—The author of the book which stirred up public interest in the Truscott case last year said Thursday she "won't give up trying, to prove he's innocent."

Mrs. Isabel LeBourdais said she was "very surprised, very shocked" by the Supreme Court of Canada's ruling Wednesday that it would have rejected an appeal by Steven Truscott against his 1959 conviction of murdering 12-year-old Lynne Harper.

Her book, The Trial of Steven Truscott, published in March, 1966, pleaded Truscott's innocence and raised a public reaction demanding a review of the case.

"I'd be very hypocritical and inhuman if I changed my opinion about Steven's innocence now," she said.

The provincial police officer who originally arrested Truscott in June, 1959, said he took "no joy over it either way" when he was told of the court's decision.

Harold Graham, an OPP inspector then, now assistant commissioner, said:

"The case was carefully investigated by all officers concerned with it and we felt all along there was sufficient evidence to support the verdict the jury reached."

Dr. James J. Hartford, who testified at the Supreme Court review, expressed surprise at the decision.

"On the basis of the way the hearing went, I would have thought they would have acquitted Truscott," he said.

Dr. Hartford was a consultant at Guelph reformatory when Truscott was held there. He examined Truscott several times in 1960 and 1962.

Barry Lower, brother of the slain girl also would not comment.

"My mother's quite upset and she doesn't want to speak to anyone," he said.

Body of Governor General Vanier Placed in Citadel

QUEBEC (CP) — The late Gov.-Gen. Georges Vanier was buried with full military honors Thursday amid the wailing of a trumpet, booming of guns and singing of soldiers.

The maple leaf flag-draped coffin was placed beneath the floor of a gryphon memorial bell at the Citadel, the 18th-century fortress which is home for the Royal 22nd Regiment.

Among the mourners were Mme. Vanier and her five children, Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener, Prime Minister Pearson, former prime minister Louis St. Laurent and Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson.

The Queen, colonel-in-chief of the famed French-Canadian regiment which Gen. Vanier helped to found, had a wreath placed. A note said: "From the Queen."

The general, whose public service in war and peace ranks him among the great Canadians of his generation, died March 5. Buried awaited preparation of the special place in the Citadel.

The burial service was held on Ascension Day, a day of rejoicing in the Roman Catholic Church marking the Ascension to heaven of Jesus Christ 40 days after he died on the cross.

Mass was celebrated by Most Rev. Cardinal Roy, archbishop of Quebec who is bishop ordinary of the armed forces and who was chaplain of the regiment during the Second World War.

The religious ceremony was held in the Citadel's greystone and brown-brick chapel, once the fortress' powder magazine. It lasted an hour.

The military ceremony, on the parade square under sun and cloud in a brisk chilly wind, began at noon as eight Van Doos bore the coffin toward the memorial.

The 8th Field Artillery Regiment (Nijmegen) began firing a 21-gun salute and the 22nd's band played God Save the Queen. Just as the coffin bearers emerged from the chapel, the sun broke out.

All was silent except for the trumpet wailing the last pool, the boom of 17-pounders, and then the trumpet sounding brighter with the Reveille.

The band struck up O Canada and hundreds of Van Doos assembled in the square heartily sang Canada's national anthem in French.

Atop the coffin rested the general's military cap, sword and golden aiguillettes, the shoulder-knots worn by officers. There also was a tiny bouquet of red and white roses from the family.

Mme. Vanier, sorrow streaked across her face, accompanied the coffin into the Memorial Hall as did members of her family, Gov.-Gen. Michener and Prime Minister Pearson.

She emerged, after a brief religious ceremony there, carrying one red rose. The other red rose in the bouquet remained inside with the general.

Never before had there been a burial at the Citadel which dates to 1820. It has been a garrison to soldiers since then, first the British, then Canadians. Van Doos have been there since 1920.

The memorial, dedicated Oct. 10, 1964, on the regiment's 25th anniversary by the Queen, commemorates the 1,450 Van Doos killed during the First and Second World Wars and the Korean War.

Gen. Vanier, colonel of the regiment 1925-28, visited the Citadel many times as Governor-General since the Quebec residence of the Queen's representative is located there.

Single Dictator Expected In Greece's Military Junta

ATHENS (AP)—Observers in Athens predict that a sigle dictator will emerge from Greece's ruling military junta, possibly following a power struggle.

Col. George Papadopoulos, a former counter-espionage officer, and Brig. Gen. Stylianos Pattacos, an aerctic tank commander, are considered the most powerful men in the country today.

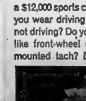
With Col. Nicholas Makarezos, a student of economics, they planned and executed the right-list military coup April 21.

From the outset observers have believed that the triumvirate would give way to one top man.

Makarezos, minister of economic co-ordination, already has faded into the background. Papadopoulos, 48, held the junta's first full-scale press conference April 27, revealing that King Constantine knew nothing of the coup before it happened. He is minister to the puppet civilian premier, Constantine Kollias.

Pattacos, 53, as foreign minister, controls the security forces. In addition to banning mini-skirts and beatnik haircuts for students, he made a major announcement last Saturday, declaring that the regime would form a new state with a revised constitution.

The political analyst of a foreign embassy, wrestling with the problem, said: "They seem to speak for no one but themselves. They never refer to my distinguished colleague."



Some consider this individualism an indication that a struggle for power is in the offing. Other observers believe a single leader must have existed before the coup.

Napanee Hospital Faces Grey Listing

Ontario Body Backs Fired 3

NAPANEE — The Lennox and Addington County General Hospital — still the core of an administrative controversy — now faces a future boycott by registered nurses.

The predicament is posed in a statement today from the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, after its officials met with hospital executives yesterday on the recent dismissal of three nurses.

The hospital, said the announcement, refused to reinstate the nurses and the RNAO now is considering a move that would list the hospital out of bounds to all registered nurses seeking future employment there.

The RNAO action is known as "grey-listing."

"The effect of the grey list would be that registered nurses would decline to accept employment in the hospital," said the announcement. "However, present staff would not be affected — that is they would not be expected to resign."

The warning moves the controversy at the hospital into a new, uneasy dimension which already has seen the resignation of the hospital board chairmen and the director of nursing.

Fred Creighton, one of the founding members of the years-old-hospital, quit April 26 in support of the three dismissed nurses.

Resignations originally were tendered last February by Mrs. Betty Heiman, a nursing supervisor; Mrs. Roy Markman, chief operating room nurse and Mrs. John Glen, emergency department head nurse.

April 3 they were suddenly dismissed by hospital administrator James Hepburn.

Next move in the controversy came April 27 as the hospital accepted the resignation of nursing director Violet Cambbin.

Yesterday the RNAO despatched L. B. Sharpe aid Anne Gribben, its management-personnel-experts, to discuss the three firings with administrator Hepburn.

The RNAO announcement later tersely noted the represen-

Hope Dims For Life Of Girl

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Burlington and provincial police are becoming increasingly convinced that missing Marianne Sebozit's chances of being alive are slim.

The only eleopuncovered since the 10-year-old Kilbride, Ont. schoolgirl disappeared a week last Thursday is a blue running shoe found a week ago near Speyside, 20 miles north of here.

The girl's mother identified the shoe as Marianne's, but this has not been confirmed by experts.

Intense searches have been conducted since the girl was first reported missing. She was last seen getting into a station wagon outside her school.

Thursday, police ended a four-day, shoulder-to-shoulder search through bushland near Speyside without finding a trace of the missing girl.

Shulman Fingers Robarts

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Morton Shulman said that in one case where his action was blocked while he was chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, a top civil servant told him that instructions came from Premier John Robarts.

The premier is mentioned in a 232-page brief Dr. Shulman has been trying to present to the royal commission investigating his allegations of interference and suppression against provincial officials.

He said in an interview Friday night he had been upset that the brief had been released.

"It had been my request that only those portions of the brief which had been heard by the commission should be publicly released.

The commission hearing adjourned Friday until Tuesday. Contents of part of the brief were released later.

One part deals with the death of Horace Leslie Burnett at the Shoreline Clinic in Toronto in July, 1963.

A coroners jury heard evidence on the death and recommended an overhaul of operating practice at the clinic, but the Supreme Court of Ontario quashed the inquest in September, 1963, because Dr. Shulman had sat in with the coroner, Dr. Elie Cass.

Dr. Shulmans brief reviews his efforts to have the ruling opposed and to have the clinic change its practices.

He says he received a telephone call from Frank Wilson, assistant deputy attorney - general, who told him the chief had talked to Premier Robarts. He was told by Mr. Wilson, he says, that Mr. Robarts had issued instructions to Attorney - General Arthur Wishart that no further action was to be taken.

Cosa Nostra 'Invades' Expo

QUEBEC (CP) — Former justice minister Claude Wagner said Friday night Expo 67 at Montreal has been infiltrated by organized crime of Costa Nostra caliber.

He told the legislature that four companies with key concessions at the world's fair are really "a screen for other activities" of Mafia underworld figures.

Punctuating his remarks with smiles at Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand, he said:

1. Fleur de Lys Vending Machines, which has "the concession for all automated facilities at Expo," is run by one Joe Frankel, described as "chief of the Montreal bookies."

2. O'Brient Meat Market, which has "all meat concessions at Expo," is owned by William O'Brent, "a notorious member of the Mafia . . . who operated a meat protection racket."

3. New System Towels Supply, which has the napkins concession in, "a screen for underworld figures."

4. Margie's Florist Shop, which has the concession to sell flowers on the site, was involved in a $300,000 bankruptcy under the name of a firm whose assets "disappeared."

Mr. Wagner, Liberal member for Verdun, built up a reputation as a crime-busting judge in Montreal before entering politics in 1964. He was justice minister 1964-66.

He said underworld characters evidently took advantage of the system of awarding concessions for the 1967 world Exhibition.

Asked to elaborate when the session ended, Mr. Wagner said: "I don't want to add anything outside the house."

Justice Minister Bertrand said police will act on the charges if they are true. "They not only have the freedom to act," he said, "They have the duty to act."

Mr. Wagner's confession that organized crime of a Cosa Nostra pattern has moved into activities at Expo echoes statements made in Montreal last month by Ralph Salerno, formerly with the New York police department's intelligence branch.

"First I get a coloring book . . .
then if I'm good a balloon.
Next this guy grabs me from behind

And top it off a photographer blinds me."

It was just too much for one-year-old Gary Glenn at an Emporia, Kansas measles clinic.

Trench-Coated Youths' Riot at Bond Movie

BOSTON (AP)—An estimated 10,000 college-age youths responding to a movie theatre promotion rioted for almost three hours early today in the congested hooky - tonk district downtown.

Police Capt. Joseph Hanley, who made the crowd estimate, said the melee was "out of control for a while" until more than 75 policemen could disperse the rioters.

More than 20 persons were arrested.

At least five other persons were taken to hospital. Three were treated for cuts and two for dog bites. Police said two dogs from the canine corps were at the scene, but it was not known whether those bitten were injured by these or by other dogs seen in the area.

The riot followed an offer of the Savoy Theatre to admit free anyone clad in a James Bond-type trench coat to a special preview showing of Casino Royayel, a new picture that parodies the Bond films.

The showing was scheduled for 4 a.m., but the crowd "became so huge," said house manager John P. Sullivan, that the doors were opened at 1:30 a.m.

Sullivan said the theatre was filled to its 2,856 capacity by 1:45 a.m. and the showing of the two hour and 15 minute film began.

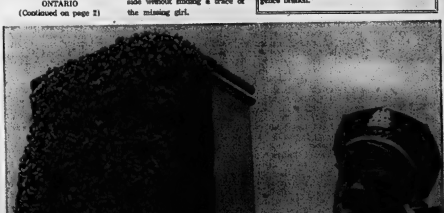
Thousands of would-be patrons unable to be seated bottled up a block-long section of Washington, Street outside the theatre and spilled over into several side streets.

Liquid Gold on Auction Block

LONDON (CP) — Some wealthy wine connoisseur here will soon be drinking liquid gold with his meal-well, almost.

Three dozen bottles of a rare 1921 hock, expected to fetch $42 a bottle, go on sale Monday at Sotheby's, the Mayfair auctioneers, among a collection of some of the finest wines of the century drawn from private cellars in England and Germany.

The hock, at present lying in a German castle, is 1937 Erbacher Marcobrunn Trockenbeeren - Auslese — that last phrase is the secret of the price, because it means the grapes were individually hand - picked and ripened.



It will be the most costly wine in the 4,500-bottle sale, which contains vintages from 1924 to 1962 and is expected to bring a total of $30,000. Most of the bidders will be restaurateurs and wine merchants, says sale organizer John Bowles-Lyon.

Among rare clarets in the sale are 32 bottles of 1928 Chateau Cheval Blanc, a St. Emilion vintage described by Bowes-Lyon as "one of the greatest wines of the century. It will probably fetch just under $18 a bottle,

Although it is only the fourth wine sale in Sotheby's 223-year history, Christie's, the rival first-art auctioneers, hold them weekly.

Christie's, which sold a record 288,000 bottles for $436,000 in one day this week, has an unusual sale coming up May 31 with some of the oldest and rarest wines ever offered for auction.

Prize of the collection, which comes from the cellars of three stately homes, is a magnum of 1740 canary wine said to be in perfect condition. It may fetch as much as $750.

Pearson Could Reverse 1958 With Fall Election

OTTAWA (CP)—When Opposition Leader Diefenbaker made an appeal for party unity this week, the tendency was to regard it as another move in the chess game for the Conservative party leadership.

Root of this belief is that a Diefenbaker - led Conservative party would fare better in a general election next fall or winter than a party led by one of the candidates seeking to replace him at a leadership convention Sept. 6-9.

However, informants say the Conservative leader meant it when he linked his unity appeal to the possibility of a general election. Any benefits in strengthening his hold on the leadership were incidental.

Personalities and circumstances may be shaping events towards a general election in the Conservative chief's view, one shared by parliamentarians of other parties.

Significant is the replacement of Works Minister McIlraith by Health Minister MacEachen as government leader in the Commons, an exacting job requiring considerable diplomacy if the legislative program isn't to stall.

The minority Liberal government, dependent on support from one or more of the opposition groups to survive crucial votes, must try judicious application of the carrot and the stick to drive its legislation forward.

Mr. MacEachen, a skilful parliamentarian, hasn't the leverage conferred by the works portfolio with opposition MPs dependent on federal grants for their ridings. It is not crucial leverage but is regarded by political observers as important.

Mr. MacEachen has sparked considerable distaste among the New Democrats in the past, he has seized with relish on opportunities to portray the New Democrats as inspected dreamers.

While this may not drive votes away from the government on issues which might bring on a general election, it is not calculated to smooth the passage through Parliament of the government's already - announced heavy program of legislation.

Linked to any foot dragging on the opposition side of the house when the memory of what Mr. Diefenbaker did to the Liberals in early 1958.

At that time, Mr. Diefenbaker headed a minority government. Lester B. Pearson won the party leadership in January.

Mr. Pearson had hardly settled into his seat as opposition leader when Mr. Diefenbaker, claiming Liberal obstruction, abruptly dissolved Parliament for a general election March 31. The election produced the largest government majority since Confederation.

The temptation to repeat Mr. Diefenbaker's performance after the Conservative convention in Toronto Sept. 6-9 is there for Mr. Pearson, who has been denied a majority in elections in 1963 and 1965.

Any opposition reluctance to give speedy passage to his legislative program could furnish Mr. Pearson with the same reason used in 1958 by Mr. Diefenbaker for calling an election—in this case, in late November or early December before a new Conservative leader has his hands firmly on the party reins.

Even if he passes up that temptation, Mr. Pearson could seek his majority in March or April, leaving only a few months for a new Conservative leader to mould the party as his own instrument.

Changed School Ceilings Could Mean Extra $600,000 in Grants

School boards in Belleville are doing some hasty homework in anticipation of this weekend — figuring their share in the Ontario government's new grants boost announced last night.

Educatidn Minister William Davis told the legislature Friday that the new program of capital grants for school construction will be made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1961.

The grants program, announced Feb. 20, originally applied to those construction programs receiving final approval after Jan. 1, this year.

He said the extension will cost the government about $6,000 000 annually and reduce local costs. Ceilings of $20,000 a classroom, for elementary schools, and $25,000 a classroom for secondary schools were removed by the government.

First reaction came from Mayor Jack Ellis as he and city council prepare to talk secondary school budgets Monday.

He hoped the legislation would have significance for city educational grants.

"If so — we're delighted and any savings will be turned back to the taxpayers."

One Belleville public school official estimated the new structure could mean an extra $100,- 000 to the city on retroactive grants on outstanding debenture payments.

In all, about 15 classrooms, including the new Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir MacKenzie Bowell schools, might be affected, said school board chairman Mac Smith.

Mr. Smith, said he and school officials had not yet worked out the possible extra aid involved.

However, he estimated "it would be a big help."

Belleville's new Centennial Secondary School may also qualify for the increased grants.

One official estimated it could mean an extra $25,000 a year on current annual debenture payments of $150,000 for 20 years.

However, in all cases, local administrators were cautious in their reactions until they have got their heads together and figured out the technicalities of the new legislation.

Mayor Ellis also hoped Centennial Secondary would qualify for the new grant structure.

"We'll be talking about the secondary school budget in council on Monday and if we can get the figures in by then they will obviously be reflected in this year's budget and turned back to the taxpayers."

Existing construction will have the ceiling raised, on approval, by 50 and 100 per cent on elementary and secondary schools, respectively.

Mr. Davis said, for example, approval given for an elementary school for $200,000 will be revised to $300,000. Secondary school approvals of $720,000 would be revised to $1,200,000 or the actual cost, whichever is less.

Government school construction grants regulations require school boards to float debentures for total building costs but the government agrees before hand to pay a portion of the debenture - retirement costs. With the new program Ontario will raise its share of the retirement costs in 1967 and until the debt is paid.

Park Committee Receives Equipment From PS. Board

DESERONTO — Every organization in Deseronto seems to be doing its bit to bring Centennial Park into being before the deadline, July 1. Monday evening it was the turn of the School Board.

A letter from councillor Higgins, a member of Centennial Park Committee, asked for equipment lying idle in the vacant high school, now the property of the Public School Board. His request was complied with and the equipment was turned over to the Park Committee and included four toilets, two wash basins, four benches, one cupboard and several bicycle racks. The Board is still puzzled over the disposal of the property itself.

Permission was granted to plant trees on the school property, and Principal Uens stated that he plans to have them set out by the children themselves this week. The pupils will also assist in the tree planting in Centennial Park. Authority was given for the purchase of a Centennial crab tree, to be planted at the front of the school.

A grant of up to $2000 made to the school to go toward defraying expenses for the trip to Expo, for the annual banquet in June for the graduating class. The senior pupils will visit Expo June 9. Adults accompanying them as supervisors include: the staff members to take the necessary training to teach the class.

staff; Gordon Brennan, the caretaker; Mrs. Giselle Saunders and George Lyons, board members; and Mrs. William Jackson.

Principal Uens described two projects of the school to mark Centennial year. School colors and a school crest will be chosen. The crest will be chosen from those designed, by the pupils, and will be brought to the next meeting for the approval of the Board.

The Board is planning to rent space for a classroom next year, in June for the graduating class, using the classroom vacated by the other class. Mr. Uens will ask Mrs. Eva Lefaver, one of the staff members to take the necessary training to teach the class.

Fishing Derby In Full Swing On Trent River

TRENTON — Dozens of boats were out on the Trent River early today, below Dam no. 1 with their owners steadily searching the waters for the biggest specimens of pike and walleye pickerel.

Whoever comes up with the Grandaddy of them all by tomorrow night at 4 p.m. will win the jackpot . . . a 12 foot aluminum car topper and a Johnson Fisherman's motor.

The sponsoring body, Legion Broad Bill, has adopted the slogan, "follow the fish" for the weekend event.

DANCE SUCCESS

Trenton's first psychedelic lollipop dance at the community gardens last night was a decided success with thousands of teen-agers getting around. Line of standing in a solid block to listen to the band or the expert dance work of the Quinte area's own Dave Charles.

Three Family Brick House Threatened

PICTON — Quick action by town firemen yesterday averted the threatening of a three-family brick tenement house here.

The blaze was first discovered about 4:30 p.m. at the rear of a mounted walls from the rear of the house near the intersection of King and Peel streets.

Families hastily removed belongings as firemen under Chief Dwayne Foshay raced to the scene and quickly brought the blaze under control.

No estimate of damage was available.

Oh! Oh! -- It's Up

City meter attendant Clarence Bovay checks meter on downtown street as new tariffs can mean tickets for motorists caught unawares.

Meter System Revamped On Three Main Streets

Double your money doesn't always mean double your fun.

And in that respect there's bad news tonight — if you haven't noticed it already.

Belleville's Parking Authority has now completed reviewing its meter system on three feeder streets in the Front St. area — halving the time available for the traditional nickel.

The streets involved are Campbell, Bridge East and Victoria Avenue.

Authority chairman Glencoe Thompson confirmed yesterday new mechanisms had been installed in all meters bringing them in line with costs charged by the sidewalk computers already lining Front Street.

Cost of each installation was $3-4, he estimated.

The means the motorist may now only purchase his maximum parking time for five cents — opposed to the long-established one-hour 'on these streets.

It also means that much less time before the meter runs out and you're subject to fine by the Authority's diligent meterman.

Fleeing Police Cost Youth $50 Fine

A 20-year-old Point Anne youth this week was fined a maximum $50 after he pleaded guilty to fleeing police at speeds up to 100 miles an hour on the Macdonald-Cartier freeway.

OPP constable Jack Chase said he chased David Murray Lott from the Shannonville turn-off to Point Anne. The youth, despite pushing his cruiser at speeds between 95 and 100 miles an hour.

Lott was apprehended near Belleville after a second police car stopped the speeding maniac on the highway ahead of the chase.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills noted the maximum fine was $50, but warned Lott: "The next time be careful or they might charge you with a second offence."

However, K ompha s ized: "Our concern is the children in the affair to suggest that the nurses involved are other than competent, dedicated persons. These senior nurses lost their position in attempting to bring about better nursing care for the patients and more effective nursing administration within the hospital service — and that their suggestions fell on deaf ears," the RNAO charges.

A fourth nurse at the hospital, Mrs. D. Bartlett, was also instructed to take an indefinite vacation last month. However, she has since been recalled and is now on duty.

Employment News

The employment picture during the past week as represented by employer labor requirements listed with the Canada Manpower Centre presented the following trends. The local industrial plants required only a few additional workers and the employment opportunities were scarce for either the male or female job seekers. The construction field showed an increased labor demand and it is anticipated that this demand will gather strength in the weeks ahead.

The labor demand for the female worker continued to be slow with the majority of vacancies coming from the services field — waitresses, kitchen help, dayworkers, and babysitters. The recent heavy rainfall delayed the plans of the local farmers to complete their seeding of early pea and grain crops.

Increasing the number of persons seeking employment through the Canada Manpower Centre was the influx of university graduates returning to their homes in this community. Unfortunately, their efforts in obtaining immediate local temporary work have been disappointing. They report that this condition is not solely a local one but has been encountered in the vicinity of their university centres.

It is, therefore, drawn to the attension of local employers that there is a supply of available workers seeking not only permanent but also temporary and casual work, during which time they are invited to review their immediate or anticipated labor requirements and list them with the Canada Manpower Centre at 324 Church Street, Belleville or telephone 962-8681.

The following employment opportunities are now available at this office.

In the female division locally, an experienced cashier is required by a large retail store for part time work.

There is a position in child welfare for part time work as a housekeeper. This calls for the supervision of children, with some housework but no cooking duties.

Another part time job is being offered for a motel room clerk. In this case, previous experience is not essential as the employer prefers to train the person hired in their management methods. There are also requirements for motel and hotel waitresses, kitchen help and a cook.

An out-of-town opportunity is available for a secretary to the president of a firm. This calls for the ability to take and transcribe shorthand quickly and accurately, as well as for other related duties such as keeping records and making appointments.

There is still an urgent local requirement for registered nurses and registered nursing assistants.

In the male division locally, there are positions available for experienced barbers, qualified cooks and short order cooks. Local farmers are seeking the services of experienced farm hands both single and married.

An experienced spray painter is required for work in the rural areas which would include the painting of barns. There are vacant positions calling for an experienced cylindrical grinder operator, a machinist and a linotype operator.

Other employment opportunities are available for an accounting clerk, an assistant steward, a motel room clerk, an experienced fuel tank truck driver and restaurant drivers.

Anyone interested in any of these positions, seeking other employment or thinking of reentering the labor market, is invited to contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 324 Church Street, Belleville or telephone 962-8681.

Sentence Suspended On Youth

A legal technicality proved a boon to 18-year-old Ivan Lee McKellar, of Kingston, when he answered the same charge for a third time in a Belleville court yesterday.

McKellar, arrested with three others in the robbery-at-knife-point of a sleeping motorist, near Belleville October 24, was first sentenced as a juvenile.

Since the charge was considered grave, he was ruled able to stand trial as an adult in magistrate's court.

His first companion he was sentenced to reformatory terms of two years definite, one year indeterminate.

However, since the information supporting the charge was tied to his original juvenile court appearance, McKellar's sentence was quashed by the Ontario Court of Appeal and a new hearing ordered.

Yesterday, he went before Judge J. C. Anderson — after serving a four-month stretch on his first sentence and pleaded guilty.

Police testimony, repeated for the new hearing, told of McKellar being with two other youths and a girl in a stolen car who robbed a motorist of $20 parked overnight on the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway west of Belleville. They were stopped near Trenton by an OPP roadblock.

McKellar, the court was told, was picked up by the others as he hitchhiked from Montreal.

His mother, Mrs. Ivy Marshall, said since McKellar had been home from reformatory awaiting his new trial, he had developed a more mature outlook on life and showed no problem inclinations.

Crown Attorney John Pringle submitted McKellar's four-month incarceration "had brought home to him the folly of his idiot actions which he fell into with his friends."

Judge Anderson handed down a two-year, suspended sentence ordering McKellar to report twice monthly to probation authorities in Kingston and be home six nights a week by 10 p.m. for the next year.

Wide Array Of Produce Seen on Mart

More than 12 farmer dealers were on hand at the Belleville market this morning with a wide array of produce, plants and other merchandise.

Sebago potatoes were selling for 40c per basket or $1.75 per bushel while early varbs seed potatoes were listed at 75c per basket.

Fresh rhubarb was on sale at several stalls for 25c per bunch. Onions were selling at one dollar per basket. Maple syrup was on display at one booth with a selling price of $3.50 for one-half gallon or one dollar per pint. Maple sugar was on sale at 25c per cake.

Stamp Club Exhibition Much Enjoyed

Separate Sentences Imposed

Two young Belleville men, charged with car theft after they were arrested in an automobile stolen in Belleville Friday were given separate sentences by Magistrate T. V. Wills.

Robert John McFarlane was placed on a two - year suspended sentence and ordered to report monthly to local probation authorities. John Stanislaus Ludlow was sent to the common jail for three months after defence counsel Robert Temple pleaded that "he does have some good qualities."

"I think I would agree with you in that Mr. Temple," confirmed the magistrate "But . . . the offence is serious."

Police said the two were stopped in Napanee by provincial police after the car they were riding was reported stolen in Belleville.

Fun on Two Wheels

Ricky Lough, a Moira Secondary School student, is the happy owner of one of the many motorcycles in Belleville. Rick drives a 100 c.c. Yamaha.

Popularity of Motorcycles Continues to Flourish

Despite the obstacle of the new motorcycle driver's examination the popularity of the revived motorcycle craze continues to flourish. The streets of Belleville, now that it is spring, are alive with Hondas, Ducatis, Suzukis, Yamahas, Triumphs, BSAs and Harley-Davidsons.

The Japanese bikes, Hondas, Ducatis, Suzukis and Yamahas, known for good gas milcage and few repairs, are the most popular. But, still the older, longer-established bikes, the Triumphs and Harley-Davidsons are seen keeping up with their newer counterparts.

The new driver's examination for the motorcycles, designed to make them a little safer, consists of a written test much like the learner's permit test, an obstacle course testing the driver's knowledge of controls and his ability to control the motorcycle through figure eights and the like, and a test through traffic similar to the one taken by anyone trying to obtain a car licence.

Still the motorcycle dealers expect to sell many more bikes this year. Already in 1965 and 1966 South Radio and Television Ltd., the dealer for Hondas, Ducatis, Suzukis and BSAs has sold about 500 motorcycles.

The Bay Marina, the dealer for Yamahas, has sold about 40.

Planning and Environment

Urban renewal for Belleville, as outlined in the Chamber of Commerce plan discussed in this newspaper the other day . . . a mall perhaps with trees and a park-like atmosphere downtown patterned on Fresno, California, and Ottawa's Spark Street . . . playgrounds for children.

These are aspects of a vision of Belleville years hence that excites the imagination. An area extending from the Upper Bridge south to Dundas Street and from the river to Pinnacle Street is ,the one envisaged for possible renewal. The plan is expected to go before city council by the end of May or early in June.

Planning is the key element in the orderly growth of any city. That so little of it was evident in years gone by is manifested in the kind of situation described in a recent feature in U.S. News and World Report. In an interview with Dr. Rene Dubos, a noted biologist and expert on environmental problems, the article seeks answers to the question "Can Man Survive Life in Big Cities?"

It discusses the growing strangulation of cities by traffic, the effects of overcrowding, jet travel and the speed of modern -life. Significantly, it looks at the enormous deprivation suffered by children brought up in concrete jungles, where the world of nature, fresh air and a sight of blue sky are as remote as to be experienced only fleetingly by even those youngsters of an imaginative turn of mind.

Life Magazine, similarly, takes a look in its current issue at the increasing impersonality of modern life, at the shams of our civilization, the preoccupation with materialism, the tyrannical conformism and the struggle simply to survive in such an environment.

Amid all this labyrinth of planning, or lack of it, amid the smog and the pollution and the traffic and the noise are people, human beings, and the accompanying photographs and text are a skilful portrayal of the sense of "self-alienation" that grips so many people, the terrifying feeling of being lonely in the crowd or even among one's family.

This of course stems in part from man's struggle to maintain identity, individualism, which begins at an early age. American novelist Willa Cather has put it this way: "In most families, the mere struggle to have anything of one's own, to be one's self at all, creates an element of strain which keeps everybody almost to the breaking point. For each individual in a household (even the children) is clinging to his individual soul, is in terror of losing it in the general family flavor. . ."

Thus, in the planning of a future Belleville any such project should take account of the overall environment, and the need of people to have what is loosely termed "something for the mind." Such as sunshine and light, parks and running streams, art and creativeness even in the midst of the ceaseless economic round.

Cultural Fizzle

If Canadians respond to a sense of warmth and color in their lives, only a comparatively small number are interested in the upper realms of culture as manifested by the work of artists and dramatists of this and earlier times.

For instance, a report on Expo's $35,000,000 international exhibition of fine arts says its impact is one of violence, color, serenity and passion —surely sufficient for all tastes — yet only a small proportion of the huge crowds entering the exhibition area seem to be interested.

Indeed, from early reports it seems a great many Expo visitors headed for La Ronde, the amusement and entertainment area where they got aboard anything from 25 cents for a cup of coffee, $1.08 (including tax) for English ale to $5 for calf's liver and inuchrooms at one European restaurant.

It's very discouraging for those who are trying to promote culture in Canada. One wonders what such art lovers as the Russians (of all walks of life in their supposedly classless society) would think of the stampede to La Ronde.

And State Secretary Judy LaMarsh may also look askance at this desire on visitors' part merely to satisfy the inner man and fear for the success of the "Three Hundred Years of Canadian Art" exhibition — the largest ever assembled in this country — she will open at the National Gallery in Ottawa on May 11.

Almost 380 paintings, sculptures, and examples of other graphic and decorative arts have been assembled from public and private collections into a study of Canadian history going back 200 years before Confederation.

Certainly Canadians cannot complain they are not being exposed to the stimulus and beauty of the creative arts. This year the choice is virtually unlimited, which is more than can be said for what is being offered at Expo's eating places. There, in the early stages at least, food supplies quickly ran out.

Ottawa Offbeat

Capital Is Hotbed of Communist Espionage Activity

By RICHARD JACKSON.

OTTAWA — Mention Ottawa to the average touring taxpayer arriving to look over the National Capital, and he usually thinks of Parliament and its Peace Tower.

Or potholes which grow in the fractured streets more profusely than daffodils on the manicured lawns of the Federal parkways.

But would you believe spies? Nobody in authority likes to say much about it, and usually, if circumstances compel some kind of statement, the approved practice is to shrug off international espionage as if in this capital it is so unusual and so frequent as to be almost non-existent.

Like just the other day, when still another Federal civil servant was convicted of violating the Official Secrets Act, and the point was labored by the prosecution that this was the first such case since the evidence of Russian cipher clerk Igor Gouzenko, 22 years ago, sent 17 members of the government's staff here in the Capital to prison for varying terms.

The implication clearly was that this sort of thing is so extraordinary as to occur only once every quarter century or so.

Well, don't you believe it.

For espionage long has been as established, and in some quarters, a highly respected profession here in this deceptively quiet-appearing Capital.

As long as 22 years ago, Chief Justice Robert Taschereau of the Supreme Court of Canada, then a member of the Royal Commission investigating the Gouzenko case, warned in his report, that the Soviet and its satellites were using Ottawa as a training ground — perhaps even a finishing school — for their intelligence agents.

The Soviet Embassy here, wrote the Chief Justice, might be the home of the Russian Ambassador to Canada, but it was only the headquarters for six separate and different espionage networks, using it as their base of North American operations.

Igor Gouzenko and the men of the RCMP Security and Intelligence Division — the bureaucratic name for Canada's counter-espionage agency — broke only the Soviet Army spy apparatus.

Its chief, Colonel Nicholas Zabotin, reached in disgrace by Moscow, leaped overboard into the North Atlantic on his way home rather than return and pay the price of failure.

While the Red Army Intelligence net had been smashed, warned the Chief Justice, remaining in business were the Russian naval, air, scientific, industrial and, of course, diplomatic espionage agencies.

And so remain, even now, still doing business at the same old stand — except for a half dozen members of the Russian diplomatic staff who, in recent years, have been expelled for being, as the External Affairs Department with thoughtful solicitude for their sensibilities calls it "persona non grata."

While Ottawa is a national capital might appear to be casual observer to be a bit off the beaten intelligence track, those who have watched the spies go by long have been aware that in reality, it is very much in the main stream of global espionage.

For wasn't it from Ottawa that the infamous spy, Klaus Fuchs, set out with the first sample of Uranium 235 — and the secret of the Atom Bomb — for Moscow.

One of the still - to - be-told tales of that real-life spy thriller is how Fuchs managed to spirit out of Canada's nuclear research establishment at Chalk River the tiny capsule of U235 which, as things have since turned out, enabled the Russians to get started with The Bomb.

And wasn't it to Ottawa that the late Ian Fleming sent James Bond, old 007, in his spy thriller "For Your Eyes Only" to get cited on the North American way of espionage life?

You hear whispers from time to time, and infrequently veiled official statements are made of this civil servant and that government employee going to the RCMP Security and Intelligence Division with stories of being approached, cultivated, wined and dined, and finally propositioned by foreign agents.

And when the curious or the crazy, filled to overflowing with a faint crack of international light, it's always surprising to discover how paltry is the pay for betrayal.

A few dollars, a very few usually, some tax-free diplomatic liquor are the mediums of espionage exchange — with the promise, of course, of lasting things to come.

Sure, the old town may be quiet, or staid, as some like to put it, but the quiet is often the quiet of intrigue.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 6, 1947

The members of the Quinte Skating Club held their annual meeting at the club house to hear the annual reports and elect their Board of Directors for the coming year. The following officers were appointed: Clare Bailey, president; O. Hake, vice president; Jack Dickens, secretary - treasurer.

At a time when normally the vast bulk of the spring seeding would be completed, because of cold and wet weather only from five to 10 per cent of the seeding is yet done in Hastings county, according to Agricultural Representative A. O. Dalrymple, of Stirling.

30 YEARS AGO

May 6, 1937

From our file copy at this time in 1897: A. M. Chisholm has returned to Hotel Quinte after an enjoyable trip to his Adirondack mine near Bridgewater. He reports steady progress in mining and says that northern country will not be afflicted with an inflated boom; nothing but good mines with solid companies back of them can succeed with us." Mr. Gay, fan employee of the Canadian Gold Fields Co. was in the city yesterday. He stated that they recently struck the river from the company's mills, he struck a vein of very rich ore. It showed large quantities of free gold, some of the nuggets being as large as peas. This property is owned by the above company and will be developed at once.

"Advice" Cost Him $4,876

Victoria Colonist

The expensive mistake of a U.S. senator from Pennsylvania just possibly might end a career through a certain office in Ottawa.

The senator sent 97,000 newsletters to his constituents asking for their views on various issues and including the unfortunate question: "Do you think I should run again for the Senate in 1968?" That particular query cost him $4,876 for postage because the justice department ruled that it was "political" and therefore a violation of his franking privileges.

On this basis, it is interesting to speculate what our Canadian Defence minister might be deemed to owe the post office for the distribution of the franked products of his propaganda factory during the course of the unification disagreement. They must have totalled tons.

The Law Of Chance

Philadelphia Bulletin

Tip to football captains, politicians, and devotees of coin-tossing everywhere:

If you call "heads," you will have a four per cent better chance of being right. A mathematics professor at Northwestern university had his freshman class toss a total of 319,249 pennies, to test the law of probability of chance. Heads came up 160,158, or 50.2 per cent. It was surmised that the distribution of metals in the coins makes them "tail heavy."

But come to think of it, knowing the odds for the penny won't help much. The football tycoons use half dollars, and few cocktail lounges ever have pennies on them. They put them all in piggy-banks.

Counting The Cost

Financial Times

The Conservative MP's attempt to precipitate a debate on defence unification opened the way for one of Mr. Pearson's rare examples of undisputed mastery. By reciting the list of delayed and pending business, he aroused something of the cost to Canada involved in Parliament's archaic procedures. The business community probably understands the cost better than any politician.

UK Raises Cable Rates

Kingston Whig-Standard

It is unfortunate that the British Government has raised the charges for news cable sent to Commonwealth countries. The rates will be tripled from a penny to threepence a word on September 1.

The increase comes at a time when there is a greater need for understanding between the countries of the Commonwealth — particularly when it is considered that the Rhodesian problem is not settled and that Britain is making definite preparations to seek entry into the European Common Market. Traditionally it has been through Commonwealth newspapers that the attitudes and problems of the various nations have been described. The increase in rates will probably cut down the flow of material to smaller African and Asian countries, where newspapers have a small circulation. Therefore, it will have the undesirable effect of limiting the amount of Commonwealth publishing from Britain. Since there are indications that other Commonwealth countries are considering following suit it will mean that there will probably be a breakdown in the dialogue between several areas of the Commonwealth.

At the request, the indications are that there will not be an increase in rates for cables originating in Canada. This is a sound move since it will permit foreign correspondents resident in Canada to continue sending their stories at inexpensive rates. In the light of the report of lack of understanding of Canada shown by-the latest London Weekly Telegraph it is evident that there is indeed a need to encourage foreign correspondents in Canada to file as many stories as possible. They may be able to let their readers know more about Canada than they do at the present.

Accident Insurance

Owen Sound Sun-Times

One of the greatest factors in rising insurance rates is the lack of financial responsibility on the part of those involved in accidents. The insurance companies take on full payment in the bulk of these accidents. And, unfortunately, many drivers take advantage of this responsibility. They probably would not take were they faced up with a share of paying for their own repairs. It is possible that, if motorists were required to pay the first $100 or so in damages to their own cars, there would be more care. Many motorists already do accept such responsibility is gain reduced insurance rates. Many who do not are of the type whose lack of responsibility adds greatly to the total damages each year.

De Gaulle's Strategy

Commonwealth Threatened by Britain's ECM Overtures

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's bid for European Common Market membership likely will leave the Commonwealth in a form of paralysis that could lead to decay.

Prime Minister Wilson says he wants swift negotiations and a fast decision, but Paris officials suggest negotiations may drag on for two or three years.

This, in effect, may be President de Gaulle's strategy—to wage a battle of exhaustive investigation, reflection and bargaining that may leave Britain hanging on the ropes.

He is well aware that under current conditions — and Britain needs the Common Market more than it needs Britain.

Wilson is well aware that Britain no longer can afford the role of an independent world power.

Despite the strengthening of the pound, there is still an inherent underlying weakness in the British economy. Britain is struggling to pay its way and may be able to do so only by accepting a lower standard of living, something which country - wide municipal elections have shown is becoming increasingly unpopular with British voters.

Either Wilson shows the voters the road to higher economic opportunities or he may find himself in extreme political difficulties when the next general election rolls around, due in 1971.

Thus, while trying to join the Common Market, Wilson may not find time to pay much attention to the Commonwealth. In fact, there are experts within that family of nations who believe that Wilson is all but ready to sacrifice the Commonwealth concept on the Common Market altar.

Indeed, while Wilson and his associates express comforting words that they will seek to protect Commonwealth interests during Common Market negotiations, there appears a foregone conclusion among some trade experts that the system of Commonwealth tariff preferences will be squeezed and crushed as part of Britain's price of European admittance.

That would mean that British tariffs on manufactured goods from Canada and other Commonwealth producers would rise. Canada would be forced to find alternative markets.

One Canadian authority suggests the remnants of the Commonwealth preferences may still be maintained with Canada taking on the role of Commonwealth leadership. But it is questionable whether Canada could find in the under-developed and developing parts of the Commonwealth sufficient customers to replace her traditional British markets.

The most serious obvious objection would be the United States. Market pressures would demand increased trade channels in the U.S. unless Europe would agree to some form of transatlantic free trade area. There is no sign that either the U.S. or Europe is willing to entertain such proposals.

Church in the Round

This is the Metropolitan Cathedral of Christ the King in Liverpool, England, to be consecrated May 14. At left are the main entrance porch and bell tower, which stand detached from the cathedral proper. Between the 16 main frame beams of the cathedral are chapels which form the walls of the structure. (CP Photo)

New Cathedral Planned

LIVERPOOL (CP)—The first Roman Catholic cathedral to be built in England in nearly 60 years is a space-age cathedral-in-the-round designed to involve the congregation intimately in the mysteries of the mass.

"It is the ultimate in involvement," says Bishop Augustine Harris, auxiliary bishop of Liverpool, who will consecrate the $12,000,000 Metropolitan Cathedral of Christ the King May 14 amid a throng of prelates of many faiths.

"It brings the people in and this is the basic principle of the new approach to the liturgy."

The cathedral, a delicate silvery cone with a spiky tower perched on a rocky outcrop in the heart of Liverpool, is already attracting more attention to the smoky city by the Mersey than anything since the Beatles.

Appropriately enough for the swinging city of the north, its consecration will set off a two-week festival of music and drama expressing religious themes in modern style, starting with a semi-secular "choreographic mass" to be danced in the cathedral by an international company drawn from North America, Europe and the Caribbean.

Canadians David Earle and Susan MacPherson from Toronto, both senior students of the Martha Graham School in New York, are among 36 dancers who will interpret the music of the mass around the stark, white marble high altar.

The choreographic mass is bound to be as controversial as the circular, stone - and - aluminum cathedral itself with its severe, Greek - theatre interior splashed with a brilliant burst of color from the stained glass in the 70-foot lantern tower.

The irrepressible Liverpudlians call it the "Mersey funnel," the "wigwam" and the "rocket." A Can-dice might associate its heraldic pavilion look with Expo 67.

THIS GRAY STONE HOUSE

He who loves an old house
Never loves in vain,
How can an old house
Used to sun and rain,
To lilac and larkspur,
And an elm always,
Ever fail to answer
The heart that gives it love?
— Isabel Fiske Conant.

At 64 Queen Street stands a beautiful gray stone house.

A house, a passer-by beholds with admiration, a house, the owner, Mrs. M. R. (Stan) Branscombe holds dear as her home, now, and when shared with her late husband, Dr. M. E. Branscombe.

"One becomes attached to houses which shelter one. It is only natural. It is the setting for one's busy living and for memories. It becomes part of one. I remember when we made a window into a French door, so that we could enter the side porch from the living-room, the former owner didn't like it, one little bit. It's quite understandable, as if a part of their own life as lived here, were disturbed."

The lovely chandelier with its wrought-iron and bronze leaves, festooned with glass chains that lie in wild disorder on the floor, wherein nestle electric light bulbs, enhance the spacious living room such as none other does. "And what was the only light for the entire room in the early days," says Mrs. Branscombe. "One wonders how people ever managed. But they did. I remember the days of 'coal oil lamps' lead to showing of a lovely silver fish knife, which "was 100 years old when it was given me at the time of my wedding." The knife never went lost on which is inscribed: "To Revere and Mackenzie, by an old friend, a mark of respect."

"A wealth of book," continues Mrs. Branscombe, "was from my father's library. My father's parents came over from Scotland and settled in Hamilton, where William Paterson, my father, was born on September 19, 1839.

"When he was quite young, his father and mother died of cholera on the same day. Thought lost together. The father was away on a short trip. Two days later my father was adopted by Reverend Andrew Fowler, D.D. of Caledonia, a Presbyterian minister and an old friend of his parents.

"It was his wife who was a daughter of the minister who received the small boy. And when I was married, I was given dishes from her 'Hope Chest' in the corners "1788". Also a table cloth of linen which must have been the centre piece for one of my dining-room table. It has a pattern of peacocks woven in it and a design of flowers at it's end in each corner. Oh, the precious things they had, have long ago been treasured about the country by antique dealers. The fruity of inanimate things breaks my heart!"

"When my father was 21 he left home and went to Brantford to work in a factory owner's store by the name of Cockshutt, the forefather of all his clerks attend a little church which had no preacher, with services conducted by members of the congregation. My father took part, and I remember when I was a little girl, I took me to visit this place where he worked as a boy and the little church where he worshipped.

"In his early thirties, my father bought a wholesale confectionery business, which seemed to thrive. He married my mother in 1883 and we were a family of five children. Civic-minded my father served Brantford as his Mayor and later when he became a Member of Parliament upon defeating Sir Francis Hincks in 1872, the citizens of Brantford presented him with this silver-handle, hand-carved gift as you see, with antique and of course I treasure it greatly."

Various Canadian Encyclopedias she researching biographical facts concerning William Paterson: The Wholesale Confectionery Business became "one of the most thriving industries in the Dominion" , which many will recall as Paterson's Biscuit Company, famous for their chocolates.

He was Minister of Customs in the Laurier Cabinet from 1897 until the defeat of the Administration in 1911. In 1902 he was a delegate to the Imperial Conference. . .

Mrs. and I was allowed to accompany my father to England. That was when we attended the Coronation of Edward VII, after being guests of Father's old friend Lord Strathcona as his guests in Scotland, and I shall always remember how Lord Strathcona took off his hat to greet the people in London after the Coronation and helped serve the guests for all of his 80 years. . . Memories, memories, reminiscence Mrs. Branscombe.

Other facts — in 1911 Mr. Paterson helped negotiate the reciprocity agreement at Washington. He died at Ploton, March 18, 1914.

Wrote one biographer: "William Paterson was one of the most brilliant of our public men. He was a flashing, witty, pithy speaker. . . My father loved to listen to a speech from him than any other member of the legislature."

Conference Will Study Problem of New Families

MONTREAL (CP)—The family unit, whose rapid post-war transition has been alternately described as breakdown and evolution, is the subject of intensive study at a forthcoming convention.

The International Union of Family Organizations, in its 20th year of research into family problems, holds its first North American conference at Quebec City Aug. 27 to Sept. 2, to examine the social and economic issues facing the ever-increased family in a changing world.

Some of the aspects of family life to be discussed are: legislation relating to foundation of new families, such as the reciprocal duties of husband and wife; living standards and housing and credit facilities; the role played by new families in social, political and cultural life.

Delegates are working on answers to such questions as: Do husband and wife have similar rights and responsibilities? Do rights and customs of husband and wife differ from those of past? Are special allowances granted to young couples in your country? What kind of family education are there for new families? How well do new families integrate into the community?

Two Montreal men, insurance executive Jack Chevrex, president of the union's Canadian branch, and Philippe Garigue, dean of the faculty of social sciences at the University of Montreal, will be among the delegates.

The study of new-family problems began at the IUFO conference in Rome in 1965 and will continue until 1969.

The IUFO is a worldwide union of family organizations having the well-being of the family as a common interest. These organizations do research on family problems on an international scale, and make known to the public what they find to be the rights, needs and demands of the family.

Organizations such as parent-teacher associations, welfare and marriage counselling services, educational and research organizations and family movements are involved.

One notable member-organization is the Vanier Institute of the Family, established by the late Governor-General Georges Vanier and Mme. Vanier.

The IUFO was established at the World Congress for the Family in Paris, 1947.

Ann Landers

Husband Goes Around Talking to Himself

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is smart in business, makes a fine living and is active in civic affairs. But he has a habit that is driving me nuts. He talks to himself.

If someone pays him a compliment during the day, he will walk around with a silly grin, repeating the compliment and enjoying it all over again. If he has had an argument at the office, he will rehash the conversation, repeat what he said, what the other fellow said, and then add what he should have said.

ANN LANDERS

He makes no attempt to keep his voice down. It is almost as if he is arguing with me and the children. Tonight he went into a monologue on what he plans to say to his supervisor tomorrow if he gets criticized for the way he handled a deal.

It is creepy to hear this talking to himself in full voice. Please tell me if you think he is losing his buttons? — GREENWOOD

DEAR GREENSBORO: In the past three weeks I have received over 2,000 letters from women who bathroom like to sleep in late nightgowns and wear ladies' underwear. One loon asked his wife to make him some silk dresses to wear while watching TV. And you are complaining because your husband talks to himself! Compassionately speaking, he's in good shape.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son, his wife and children live in a neighboring subdivision. I like to go there every night for dinner and a little conversation. My wife says seven nights a week is too often. I say so long as people enjoy each other it is not too often.

Please settle this argu I can't come over without his mother. His mother refuses to go more than four night a week. We are having some terrible arguments over this and I wish you would straighten her out. — NEW JERSEY.

DEAR JERSEY: You sure rattled the wrong cage, Bub. I am the founder of the Leave Your Married Kids Alone League. Four nights a week is too often to visit anybody.

Go to your children's home when they telephone and invite you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the women who could not get their husbands to fix things because I grew up in the last few years. My father did not fix anything whatsoever and he was a carpenter by trade.

My mother and I took the kitchen stove apart and put it back together. We fixed the roof, the chimney, replaced broken windows, painted, plastered, and even repaired the plumbing. Just name it and my mother and I did it.

I married a man who is just like my father, but I decided I wasn't going to be a workhorse like mama was. When something needed fixing I would ask my husband to do it. If within three days it wasn't done I'd give another nag. When he got the bill he'd blow up. My response was, "I'd rather pay out the money than nag you, dear."

It took the last few years — he has done all the repairs and I have never asked him more than once. — THE FOXY ONE.

DEAR FOXY: You make a lot of sense, Girl. I recommend your plan as an anti-nag measure for all wives everywhere.

This Salem rocker has the characteristic wooden seat. It was made and signed by Lambert Hitchcock. The wooden chair has a painted finish and stencilled designs on the arms, legs and chair back.

(Hitchcock Chair Company, Riverton, Conn.)

Hitcock's Factory Was So Successful It Went Bankrupt

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

The Hitchcock chair was so successful it forced its maker into bankruptcy. Lambert Hitchcock built a factory in Connecticut in 1826 where he made his attractive, sturdy, high quality wooden furniture. The chairs were made from turned wooden parts with cane, rush, or wood-in seats. They had a painted finish.

The chairs became popular instantly, and Hitchcock kept expanding his factory and making more and more chairs. He even "farmed out" work to the state's prison at Wethersfield, Conn., where prisoners completed the chairs.

Transportation was slow during the 1820's, and Hitchcock thought himself a great businessman. His chairs sold well, but it took so long to ship a chair and collect the money due that he kept going further afield to set business got better and better.

Finally, in 1829, he was forced into bankruptcy. The price of the chairs was changed. Refinancing arrangements were made and by 1832 all of the debts were repaid and Hitchcock once again owned his chair factory.

The Hitchcock chair was made until 1946. After that time Alford Alba, a brother-in-law of Lambert Hitchcock, continued to make the chairs under a different name. The factory changed hands and chairs were made there under several names until 1864. The building was used for other purposes until 1946 when it was reopened to make Hitchcock style chairs.

Q. Would a mustache cup interest my college age son who now has a long flowing mustache. I'm not quite sure about the use of a mustache cup.

A. Large mustaches were in style for men during the last part of the 19th century. The mustache cup was a large coffee cup.

It had a small shaped ledge built against one side of the inside of the cup. A small hole in the ledge permitted the coffee to get to the mouth. The ledge kept the mustache from a wet bath in the hot liquid.

It was useful and practical. Every college age boy with a mustache would appreciate one.

Q. What is monkey glass?

A. Collectors have recently discovered the monkey pattern of pressed glass. The glass has a scalloped rim. The side of the glass featured raised pictures of three monkeys holding the tail of another monkey. Palm trees are part of the background pattern.

It has been said that the glass pattern was made by George Duncan and Sons of Pennsylvania about 1880, but so far there has been no proof.

Dear Doris: Thank you for asking people for their old greeting cards, through your column. I'm wondering if we should also ask for such things as parcels up to two or three dollar value of used clothing; children's, adults' other than frocks ("dresses" in Canada), except that full - skirted dresses for children are fine.

Especially do sweaters pack and come lightly. In price declaration they should use rummage sale prices: 25 cents per sweater and such. If we package "Relief Parcel."

Wish you could have seen William yesterday. Was cared for in one of our hostels when he had a bad leg, finally got on to floating and looking after himself painting cars in a motor company. Then he got TB light enough the government hospital said, "No room for you. Come daily for medicine, bed rest." That meant no work and no pay.

A friend had sent me money for "real needs" so here was certainly one. I'm wasting for the next shirt or sweater for him as the sleeve was nearly gone from the one he wore yesterday. He walks a little lame. — Frances Stevenson, Christian Compound, 14 Old Sehore Road, Indore, M.P., India.

Dear Frances: More power to you! I know you could tell us courses of stories like William's.

Dear Doris: Recently my daughter was married. Her husband asked me what I thought was the appropriate way to address me: Mrs. A. or Mother?

I told him whatever suited him. What do you suggest? — Anxious

Dear Anxious: It's an embarrassment to — and it needn't be. You are the one who can put your new son at ease.

Take your pick: "Mrs. A.", "Mother A.", "Mother Ruth", "Ruth", or just "Mother". An orphan might prize the last one; while a youth whose own mother is very much alive and around might well prefer adding your first or last name after the title "Mother."

New relationships need gracious handling; much as you pamper a tender plant. A lot depends on family customs. I am all for the first names idea myself, with the title 'Mother' ahead of it, if you like.

Dear Doris: Just lately my friend and I went on a week-end trip with some boys. It was well chaperoned by a responsible married couple. On the trip they acted like they liked us, going out of their way to be with us in the events of the trip.

When we got home, though, problems arose. They completely ignored us, even though we took the same classes together they never talked to us, and so not knowing how to act or what to do about the situation we let it ride.

What we want to know is this: Were they just using us because we were handy or are they shy? — Shy or What?

Dear Shy or What?: You guessed it. It's one thing to clown around on a trip; quite a different kettle of fish to let the other boys notice that you are pals.

Minstrone, Rich Meatless Soup

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: You mentioned Minestrone in one of your menus. Will you tell me what it is? Is it soup? Ben K.

ANSWER: Yes it is a rich vegetable Italian soup and a favorite of mine.

MINESTRONE (a rich meatless main course soup)

Of Minestrone famous cook George Rector says "it should be broad-chested and thick with as many odds and ends as a good clam chowder. It should have a pushcartful of vegetables in it and can be finished with the characteristic "pesto" which gives the Minestrone the body necessary for a main course soup." These amounts are generous and will serve an average family two meals.

1 cup white navy beans
3 potatoes
¼ head medium cabbage
2 cups fresh (or fresh frozen) green beans
1 cup peas (fresh or fresh frozen or canned)
2 cups (or ½ lb.) fine uncooked noodles or spaghetti
Water
Salt
Pepper

SATURDAY

Dinner Menus

Broiled or Baked Sausages; Spiced Apple Rings; Shredded Beets in Orange Sauce; Buttered Cabbage; Stewed Prunes with Lemon Slices; Orange Loaf (see Pri.); Coffee.

First soak the navy beans overnight in cold water to cover. (You may use dried peas too — ¼ cup of them — instead of the 2 cup fresh or frozen. If so soak them too in water to cover.) In the morning, drain beans and add peas, pared and diced raw potatoes, chopped cabbage, chopped green beans and uncooked noodles and 1½ cups water and about 2 tsps salt and ¼ tsp. pepper. Simmer until dried beans are tender — about 1 hr. Meanwhile, mix together the "pesto": cream 3 tbsps. butter and add 3 tbsps. olive or salad oil (this addition of oil is optional) and add 3 tbsps. grated Parmesan cheese (or old Cheddar), 2 tbsps finely chopped parsley, 1 garlic clove finely chopped, ½ tsp. salt, and ¼ cup table cream. When vegetables are tender, stir this "pesto" into the soup and let simmer about 5 min. just before serving. Serve in big soup bowls and pass a generous amount of grated Parmesan. (Grated old Swiss or Cheddar cheese make dandy substitutes for the Parmesan.) Real Italian minestrone lovers sprinkle the top of the soup very generously with grated cheese and eat it with Italian bread with sweet butter, or with Italian breadsticks.

This soup is even better next day if any is left over.

Keep a big "rainy day box" filled with old costumes for dressing up, with books from your childhood and with a few special games — the same things that made the old-fashioned attic an enchanting place.

A busy mother cannot hope to provide constant entertainment for a convalescing child. He will be happier if you can interest him in a project that may turn into a fascinating hobby.

Canada Week in New York Ends With Glittering Ball

NEW YORK (CP) — Canada Week in New York, inspired by expatriate Canadians who decided to bring some of the Centennial Year fun to the United States, reached its climax Friday night at the Waldorf - Astoria Hotel where more than 500 persons had a ball.

Prime Minister and Mrs. Pearson and Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh headed the guest list at the centennial ball. Net proceeds of the $100 - a - plate event went to the Canadian Education Inc., which devotes its efforts to encouraging the exchanges of economic and cultural thought between Canada and the United States.

During Canada Week, Canadians put their talents on display before distinguished New York audiences and spectators. The heavy program was designed to appeal to every section of the community. It ranged from a wide variety of musical talents through artistic endeavors to such Canadian skills as log rolling and tree-topping.

One of the best - known bands is America, Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians, provided dance music at the wind-up ball, alternating with an American hippy group called Bad Johnson's All-Stars.

The pipers, drummers and a reel - dancing foursome from the 48th Highlanders of Canada, Toronto, and two leading artists of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, won unstinting applause.

Peter Jennings, who came from Canada to be anchor man on ABC-TV network news programs, was master of ceremonies.

Prior to Friday night's ball, New York City was dotted with Canada Week dinners. Governor Nelson Rockefeller and his wife had an dinner guests at their Fifth Avenue apartment Canadians including Mr. and Mrs. Pearson, Miss LaMarsh, A. E. Ritchie, Canada's Ambassador in Washington, and Mrs. Ritchie, Canadian Consul-General R. G. C. Smith and Mrs. Smith, UN Ambassador George Ignatieff and Mrs. Ignatieff, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wedin.

Wedin, whose wife is Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Cornwall, Dundas in Ontario, was chairman of the Canada Week committee here.

Each guest at the ball received as a souvenir a volume of the beautifully printed new book containing the photographs of Canadian - born Rokell Benz.

Talent originating in Canada was on display throughout the week in spacious Central Park, on the Canadian circuit in the theatres, art galleries and museums.

Radio City Music Hall featured on its stage a ballet based on curling, staged by James Clouser, ballet master of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet and featuring three Winnipeg stars, Christine Hennessey, Bill Martin-Viscount and Leo Ahonen.

Playing important roles in the week's activities were the band of the Royal 22nd Regiment, Barbara Kelly of Vancouver, who is Miss Canada, and the Golden Hotnots, a 17-man trick-cycle precision squad from the Ontario Provincial Police.

Danny Seiker of Vancouver showed his skill at tree-topping and John Wickland of Duncan, B.C., showed how a world champion rolls logs.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

People Becoming Concerned About Compulsory Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

"I really don't know how we are going to square this with God," the man was saying. "We haven't squared it with our fellowman, and apparently won't until the courts make us stop it."

The man was speaking of compulsory retirement.

His name was Hastings — Walter W. Hastings — and he and his wife were touring town to choose a Yellowknife home.

"I grew up in the Sunday School tradition which taught that God put us here, and that God will take us away. That we are His creatures. How in the light of this does one man tell another to get lost at age 65? To resign from the only honest tob he knows? To resign from active life? To become useless before it is time to die?"

Mr. Hastings was voicing a concern about the moral aspects of retirement that has been increasing in the country since the start of the Civil Rights movement.

"If God had intended," he went on, "that His creatures become useless at age 65, then no doubt He would have arranged it Himself. Maybe by letting us fulfill our life span at 66 . . ."

He smiled sadly at the suggestion that retirement did not stamp a person as useless. That the person could go on to do other good works in the community after 65.

"In theory, yes. In reality, no. Most people who are arbitrarily retired immediately become misfits. This is because there is no place in our society for a retired person to fit. The door to jobs is virtually closed to him. Meaningful work in community affairs and even in most churches is reserved for those who are younger, more sophisticated, and more important. Friendships and social interests — most of which were tied to the job from which he retired, are generally unavailable . . ."

Mr. Hastings then said, in regard to "squaring it with God" that in his opinion man may have reached the height of his arrogance when "he throws into a pit of uselessness one of God's creatures who is not yet ready to die.

"He can fire him or hire him for cause, isolate him in jail or even kill him for cause. But can he do what nothing else in all Nature does — which is to tell him to go away and get lost at a specified time for no reason except that he is 65 years old?"

The opinions of Mr. Hastings are given in order to reflect some of the thinking that is now going on among intelligent people of retirement age. Some readers could argue with him; others will yawn at the reference to God. But Mr. Hastings' thinking is not isolated thing. It is part of a whole package of questions that are being raised about retirement.

People are beginning to believe that compulsory retirement is not, and never has been, based on the ability of a man or woman to carry on their work at age 65. They see it as strictly an economic plan to promote the highly profitable insurance and pension industries, and as a technique of corporate personnel managers to hold costs down. They may be right. They may be wrong. But that's what they're thinking.

And they are thinking — and with discretion are talking — about whether compulsory retirement is not in violation of the constitution. They cannot see why it is legal to discriminate against religion or the color of skin — and now sex — but is not illegal to discriminate against age.

Unions Blamed for Shutdown

NEW YORK (AP)—The shutdown of The World Journal Tribune has brought expressions of shock and sorrow from members of the newspaper's staff and industry leaders.

The eight - month old paper published its final editions Friday after announcing that union restrictions and harassment coupled with steady losses had forced it to quit.

The thing that has brought us to this day is the arrogance of the unions," charged Matt Meyer, president of the afternoon and Sunday paper. He said losses were averaging $700,000 a month.

Union leaders — Bertram A. Powers, president of the printers' union local, and Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice - president of the Newspaper Guild — suggested in turn that there might have been difficulties among the three owners.

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of the New York Times, said the loss "filled me with shock and sorrow" and called it "a blow to our entire community, whose spirit and vitality need many voices, many opinions to reflect its own mixture."

Moore Corp. Bucks Strong Down Trend on Exchanges

By DOUGLAS ADAMSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Moore Corp., with ITL Industries close astern, made steady headway against a strong current of declining prices and light trading on Canadian stock exchanges this week.

Moore closed last week at 52¾ following a report of increased sales and profits for the first quarter of 1967. It continued its advance after the Toronto Stock Exchange announced shares of a 4-for-1 stock split would be posted for trading May 9. The stock gained 5 to 113 on the week.

ITL Industries slipped 4 to 32, down from an all-time high of 39 reached Thursday. Company director J. S. Gairdner said Wednesday that, although there were no new discoveries or contracts to justify investor interest, the increases reflected the optimism of President Peter Hedgewick's anticipation of a 30 to 40-per-cent profit increase for 1967 over 1966.

The stock leaped into prominence April 24 after a press statement that a major American pharmaceutical company would adopt a medical contraceptive cap developed and produced by ITL's Reflex division. A company director denied the statement.

Interprovincial Pipe Line fell 3½ to 103 in what analysts characterized as profit taking by traders reaping gains made last week when the stock touched 110 after the company received permission to increase authorized capital.

Bank prices made a general advance during the first week of life for the revised Bank Act. Canadian Imperial gained 1¼ to 70¼, Imperial-Commerce 1¾ to 73, Royal ¾ to 83¼ and Montreal and Toronto-Dominion ¼ each to 68¾ and 71¾.

Ford of Canada and GMC declined following reports by their U.S. parent companies of lower car production for April, 1967 compared with the same period last year. Ford lost ¾ to 137¼ and GMC 1¾ to 90¾. Chrysler of Canada gained 1 to 48¾.

CPR jumped 4¼ to 61¼ after announcing profits for the first quarter of 1967 down by $6,300,000 from the same period in 1966.

Uranium, with sizeable gains last week, made few advances this week. Denison slipped 1 to 66, Rio Algom ¼ to 20¾ and Preston ¼ to 18. Roman Corp. moved ahead ¼ to 18¼ and Steurock was up 15 cents to 3.65.

Oil prices continued to decline again this week as Hudson's Bay lost 1¼ to 34 and ¼ to 73, 7.95.

Norcanda Mines remained unchanged at 5¾ following a statement by President R. V. Porritt that plans to develop two Beulah Columbia - copper mines would be shelved because of anticipated adverse effects it

Clutch Woes Often Due To Slippage

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Not too long ago, when it seemed that automatic transmissions would soon take over completely, many new and veteran drivers discovered stick shifts can be fun. Thus, clutch care and repair is still a subject of wide interest.

When clutch trouble develops, it's most often due to slippage. This means that the pressure plate is not holding the clutch disc tightly against the flywheel face. The common cause is "riding" the pedal, i.e., lightly resting the foot on the pedal or constantly depressing it when in slow-moving traffic or when braking is anticipated.

There are other causes of clutch slippage, such as broken or fatigued pedal play, oil or grease-soaked clutch facings, binding linkage or weakened springs. Regardless of the cause the results of slippage are gas waste, power loss, engine heat buildup and worn or burned facings.

W. P. asks: "If carburetor adjustment is on the rich side, can this be harmful?"

It promotes gas waste, plug fouling, oil dilution, and carbon formation.

FROM P.I.: "Oddly enough, my engine runs very smoothly when idling, but very rough upon acceleration. I had the choke and carburetor adjusted, but it didn't help."

Fouled or poorly gapped spark plugs will cause this.

M. P. asks: "When driving, our car drifts slightly to one side. My brother claims the car is in need of an alignment and balance job, on the front wheels. Is he right?"

He may be, but a faulty wheel bearing or dragging brake could be the cause.

Earl J. Brant, First Indian To Become Legion Commander

DESERONTO (Staff) — Many Indian ex-servicemen wrongly feel they are not wanted in veterans' associations, hence cannot reap a harvest of helpful opportunities they sowed with their service.

It's a predicament of long-standing for leaders of veterans organizations — but help may be on hand, in the vigorous frame of Earl J. Brant.

If he does find a solution it's because he can see both sides of the problem at once.

All his life he has been a resident member of the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve.

But, last weekend at Lakefield, he was elected, sole commander of the Royal Canadian Legion for the first Indian to hold such a post in Ontario.

For the 41-year-old veteran of World War II, it was the first real breakthrough in what conceivably could become a succession of higher postings in Canada's senior veteran grouping.

However, all that lies in the possible future.

Today — and for the remainder of his zone leadership — there is much practical work to be done. Some of it, inevitably, will be bound up in the problems of his own people.

There's a bundle of administrative to affiliation in such ex-service groups as the Legion. It becomes the individual's guardian in matters involving veterans' welfare legislation. It also offers rewarding elements of social life.

Indian membership poses no problem in his own Quinte area, notes Earl.

"But we have a lot of Indian veterans that are not coming out and playing their role in such organizations as the Legion," he added. "They feel they're not wanted. But this isn't true.

What's the reason for the reluctance?

"I really can't put my finger on it," he admits. "I'm only hoping this office I've received will encourage this."

That office places him over 12 Legion branches in Hastings and Prince Edward County — including his own Deseronto organization, which gave him his first connection with veterans' work.

Earl joined the Legion's branch 283 in 1947 — after war service as an instructor with the Royal Canadian Engineers.

In 1962-63 he first served as president of the branch, a post he again received in 1965.

Even inside Legion boundaries, his community interest started to branch out.

For Earl these particularly include scouting and he is chairman of the Legion's committee to encourage scouting in district F — a territory which reached from Deseronto to Dunbarton and north through Hallburton.

Within his own community, he is a leading churchworker who lectures a fully-licensed Anglican lay reader in 1962.

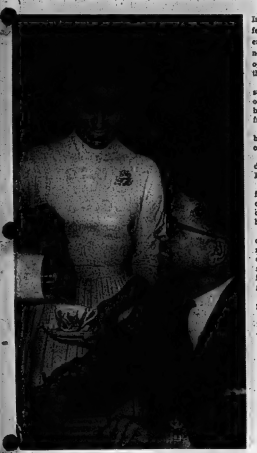
Since that time he has assisted the reserve's pastor — Canon J. V. Temple — at both Anglican churches serving the Mohawks — All Saints and Christ Church.

At both, he alternates with the rector in preaching or leading prayers.

His private life can also be busier than most — he travels further than many to daily work.

For the past 14 years he has been employed in engineering inspection construction projects at Canadian Forces Base, Trenton.

At home, there's a big house overlooking the Bay of Quinte just west of Deseronto, a wife, Evelyn, and 19-year-old daughter, Carol Ann to look after.



But if daily work means a long drive, the centre of much of his efforts in the next year is only a stone's throw away.

The Deseronto Legion hall is just down the road, and when he attends, he carries the mark of his Indian cultural background around his neck — thanks to his branch comrades.

As zone commander he wears a chain of office of Indian design and pattern.

To share his pride in the appointment the Mohawk members of the Deseronto Legion, headed by Melville Hill, commissioned Cree Indians near Great Bear Lake to design the chain.

Patterned after the teachings of Deganawidah, the first great peacemaker among the Indian nations, it will be handed down to succeeding zone commanders — a perpetual reminder of another, if later, first among men who once also had to make war.

Coffee Break!

A busy schedule of legion business also calls for a brief break. Here, daughter Carol Ann, 19, pours coffee for Earl as he works in living room of Deseronto home.

Whooping Crane Flock Design of Canada, U.S.

VICTORIA (CP) — Canada and the U.S. will try this year to start building up a captive flock of whooping cranes for breeding purposes, Northern Development Minister Laing said Friday.

Up to six eggs will be collected from nests and flown to a special propagation station in the U.S., Mr. Laing told the annual convention of the British Columbia Wildlife Federation.

The goal of the program is to build up 10 captive breeding pairs, producing at least 100 whoopers a year for release to the wild.

Mr. Laing said there are about 30 whooping cranes alive. The egg collection will be made at 25 fly north for breeding.

Under a 1964 agreement the U.S. department of the interior and Canada have been waiting for a wet year—when few of the immature birds survive—to begin the breeding program.

"It now seems that this is one of the wet years," Mr. Laing said.

If the eggs are collected, they will be placed in portable incubators and accompanied by a biologist - aviculturist to the southern U.S. propagation station.

Studies indicate that under natural conditions a wild pair of cranes hatches no more than two eggs a year and of the total that hatch only five a year survive to get to the Texas wintering area.

Mr. Laing said harvests for all migratory birds are growing. The next 23 years would be crucial for North American conservation.

The needs of Canada for parkland, wildlife habitat and wilderness must be met, and 40 to 60 new parks of all kinds would be required between now and 1985.

Mr. Laing suggested governments must act to preserve coastline areas and certain waterways and to establish national recreation parks. The recreation parks would differ from existing national parks, which are geared to preserve typical elements of the physical environment.

Text of his speech was issued to the press before delivery.

Water Pollution Council To Co-ordinate Agencies

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal and provincial resource ministers and government officials agreed in principle Friday to set up a national advisory council on water pollution.

It will set goals and co-ordinate the work of various government agencies in Ottawa and the provinces, Energy Minister Pepin told a press conference.

With representation from the two senior levels of government and probably other groups, the body will have a secretariat provided by the federal government.

Mr. Pepin said his proposal was received favorably but no firm decision could be made at a two-day round of meetings of resource ministers because some provinces wanted to clear the decision with their cabinets. Quebec's delegation was headed by a government official, rather than a minister.

Mr. Pepin also told the press conference that agreement has been reached on a five-member delegation for Canada at the Water for Peace conference to be held in Washington May 23-31. He and one other federal minister, two provincial ministers and the Canadian ambassador in Washington will attend.

This, Mr. Pepin said, is a typically Canadian compromise. Water resources are largely a provincial responsibility, but representation at an international conference is a federal responsibility.

Mr. Pepin said he discussed contents of a new Canada Water Act with the provincial ministers. To be introduced in parliament later this year, the act will improve federal government organization for water resource administration and facilitate federal-provincial projects, now arranged on an individual basis, he said.

Asked what real progress is being made in clearing pollution from the country's most badly damaged lakes and rivers, Mr. Pepin said responsibility is principally provincial but in the case of the Great Lakes work is being undertaken by federal government agencies.

A $17,000,000 to $20,000,000 inland waters research centre is being established by the federal government at Burlington, Ont., near Hamilton, Mr. Pepin added. It will work mainly on the Great Lakes problem but provide help to federal-provincial work on various river basins.

Extortion Bid Results In Year in Prison

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gary Stephen Ross, 18, of Toronto was sentenced Friday to one year in prison for attempting to extort $5,000 from Frank Howard, NDP member of Parliament for Skeena.

Ross, who pleaded guilty last week, sent a note to Mr. Howard in Ottawa threatening to "totally ruin" him if he did not send $5,000 to him care of general delivery in Vancouver, court was told.

The extortion attempt led to Mr. Howard's public disclosure that he had been sentenced to two years less a prison 25 years ago for armed robbery.

Mr. Howard asked for leniency for Ross, son of Wally Ross, an NDP organizer in Ontario, one-time United Steelworkers' union undercover organizer in B.C., and friend of Mr. Howard.

Magistrate Mulligan, in sentencing Ross, an ironworks employe, said:

"I have given a great deal of thought to this case. It is my considered opinion you should go to jail.

"When I say that I should tell you why. Your crime was a very serious one. It was planned and premeditated.

"Your intended victim was a friend of your father and a respected member of Parliament."

He said Mr. Howard "was a man with more to lose than most men, and I feel there must be a deterrent to others."

Breach of Recognizance Cost Toronto Man A $1,000 Bond

A Toronto man forfeited $1,000 for breach of recognizance in Belleville yesterday, despite pleas from himself and his common-law wife for leniency.

Frederick William Layton, 25, was hailed before Judge J. C. Anderson almost two years from the day when the judge placed him on 24 months good behavior for apartment burglary.

Breach of his behavior bond came six weeks ago in Toronto when he was convicted on seven charges of illegal possession.

Layton, protesting he actually had taken the blame in the Toronto case to protect his common-law wife, pleaded with Judge Anderson to reconsider estreating his $2,000, backing his 1965 behavior bond in Belleville.

The judge replied quietly, but firmly, he had been "pretty lenient" with Layton in allowing him free on a two-year suspended sentence in 1965.

"You can't very well expect a judge to accept your suggestion taking once and when you let him down to come back and ask him to take that undertaking again . . . it doesn't make sense does it?"

"No, your honor," confessed Layton.

What led to his Toronto convictions, claimed Layton, was a desire to protect Mary Lou Hamilton, his common-law wife, from prosecution since she had no criminal record.

When she was charged with possession of several pieces of gold valued at $28, he admitted the articles had been given him by an old friend as a debt payment, but never knew they were stolen.

The result was only a $100 fine — since the Toronto judge realized "the extenuating" circumstances, claimed Layton.

Mrs. Hamilton, then took the stand at Layton's request to testify on Layton's behalf.

At first she was incoherent, seeming on the edge of a breakdown, but declined the offer of a chair.

She claimed Layton had kept "his bargain" and worked steadily 12-14 hours a day since he had posted the 1965 bond in Belleville.

The Toronto charges arose when she took the gold to sell after Layton refused her money. She confirmed Layton's claim he had agreed to plead guilty to protect her.

However, assistant Crown Attorney Tom Lally pointed out the woman actually had a record — he said information showed Mrs. Hamilton now was on probation for four charges of fraud.

At one point during questioning by Judge Anderson Mrs. Hamilton said the stolen articles involved in the Toronto charges had been in the couple's home several months and Layton knew it was stolen.

Crown Attorney John Pringle changed courtroom roles to briefly appear as a witness and testified the $1,000 was actually posted by Mrs. Hamilton.

Layton, who spoke in his own defence said it was up to Judge Anderson whether only a portion of bond be forfeited.

However, Mr. Lally insisted: "My instruction are firmly from Mr. Pringle. Although this may be hard on the accused . . . the whole amount (should) be forfeited."

Pope Not Expected To Reveal Prediction

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The late predicted for the world in the Fatima shrine in Portugal is likely to be kept a mystery when Pope Paul visits the Fatima shrine in Portugal next Saturday, Vatican experts said today.

The secret has been locked up in Vatican City since it was entrusted to the papacy by a shepherd girl, Lucia Dos Santos, who is said to have seen the Virgin Mary in an apparition. She now is Sister Lucy, a 60-year-old Carmelite nun.

Vatican sources said Pope Paul probably will wait a considerable time before announcing the written prophesy. Scattered hints coming out of the Vatican in recent years indicate the secret is an optimistic prediction of an epoch of growing universal peace—not a message of impending doom.

On May 13 Pope Paul will fly to the rugged and once-isolated spot where Sister Lucy and two young cousins reported seeing a "lady in white" in six successive monthly visions beginning May 13, 1917.

The children said she asked for more prayers by mankind, especially for the conversion of the Soviet Union from communism, and predicted the global conflict that was to be the Second World War.

Lucia said the "lady in white" also gave her a message for the Pope, which Lucia memorized and later wrote down in Portuguese. She gave it to her bishop in a sealed envelope. The message was sent to the Pope with instructions Lucia said she had been given: That it must remain unread until 1960.

Pope John XXIII opened the envelope and read the message sometime between 1960 and 1963 and showed it to Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani. Then deciding the message should not be made public, Pope John reseeled it. He died in June, 1963.

Cardinal Ottaviani told a gathering in Rome last February that "morbid and alarmist" speculation about the Fatima message is "entirely false." He spoke of "the confidence the message of Fatima inspires."

SPORTS SLICES

Lash in the first verdancy the Bay of Quinte Country Club greens looked like an oasis in the desert of a delayed Spring Thursday.

Bordering trees straining to push leaf buds through winter weary boughs, loomed in the background like gaunt sentinels.

A football breeze, wafted in gently from the rippled waters of the bay. The sunshine was brilliant, tepid in temperature but adding to the springtime appearance of the clubhouse area of the course.

The course itself is rounding into good playable shape, albeit, as club professional George Balazs told me, "a trifle damp in spots."

Things have been happening to the club during the past few months. The magic wand of renovation has waved over the interior of the clubhouse. The new pro shop is a thing of beauty and should be a joy for some time to veterns and new members. Newcomers to the staff are a course superintendant and an assistant professional.

All that was lacking in the overall picture, it seemed to me was, as President George O'Brien called it a few weeks ago, "A dream that will be realized" was the brand new clubhouse.

All indications point to 1967 being one of the best if not the best season in the long history of the club. A new board of directors that, without trying to be funny, are not letting any administrative grass grow under their feet, and a ladies' division that is fairly oozing energy have laid plans which if followed through to completion will make this a red-letter year.

In a joint session, both boards for the first time in history, sat around the discussion table and following a delicious dinner by the stewards Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Haines and their associates, aired arrangements for the coming season.

Many useful suggestions were discussed and if reach reality will be promulgated in the near future. There definitely will be a bulletin issued through publicity chairman Doug Bennett. There will be a centennial ball at a date to be decided on. There was a decided atmosphere of optimism at the meeting, little argument and a general concurrence in ideas and suggestions.

The new pro shop is another thing of beauty and should prove a boon to the club and members alike. Mr. Balazs has installed a well-rounded stock of golf equipment that should cater to the wants of duffer and veteran alike. It is roomy, well laid out with a club pro private office, various departments and a large storage room.

The interior of the clubhouse has also assumed a new look. Colorful face-lifting is noted in the renovation of furniture and a general refreshing of the lounge and dining rooms.

Dave Thomson, 22, the new assistant pro comes highly qualified for his position. He shoots in the mid 70's and has been associated with golf for the past four years. He wintered in the Bahamas as an assistant pro and prior to that was with the Mount Bruno Country Club at Ste. Bruno, Quebec.

In the ladies dicating, Jean Smoke has taken over the secretarial position with Lillian Matthews looking after the treasury department.

The annual Festival of Golf will be held over the Civic Holiday while on July 7th the club will again stage the district qualifying round for the Ontario Junior Championship.

On Friday, August 4th the Ontario Golf Association will hold its annual Ontario Southpaw Championship.

This was won last year by John Wayne of Hamilton with a 74. The Southpaw championship was inaugurated in 1959 by the OGA with winning scores ranging from 71 shot by Jean Desgroseilliers of Chambly, Quebec in 1961 to those in the mid-seventies.

An old hockey friend of mine Hub Macey of Kingston was a runner-up in 1963 with a 76 to the winner Ken Thorpe of Whitevale, who carded a 73.

KNUDSON'S WORLD OF GOLF

As far as I'm concerned, the game of golf has deteriorated. I'm talking about the tour now and the reason for this deterioration is the amount of money we are playing for and the number of tournaments each season.

Today, golf is a scoring game and most of the players on the tour do not play the game the way it should be played.

They just try and bump it — get it in the hole — and don't really care where they lie it.

They haven't any respect for a good golf hole or a good golf course.

For one thing, we haven't that many good courses — perhaps 10 in the U.S. that I've played — where it is necessary to manoeuvre the ball with finesse.

I haven't played every course in Canada, but I don't think we have any in this class.

I'm talking of courses like the Augusta National and Akron, perhaps.

Finesse has gone out of the game. Ben Hogan was the master at manoeuvring the ball.

Today? Well, I guess Billy Casper impresses me the most when it comes to hitting a variety of shots. He impresses me most about a lot of things. Casper never looks too good, but he hits the ball hole-high more times than anyone else.

And he'll use the wind.

For instance, if the wind is from left to right, he'll fade. If it's right to left, he'll hook. He always has it so the wind is pushing the ball down the fairway.

We have 40 tournaments a year and many golfers say: "Let's see, now. If I play all 40, I'll run hot and cold and I'll make X number of bucks."

Myself, I'm not able to play all the time. I need a rest. I'm a bad traveller and I like to spend some time with my wife and family. So I pick and choose my tournaments.

Number one — it had better be a good golf course. And number two — they'd better have some money.

These rest periods between are invaluable for practising.

You learn to hit the different shots in the practice tee, not during the game. A good golfer should spend just as much time practising as he does playing — or he won't know what the game is all about.

I think it was Jackie Burke who said, while watching a lot of the young pros out on the practice tee for hours before a game:

"I don't know what they're doing out there. If you didn't bring it with you, you ain't gonna find it here."

But, with lucrative tournaments every week, the young golfer today just doesn't take time off to practise.

As I said, the game has deteriorated as a result.

I know, I've been on the tour 10 years and I'm still learning.

Eagles Nip Spurs In 3-2 Squeaker

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) — Drummondville Eagles, in their first ever Allan Cup final, look to be making the most of it. The Eastern Canada champions took a step closer to the Canadian senior hockey championship Friday night with a 3-2 victory over Calgary Spurs and a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven series.

Third game is scheduled for Sunday at 7:30 p.m. EDT. The series is being played here.

Rolland Leclerc scored the winner Friday late in the third period, breaking a 2-2 tie. Ron Roberts and Jacques Richer scored the other Drummondville goals.

Jim Brown and Marty Desmarais answered for the Spurs.

Leclerc got his tie-breaking goal after Roger Picard had fed him a perfect pass at the Calgary blue line. Leclerc took a couple of strides over the line and blasted a low 35-foot slapshot that beat Calgary goalie Bobby Taylor.

The Eagles had 39 shots at Taylor while the Spurs directed 35 shots at Drummondville netminder Claude Cyr.

General manager Roland Bourdon of the Eagles was brimming with confidence following his club's victory.

"The Spurs played a real good game and they surprised me," Bourdon said while patting on a cigar. "They'll probably play even better but we'll still win because my players are better."

Coach Tony Schneider of the Spurs said that his club did not make the most of its opportunities, particularly in the second period when the Spurs held a wide margin in play.

"If we'd had a few more breaks around the net, it might have been a different game," he said. "We had lots of chances in the second period but we didn't make the most of them. But I think we played much better this game than last Wednesday."

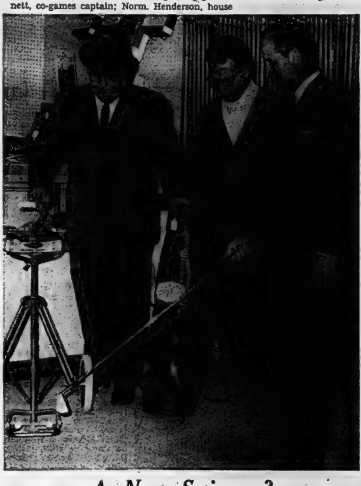
Roberts gave Drummondville a 1-0 lead with his third goal of the series at 4:05 of the first period while Calgary's Bob Peers was serving a hooking penalty. However, Brown tied the score at 12:43 when he beat Cyr from close in just as Drummondville's Bob Eastman returned to the ice after serving a hooking penalty.

The first period was delayed at 18:13 when Bill McCuaig of the Spurs shattered the protective glass behind Cyr with a slashing shot.

The remaining time was carried over to the second period and Desmarais gave the Spurs a 2-1 lead at 18:05 of the first period after the teams returned to action following the delay.

The Eagles took a rash of minor penalties early in the second period but the Calgary power play was unable to capitalize on the manpower advantage.

Richer tied the score late in the second period when he took a centering pass from Guy Black and slipped the puck under Taylor, setting the stage for Leclerc's winner.



Referee John Kubinec handed out a total of 26 penalties, 15 to the visitors.

Rudy Salon of the Spurs and Drummondville's Ron Racette squared off in the Calgary zone late in the game and were given minors, five-minute majors for fighting and 10-minute misconducts each.

Softball Coaches Needed !

The Belleville Minor Softball Association is still very much in need of coaches.

A meeting has been scheduled for the Recreation Centre tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon, at 2.00, and if you are willing to help some city youngsters play softball, either attend or contact one of the BMSA executives.

"We've plenty of kids and lots of teams but there just aren't enough coaches to go around," says president Hugh Sutherland.

How about, dad, and some of you big brothers?

Oshawa Kegler Holds Lead In "Mr. Bowling"

Harold Ballem, of Oshawa, held the lead going into the second day of the 10th annual "Mr. Bowling" five-pin tournament being held at the Belleville Bowl-O-Drome.

Ballem scored 2602 to pace the Friday night card of 25 bowlers.

About 45 more district competitors will try for better Ballem's mark today with the tournament expected to be completed around 6.00 p.m.

Two Belleville men, Bill Lotz with 2599 and Harry Ridley with 2573, were second and third last night, followed by Charlie Batty, of Kingston with 2372 and Wally Lavergne, Belleville, with 2350.

Batty, who owned the city's top average this season, was the leader after five of the nine games were bowled last night, with 1286, but he faltered in the second half. Ballem was 1363 for five games

High singles were: George Crabb 327, Harold Ballem 336, Charlie Batty 317, Harry Ridley 321 and 301, Wally Dever 315 and 305, Joe Vasko 313, Jim Snider 313, Wally Lavergne 328, Bill Lotz 336 and Bill Fagan 310.

Toronto Honors Leafs

TORONTO (CP)—Some 25,000 fans turned out under cool but sunny skies Friday to cheer Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions, honored at a city hall ceremony.

The fans lined up four deep at some spots along the seven-mile route through downtown streets to the outdoor podium where the champions were greeted by Mayor Bill Dennison. They rode in open sports cars flying the team's Maple Leaf pennant.

Flags and bunting decorated the square. The team pennant flew atop the flag pole. At one point, a fake bomb burst high in the air and a team pennant fluttered down on a parachute.

Bucs Whip Giants; Wills Sidelined

By MURRAY CHASE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maury Wills was talking about his reunion with Los Angeles Dodgers when someone asked him if he had any friends among San Francisco Giants.

"No," he replied. "Actually I don't believe I have any friends in this league. It's not any great hostility, but when I've got the uniform on it's every man for himself."

Less than 24 hours later, the Giants showed that Wills is no friend of theirs.

In the sixth inning of what turned out to be a 7-3 Pittsburgh Pirate victory Friday night, Giant pitcher Ray Sadecki hit Wills on the hip-bone with a pitch and knocked him out of the front lines for at least several days and possibly a week.

"You can tell when a guy's trying to hit a man, and he was trying to hit Wills on the first pitch," Pirate manager Harry Walker said after the game.

"Wills has been hot. They know he's been hot so they were throwing at him."

Wills left the game two innings later when his knee started to swell. The 34-year-old third baseman, whom the Pirates acquired from the Dodgers during the winter, rapped two hits in the game, raising his average to .351. He has scored 12 runs and stolen five bases.

In other National League games Cincinnati Reds crushed Atlanta Braves 14-7, Chicago Cubs stopped St. Louis Cardinals 5-3, Philadelphia Phillies downed Los Angeles 3-1 and New York Mets nipped Houston Astros 3-2.

In the losing affair Wills was hit, "the Pirates' Tommie Sisk, who pitched a four-hitter, fired a pitch that sailed over Hal Lanier's head. Lanier took a few steps toward the mound, and players from both teams rushed onto the field, but there was no contact.

George Scriggs and Donn Clendenon each drove in two Pirate runs while Matty Alou contributed three hits to a 14-hit offensive.

Both Cincinnati and Atlanta erupted in a rash of hits, but the Reds—who had been shut out in their previous two games—won by including three homers and four doubles in their 18 hits. Atlanta had 17 hits.

John Edwards clouted a three - run homer for Cincinnati while Tommy Harper and Deron Johnson also connected.

A tie - breaking single by Ernie Banks capped a three-run rally in the seventh inning that propelled Chicago past St. Louis.

Gary Sutherland scored two runs and John Callison drove in two for Philadelphia.

Jerry Buchek's leadoff homer in the ninth inning gave New York its victory over Houston.

Rusty Staub hit a two - run homer for the Astros in the fourth.

Palmer Sizzles A 5-Under 66!

HOUSTON (AP) — Arnold Palmer, in seven of the 13 golf tournaments this year, has finished fourth or better, pocketing $73,273.

He took the lead in the rich $115,000 Champions International Friday, sizzling to a five-under 66 for a 134 total and a one-stroke lead. His nearest contender was young Frank Beard, 137.

The three Canadians entered in the tournament made the 150 cut-off point at the halfway mark.

George Knudson of Toronto, after firing a fine 68 in Thursday's opening round, blew to a 74 Friday for a 143 total. Al Balding, also of Toronto, put together a 73 to go with Thursday's 71 for 144. Wilf Homenchuk of Winnipeg shot rounds of 76 and 70 for a 146 total.

Palmer thrust himself into the limelight in the star-studded Houston field by pounding out of his typical birdie charges, using deft iron play for birdies on five of the last seven holes.

Jack Nicklaus, who is having a bad year on the tour, suffered a frustrating two-stroke penalty along with PGA champ Al Geiberger and former U.S. Open titlist Gary Middlecoff for slow play.

The penalty, took the edge off a 69 Nicklaus shot that left him a disastrous 77 on the first day. As a result, Nicklaus' 140 barely made the cut.

Geiberger had a 145, and Middlecoff a 149.

Nicklaus, Geiberger and Middlecoff, among the slowest and most deliberate golfers, toured the par-5 Cypress Creek course in four hours and 18 minutes. At one point, there was a half-hour, 70-hole gap between the penalized threesome who started early, and the group in front.

Nicklaus threatened to quit when told of the penalty but later decided to stay, saying: "I just can't play any faster, though."

Toronto Car Retains Rally Lead

SASKATOON (CP) — Toronto fireman Paul MacLennan and his navigator John Wilson of Waterloo, Ont., showed Friday they will be hard to knock out of first place in the Centennial 4000 rally.

They covered Friday's 606-mile leg from Red Deer, Alta., to this city without a fault and have only two points to their credit after three days of the eight-day, 4,500-mile event, which ends in Montreal Wednesday.

MacLennan piloted his Ford-sponsored Lotus Cortina through a closed section at Wainwright, Alta., in one second more than the 3 allowed time. However, there was no penalty incurred because a crew is allowed to build up a 20-second bulge over allotted time before being penalized.

MacLennan, a dark - haired Scot, credit Friday's run was made without difficulty and was at times "quite boring."

Second place went to Swede Karl Schultz and Paul Manson of Toronto in a Datsun, sponsored by the Nassau team, with 16 points.

Roger Clark of London drove his Lotus Cortina without fault and moved into third place with 23 points. Clark and his navigator, Jim Peters of London, are the only team to run the closed section at Wainwright perfectly.

Third overall Clark was the team of John Smith of Kingston, Ont., and John Catto of Ottawa in a privately - entered Lotus Cortina.

In the Wainwright section, cars had to drive a 21-mile course within a specified time. Penalties were assessed for not covering the course within the limit.

Tigers' Lolich Blanks Birds

By BOB GEEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Sain, the old ex-Yankee who now serves as Detroit's pitching coach, was talking about Tiger lefty Mickey Lolich.

"He's an interesting fellow," Sain said. "He's got a good mind. He reminds me a lot of Whitey Ford."

Ford, still active, once was the scourge of the American League's batters and the pitching key to the Yankee dynasty.

Lolich, inconsistent in the last two seasons, is off to his best start ever, 3-1 with three complete games, two six-hitters and a four - hitter after a 14-14 mark last season. He must be a big winner if the Tigers are to realize their pennant hopes.

He looked the part Friday night, spinning an masterful four - hit, eight - strikeout, 4-0 shutout of Baltimore Orioles. The victory kept the Tigers in a share of first place.

Chicago White Sox also clung to a share of the lead, beating Cleveland Indians 3-2 behind Tommy John's four-hit pitching. Minnesota Twins defeated Boston Red Sox 5-2 and Washington Senators stopped California Angels 4-1. New York Yankees at Kansas City was postponed because of rain.

Lolich, 26, had some mild trouble in the first inning, then breezed in. He helped his own cause with a run - scoring single in the second and walked and scored in a two-run fifth. Dick McAuliffe had a solo homer in the third.

Steve Barber, making his first start since he and Stu Miller combined for a losing no-hitter last Saturday, took the loss for Baltimore.

With The Trotters

TORONTO (CP)— Silver Nib Lee, seven-year-old trotter who hasn't been out of the money this year, won by a neck Friday night in the sixth at Greenwood Raceway.

Unable to win in five starts in the U.S. last year, the winner now has 10 wins, three seconds and two thirds for $9,878 in purses.

Silver Nib Lee, owned by Bill Stirton of Orangeville, paid $12.30 for the win over Protector Donaldo.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

BY BOB BLAIND

Pickerel and pike fishing has started in the Bay of Quinte area.

Many out of town fishermen started drifting into this city Friday morning, and night Friday and into the wee hours of Saturday morning.

Fishermen from Buffalo, Erie, Windsor, St. Catherines, Toronto and Oshawa just had to come down to the spawning as they have for the past ten to twenty years or so.

I talked to two American fishermen Friday afternoon and their combination who have been fishing West Lake for 30 years. Neither thinks the will probably be his last year as he is now 72 years old and is kind of feeble. He has not missed an opening day in this district and has always caught fish.

Quite a good number of local fishermen started fishing in the Moira River at 12:01 Saturday morning and it was really cold. Not much luck by any one at the time this column was written.

Best baits for the Moira River month should be rapala, gilder, and live bait.

At Trent River, near No. 1 dam, the fishing was heavy Friday night, with the baits running ,jigs, minnows, worms, Rebel and rapala were being used here.

West Lake should produce good fish on the rapala, meppa, Yellow Sally, bono and rapala.

Cameron Lake is a Canadian Wiggler proven fish catcher with rapala and live bait also good.

East Lake produces some nice fish, mostly on trollslux, crocwire, meppe and Canadian wiggler.

In Bay Bay the beno and rapala were the best producers last year and should be again this season.

Live bait is an excellent bait for walleye at any time and any place, in fact old Mr. Devon is hard to beat for all types of fishing.

Next week pickerel and pike season opens in the west of Hastings, Peterborough, Kidgston Counties, in fact in most of Southern Ontario.

Moira, Stoco, Crowe Lakes as well as the Trent River will in all probability be heavily fished next weekend.

The Trout fishermen have returned from Algonquin Park after successful fishing ventures.

Bob Taylor and party returned on Wednesday with their count of lake trout, all caught on minnow baits, some in less than 6 feet of water.

This gang ate so much fish back there in the bush, they almost have fills themselves.

Larry Meserher and crew also had a successful week-end trip, catching their limit of specks almost all in the 4 to 5 lb. class. They also caught their limit of lake trout. A real good trip for Larry, Woody and Bob.

Les Weigant, Frank Donovan and their crew had another successful trip to Lavielle in the Park, bringing home 30 nice lakers and specks.

Ken Kingston, a real good lake trout fisherman, had good luck near Big Salmon but then Ken nearly always brings home fish.

Locally, fishing Friday morning in a small creek just north of Belleville, Bill "Pickle" Sutherby and a buddy caught 29 nice bluegills all on worms.

If the weather warms up a bit the fishing promises to be excellent this season.

Only the real fishermen want to brave this chilly weather and who can blame them.

On the way up to the office at 3.30 I ran into a local business man, John Fletcher, who had been fishing near Carbin Lock since 12.01 a.m. and who does this every opening day of pickerel season but this year was not having much success to date. Too cold said Jack, maybe it will be better later on today. A real ardent fisherman.

Leafs Lose Five In Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ernie Broglio of Buffalo - Bisons brought his former greatness to the International League Friday night, pitching a one-hit, 9-0 victory over Richmond Braves.

Once a mainstay of St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, Broglio, 31, blanked the Braves to Gil Garrido's fifth-inning single.

He had so look a long way back—to 1963 against New York Mets—for his last one-hitter. He also pitched a one-hitter in 1960 against Chicago Cubs.

Jacksonville Suns edged Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 on ninth inning homers by Bob Hovis, Taylor and Larry Elliott, both his coming on consecutive pitches. It was the Leafs fifth loss in seven games.

Rochester Red Wings nipped Toledo Mud Hens 10 and Syracuse Chiefs edged Columbus Jets 2-1 in 11 innings.

Junior Final Sellout

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — All tickets have been sold for the opening game of the Memorial Cup hockey series here Saturday at Fort William Gardens.

The 4,400-seat arena was sold out after a mad scramble Friday afternoon when the number of tickets for hockey fans in Geraldton, anxious to see their team play in the championship game between Port Arthur Marrs and Toronto Marlborns.

"We had a man come in from Geraldton who picked up tickets for a great number of people," said Gardens manager William Beavis. "In fact the total bill we owe him is $500."

The interest in Geraldton, 150 miles northeast of here, was whipped up by Marrs' three game sweep of the hometown Gold Miners in the Thunder Bay Junior Hockey League playoff.

Toronto Car Retains Rally Lead

Joan Claude Ogier and Lucette Pointet of Grenoble, France, moved into fifth place with 39 points in a Citroen. This is a surprising showing for the French crew, which does not speak English and has no navigational experience.

Pre - rally favorites Klaus Ross of Lachine, Que., and John Bird of Toronto took a whopping 635 penalty points after having transmission trouble.

They said a large rock on the relatively easy section from Red Deer checked their car's transmission casing. However, they made repairs and will start today's section, which ends for an overnight stop at Brandon, Man.

Scott Harvey of Dearborn, Mich., and Mike Kerry of Toronto held sixth place, despite having some problems at a gas station along the way.

The above management-minded posts are immediately open in Belleville, Napanee, Picton and other communities. Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For May 7

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): If you asked for activity . . . now you got it. There are demands, reactions, pressure from mate or friend. Some special counsel . . . take care in traffic, around machinery.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): You may feel as though travel is a necessity. But what you actually require is a new outlook. Shake off emotional lethargy. Greater chance for independence in due course.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You may not get much rest. But there will be plenty of fun. Day features action . . . direct involvement. Nothing halfway at this time. Listen and learn, but also assert views.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Opposition may come from within family circle. Antidote is complete understanding. When you have stopped explaining to do . . . be frank, aware. Speak your piece. Be candid.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Best to avoid unnecessary travel. Realize that rushing could actually cost time. Study Aries message. If careless, price today could be high. Know this and act accordingly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Question of emphasis. What conserve is paramount. Budget considerations spotlighted. Key is: Take nothing for granted, check various sources.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): You may find it difficult to be diplomatic. Key is to evaluate, judge. Otherwise you could run afoul of established patterns. Better to do more listening than talking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Undercover activities come roaring to forefront. Do not attempt to keep secrets today. Important to face facts as they exist. Be tactful but don't try to cover truth.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Question of money and friendship arises. Test of affection, love likely to occur. Chips are down. You get chance to prove your intentions — or run.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Practical matters in the spotlight. Some of your own ideas may collide. You could be forced to make a decision, choice. Consider giving up something in order to eventually gain. Think!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Check Leo, Aries messages. No day to accept scenes . . . or to try to be everywhere at once. Know that some changes are inevitable. Don't fight progress. Ride with the tide.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Healthy challenges exist. Accept them as such. Show you can be tough without being harsh. Family element may make money request. Grant it without being extravagant. • • •

If today is your birthday . . . you are sensitive to feelings of others. Often you become involved in social planning, but you tend to overlook personal matters. Try concentrating in the present. Then you gain greater perspective. • • •

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Aries, Taurus, Gemini. Special word to Capricorn: If analytical, you see reasons for certain sacrifices.

To order Sydney Omarr's 30-page booklet, The Truth About Astrology, send 50 cents to Omarr Booklet, Box 2240, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

For May 8

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Take initiative. Stop feeling sorry for opposition. You are in naturally competitive person . . . now go out and win! Today you can make contacts, friends, important people. Exhibit independence.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): If you try to suppress natural inclinations there may be trouble. Seize challenges to prove you're great. Be yourself without being obnoxious. You can be true to inner feelings without being arrogant.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Socialize. Break constricting pattern. Fine evening for unusual get-together. Meet new people and learn from stimulating conversation. Neighbor, family member is trying to say something. Listen!

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Don't be upset if results are not immediate. Know that authority must weigh, balance. If patient, you gain respect. Good time to have boss to dinner. Obtain hint from Gemini message.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Day features opportunity for change, travel, variety. Good lunar aspect coincides with birthday. Trust yourself. Your knowledge is enhanced . . . you no longer need walk in the dark. Know this!

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Financial affairs are spotlighted. Includes job, compensation, ability to harmonize with coworkers. Extend hand of friendship . . . concentrate on diplomacy. Throw out tendency to be jealous.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Some of your beliefs may be challenged. There seems to be opposition within. You make concessions . . . you think . . . you endure. A greater sense of appreciation develops. You could reconcile with loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Study personal motivations. Reexamine your actions, thoughts, beliefs are subject to revision. Be willing to make creative changes. Remember, problems about health, diet, work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Romantic area is emphasized. Love is all around you. Appreciate beauty, sons of kindred. Know that indeed you do not exist on bread alone. Make this a beautiful day!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Take new view of home, family. Gain shows if you are real and individual with proper credentials could contact you regarding profitable transaction.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Be open to contacts with neighbors, relatives. No day to hide in shell. Key is being receptive. Don't become involved in disputes. Persons who argue today may become allies tomorrow.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Keep eye on valuables. Careless-ness could prove costly. One you admire needs cheering up. Forget your own problems for a time. Helping hand. Then you prove your own worth. • • •

If today is your birthday . . . current cycle indicates relief of emotional financial burden. Greater freedom of action is due.

With Week of Good Fun Now History Expo All Smiles

MONTREAL (CP) — A man dressed as a circus clown and walking on high stilts hammed it up for reporters and officials Friday at Expo 67a normally sedate administration building —and everyone erupted into roars of laughter.

That, generally speaking, is the spirit prevailing at Expo after an initial eight days in which the big fair has borne the brunt of crowds beyond all attendance predictions, and come up smiling.

Despite complications as unavoidable as chilly winds and crushing crowds outside transportation centres, the Expo men are relaxing somewhat.

Even skeptical observers admit to being impressed by the degree of painstaking organization obvious at the spectacular up in the provincial legislature, fairgrounds.

They are not so quick to shout "I told you so," in the face of on-site snarls—the dense lineups at some restaurants, for example, with the mad scrambles for service.

Expo officials maintain a show of easy confidence in the face of the worst complications that can be generated by substantially more than 2,250,000 people — the total attendance since the fair started April 28.

They say procedures of bars and restaurants on the site are confronting with a Quebec government order that prices be posted outside such establishments, and that action is being taken on complaints of high prices for food and drink.

The complaints have turned among other forums,

Proprietors of some eating places in Montreal say Expo is taking away business from the city concerns.

Officials of the fair usually are cool even when confronted with unpleasant-sounding questions.

Are there pickpockets active on the site? asks a reporter.

Only in relatively small number, comments an Expo spokesman blithely.

Are Montrealers, currently pouring into the fairgrounds, likely to lose interest after a few weeks and the attendance drop accordingly?

"Look at all the season's passes we've sold and 70 per cent of them to Montrealers," is the official's comment. "They're not likely to stay away and lose any of their money's worth."

Besides, after the initial, Montreal - dominated crowds, would come millions of Expo-addicts from other cities, provinces and countries. Again, the outlook—rosy.

The prediction now is for a total of 15,000,000 visitors making an average of four trips each to the site, for a total of 60,000,000 visits.

Michael Dobbs, in charge of press, radio and television services at Expo, told a Friday press conference that efforts were under way to impress commissioners - general of the various national pavilions with the need for making food-price policies conform with Expo rules.

One pressing problem has been the crowds jamming onsite transportation centres.

Regulations are expected to be in force, as of today, to prevent crowds on the platforms of the Expo Express stations from numbering more than the volume that can be accommodated by any one train.

Extra buses servicing the site from Montreal also have been announced.

The original crowd estimate for today was 201,400. That was pushed up on Friday predictions for the day, to 230,000.

Sunday originally was expected to see 275,230 visitors at the site. That prediction later was boosted to 350,000.

The total population of the Montreal area is about 2,500,000.

From interviews with visitors, it seemed the Soviet pavilion is the most popular, largely because of its big technological displays.

The United States showhouse was catching eyes mainly for its startling architecture—a great dome in heavily veined glass.

At the Quebec pavilion, heavy technological and scientific exhibits set down in a distinctly go go atmosphere are causing raised eyebrows.

"They never expected to see Quebec — supposedly old and quaint—presented like this," said one hostess, who described the general visitor reaction as favorable.

One middle - aged French-speaking Montrealer described the pavilion as "too cerebral."

Expo official are attacking methods of attracting crowds to such centres as the Expo art gallery when the main entry routes lure them straight to the exhibition's more sensational displays.

One thing they can do nothing about is the weather. So far it's been generally good following a blastingly brilliant first three days.

The weekend outlook was fayorable also, except for the predicted chill that is a perennial part of early spring in Montreal.

Phones Keep Ringing

MONTREAL (CP) — The phones are ringing off the walls at Expo 67's telephone information service and some of the operators are talking themselves voiceless.

The manager of the service, which goes under the name Expovox, said Friday four of the 75 girls wearing as operators had to go home on one of the wilder days "because they couldn't talk any more."

Before the big fair opened to the public April 28, experts estimated that a maximum of 5,000 calls a day would have to be handled by Expovox. But the peaks have turned out to be 7,000, with Mondays especially rushed, said manager Henry Duggan.

At least half of the calls involved requests for information on rooms and the United States was the point of origin of the majority of these.

Expovox, operating from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, considers informing the telephoning public about the availability of Montreal-area lodging to be one of its main tasks.

Its manager said comparatively few of the calls carry complaints about conditions on Expo's St. Lawrence River site.

Triple Wedding

Sisters Suzanne, Lise and Denise Lecompte, will be married Saturday in what they call Montreal's first triple wedding in 90 years. The girls and their fiances will receive the nuptial blessings in St. Jacques Church, Expo's official Roman Catholic church. (CP Photo)

Election Issues

Singer Charges Ontario Stifled Discussion by Legal Manoeuvres

TORONTO (CP) — Vernon Singer (Lo-Toronto Downsview) said Friday the Ontario government on at least three occasions started legal proceedings to stifle public discussion and keep controversial matters out of the legislature.

". . . We have had the recent ruling of the Speaker that the house may not discuss the charges by Dr. Morton Shulman because the government has established an inquiry into the matter."

A royal commission is investigating allegations by Dr. Shulman, fired by the government as chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, that the government suppressed and interfered with inquests.

To infringe the right of public debate deliberately in order to put submerge unfavourable issues is to strike at the heart of democracy Mr. Singer said. "And this is exactly what this government has systematically done over the past number of years."

The first of these occasions, he said, was in 1961 when the then-leader of Ontario's Liberal Party, John Wintermeyer, charged that organized crime was flourishing in the province.

"Central in his indictment were two men who only a few weeks earlier had been acquitted of charges involving the alleged bribery of a member of the Ontario Provincial Police force.

"Five byelections . . . had been announced the previous week and the Wintermeyer charges loomed as the biggest issue in the vote.

"The government promptly announced that it was appealing the acquittals. Result: The whole judicial rule barred any discussion of the charges during the byelection campaign."

Mr. Singer told the legislature the government dropped the appeals a few days after the vote and "the public was once again free to discuss issues embarrassing to the government."

He said the second occasion came shortly before the 1963 provincial election.

". . . The report of the royal commission investigation into the NONG (Northern Ontario Natural Gas) scandal was known to have been completed and its release by the government was being demanded by the press and the public alike.

"The government announced that it was laying perjury charges against the late Ralph Ferris arising out of his testimony to the royal commission and therefore would not release the report as the matter had just became sub justice. . ."

About the same time, Mr. Singer said, a writ was issued and a statement of claim filed in the case of McDermott vs. Melchers Distillery in which the former sales manager of the distillery "alleged certain facts which suggested that the Ontario government engage in a shakedown of the provinces liquor industry to raise funds for that election. . ."

The 1963 election "was followed by the granting of a retail price increase to the distillers."

"Whether or not McDermott's allegations are true, whether or not the Ontario Conservative government engage in such a shakedown of the liquor industry, I do not know.

"Almost four years later that case has still not come to trial, the issue is still sub judice and the public and press are still barred from discussing it."

"Disgraceful Kind of Publicity" Forced Truscott Review: Simpson

LONDON (CP) — Professor Keith Simpson, Britain's most eminent pathologist, says much of the publicity which preceded the Steven Truscott case was "disgraceful." He now is satisfied justice has been confirmed in the Canadian Supreme Court review.

Simpson, who testified on behalf of the Crown during the review, was commenting on the court's decision to uphold the 1959 murder conviction against Truscott following the death of 12-year-old Lynne Harper.

"In all my years as a pathologist I had never seen a case such as this nor the method used to force a government's hand," the London University professor of forensic medicine said in an interview Friday.

Simpson, who estimates he has performed more than 100,000 autopsies in the last 30 years, contends that the Supreme Court review was initially "forced" by the book The Trial of Steven Truscott, written by Isabel LeBourdais and published in Britain by Victor Gollancz Ltd., last year. A Canadian edition was published by McClelland and Stewart Ltd., Toronto.

"As the Supreme Court review showed, the facts were available but the book did not provide them," Simpson said. "I maintain the book was inaccurate.

"I never before heard of so much publicity given to the kind of book. It was a disgraceful kind of publicity which allowed a growing storm to reach such a site that it forced the hand of the Canadian government, most improperly, I believe."

The LeBourdais book contended there was a miscarriage of justice and that every witness, clue and fact that did not support Truscott's guilt "was overlooked or ignored from the hour the body of Lynne Harper was found."

Simpson, 58-year-old Crown pathologist for London, said he was called in by the Ontario government because there was no pathologist in Canada who could equal his experience. He said he found that the pathologist who had undertaken the examination in the 1959 case had done "a good job."

"In some 30 years I have completed some 100,000 autopsies. This raised eyebrows when I made the statement at Ottawa but you must remember this is a very large city with some 10,000 deaths requiring examination each year."

Release From Prison Still Defenders' Goal

TORONTO (CP)—The family, friends and defenders of Steven Truscott have not given up hope for his eventual release from prison.

E. J. Jolliffe of Toronto, one of Truscott's counsel, said Friday he plans to review the Supreme Court of Canada's announcement Thursday that it upholds Truscott's 1959 conviction for the sex slaying of 12-year-old Lynne Harper.

He said he would "concentrate on the findings of Mr. Justice Emmett Hall, the only member of the nine-man Supreme Court who said he would have quashed the conviction and ordered a new trial.

Truscott's mother, Doris, said Friday she hopes to be in the public gallery of the House of Commons Monday when Opposition Leader Diefenbaker is expected to make an appeal for an unprecedented immediate parole for Truscott.

And Truscott's father, Dan Truscott of Richmond, near Ottawa, has said he may travel across Canada to collect signatures on a petition asking for his son's release.

Truscott himself summed up his reaction to the Supreme Court decision briefly: "The Supreme Court has made a mistake," he said quietly at Collins Bay penitentiary in Kingston.

Ontario Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said the court's examination of the Truscott case was "a trial of our system of justice and its administration" and by making the decision it did, the court "owes it to sustain our faith in the fairness of this system."

In the town of Clinton, where the original trial was held, the general reaction was in support of the court decision.

Clinton's only lawyer, E. B. Menzies, and A. L. Colquhoun, publisher of the town's weekly newspaper agreed with the decision but said they regretted that because of publicity, Truscott will never be able to live an ordinary life if he is released from prison.

Maynooth Man Is Charged With Murder of His Wife

The father of six children today awaits court appearance in Belleville to answer a capital murder charge in a shooting affray in which his wife was killed and his mother wounded.

Kinley Willmot Scott, 37, was arrested at his Maynooth-area home, 14 miles north of Bancroft, after a social worker struggled to subdue a man armed with a rifle.

Dead is Mrs. Doreen Scott, 33, while Mrs. Margaret Scott, 57, is in Peterborough Civic Hospital with a gunshot wound in her right leg.

Scott was brought to Belleville and lodged in Hastings County jail early today after being held by Bancroft Provincial Police for more than seven hours.

Assistant Crown Attorney Tom Lally said Scott will make his first court appearance Thursday in Belleville. He was remanded to that time by a justice of the peace in Bancroft.

Scott was arrested at the scene of the shooting after police were called to his small frame home on Highway 62, less than two miles south of Maynooth, shortly after 3 p.m. Sunday.

The man who placed the call was W. R. Coffey, Bancroft-area social worker for the Belleville Children's Aid Society who, minutes before, struggled with a man armed with a heavy rifle.

Mr. Coffey said he was discussing family problems with the younger Mrs. Scott in her home when a man walked out of a bedroom carrying a rifle.

He said the older Mrs. Scott grabbed at the gun, which went off, wounding her.

"I struggled with him, but he threw me on the floor and ran out into the yard," Mr. Coffey said.

Mr. Coffey said Doreen Scott ran out of the house and crouched beside his car. He said the man shot her through an open car window.

Mr. Coffey said he called police, while the man tossed the gun on the porch.

Inspector G. A. Duguid, of the OPP Criminal Investigation Branch who is heading the investigation, said a 30-30 calibre rifle was believed used in the shooting.

Scott was taken to Bancroft for questioning and senior officers from Belleville OPP district headquarters and finger-print experts went over the scene.

The Scott children range in age from four to 14 years.

Police said they were taken to the homes of relatives in the Bancroft area after their father was arrested.

Scott, a burly truck-driver, had lived in the area all his life, officers said.

He was held at the Bancroft detachment offices until 11 p.m., when he was taken, handcuffed, to a police cruiser and transferred to Belleville for court appearance.

The shooting is the second investigation in the Quinte area headed by Inspector Duguid.

The CIB man nearly two years ago headed the international probe which cracked the bonding of a federal government cobalt stockpile at Deloro.

Mr. Lally said Scott's preliminary hearing will be held in Belleville, at a date yet to be set.

If the accused man is sent on trial, said the assistant Crown Attorney, the case will not be heard before the Fall Supreme Court assizes in the city which open September 5th.

Under Arrest

Kinley Scott leaves Bancroft OPP detachment late last night enroute to jail in Belleville where he will appear in court later this week.

Depleted Liberals Face Close Votes in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — The minority Pearson government faces another round of close votes of confidence when Parliament opens its centennial session today.

Liberal ranks have been depleted to 126 voting members by two deaths and three resignations, leaving the government seven seats short of a majority.

The four opposition parties hold 130 seats and independents three, but the Liberals have survived all crucial votes since 1963 with the help of the smaller parties and independents.

Before the Commons adjourned April 27 for a brief spring holiday and Expo 67 sight-seeing, the opposition parties served notice they would introduce non-confidence motions this week, especially on the plight of dairy farmers and the housing shortage in cities.

Opposition MPs will also press for a pardon or parole for Steven Truscott, who lost Thursday his dramatic bid before the Supreme Court of Canada for a reversal of his 1959 murder conviction.

Bigger Loans Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—A hefty increase in federal mortgages was recommended today by the Commons-Senate committee on consumer affairs.

In a 30-page report tabled in both Houses, the special committee urged that the $10,000 ceiling on government-guaranteed loans for the purchase of existing homes be lifted to $18,000.

The loans would be available for a straight purchase or for improvement of the older homes. The present requirement that at least $1,000 be put up by the buyer on improvements would be dropped.

Loans for home improvement work would be increased beyond the maximum limit of $4,000.

The federal government was urged to give a higher priority to housing problems and to meet with the provinces every year to assess the housing needs of each province.

The committee recommended that it be made a permanent watchdog body to protect the interests of consumers. Under present rules, the committee fades out of existence with the prorogation of the 1966-67 session today.

Johnson Claims Voice in Pacts In Certain Fields

MONTREAL (CP)— Premier Daniel Johnson said Sunday the federal government may not include international agreements bearing on Quebec's resources, education or culture without prior consultation with his government.

He was speaking to 600 delegates attending the annual convention of the Quebec Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies, a French-Canadian patriotic group.

"The federal government cannot expect that Quebec will delegate to it the powers to engage in fields under our jurisdiction such as natural resources, education and culture, including recognition of university equivalent," Mr. Johnson said.

"I want to point out to you that any country in the world is free to sign treaties and agreements with the government of Canada. But by the same token I would not expect Ottawa to execute a Quebec treaty with Vietnam—North or South."

Woman Says Dief Will Run

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mae Ross, a housewife who gathered signatures on a petition supporting John Diefenbaker in his Conservative leadership battle, said Sunday Mr. Diefenbaker told her he has no intention of stepping down.

"I talked to Mr. Diefenbaker on the telephone," she said in an interview, "and I asked him about Mr. Fulton's statement."

"He (Mr. Diefenbaker) told me over the phone from Saskatchewan that he is definitely not quitting and that Davie Fulton knows it," Mrs. Ross said.

The Conservatives plan to hold a leadership convention in Toronto in September.

BURLINGTON (CP) — The search for 10-year-old Marianne Sebuset was called off Sunday night after police and volunteers spent the 10th day fruitlessly double-checking swamps and hills north of Kitchener.

Police Chief Kenneth Skerrett of Burlington said seven two-man detective teams will continue to investigate all leads in the girl's disappearance.

LBJ Held Back Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — For more than four months, from mid - November to late April, President Johnson held U.S. bombers away from the North and in an effort to find out whether President Ho Chi Minh would agree to secret peace talks or take steps to scale down the war.

North Vietnam was informed of what Johnson was doing and was invited to respond.

The story of what happened, beginning last November with a Polish manoeuvre, now can be told.

Through Polish and other diplomatic channels word was sent to Hanoi last December that if Hanoi would take some parallel step to de-escalate the fighting, the United States would be prepared to make other moves. Hanoi, campaigning to halt all bombing of North Vietnam, never accepted the offer.

The move thus failed and two weeks ago U.S. bombers struck again inside the previously forbidden Hanoi circle—the restricted miles from the centre of the city.

The last previous time the bombs exploded so close to Hanoi's centre, their blows fell in the midst of a peace move initiated by Poland. Polish diplomats claimed that bombing, Dec. 13-14, wrecked one of the most hopeful approaches to peace in the recent history of the war. U.S. officials deny the claim, but can't be sure.

Out of that failure, however, arose the four - month Hanoi bomb limitation.

Opposition Will Back Trade Move

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson today surfaced from a sea-level of work on a major speech aimed at winning Parliament's unequivocal approval on Britain's new bid to join the European Common Market.

The big margin enjoyed by the ruling Labor party in the House of Commons was expected to be bolstered by the support of Conservative and Liberal members, giving the government one of Britain's biggest peacetime parliamentary majorities.

Although at least 75 Labor members dislike the Common Market bid, Wilson's three-day debate appears almost certain to end by pocketing 500 votes in the 630-member House.

Ironically, the anti-Market Labor rebels are led by veteran campaigner Emanuel Shinwell, who recently resigned as chairman of the parliamentary Labor group because he wanted tougher discipline for dissident legislators.

Royal Couple Face Hectic Day

OTTAWA (CP)—Prince Albert of Belgium and his attractive wife, Princess Paola, face a hectic round of official functions today, both in the capital and in Montreal.

The royal couple arrived here by train from Montreal Sunday afternoon. Everything but the weather co-operated for their official welcome on Parliament Hill.

Prime Minister Pearson apologized for the 52-degree temperature, brisk wind and sullen sky. He told a crowd of some 1,500 that he hoped the warmth of their welcome would compensate for the weather.

The royal couple then left the parliamentary grounds for the official visitors' residence. Next came an official dinner at the Country Club in nearby Lucerne, Que.

Today the prince, brother of King Beaudoin of Belgium, and princess visit the Parliament Buildings, where Prince Albert will receive members of the government and others and later hold talks with officials and hold a press conference.

After a luncheon at Government House, the couple leaves for Montreal for an evening city hall reception there, a tour of the city and dinner at city hall.

Tuesday they will participate in Belgium's national day at Expo 67. Next comes a round of activities in Quebec City and a tour of Northern Quebec. They will visit an Eskimo settlement before leaving for home May 15.

Foxboro Marks Canadian Centennial With Colorful Parade, Sports, Dancing

Sometimes you really can take on something bigger than yourself — and have a lot to show for it!

Foxboro did — Saturday. The Thurlow township hamlet marshalled a parade to merely mark Canada's Centennial and wound up making a mark for itself in the local annals of community-spiritedness.

In fact, so colorful was the parade, Foxboro residents may recall it years hence with more ease than they do the Centennial itself.

Which wouldn't be surprising, since local residents of the hamlet just north of Belleville, inspired with the idea of a parade as their contribution to the national big birthday program, wound up with more people in the procession than inhabitants.

Late Saturday night, one committee official estimated there were close to 1,000 peopling the bands, floats, majorettes, and mobile exhibits that marched down the little community's main street.

And many more than that came to watch.

Secret of the success, of course, was that Foxboro's bigger-than neighbors responded to its enthusiasm and joined the event with a will.

From Belleville and Thurlow township participants were drawn to the event, either as personnel or spectators.

Both ends of the hamlet were sealed off to traffic by provincial police so the parade could proceed its way peaceably — a duty that lasted nearly an hour, despite the shortness of the route and due to the length of the parade.

It ended at the hamlet's United Church grounds where a sports meet was held through the remainder of the day.

The final rendezvous of the big occasion came at nightfall with an old-time fiddlers' contest, step-dancing and just plain, pleasurable dancing among Foxboro folk themselves in the outdoors

Better Than 10-pound Pike Winning Fish in Derby

TRENTON — Half an ounce made all the difference yesterday when George Hacker of Toronto won first prize in the Trenton Legion's fish derby with a ten pound, one and a half ounce pike.

Fifteen-year-old Nicky Hatfield of Carrying Place caught the pike with the half ounce difference.

Mr. Hacker took away with him the prize for the largest fish entered in the contest, a 11 foot aluminum car-topper and a Johnson Fisherman's motor.

Nickey won the Shakespeare fishing equipment for the largest pike and the Redwood Motel trophy for the best entry for fishermen under 16.

Alfred Lisk of Trenton won with the largest pickerel in the contest, his fish weighing in at six pounds, eight ounces.

Not eligible for a prize, but a "show-stopper" was the two-and-a-half pound rainbow trout, caught by Lake Glover in the Trent River.

Vital statistics about the winner: Hacker's pike: 10 lbs., one and a half ounce; 35 and, three sixteenth of an inch long; 16 inch girth; caught in the Bay of Quinte.

Mrs. Monica McKay of Trenton won a copper cocktail shaker donated by Benedict-Proctor Ltd. for her guess of 30 lbs., three ounces for the mounted fish displayed over the Chamber of Commerce display . . . missing the exact weight by one ounce.

Eugene Keeman won the door prize, presented at the Legion Hall on Sunday at the end of the contest.

More than 400 fish were entered in the two-day derby, sponsored jointly by Trenton Legion Branch 110 and The Chamber of Commerce.

Legion convener Bill Smith said yesterday it was by far the most successful derby of the five annual competitions run by the branch.

"The people of Trenton supported the derby 100 per cent," Mr. Smith told the 100 persons assembled in the Legion Hall for Sunday's prize giving.

Fish Derby Winner

The winner of the annual Trenton fish derby was Luke Glover with a 2½-pound rainbow trout. Here Bill Wilson holds the winner for Mr. Glover and Mel Leland displays an eight-pound pike.

Secondary Sewage Treatment Plant for City Announced

A full 18 months after the city made its request to the provincial government, the Water Resources Commission is now ready to proceed with details of plans for the construction of a secondary sewage treatment plant for Belleville.

Mayor J. R. Ellis said today that the proposed agreement for construction of the plant by the OWRC has been received and is being checked by the city engineer prior to its being submitted to city council.

Copies of the agreement will be distributed to council members prior to discussion and granting of approval.

Under the terms of the agreement the OWRC would call tenders for the construction of the secondary treatment plant and following its completion would operate the plant for the city. The charge to the city would be on the basis of 22 cents per 1,000 gallons of treated sewage.

OWRC TO OWN PLANT

In contrast to the agreement under which the city's present primary sewage treatment plant was constructed, the OWRC would retain ownership of the proposed plant and operate it for the city.

The present primary treatment plant is operated by the OWRC but when debentures are paid off the plant will be owned by the city.

Mayor Ellis said when the proposed secondary treatment plant is built, and goes into operation the present sewer charge of $16.20 per year for a single-family dwelling would be about doubled. The estimated total charge for operation of both primary and secondary treatment plants is $34.05 per year.

Detailed plans for the new secondary treatment plant are still to be drawn but Mayor Ellis says the agreement calls for a construction start in 1968.

Break and Enter

This kittenish caller Saturday at the home of Belleville OPP Sergeant Harold Howting didn't pussy-foot around when he found a quart milk bottle on the step. Policeman's home or no, he tried to stage a break and enter — even if the bottle was 10 times his size. As usual, the end result proved the eyes too often are bigger than the capacity to consume,

IN MEMORIAM

REVELL — In loving memory of a dear father, Mary 8, 1963.
When daily duties call me
Where family ties are broken,
And loved ones have to part,
It leaves a wound that never heals,
And also breaks my heart.
His memory is my keepsake,
With God I leave his name,
For him in His keeping,
I have him in my heart.
— Lovingly remembered, daughter, Gladys and son-in-law Norm.

IN MEMORIAM

REVELL — In loving memory of a dear husband Edwin (Ted) who passed away May 8 1963.
This month comes back with sad memories
Of days I took a walk I won't ever forget.
You left alone without goodby.
But my memories of you will not.
I miss you more than anyone could know
The tears I shed I can wipe away.
But the ache in my heart will always stay.
— Lovingly remembered your wife Lillian Jean.

REVELL — In loving memory of my father Edwin (Ted) Revell who passed away May 8 1963.
Dear dad and years may have passed
Since our great sorrow fell.
The shock that we received that day
No one can ever tell.
God gave us arms to meet it,
And courage to bear the blow.
But what it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know.
It's lonely here without you,
Since you went to rest dear dad.
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
Sometimes it's hard to be brave,
Why some things have to be.
In this world we can't understand,
But in heaven we will see.
— Sadly missed by daughter Vera and son-in-law Bud.

Cold Water for Winner

First man to complete eight-mile Stirling-Foxboro walk yesterday was 17-year-old Lyle Faulkner. Friends poured cold water on his winning — and aching feet — as they all relaxed in church hall. Girls (clockwise from left): Chris Preston, Maria Heasman, Mary Lou Davidson, Diane Tummon.

Walkathon in Bleak Weather To Help Those in Trouble

Those boots were made for walking . . . !

And in a good cause, too — as young members of the United Church in Stirling and Cannifton demonstrated with both feet yesterday.

About 40 youngsters of United Church Hi-C clubs in both Quinte communities successfully walked eight miles through Oak Hills countryside in raw, rainy bleakness to prove the point.

Object of the walkathon was to collect money for medical aid for both sides in the Vietnam war.

The result: More than $200 in money to put a pittance more of impartial mercy in a bitter cup of human problems.

The walk ended in Foxboro as it began in Stirling — in high spirits, despite sweeping rain which lashed the walkers as they mounted the Oak Hills escorted by provincial police.

On the average, the youngsters, mostly in mid-teens finished the eight-mile course down Highway 14 in two hours.

Leading the pack was 17-year-old Lyle Faulkner of Stirling, who figured he covered the course in 100 minutes.

Each of the walkers had found individual sponsors — mostly among local merchants —who promised 10 cents for each mile covered.

The totals varied, since some found more angels than others. However, highest reported single collection was $60.

After the Foxboro finishing post, the hikers were taken enmasse to Cannifton church hall where pastor Rev. Jack Hobbs, and Rev. Bruce Small — who both shared the walk —estimated the financial results.

The total of commitments, since no walker had dropped out, came to exactly $319.75.

The money goes to the United Church's $50,000 pledge to supply medical supplies to both sides in the Vietnam conflict.

Afterwards, the group relaxed with folk-singing, had coffee and hot dogs and a conducted debate — on the Vietnam war.

Woman Robbed by Intruder

TRENTON — An elderly woman, Mrs. Rhea Black, 68, is in hospital today following an attack by an intruder in her Victoria Avenue home early Sunday morning. She was robbed of $70 by the thief who gained entry through a first floor window.

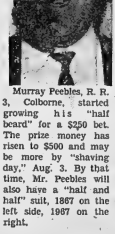
Mrs. Black, of 151 Victoria Ave, had spent the evening packing for a trip to Victoria B.C. to visit relatives and was asleep at 1.40 a.m. when she was awakened by a noise downstairs. Going to the top of the stairs she was accosted by a man, knocked in the floor and pummelled. The intruder then entered the bedroom and made off with three handbags.

Mrs. Black, who suffers from a heart condition, managed to make her way across the road to a neighbor's and the police were notified. Mrs. Black was taken to Trenton hospital, suffering from shock. She remains in hospital for observation.

Mrs. Black was able to give a partial description of the culprit and told police he wore a handkerchief over the lower portion of his face. Detective Sidney Vickers of the Trenton police department is investigating.

Corps to Be Inspected

On Thursday night, May 11, at 8 p.m. in the Armoury, the Saint John Ambulance are having their fifth annual inspection. The purpose of the annual inspection is to maintain an efficient and qualified group of trained volunteers to serve the community at any time. Many high officials of Saint John will be present — the inspecting officer will be Mr. E. G. Stone, president of the Ontario Council, assisted by Major Coulbe, Chief Training Officer; Lieut. Col. T. E. Duffield, Area Commissioner; Lieut. Col. A. B. Duffy, Branch President; Capt. R. G. Huggins, Area Staff Officer; Mr. Frank Severe, Area Staff Officer, and Mrs. C. D. Smiley, Provincial Cadet Officer.



Special invitations have been sent out to many prominent citizens who are expected to attend as well as the general public of Belleville and district.

LeBourdais Has No Plan To Continue

TORONTO (CP)—Isabel LeBourdais, author of the book, The Trial of Steven Truscott, said Sunday she has received phone calls from persons who say they plan to petition the federal government for a new Truscott trial.

Mrs. LeBourdais said only one of the callers supported the court's majority decision.

The author said she has no further plans to campaign against the decision.

Murray Peebles, R. R. 3, Colborne, started growing his "half beard" for a $250 bet. The prize money has risen to $500 and may be more by "shaving day," Aug. 3. By that time, Mr. Peebles will also have a "half and half" suit, 1867 on the left side, 1967 on the right.

Counter March

Those "peace" marchers who would have the United States walk out of Vietnam and leave the entire region to the tender mercies of the Communists are getting competition.

And the GIs who are fighting and dying for what the west at large believes to be the general freedom of all men may take new heart as a result.

The competition will take the form of a rally in New York on May 13 which may draw as many as 50,000. It will be in support of the U.S. effort in Vietnam and have marchers representative of veterans' groups, unions, the Young Americans for Freedom, Knights of Columbus, Young Democrats, Boy Scouts and ethnic groups, including one Harlem organization and one representing American Indians.

Organized by a New York fire captain, Ray Gimmler, who was angered when he saw a U.S. flag burned at an anti-Vietnam war rally, the demonstration also have the backing of Governors Nelson Rockefeller, of New York, John Volpe of Massachusetts and Kenneth Curtis of Maine.

It is easy to criticize the United States, the policy of President Johnson and the country's heavy involvement in this bitter struggle in an alien land, but if there is any other way to counteract Communist aggression and designs on Asia the "peace" marchers certainly do not have the key to it.

Meanwhile the struggle goes on, while the world waits and watches and laments the cost and the agony of it all — but forgetting in too many instances that there are two sides to this war and one side has no love for the western world or freedom as we know it. If for the sake of argument the Communist side were to gain their ends in Asia, and perhaps even undermine the free world at large, then those who are now protesting the war would suffer with the rest of us.

Relatively

Everything is relative, from the price a country pays for a Rembrandt to the cost of a privately-owned mountain in Britain.

The National Gallery, according to an Ottawa announcement, has bought The Tribute Money, an early painting by the 17th century Dutch master, for $364,000, while in Britain the Government is going to make a gift to Snowdon which at 3,560 feet is the country's highest mountain and a big tourist attraction.

The Welsh mountain and 21,000 acres around it are owned by Sir Michael Duff, who has put the property on the market. He expects to get $4,000,000 or more for it.

This is a sum which would be well beyond the reach of most individual purchasers in Britain, and even the National Trust which buys old mansions and areas of coastline to protect them from commercialization.

But what should happen if some wealthy American came along and outbid even the British Government!

To return to the Ottawa purchase, it depicts Jesus with a coin explaining that tribute must not only be paid to the State but to God. For many years the painting was in the collection of Sir Otto Beit in England.

And speaking of tribute money, this is very much in the news these days as computers process the late returns of income tax — among them that of Revenue Minister Benson. Perhaps there is some consolation in knowing that Mr. Benson delayed his return thinking he would have to pay more tax. Yet to the minister's surprise he is getting something back this year.

Like any humble taxpayer, Mr. Benson doubtless will welcome any crumbs the income tax division may have for him.

Road Link

What a difference a road makes — particularly in a region like Newfoundland which is still relatively undeveloped and subject to savage isolation in winter.

Newfoundland, whose recorded history goes back as far as the Viking settlement at the village of L'Anse aux Meadows around 1,000 AD, has always had to fight the odds. Its very isolation has bred a people who are strong in spirit and body.

Yet something as elementary as a road, that mainlanders take for granted, can ease the perils of isolation in a way that only Newfoundlanders can appreciate.

Like the one linking Bonne Bay round the coast to St. Anthony, St. Barbe and other communities in the northwest of the island across from Labrador. Just one road — yet it has revolutionized living conditions in the area.

Consider one aspect alone — that of health. Since it was opened in 1962 the mortality rate has been cut by more than 50 per cent, because medical aid is so much more accessible. New schools have been established and the fishing and logging industry have benefited.

As Rupert Jackson points out in an article in the Newfoundland Journal of Commerce, "the whole economy of the area has been changed for the better — because somebody built a road."

Thirty - two representatives from United Church Sunday Schools in Belleville and immediate district travelled to Toronto to obtain first hand information as to the Sunday School materials available and to inspect the United Church publishing house in that city.

City progress toward the taking up of options on the Doctor property to the east of the corporation, 50 acres of which has been recommended purchased as an industrial site for industry wishing to locate in Belleville, was the principal topic of discussion at the regular meeting of the Industrial Commission.

Today in History

May 8, 1967

The U.S. Navy aircraft carrier Lexington was sunk 25 years ago today—in 1942 —in the battle of the Coral Sea, the first Allied maritime victory over the Japanese. U.S. and Australian fleets joined forces to attack an invasion fleet bound for Port Moresby, the nearest town in New Guinea to Australia. The battle was fought completely in the air, since the fleets were never within firing range of each other. One Japanese carrier was sunk and the other damaged and put out of action as the invasion fleet withdrew.

1882 — Alberta, Saskatchewan, Assiniboia and Athabasca were formed as districts of the Northwest Territories.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1917 — German attacks forced a British battalion to retreat from Fressoy, near Arras; French units won a German trench near Chevreux; Liberia severed diplomatic relations with Germany.

Important Measure

Professional Training of Adults

Montreal Le Devoir

It is regrettable that because of the delays caused by the long debate on the armed forces unification bill and . . . the opening of Expo, the federal law on the professional training of adults had to be pushed through the House of Commons last week.

Here, in effect, is a very important measure which deserved a more thorough examination and about which, in any case, public opinion should have been more fully informed.

The measure, very capably piloted by Mr. Jean Marchand, became law April 26 and now it is only a question of weighing its consequences and its implications.

From the social point of view, bill C-228 marks a revolutionary step.

Until now, governments accepted a financial responsibility toward those who were deprived of employment. This responsibility took the form of unemployment insurance, supplemented as necessary by measures of assistance. . . .

This . . . did not meet the new situation created by the very rapid technological changes that industry is undergoing. The worker laid off because of technical changes in his place of employment certainly needs financial assistance. But he also needs help which will permit him to be retrained . . . so that he may become useful once again on the labor market. . . .

Bill C-228 gives western papers joined together to share their news-gathering services. It was recognized in such an explicit and universal way its responsibility toward those who could be called victims of progress and automation. This time, it's not a case . . . of a restricted measure applying to a restricted number of people. It is a program of general character, a public program in the strongest sense of the word, which can benefit thousands and thousands of workers.

"CP" Helped Forge A Nation

Montreal Gazette

The initials (CP) appearing in brackets at the beginning of news despatches, have a great story back of them. It is the story of the Canadian Press, which is marking its 50th anniversary.

The origins of the Canadian Press lie in Canada's great early expansion period and the want of understanding that space brings. The problem faced any Canadian newspaper attempting to gather news across so vast a country was so great that many tended to become local, or at best regional, and to lose a national consciousness. In some ways, it was easier to establish contact with services providing news from abroad than to get a comprehensive picture of life in Canada.

In 1907 these western papers joined together to share their news-gathering services. It was the beginning of co-operative news services. Other regional groups emerged in British Columbia, in Central Canada, and in the Maritimes. In 1917 they came together to form one organization, from coast to coast, and the Canadian Press was founded.

The achievements of the Canadian Press has been something more than overcoming the isolation of distance. It has established standards of fairness and accuracy. Its despatches are free of bias, prejudice or favoritism.

Through 50 years the little initials "(CP)" have made a constant, silent, daily contribution toward making Canadians more Canadian. New opportunities and needs for co-operation are opening up with the future. The history of "(CP)" has only begun.

Highway Hazard

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

If most of the alcohol - related accidents are caused by the alcoholic rather than the moderate drinker, it becomes feasible and urgently desirable to have a new look at the law.

There is a good argument for placing alcoholics in a special category along with other persons medically unfit to drive — those with defective vision, severe heart conditions, and so on.

It is an approach that New Brunswick with its scrambled highway accident record, should investigate forthwith.

Homespun

Vancouver Sun

Among the many virtues of Vancouver's Playhouse Theatre is that, alone among professional companies, it presents original works by local playwrights.

Only in Vancouver are theatre-lovers afforded the opportunity of seeing what contemporary writers are saying. On the record to date, th's is a forward looking policy which well justifies the support which Canada Council and other organizations have been giving our highly regarded Playhouse.

After Expo

An International City

Montreal La Presse

Mayor Jean Drapeau has long believed in Montreal's international role, which he considers was . . . consecrated by Expo, the sensational event that assures it of a place in the concert of great cities.

He has said often that this role has become evident in the last 30 years, particularly in the last dozen—that is, since its title as sterling capital of Canada has made it an almost obligatory stop on the itineraries of personalities arriving in America.

Headquarters of the International Civil Aviation Organization and the International Air Transport Association, university capital of the French-speaking world with the establishment of headquarters of the association of partially or totally French-language universities, Montreal has become the rendezvous for an ever increasing number of international conventions, especially of those where the French - language organizations of Europe play a prepondérant rôle.

That is why, in answer to those who ask about the future of the costly and magnificent buildings at Expo, Mr. Drapeau solemnly promised . . . to work to preserve them from destruction. We know that rules of international exhibitions call for demolition of the pavilions, but one may ask whether these rules were not meant to apply especially when the expositions were held solely on European soil, where many countries are relatively close to one another. A change of continents perhaps makes a relaxation of the rules possible.

If there exists a man capable of finding the rules in a favorable way, it is surely Mr. Drapeau, whose stubbornness created the islands which he now wants to develop . . . into a permanent international city where Canada, everywhere, at all times, the pilgrims of Man and his World could come to meet.

The creation of such an international city . . . would benefit young geranias immensely. With tomorrow's fantastic means of transportation, they would be able to come to learn much more easily than we have been able to do, to truly become as the premier of Quebec has expressed the hope, citizens of the world and promoters of peace.

The Trials of a Columnist

Dennis Braithwaite in The Globe and Mail

You get some strange reactions when you're writing a column. On Monday a man named Colin M. Brown, whom I don't know and have never heard of, took a big advertisement in this paper to reprint my John Turner lollipops column and to issue a ringing appeal for donations to launch a publicity campaign against Government spending. This stirred another gentleman I don't know, John Philip MacLean of Brockville, to write me a "Dear Dennis" letter in which he dropped the names of the above-mentioned Mr. Brown and of William F. Buckley, offered as credentials the information that "National Review's subscription department knows me well" and ended by asking whether "you'd like to join this little thing we have going and test your mettle?" I replied, bold it right there. I don't know what little thing you have going, but count me out. Although I am as conservative as the next man, probably more so, I am not joining any far-right—or middle distance right or just plain right—crusades now just plain right — crusades now or later (and that goes for centre, left or far-left causes, too). I have read some of William Buckley's stuff and think he's brilliant; I wish one of our local stations would pick up his syndicated TV show, which from all accounts is highly provocative. But I don't buy his message. In fact, I think all ideologies, left or right, and I would include religious sects in this, are institutionally mystifying, and emotionally traumatic and throughout history have been responsible for most of the follies and miseries of mankind. Sure, I think the Government is spending too much money, but I am highly suspicious of people who want to organize my economic life a lot of others' into a movement whose real purpose is unknown to me and may be inimical to my best interests.

This always happens, of course if I say a kind word about a Canadian performer, I am immediately invited to join the CBC's the Society For the Encouragement of Canadian Talent. If I make fun of bilingualism, I get a fan letter from Ralph Cowan. A suggestion that the CBC do some programming in the consumer field brings a pat on the head from Mrs. Beryl Plumptre.

It's uncanny how everybody thinks 'you are on his side and are yearning to man the barricades. A year or so ago I wrote a column exposing the campaign of the very right-wing and very right-wing Declaration of Canadian Women to censor the CBC. The column brought a warm response from the Voice of Women but hardly anybody on the phone that I thought the VOW was equally as idiotic as the DCW, also got in touch.

My limited research into this phenomenon has convinced me that nothing in this country is ever really understood. A word or a phrase triggers a reflex, and the writer immediately projects his own prejudices, fears, hatreds and yearnitions on to what's written and appropriates it for his own uses.

Where do I stand, then? Nowhere; or in a position of permanent ambivalence. I don't think there are any answers; there are only questions.

Farmers' Dilemma

Ottawa Citizen

Perhaps the time has come for some blunt talk in Parliament on the dairy industry. To try to subsidize farmers who are trying to scratch a living from uneconomic soil is to pour money into a bottomless pit. The harsh fact must be faced that many farmers have to adjust themselves to the economics of the 1900s; if their land is unproductive in terms of today's costs, they must find a new means of livelihood.

Restraints Issue

Britain Keeps Wary Eye on French Nuclear Policy

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain may be ready to accept additional restraints on the independent use of her nuclear weapons, but there is no indication she would be willing to renounce ownership of her warheads as long as France maintains and expands its nuclear force.

The suggestion of renunciation, made in Washington Wednesday by George Ball, former U.S. undersecretary of state, has therefore come as a surprise and as a bit of embarrassment to Whitehall authorities. Ball has publicly proposed Britain renounce her nuclear power as a price for a permanent ban on the spread of nuclear weapons.

Although Ball spoke as a private person, his international reputation and stature as well as his close links with American diplomacy suggest his views may have a direct influence on American policy.

Britain is so anxious as any country to get a nuclear non-proliferation treaty and has been in the forefront of negotiations. The slowdown is rooted in fear among West Germany and other non-nuclear powers that the European Commandment finally freeze them into recognate countries while the other nuclear-powers have acquired knowledge to expand their industrial advant ges.

West Germany is reported to feel that if any treaty is signed, it should be temporary rather than permanent. For the European powers, inspection to back up the treaty should be delegated to the European Atomic Energy Agency.

The Soviet Union doesn't want to leave European inspection to the European Six. The U.S.S.R.'s ambition is to erect a permanent barrier against Germany ever becoming a nuclear power and to make sure there is a trustworthy policeman who won't pull the wool over Soviet eyes.

Ball's suggestion appears designed to satisfy West Germany that there would be German-British nuclear quality.

Prime Minister Wilson has frequently stated his aim is to give up Britain's independent nuclear power, but his critics maintain this is merely a political position that has no bearing on actual conditions.

Britain maintains it has "integrationalized" her weapons in terms of targeting directed by NATO military leaders. Britain may go further than this and be willing to share control over the firing of its weapons, through two-key, three-key or even six-key systems.

Other countries would thereby have to be consulted before Britain could fire her Polaris missiles or other major nuclear weapons.

But Britain would still retain ownership of the warheads and could block use of the weapons if it so desired. And there would be no international control over the bombs themselves. All in the balance is unfitted to shared-delivery systems.

A British official has suggested it would be too much to ask Britain to renounce her nuclear power completely while France still retained hers. France has made clear that no matter how anxious other countries may be, she will not be a party to a non-proliferation treaty.

Negotiators Complete Work Tuesday

New Optimism Appears in Kennedy Round Trade Talks

GENEVA (AP) — New optimism appeared today among negotiators in the Kennedy Round talks, nearing the end of almost five years of efforts to cut tariffs and scale down other trade barriers.

The top negotiators are due to complete their work by Tuesday night in order that Jean Rey of the European Economic Community—the Common Market — can present any agreements to an EEC ministerial meeting in Brussels Wednesday.

The EEC approval must be in by June 30 when President Johnson's special powers to negotiate tariff cuts under the U.S. Trade Expansion Act end.

In the current talks William Roth, Johnson's special representative for trade negotiations, is dueling with the Common Market's Rey. Other principals are Sir Richard Powell of Britain and Ambassador Mori Aoki of Japan. In all, 53 nations including Canada are involved in the talks.

The main issues at present are American barriers to European chemicals and European tariffs on America grain.

Conference sources saw some encouragement for the United States in a reported willingness of the Common Market to increase its contribution to an international food aid plan. The European group was said to be talking about raising the amount of grain it would be willing to contribute in a year to about 1,000,000 tons from 600,000.

The talks appeared threatened with collapse Friday night when the U.S. delegates said they would not recommend elimination of the sliding price plan because European concessions were not satisfactory.

agreement before the U.S. Trade Act expires.

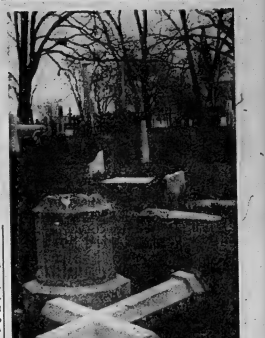
If no agreement cannot be reached by Tuesday night, U.S. State Secretary Rusk and foreign ministers from many nations may have to come to Geneva for a final attempt at

The Champion Looks Over Yearly Output

A champion egg layer casts an eye over an average year's output — 260 eggs. The bantam, known as the Thornber 808, is the result of 12 years research and computer calculation. A breeding organization in Yorkshire, England, which produced about a quarter of all the commercial egg-laying birds in Britain, claims that the Thornber 808 eats an ounce a day less than her competitors, starts laying eggs earlier and lays about 20 eggs more a year. The bird weighs only about 3 lbs. when she starts laying and about 4 lbs. when she stops.

Vandals Topple Markers In St Thomas' Cemetery

For the second time within the past year, gravestones in the historic cemetery at St. Thomas' Anglican Church have been damaged by vandals.



Saturday night at least five of the gravestones were toppled from their bases with three of the stone slabs being broken.

"This was certainly not the work of young children who might not know what they are doing, but must have been done by mature people — strong of body but very weak of mind," stated church rector Archdeacon A. S. McConnell.

"Vandalism is punishable by law and good police work might find the perpetrators of this crime and bring them to justice."

Archdeacon McConnell said he was all for young people having "fun and games" but said desecration of one of the holiest spots in the city did not seem to come under that category.

The St. Thomas' Church Cemetery is one of the oldest graveyards in the city, with some of the gravestones dating back to before 1843.

Plans for Veterans' Week are to be discussed and there will be a further report on the Unit Centennial project amongst other important subjects including the annual summer picnic. So attend and voice your opinions.

A letter was received by the president inquiring as to the whereabouts of F. L. Yeomans, believed to be a W.W. 1 veteran. Anyone having any information is asked to notify the steward or the secretary, Cde. P. B. Kelly either by telephone or letter.

The Duke of Edinburgh Unit was host to the three Minor Hockey League teams that sponsored this last winter on Saturday morning and filled them up with hot dogs, ice cream and soft drinks. Several cartoons and pictures were shown and the morning ended with each team having their photographs taken. They sure had a great time and enjoyed it all. The sports chairman is organizing a summer league to start in the near future. Several trophies have been promised, including a high three darts trophy. If is also hoped that a weekly high three darts prize can be arranged. Notices are on the notice board so put your name down for a bit of fun and competition. Cde. Russ also accepted a challenge from the Kingston Naval Veterans for a dart match between a six man team. Cde. Mel Barriage put up the Mel Barriage Trophy for competition between these two clubs and it is hoped that a regular series of matches will develop from this offer with the clubs playing alternately in each clubroom. It has just been reported that the ANAF team has won the trophy on its first appearance for competition and the Kingstonians will be challenging the club again in the near future so there should be some exciting Saturday afternoons during the summer months.

Macdonald Paintings Highlight Spring Fair

The University Women's Club of Belleville, Trenton and district held its 22nd annual Spring Fair on Saturday afternoon in St. Michael's auditorium.

Once again the chief interest of the fair was the fine display of oil paintings by Manly Macdonald RCA, Mr. Macdonald's presence added greatly to the enjoyment of the afternoon. He described his work to the visitors with such engaging sincerity and devotion it enhanced the value of each painting to them.

The event was well attended with many coming from Toronto, Kingston, Otawa, Port Hope, Peterborough, Napanee, Picton, Bloomfield in addition to the local area. It seemed that more men and children attended than in any previous year.

Mrs. R. G. Walsh president of the University Women's Club, Mrs. D. I MacKinnon, convener of the fair and Mrs. R. K. Jeffrey, vice-president welcomed the visitors.

Mr. Macdonald is a realistic painter and one can quickly recall childhood memories of familiar sites in almost any one of his oils. Easily a favorite with many fair goers was his large winter scene of the village of Markham. Others of wide appeal were Salmon River, Shannonville, in beautiful autumn colors. Also one of Mr. Collins' sugar bush on the Moira River which featured a team of farm horses. This animal Mr. Macdonald has a special talent for portraying. Two portraits of a man and a young boy added an interesting touch to his otherwise pastoral exhibition.

Mrs. J. H. Bateman arranged the exhibition and with her assistants answered the many questions of the visitors.

Mr. Macdonald's annual donation of a painting to the club to be used as a prize in a ticket raffle was won by Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Ballachy of Brantford. Convener of the draw tickets was Mrs. J. L. Acton. Proceeds of this raffle are tured for university scholarships.

The decorations in charge of Mrs. P Harris and Mrs. F. H. McColl were in keeping with the Centennial year. Centennial flags and draped centennial tartan centred by an archway of large colorful blooms made the tea room most inviting. In keeping with the decoration theme Mrs. S .Wiese wore her great-great grandmother's dress, over 100 years old, to invite guests to the tea room. Mrs. Joan Foster came to the tea wearing her centennial dress which she had designed and made.

Tea room conveners were Mrs. J. H. Forrester and Mrs. J. B. Connell and Mrs. P. T. Seibert and Mrs. A. S. Lewis were in charge of providing tea and refreshments.

The home bake table was convened by Mrs. H. W. Burns. Admission conveners were Mrs. E. W. Cass and Mrs. J. .Nelles. Publicity for the event was in charge of Mrs. E. A. Manderville and Mrs. D. A. Macintosh.

Mr. J. Ritchie and his art students are to be commended on their work in making posters for advertising purposes. Mr. Ritchie was also instrumental in preparing the exhibition.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Serve Fresh Banana Bread

Good providers and bakers please pay particular attention to what I have to say about today's Banana Bread (or call it cake if you like). The recipe was given to me by the head chef of The Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal after we had lasted it at a luncheon in their Beaver Club.

It is unique in texture, rich in banana flavor, golden brown in color, versatile in its uses and cuts into 24 tall generous squares.

BANANA BREAD
(a famous chef's recipe)

2 cups (one pound) ripe mashed banana (see below)
2 cups plus 3½ tbsps. (one pound) sugar
1 tbsp. (¼ oz.) baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
3 cups plus 2 tbsps. (one lb.) unsifted all-purpose flour
4 large eggs
½ cup (4 oz.) oil
½ cup plus 2 tbsps. (¼ pt.) buttermilk (see below)

Note re bananas: Bananas should be overripe with dark brown flecks all over to give optimum rich banana flavor.

(I did all of the following in electric mixer on low speed.) Into beater bowl put 4 large (6½" when peeled) bananas and beat to a pulp. You should have 2 cups. To this pulp add the sugar, baking soda and salt and beat to blend thoroughly. Beat in flour and eggs until smoothly blended then beat in oil and buttermilk and give batter a good hard beating.

Butter a 13 x 9 x 2" pan. I used teflon. If you do not use a teflon-lined pan you should line bottom of pan with wax paper and butter it. Turn in batter and bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours at exact centre of oven. Stand pan on rack to cool. Then gently (if in teflon) cut with blunt-ended knife into 24 squares.

NOTES: 1) This is served at The Queen Elizabeth Hotel as a hot bread much as Southerners serve hot biscuits or cornbread or Bishop's bread with their main course. So for perfection serve it fresh. But if you like, you could frost it with a thin lemon icing and use it for a cake or try the Banana Topping below and use it for dessert. 2) If you do not have buttermilk on hand sour ½ cup plus 4 tsps. sweet milk with 2 tsps. lemon juice.

3) Banana Topping: In beater bowl slice 2 medium-sized bananas and add 2 unbeaten egg whites, ¼ tsp. salt, 2-3 cup sugar, and 4 tsps. lemon juice. Beat on high speed 4 min. until it holds its shape. Cover and chill. If desired spoon over banana bread squares at dessert time.

Please try this famous banana bread and clip the recipe now. It would be a beauty and a comfort to serve to a large crowd of guests — especially at your summer cottage.

Ann Landers

Curiosity No Excuse For Animal Behavior

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have known Bill and Rita for a long time. We were at their home last Saturday, and after several hours of talking and drinking, my husband managed to get Rita alone in the kitchen. I was left in the living room with Bill.

ANN LANDERS

I don't drink and my husband says this is my trouble. He claims I can't get into the swing of things because I am not relaxed. I've always had a hunch that most people drink because it gives them an excuse to do and say things they wouldn't do and say if they were sober.

My husband finally came out of the kitchen and announced that he and Rita were going out to get some fresh air and he hoped Bill and I had a good time. I told him nothing doing. We had an argument and my husband and Rita left.

My husband came right out and said he sees nothing wrong in switching partners if everyone agrees. According to him, 20 years is a long time to be married to one woman and he is getting curious. He also said he deserves some credit for being open and above board.

He is a very persuasive arguer and sometimes I wonder if I am crazy. Please advise. — SPOILSPORT.

DEAR S.: There's nothing wrong with you, Doll. Your husband is the nut in the family. Also, I think you need some new friends.

Sure, people get curious — and sometimes it doesn't take them 20 years. But curiosity is no excuse for behaving like animals.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have just received a chain letter asking me to send $5 each to nine friends. My instructions said I was to make nine copies and send them off airmail special delivery within 96 hours. Do you realize that this would cost me $9 plus 13.45 in stamps? And it would take several hours to get those nine copies out because I don't own a typewriter?

The letter said if I complied with the request I would have a life and end up rich. It said if I failed to follow the instructions someone dear to me would meet a terrible fate and I would die broke.

I think it's awful to scare people like that. Please tell folks that chain letters interfere with the peace of mind of the average person and nobody has the right to do this — SHOOK UP.

DEAR SHOOK: I will say even more. If they involve payment of money, chain letters are against the law.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 19-year-old son has a habit of bringing friends to spend the night. The last friend stayed three months.

He ate every meal here, I did his laundry and nursed him through the flu. I got tired of giving him maid service without so much as a thank you or a dime in return, so I told him to leave.

Now when the boy sees me in town he doesn't even say hello.

My husband claims the house belongs to our son as well as to us and that I should make his guests feel welcome. He makes it sound so logical I sometimes think he is right. Is he? — HIGH GROCERY BILL.

DEAR HIGH: No. A free-loader who hangs around for three months can hardly be regarded as a guest.

Your son should be allowed to offer hospitality to his friends, but he has no right to expect his mother to be a cook, maid, laundress, and nurse to the strays he finds around town.

Actual Penmanship Matter Of Physical Co-ordination

Dear Doris: I am going on 15 and I find my writing is terrible. I practice and it does not help. Is there any way you can help? I am a girl and this makes it even worse.— Messy Writer

Dear Messy: Well, at least I could read it, which is more than you can say for a o m e highly educated scrawls. But I did have to make four spelling corrections in that brief note.

Actual penmanship is largely a matter of physical co-ordination — and this improves as one matures. Once you begin caring how things look (writing your letters on something better than a torn scrap of paper, for instance) there's a chance for you.

Meanwhile, be glad your problem isn't one of the big ones which plague some of your pals — like teen - age acne, or stuttering.

Dear Doris: I am an elderly widow living in a small town. I live alone with my dog for company; my children are all married and on their own.

At a party I met a widower, a nice old gentleman of the Chinese race. We became good friends. We often enjoy a chat and a cup of tea. He is well educated, well mannered, gentle and kind. We both love good books, flowers, pictures.

This man has asked me to marry him. He has a beautiful home.

Now what I want to know is this: Should I overlook this old gentlemen's race, marry him, go and live with him in the home he offers me? Be a friend and companion to him in the evening of our years? Or stay on in my little house with my dog, read and dream my life away? — Alone

Dear Alone: Tell me this: Does the sun start to shine when he walks in the door? Do your spirits soar? Do you love him?

When older people marry, there's some plain and fancy adjusting to do. And when East meets West, the difficulties are compounded.

If you face this together, and enter marriage with the idea of giving, and caring for, rather than getting, and being pampered, the answer of your "evening" could be radiant.

DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: I'd like information on what kind of mattresses and springs doctors recommend.

Many people buy plywood to put between box springs and sprint-filled mattresses. Why should we spend so much money for good springs and mattresses and then put plywood between?

What about polyfoam mattresses? Wouldn't they be rather hot? — Consumer.

Dear Consumer: For some, yes. There are those who will throw off hot blankets and reject feather beds in favor of cooler sleeping, but some like the coziness of foam rubber. Could you borrow a large hump of such from an upholsterer and stretch it out on your bedroom floor for a three night trial run?

Quebec Liberals Silenced

QUEBEC (CP) — Differences of opinion between groups within the Quebec Liberal party are believed to have come under discussion at two secret party meetings during the weekend.

The party's 100-member political commission met Saturday and a caucus of Liberal members of the legislature was held Sunday.

Those attending the meetings were under strict orders of silence.

A party spokesman said: "This order of silence will be respected. If there are those who do not wish to respect it, they have only to leave the party.

"It isn't a gag, because liberty of action remains. It asks that the internal structures of the party be looked to and that no aid is given to the information media."

Saturday, Montreal La Presse said a "final confrontation" between the so-called moderate and progressive Liberals was shaping up at the meetings.

Following Saturday's meeting of the political commission, Mr. Lesage said there is no danger of resignations and that the commission will continue intact.

"Everything's all right" he told reporters at the door of the Reform Club, where the meeting was held.

Asked for comment on the meeting, March Belaire, dean of the political commission, said:

"It would be foolish of us not to consider whether the afternoon (evening) newspaper field does not offer us a business opportunity and an opportunity for public service."

Evening Field Eyed By Times

NEW YORK (AP) — The morning New York Times intends to study prospects for entering the evening field, which was left solely to the New York Post by the death Friday of the World Journal Tribune.

Arthur Ochs Sultzberger, publisher of The Times said:

"It would be foolish of us not to consider whether the afternoon (evening) newspaper field does not offer us a business opportunity and an opportunity for public service."

Subsidy or Election: Caouette

QUEBEC (CP) — Rene Caouette, leader of le Ralliement des creditistes, said Saturday that unless the federal government alters its milk policy the Creditistes may take a stand against Prime Minister Pearson's minority administration and force a general election.

Mr. Caouette said he will press for an increase to $5.10 a hundredweight in the subsidy paid to milk producers.

He would do this in an amendment to the speech from the throne following the opening of Parliament today.

Mr. Caouette said he believes he will get the support of other opposition parties "unless 10 or so Conservative members absent themselves from the House during the vote in order to assure the survival of the government."

The Creditiste leader was speaking to reporters before a party dinner attended by 150 supporters.

In reply to questions, he said neither Mr. Pearson nor Mr. Diefenbaker, leader of the Progressive Conservatives, will be candidates at the next general election "unless it takes place in three months."

Mr. Pearson would be replaced by Jean Marchand, minister of manpower and immigration and leader of the Quebec wing of the federal Liberal party.

Mr. Caouette said neither Davie Fulton, nor George Hees is a serious candidate for the Conservative leadership. "A lot of work now is being done to bring Duff Roblin (premier of Manitoba) into the race."

BIG SHRIMP

The sidestripe or giant red shrimp may measure eight inches in over-all length.

Nixon Denies Coalition Offered

PEMBROKE (CP) — Robert Nixon, Ontario Liberal leader, denied Saturday he was invited by Dr. Morton Shulman, former chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, to join a provincial Liberal-NDP coalition to defeat the Progressive Conservative government of Premier John Robarts.

"There is no truth to the report," Mr. Nixon told a Liberal party meeting.

He had talked politics with Dr. Shulman on at least three occasions but a coalition had not been mentioned.

Dr. Shulman was fired as chief coroner April 7 by Attorney-General Wishart after he charged government officials interfered in inquests. A royal commission inquiry into these charges opened in Toronto last week.

Arrest 3 In Robbery At Minden

MINDEN, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police in Sudbury arrested three men Sunday on warrants issued here after an armed robbery at the Wilberforce Veneer and Lumber Co. Ltd., 35 miles east of here.

Police recovered $3,460 of the $4,000 taken Friday from the lumber company.

Charged with armed robbery are Damas Hamel, 27, and his brother, Ernest, 17, of Kitchener, and Edward Phillip Waters, 28, of Cornwall.

They will appear today in court at Lindsay.

Two of the men were captured when their car left a rough, frost-covered back road and a passing motorist picked them up and drove them to the Copper Cliff police station. The third was arrested at a Sudbury hotel.

Minden is about 40 miles north of Peterborough.

SPORTS SLICES

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, MAY 8, 1967

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Dear Boss: —

The board of directors of the Clam and Eel Metal Sports Association held their annual post Stanley Cup tonsil-tearing intiaa the other day with my uncle Sleahmouth, president of the Oyster Bay Oyster Shuckers branch of Long Island as moderator.

After gumming several beakers, flagons, schnpers and other assorted containers of cream juice spiked with caviar-sprinkled vodka, they selected as their theme, "Who are the hockey champions of the world?"

A buddy of Uncle Sluah who came with him from New York, a bearded beatnik named Michaelovitch Mudlasky, whose great grandpappy was called whisker-washer to Rasputin, gutterrailed "Who else, tovarichev, but the Russians. They beat hell out of the Canadians and others even if they had to produce a barrel of rubles and two carloads of vodka as Mayday presents for the referees."

Director Hornstead Harrigan, whose irish pappy used a country blackjack domestic, held out for the Montreal Canadiens. He was howled down after Three-Fingers O'Porcavich blasted him with "The Habs couldn't win a world title if the opposing team yanked their goalie in the first minute of play."

That started a light but Uncle Sluah burped the meeting to order with threats of cancellation of further supplies of the highly-strated juice of the clam.

"Gentlemen," lisped Liver-Lip Laperishy, "there is only wan world championship team and that is the Trouna Maple Leafs-Leskij the captain. Leskij the leader. Leskij the mixture of old crocks and Diaper Dans. Jest leokit, thasa all."

"Yeah, yeah," mumbled Toothpick Tomasino, an Italo-Hebrew from Flatbush, "ya' they had all the breaks, too. They're the first bambino-pappacita combo led by a bald-headed trumpet that scored a smash hit in the Stanley Cup productions."

"Now take those Broadway Blues," Tomasino went on. "There's a gang that deserved a better fate. They was the class of the Montreal team and what happen? Down d' drain in four starts. In my sabelh, we don' trust those Frenchy guys from Quebec."

"Meanin' what?" shrilled Hornstead Harrigan. "You aint incineratin' sumpun are yez, Tombo!"

"I aint suspectorating nobody or nuthin," said Tomasino. "But is is the considered opinion in Brooklyn that the Blues shoulda his given a salve test after bein guests at a pez-soup party given 'on in Montreal. They was never the same since the feist game."

And on into the night went the arguments, boss. You should have been there.

White-face Wemzwski, who lived near the Chicago stockyards so long he resembles a Hereford bull, stoutly maintained something you have always upheld — that the Black Hawks or any other club that finishes a 70-game schedule atop the league are the true champions of the NHL.

Uncle Sluah said while it might be allright to call the Cup winners the "world champions of hockey," there's something about the moniker that doesn't ring quite true.

In fact, boss, he came up with a playoffs idea that I never heard before but I figure you will like it.

The unk suggests that the second, third and fourth teams in the final standing play one of these round robin things with the winner taking on the league-leading team for the title and the Stanley Cup.

(Mush, m'lad, methinks your "unk" has an idea there. But it would never sink into the money-hungry cranis of the charmed circle of owners whose big put o' gold hangs at the end of the playdowns rainbow).

Richmond Blanks Toronto

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Julie Navarro of Richmond Braves limited Toronto Maple Leafs, his former teammates, to three hits for a 3-0 victory Saturday.

The loss kept Leafs in a tie for last places in the International League while Buffalo Bisons used a pair of home runs to beat Jacksonville Suns 6-4 and stay in first place.

Four doubleheaders scheduled for Sunday were rained out.

Navarro didn't permit a runner to get to third base. Dave Vineyard took the loss for Leafs who share the cellar with Toledo Mud Hens.

In Saturday's other games, Rochester Red Wings battered Columbus Jets 10-4 and Syracuse Chiefs clubbed Toledo 5-1 behind the five-hit pitching of lefty Bill Henry and a two-run homer by Chet Trail.

Whip Spurs 8-4

Eagles Swoop For 3 In 37 Seconds!

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) — Coach Tony Schneider said Sunday night his Calgary Spurs never recovered after Drummondville Eagles exploded for three goals in 37 seconds early in the game en route to an 8-4 victory.

The Eagles' win moved them into a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven Allan Cup final for Canada's senior hockey crown.

"We had a couple of chances at the start of the game but all of a sudden they got a goal, then another and then another and we were beaten."

Jean Therrien scored for the Eagles at 3:10 of the first period, Rolland Leclerc got the first of his two goals at 3:28 and Roger Picard scored the first of his two at 3:47.

Andre Lapalme also scored two goals for the winners and Michel Lapalme accounted for the other goal. Marcel Pronovost, Bob Peers, John Ivanski and Jim Brown scored for the Spurs.

The Eagles, playoff champions of the Provincial Senior Hockey League, outplayed the Spurs in every department after their early three-goal outburst and blasted a total of 46 shots at the Calgary net, including 21 in the middle period.

Bobby Taylor started in nets for the Spurs but was replaced by Dave Butts after Lapalme had given the Eagles a 5-4 lead late in the first period. Claude Cyr stopped 26 of the 30 shots the Spurs got at him.

Only two colts, Northern Dancer in two minutes flat in 1964, and Decidedly in 2:00 2-5 in 1962, have run the Derby faster, and only two have rewarded their backers better than Proud Clarion, who brought a mutuel win payoff of $2.20. Donerail won at $184.90 in 1913 and Gladiation at $72.40 in 1948.

Proud Clarion's victory caused the only commotion of note on a rainy day at the Downs as demonstrations by advocates of an open housing ordinance did not materialize.

Some 2,500 national guardsmen, city, Jefferson County and state police were on hand to insure a smooth running.

And it could not have been smoother as far as Proud Clarion's schoolmaster was concerned.

Something unusual happened to Proud Clarion in the paddock 15 minutes before the race. For the first time he came face to face with Robert Nelson Ussery, 32, the man who was to ride him.

Ussery did not get the mount until 43 hours before the race and then he had to get released from a riding assignment at another track.

He almost did not have a mount to get—Proud Clarion's workout in the mud Tuesday so disappointed Gentry that he talked of withholding him from the Derby.

But despite the rain Saturday, the track remained fast.

Roland Bolduc, Eagles general manager, said after the game that his club played up to its potential.

"We showed them who the Drummondville Eagles are and that our players can play hockey.

"I don't think the west has a club that can compete with our senior league."

Therrien beat Taylor with a 50-foot slapshot from the right point. Leclerc's first goal came nine seconds after Calgary's Mike Fisher was given a hooking penalty and Picard pushed the Eagles ahead 3-0 when he beat Taylor from close in during a scramble in front of the Calgary net.

Leclerc got his second goal of the game at 12:53 of the first period, two seconds after Scott Watson was sent to the penalty box for hooking.

The Eagles continued to control the play and Lapalme upped the count to 5-0 at 14:30 when he connected on a five-foot shot. Taylor was taken out of the nets after that goal and was replaced by Butt.

Drummonds got the Spurs on the scoresheet for the first time in the game 18 seconds after Lapalme's goal. Peers narrowed Drummondville's lead to 5-2 at 8:33 of the second period when his shot from the right side slipped through Cyr's pads and over the goal line.

Lagneux got that one back when he faked Butt out of position and slipped the puck into the net, 21 seconds later. Picard got his second goal of the game with 20 seconds remaining in the second period.

Ivanski made it 8-3 when he scored on a deflection at 10:20 of the third period and Brown closed out the scoring with his goal five seconds later. Only six minor penalties were handed out in the game, four to the Spurs.

Fourth game in the series will be played here Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

Damascus Was Third

Proud Clarion; Roses, $119,000

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)— Trainer Lloyd (Boss) Gentry learned a trick from his father about how to treat a temperamental horse, and passed the lesson on to Proud Clarion.

It paid off with victory in Saturday's Kentucky Derby and the third fastest time in the 93-year history of the classic for three-year-olds.

"It's kind of delicate, nervewise," was the way Gentry described his winner Sunday.

To help the jumpy thoroughbred overcome his problem, Gentry frequently took him to the paddock, as if getting him ready for a race. After letting him listen to the crowd noise, Gentry would return him to the stable.

The noise didn't bother Proud Clarion Saturday, and neither did his 13 competitors.

The 20-to-1 shot stormed over the 1¼ miles in 2:00 2-5, finishing a length in front of Barbe Delight with 6-to-5 favorite Damascus another 1¼ lengths back.

The victory was worth $118,700 of the $162,200 purse for Proud Clarion's owners as a crowd estimated at 100,000 failed to answer three third-period goals and lost 6-3 to Toronto Marlboros in the first game of the Memorial Cup final.

"They're a good club and play their positions well," they said, "but I think we can bounce back."

Second game in the best-of-seven Canadian junior hockey championship series will be played here Tuesday night.

Toronto coach Gus Bodnar, former National Hockey League stalwart with Toronto Maple Leafs, Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins, was pleased with the unit of Doug Acomb, Frank Hamill and Rick Byers. He described the trio as "the kid line."

Acomb scored two goals, starting Marlboros on the comeback road after Fort Arthur had taken a 2-0 lead in the first period and collecting what proved to be the winning tally at 11:08 of the third period.

The clubs were tied 2-2 after the first period and 3-3 after the second before 5,300 fans in the 14,000-seat Fort William Gardens.

Terry Caffery also picked up two goals for Toronto, while Gerry Meehan and Tom Martin got one each.

Marv marksmen were Chuck Kliner, Tony Buzniuk and Ray Adduoco.

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — "It looks like a long, tough series," said coach Albert Cava Sunday after his Fort Arthur Marrs failed to answer three third-period goals and lost 6-3 to Toronto Marlboros in the first game of the Memorial Cup final.

"They're a good club and play their positions well," they said, "but I think we can bounce back."

McCutcheons Seen On Sullivan Show

Bellevilles figure - skating sweethearts, Janc and Peggy McCutcheon "made" the Ed Sullivan Show out of New York Sunday night.

Peggy and Jane were featured in a delightful pairs number heading a large chorus of precision skaters.

The filmed show was taken from "Holiday on Ice" a professional show that is touring the United States.

The pro experience has done the girls no harm. They were brilliant in execution of performance with perfect synchronization of movement and style.

The Sullivan audience gave the youngsters a well-deserved ovation.

JUNIORS MOVE UP

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP)—The Quebec division of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association decided at its annual meeting during the weekend to eliminate the junior category from competitions and include it in the senior class. The meeting agreed that 18- 20-year-old skiers would stand a better chance of fast improvement through the move.

6th In Marathon

Girl, 13, Makes History!

TORONTO (CP)—A little 13-year-old Toronto girl carved her own notch in the history of sports Saturday when she placed sixth in a field of 28 men running a 26-mile marathon here.

Maureen Wilcox, four - foot, eight-inch, 80-pound student, ran in the Eastern Canadian Amateur Athletic Union centennial marathon championship as an unofficial entry. She finished the 26-mile, 385-yard event in three hours, 15 minutes and 22.8 seconds.

Track officials said Maureen's time betters the previous world's best performance set in 1964 by Mrs. M. Sampson of New Zealand. Mrs. Sampson's time was 3:19:23.

But Maureen's feat won't get into the record books, Women, or young boys, are not recognized in marathon competition.

A doctor examined Maureen two minutes after the finish and said she appeared less tired than most men in the race.

Her participation in the race was medically approved Friday night.

Maureen, who averaged 7½ minutes a mile, ran the last mile in six minutes—considered an excellent time for any marathon runner.

WILLARD "WOODY" WOODWARD displays the form which won him the "Mr. Bowling" title Saturday evening with a record score of 2825 for ten games. Despite the Cobourg bowler's consistent scores, he needed a big 392 score in his final game to cop the honors.

Rolls Record 2825

Woodward Is 'Mr. Bowling'

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Willard "Woody" Woodward managed only one 300-plus game out of ten in the 10th annual "Mr. Bowling" tournament here Saturday — but what a score and what a time to get it!

Woodward, of Cobourg, hit for a booming 392 in the final game of the tourney to sweep past the opposition for a record - breaking 2825 total.

His sparkling windup carped one of the most consistent strings in the tournament's history and gave the Cobourg ace a rich victory over several charging Belleville stars.

Woodward needed the big count to prevent Ron Saylor from capturing the crown for the fifth time.

Saylor finished second with 2783 after rolling 374 in the finale. Jim Begley finished with a 303 and a third - place score of 2767 and Leo St. Louis completed the day with a nice 333 game and a 2728 fourth - place score.

Woodward was first - place money of $137.50 plus $10.50 for his high single of 392, the Jack Bowling trophy for one week, set Fairgrounds, 4.30 p.m. SOFTBALL

Begley rolled 317, 287, 190, 231, 338 (1413), 242, 260, 333, 314 and 303. St. Louis, who scored 291, 263, 219, 268, 267 (1310), 299, 263, 250, 272 and 333.

Take Over League Lead

Tigers Claw Birds In Series Sweep!

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hank Bauer is getting tired of being pushed around by Detroit Tigers but his staggers keep turning the other cheek.

The Tigers completed an Baltimore blunders Sunday to blank Bauer's Orioles 4-0 behind the three - hit pitching of Joe Sparma, completing a three-game sweep over the slugging world champions.

The victory was Detroit's sixth in seven games against the Orioles, who have fallen into an eight-place tie in the early American League race. The Orioles scored only one run in the three-game set against the Tigers.

"We're pressing too much . . . swinging at pitches we should be taking and taking pitches we should be swinging at," manager Bauer said.

"Beating the Orioles six out of seven is bound to give us a lift," said Tiger pilot Mayo Smith. "Our guys still think Baltimore is the club to beat."

Sparma scattered three singles on the way to his second shutout of the young season and third victory without a loss.

"Those guys wanted to win this one real bad," said the burly right-hander who is rebounding from a 2-7 finish last year. "If you win two out of three in a series, you're only one game up. But three out of three. That's something else."

The Tigers pulled out of reach by scoring three unearned runs in the fifth inning without hitting a ball out of the infield.

Losing pitcher Dave McNally's two-base throwing error opened the gates. Five walks, a wild pitch and a bunt single by Don Wert completed the wild rally.

"How many did we walk in the fifth - five?" Bauer asked. "We beat ourselves a little bit, didn't we?"

The Tigers moved into the lead, one-half game ahead of Chicago White Sox, whose game at Cleveland was rained out.

Elsewhere, California shut out Washington 5-0 on Jim McGlothlin's two-hitter, Boston clouted Minnesota 9-5, Kansas City bombed a doubleheader with New York, slimming the Yankees' lead before losing 8-3.

Al Kaline's run-scoring single in the third inning gave Detroit a 1 - 0 lead against McNally before the Baltimore left-hander lost his control—and his temper —during the three-run fifth.

After walking leadoff hitter Ray Oyler, McNally picked up Sparma's bunt and heaved the ball into centre field. Wert followed with a bunt past the shaken pitcher, filling the bases. McNally went to a 3-0 count on Dick McAuliffe, then was thrown out of the game for protesting a call.

Moe Drabowsky completed the walk to McAuliffe, forcing in one run, then put Kaline to bounce into a third-home-first double play before wild pitching another run across and refiling the bases with two more walks. Rookie Bill Dillman came on and walked the third run home.

Home runs by Jim Fregosi and Bobby Knoop backed the brilliant pitching effort of Calif.ornia's McGlothlin, who struck out nine in recording his first major league shutout. Doubles by Fred Valentine and Ed Brinkman were the only hits off the 24 - year - old right - hander who hurled a three-hitter in his last start.

Boston's Rico Petrocelli rapped a two-run single in the seventh, brushing a 5-5 tie and two more runs scored on Ron Clark's throwing error, enabling the Red Sox to end a four-game slide as well as Minnesota's four-game winning string.

Jim Nash struck out 10 Yankees in the Athletics' first game victory, but needed relief help from Jack Aker in the seventh. An error by John Kennedy helped the Athletics to two unearned runs in the fourth.

New York bounced back with a 14-hit attack in the nightcap, Joe Pepitone leading the way with three singles and a double. Pepitone, Horace Clarke and Dick Howser each drove in two runs and Al Downing picked up his third victory with late-inning help from Dooley Womack.

TVL Softball Loop Seeks Fifth Entry

It has been a strange swing for the Quinte sod district softball teams and leagues organization — wins and the renovated Trent Valley League is no exception.

The entry deadline has been extended for the second time in an effort to obtain a fifth team for the league.

The withdrawal of Trenton's "AA" team by Jim Rombough, one of the original organizers of the loop this spring, has left only four definite clubs. They are Point Anne, Madoc, Trenton Carm's Cleaners and RCAF Flyers.

President Cliff Brown said this morning that "all four teams would like to see a fifth entry and were very disappointed when Rombough decided to stick with the Trenton town league. They voted to extend the deadline to Wednesday midnight of this week but that is it, the final extension."

Brown added that several district clubs are still possible entries but "we can't wait beyond Wednesday for them". He said several players from the Tweed district have shown interest if a sponsor can be obtained.

Mayor Jack Ellis bowled the first ball Saturday to open the rolloff.

Rain Spoils Association Fish Derby

The weather man does not believe in fish derbies, at least he didn't show any co-operation to the annual affair conducted by the Belleville Fish and Game Association over the weekend.

The derby was practically a complete wash out due to the weather.

Bob Hunt of Bob's Sport Shop, the weighing-in centre said that only one fish was submitted as an entry.

It was a two-pounds thirteen ounces pickerel caught by Jack Rostan of 68 Coleman Road.

Only three boats braved the rain and mist Sunday morning, Hunt said.

Toronto Car Holds Lead

Rally Reaches Fort William

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—The 84 remaining cars in the Centennial 4000 rally arrived Sunday and no one was sorry to see the end of the Western section.

The drivers and navigators were not complaining that the West had been tough. On the contrary, it was easy.

The rally now goes into the last three days of the eight-day tour travelling roads through Ontario and Quebec which they consider good rallying country.

The drivers liked the challenge of the mountains in British Columbia but found the long straight stretches of Prairie roads a bore.

Demonstrating the easiness of the Western section, only 29 cars have been whistled from the list 93 starters which left Vancouver last Wednesday.

Adding to the organizers' problems in making the Prairies interesting was the weather. On straight roads rain and snow can make things difficult but this year the weather along the route has been sunny and dry which is not conducive to good rallying.

Roger Clark of London, who is in third place with 23 penalty points, says the rally so far has been dull and unchallenging although he said he enjoyed the section in the Rockies.

Paul MacLennan of Toronto, a team-mate of Clark's agreed that the flat sections offered little challenge.

MacLennan and his navigator —John Wilson of Waterloo, Ont.—are in first place with two points.

Karl Schulz and Paul Macnod of Toronto in a team Datsun are second with 16 points.

None of the three crews has dropped a point since the B.C. section.

Psychology Won It

Davis Cuppers Scare Britons

BOURNEMOUTH, England (CP) — Canada's Davis Cup pean Zone Cup tennis team had almost everything but the killer touch in a four-day war of attrition that concluded Sunday with Britain's favorites victorious but shaken.

The Canadians also lacked a suitable response to a stunning application of English gamesmanship—a form of psychological warfare first identified by English humorist Stephen Potter.

Mike Belkin, Canada's No. 1 seed, failed to see the funny side when Roger Taylor, Britain's top ranked star, burned up the Potter technique full blast in their crucial match Sunday.

Many Britons likewise delighted Taylor's nerve-straining stalling and fussing. Spectators slow - handclapped their man the and British sportswriters criticized the manner of the victory while applauding the home side's comeback.

The 4-to-1 decision in matches that were not long enough for closeness of the first-round European Zone tournament, the first Canada-Britain Davis Cup encounter in the event's history.

The Canadians — Montreal-born, Florida-based Belkin, 21, Montreal Keith Carpenter, and Bob Bedard, of Sherbrooke, Que.—opened last Thursday de- lost underdogs. Repeatedly, but they pushed the Britons to the edge of defeat. Every time but once—Belkin's four-set defeat of Mike Sangster Thursday—British players fought back to win.

In a three-hour grind Friday, Bedard, who emerged from three-year retirement for the Bournemouth date, was leading 6-1 in his final set against Taylor, but lost.

The doubles Saturday was a repeat case of the Canadians snatching defeat from the jaws of victory. Belkin and Carpenter, paired for the first time, were within a service game of victory five times. Taylor and Bobby Wilson finally won 3-6, 14-12, 8-6, 7-5, 12-10.

Cubs Shade Cards

Flood Sets Fielding Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With one batted ball, St. Louis' Curt Flood gained a record but the Cardinals lost the game.

The ball, hit by Don Kessinger in the ninth inning, deflected off Flood's glove in centre field and drove in Clarence Jones with the run that gave Chicago Cubs a 5-4 victory Sunday.

The play, however, was ruled a single for Kessinger, and centre fielder Flood had his 200th consecutive game without an error, a National League record.

"I'll probably never forget that play," said Flood, who has not made an error since he fumbled Harvey Kuenn's single Sept. 2, 1965, also against the Cubs at Wrigley Field.

"It would have been a heck of a catch had I been able to make it."

Bob Gibson struck out the first two Cubs with the game tied 4-4. Jones batted for rookie pitcher Rich Nye and doubled. Kessinger, not considered a long-ball hitter, drove a liner over Flood's head into centre.

Flood raced back and leaped in the air, but the ball struck his glove and fell away.

"The ball stop I took forward when the ball was hit probably cost me a chance to catch it," Flood said.

Tony Gonzalez of Philadelphia held the old mark of 205 consecutive errorless games, completed between 1961 and 1963. Don Demeter holds the major league record of 266, set with Philadelphia and Detroit from 1962 to 1965. Demeter, however, had eight chances — putouts and assists—in his streak. Flood already has 506.

In the only other game played in the National League, Atlanta defeated Cincinnati 5-3. Rain inundated Houston at New York, Los Angeles at Philadelphia and San Francisco at Pittsburgh.

With The Trotters

TORONTO (CP) — Adios Alice, driven by Harold McKinley and owned by Ted, Elgie and Charles Armstrong of Brampton, Ont., won the featured $3,500 Kew Beach pace at Greenwood Raceway Saturday.

The pacer defeated Blaze Pick in straight heats 1-5. It was Adios Alice's fourth victory in 12 races this season.

Adios Alice paid $10, $3.70 and $2.80, Blaze Pick returned $2.70 and 2.40, and J. J. Wann, third, paid 2.60.

Adios Alice and Blaze Pick also combined for the $18.80 exacta.

The daily double was $41.40 when Trina Lee, paying $4, $2.90 and $2.50, won the first race and White Ankles took the second at $13.40, $6.50 and $3.50.

HAMBURG, N.Y. (CP) — Woody Diamond won Saturday's $3,000 preferred handicap racing feature at Buffalo Raceway in 2:03.3 — fastest mile of the meeting's first week.

A crowd of 7,177 wagered $564,172. Another $15,000 was bet, then refunded when Adios Mike sulked and refused to race for driver Elden Turcotte in the seventh.

Another Birdie Finish

Beard Beats Palmer By Whisker

HOUSTON (AP) — Frank Beard, the Louisville, Ky., shopper, can only say that what he has done on the pro golf tour this year is beyond "my wildest expectations."

Twice, he has won tournaments by beating Arnold Palmer with birdies on the last hole.

Beard, 28, dropped an 18-foot birdie Sunday to beat Palmer, golf's all-time money winner, by a stroke in the $115,000 Champions International golf tournament.

Three Weeks ago he sank a 188-foot birdie to beat Palmer in the Tournament of Champions. He picked up $23,000 here and $20,000 in Los Vegas.

Palmer banked $13,800 for a total of $87,073 on the 1967 tour.

Al Balding of Toronto set the pace for three Canadians in the tournament, picking up $1,725 in a tie with Miller Barber and Tommy Bolt with a score of 71-72-70-72—285.

Three strokes back was George Knudson of Toronto who picked up $805 with six others while WM Homemik of Wrentham, Ont., and Charles Coody of Pegasus earned $247 with a score of 293.

Beard began the day three strokes behind Palmer, who had held the lead for the two previous days.

Beard ended with a four-round total of 276, 10 under par, firing a 67 on the heavily-wooded 7,118-yard Cypress Creek course the last day. Palmer managed only an even-par 71 for 277.

Ben Hogan, 54, running up his best score since winning the 1953 Colonial Invitation in Fort Worth, Tex., closed with a fourth-round 68 and a total of 278, tying Charles Coody for third.

Julius Boros matched the course record of six-under 63 set by Billy Casper the day before, tying young South African Harold Henning at 279. Casper's disastrous 75 on the final round dropped him from second to 281, firing a 67 on the heavily-t ta tic for eighth.

Tragedy At Monaco

Driver; Pillar Of Fire!

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Lorenzo Bandini, star Italian auto race driver, fought for his life today after his ferrari overturned in the Grand Prix of Monaco Sunday, caught fire and engulfed him in a pillar of fiery flames.

Doctors at the hospital, where he was taken after being pulled from the wreckage, gave Bandini little chance of surviving.

The doctors said he had been burned over 65 per cent of his body and that he had several lesions on his lungs from inhaling the flames. They removed his spleen and performed a tracheotomy to help his breathing. In addition he received 20 pints of blood transfusions.

The accident happened on the 82nd lap when Bandini's Ferrari, in second place at the time, hit the straw bales bordering the route at a sig-ag.

Dennis Hulme of New Zealand won the 195-mile race for Formula 1 cars in a Repco-Brabham at an average speed of 76 miles an hour. Graham Hill of Britain was second in a Lotus and Chris Amon of Australia third in a Ferrari.

Dawes Resigns Post

MONTREAL (CP) — A Sidney Dawes, 78, long a controversial figure in amateur athletics, says he resigned as Canadian member of the International Olympic Committee to make way for "younger blood."

During his 30-year tenure as Canada's host representative on the world Olympic body, Dawes was embroiled in many external and internal controversies.

He said Sunday the weekend announcement from Tehran that Toronto's James Worrall will succeed him is "splendid news."

Dawes, chairman of Atlas Construction Co. Ltd., said he was unable to attend the Tehran session, because "my age won't allow any more long trips."

"I'm 78 and that's too long a journey for a man my age. Worrall is a good man with lots of experience as president of the Canadian Olympic Association and I think his appointment is most splendid."

Belleville Parsons Cleaners, preparing for their schedule opening next weekend, scored a 9-0 exhibition victory over Batawa on the losers' field Sunday afternoon.

Parsons are again playing in the Kingston and District League along with 10 other clubs, including Batawa and Trenton from this area.

Production of Carousel Done In Rich and Colorful Sets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The music and lyrics of Rodgers and Hammerstein have lost none of their enchantment with the passing years. Sunday night's two-hour production of their musical play Carousel on ABC was a delight.

Like Brigadoon, made earlier by the same producer, this adaptation of a beloved stage play was done in rich, colorful and theatrical sets. It opened with scenes at a carousel where Billy Bigelow, the swaggering barker, and his sweet, golden-haired Jordan were introduced, and the great songs started.

It moved to the clam bake with a song that was really a recipe, then to the village tavern, and eventually to a dock where Billy put a tickle in his belly-aching daughter's navel, and the soft-shoe routine that Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers made famous.

Then, in a change of mood and theme somewhat disquieting in this story moved into fantasy with Billy coming back from the gates of heaven and returning to earth for one day. Even so, it was an exercise to revive some of the songs and a beautiful dance number.

Robert Goulet's great body and fine baritone were largely wasted by an atrocious acting performance. Goulet was not the right temper but made him acceptable as Billy. A newcomer to television, Mary Grover, did nicely as the girl.

The Pursuit of Pleasure, an NBC special tonight—10-11 EDT—picked up two sponsors during the weekend, a drug company for one day, Elton-ex, it was announced, and a men's toiletries company. Earlier an insurance company had pulled out of sponsorship, stating that a survey of today's general climate was not the climate in which to sell insurance.

Julie Andrews Will Star In Life of Gertrude Lawrence

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Wise has a ready answer when asked about the cost of his new film.

"It's extravagant," he says. "I'm not going to release any figures because they embarrass me."

Yet all I can say is that Gertrude Lawrence believed in extravagance, and that's the way we have to film her life story."

Wise said the cost is in excess of his previous musical, The Sound of Music, which ran up a bill of $8,000,000. The sponsoring company, 20th Century - Fox, couldn't have been less concerned, since the movie is expected to bring in $100,000,000.

And since the new Wise project also boasts the talent of Julie Andrews, the Fox moneymen would be delighted to give the producer-director virtually a blank cheque. But his training at RKO does not allow any unnecessary expense.

"We save where we can," he commented during a lull in shooting a scene in which Miss Lawrence and Noel Coward—played by Daniel Massey, son of Raymond—apply for a job in Carlot's Revue.

"But to give this picture the kind of scope we want, it has to be expensive. We have started shooting here in Hollywood, then we go to New York, to the south of France and London, then come back here to Hollywood.

"Our major problem was when to rehearse the musical numbers. The script was designed so that Julie is in virtually every scene. That gives her little time to rehearse the numbers. So we shot some of them at the beginning. When we finish shooting, we'll have to do what they did in the old days: Shut down until we can rehearse the last two numbers. They are very important ones — Limehouse Blues and Lorelei."

The life of Gertrude Lawrence, brilliant star of the London and New York theatre, had long been mulled over as a screen biography. But the project stalled for lack of a performer of the same luminescence to portray her. Julie Andrews obviously filled the need.
